Bengals Explode To Trounce Rice In Opener, 26-3

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Held in check for two periods, Louisiana State, rated the top team in the country in The Associated Press preseason poll, rolled to a 26-3 victory over Rice Saturday in sweltering 87 degrees heat in Baton Rouge, La.

The Tigers, national champions last year, actually were down, 3-0 — the result of a 43-yard field goal by Gordon Speer — at the half. Louisiana State, in fact, didn't make a first down until the game was 16 minutes old.

CANNON SCORES

But at the start of the third quarter; LSU began a 66-yard drive capped by All-America Bill Cannon's 17-yard run around left end for a touchdown. Wendell Harris converted and that was all LSU needed. Merle Schexnaildre and Tommy Neck added insurance scores.

None of the other top 10 got into action, but there were some significant developments.

Navy and Maryland made successful debuts under new coaches. The Middies rolled to a 24-8 victory over Boston College under Coach Wayne Hardin. Maryland, with Tom Nugent at the helm for the first time, crushed West Virginia 27-7.

Nugent had promised some excitement in the new era at Maryland—a team that has been in the doldrums the past three years. He kept his promise. Passes flew from all directions with sophomore quarterback Dick Novak throwing two for TDs.

The debuts of two other big-time coaches were spoiled. Defending Champion Clemson squeezed out a 20-18 Atlantic Coast Conference triumph over

McNeil Says U.S. Troops Cuts Likely

Predicts Budget For Military To Stay About Same

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The armed forces face the prospect of a new 100,000 man cut in the next two or three years. Assistant Defense Secretary Wilfred J. McNeil said Saturday. Present strength is 2,520,000.

McNeil, who retires Nov. 1 after 12 years as the Pentagon's top fiscal officer, also predicted that military spending will continue to run at its present rate of 41 billion dollars a year, at least through the fiscal year ending June 30, 1963.

Any money saved through manpower cuts, he said, will be needed to bolster weapons purchases.

McNeil, leaving to become president of Grace Steamship Lines, discussed defense policy trends with newsmen after receiving a "Dear Mac" letter from President Eisenhower regretting his departure and noting their long association.

McNeil's views are significant because of his intimate knowledge of complex defense problems, his influence on formulation of military budgets and his prestige at the Capitol.

He made these major points:

A downtrend in military manpower can be expected in the next two or three years because of the rising costs of military personnel,

Ike Upbraids Congress On Poor Record

President Says Public Is Due Credit For Acts

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — President Eisenhower upbraided the Democratic-controlled 86th Congress Saturday for piling up a record of "many disappointing failures" in its first session.

He gave credit to an "outspoken citizenry" and Republican congressional leaders for curbing what he called "excessive" spending proposals by Democrats and for pushing through labor union reform and other important legislation.

But he sharply assailed the Congress for cutting foreign aid refusing to raise postal rates, rejecting his proposal to remove the interest ceiling on long-term government loans and for overriding his veto of a "pork barrel" public works appropriation bill.

SPECIAL INVESTMENT

Eisenhower also warned in a special statement issued from his Gettysburg farm that if Congress makes new "extravagant proposals" after it reconvenes next January, he will "continue to oppose them."

"I am confident of the continuing energetic support of the American people if such a struggle should develop," the President said.

"I believe that the American people can convert their gains for responsible government in this first session into a complete victory in the second."

Eisenhower also hit at Congress for failing "to make a realistic approach to our serious agricultural problems."

And, he said that though there have been claims that Congress cut the budget he submitted last January, he believes "the Congress distorted the shape of the budget in many respects."

He accused Congress of "cutting where they should not have cut

Laos Troops Begin Drive Against Reds

SAM NEUA, Laos (AP)—Government troops were said to have begun a four-day march Saturday to mop up guerrillas near the North Vietnamese frontier. At the same time, the U.N. fact-finding mission in Vientiane began studying Laotian evidence of alleged Communist aggression.

Gen. Amkha Soukhavong, commanding general of Northern Laos, said his troops would try to clear the guerrillas out of a valley near Muong Son which runs down from Communist North Viet Nam. The valley is 22 miles from here and has served as an important rebel supply base, he said.

FIGHTING LULL

Amkha said there has been no fighting in rebel-infested Sam Neua province since Friday morning, when guerrillas struck a government post 18 miles from here.

The rebels have not tried to retake Sam Teu town, which they took twice earlier this week, but they "could make one day's good march and take it any time," Amkha said. The town is 15 miles from the North Vietnamese frontier.

The general said he did not think the rebels alone could take Sam Neua base, but if North Vietnamese regular troops should join them, "it will be a different story."

He said he is convinced North Vietnamese regulars are still op-

Film Capital Stunned By Bitter Blast

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev came to a movieland reception Saturday and taunted his hosts that they were afraid to take him to Disneyland lest his personal safety be endangered.

The Communist and his wife got a star-studded turnout from the very elite of Hollywood actors and actress and industry executives on his arrival here from New York after spanning the continent in five and one-half hours.

Some stars stood on table tops just to get a look at the man from the Kremlin. It was a sight scarcely to be believed.

Frank Sinatra escorted the beaming and blushing Mrs. Khrushchev to a table and took a seat at her left while David Niven and Bob Hope chatted from the other side of the table. Marilyn Monroe held a minor court of her own a few tables away.

LASHES OUT

The audience gave Khrushchev generous applause and laughter until he suddenly lashed out in a biting and critical attack on what he said was the American security decision that it was not safe to take him to the big tourist mecca built by Walt Disney.

"Just imagine, I — a prime minister, a Soviet leader — I was given a program of what I was to be shown and who I would meet here. But just now I was told I could not go to Disneyland.

Khrushchev Threatens To Return Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev declared Saturday night that if his American audiences do not take his mission seriously, he can fly back to the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev exhibited high annoyance at remarks made by Mayor Norris Poulson of Los Angeles at a civic dinner in honor of the visiting world Communist leader.

He contended the mayor was making fun at the expense of the remark attributed to the Soviet Premier that the Communist system would bury the Western one.

The premier said: "The unpleasant thought sometimes creep up upon me: what if Khrushchev had not been invited here for you to rub him in your salt, show him your might, make him shaky at the knees.

"It took us only about 12 hours to get here. Perhaps it would take less time to get back."

Khrushchev said again he had not come to the United States to beg for anything. The indefatigable Soviet leader insisted the U.S.S.R. has no reason to fear any country.

Poulson had said that Americans did not agree with the widely quoted phrase "we will bury you."

The mayor told Khrushchev "You shall not bury us and we shall not bury you. We are happy with our way of life. We are planning no funerals, yours or our own."

5 In Stolen Car Try To Hit Officer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two boys and three girls stole a physician's automobile Saturday and almost ran down a patrolman who ordered them to stop, it was charged in felony court.

Arraigned before Magistrate David Malbin on grand larceny and felonious assault charges were Charles Gumbs, 16 and Walter Fisher, 19, of Manhattan; Lorraine Murphy, 16, of Manhattan; Antionette Brown, 16, of Englewood, N. J., and Barbara Taylor, 16, of Englewood. All are Negroes.

The five were charged with stealing a car belonging to Dr. Israel Freiman, after it had been parked in front of a garage.

The car, with "MD" plates, was spotted by patrolman Joseph M. Cirillo as he patrolled 84th street between Columbus and Amsterdam avenues.

When the patrolman ran into the street and ordered the car halted, he said the automobile was was driven at him and he was forced to jump out of its path.

He said the car was forced to halt at Columbus Avenue, where other vehicles had stopped for a red light. There, he said, Gumbs, the driver, fled and was captured by two probationary patrolmen nearby.

The magistrate paroled four in the custody of their parents and Gumbs was held in $2,000 bail. All will appear in adolescent court for a further hearing Monday.

Mayor Jack Howard was speaker at Assembly period at Lida Benton school Friday morning. He was introduced by Thomas H. Pogue, a pupil in the Fifth grade. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack P. Pogue, 3011 Lee Avenue.

The mayor urged his hearers to grow up and take their place as good citizens, and he specially stressed that they protect all property rights, both those of the city and personal. He suggested they try to keep the city clean by an effort not to allow trash to be scattered. Children were warned not to ride with or have anything to do with strangers, and not to accept any favors or candy from them. If a person looks suspicious, he urged that they get a description of the person, and license number if in a car.

The mayor paid compliment to the children in their behavior which was appreciated by the principal, Mrs. Laverne Riddle, and her staff.

Red Chinese Troops Mass Near Sikkim

GANGTOK, Sikkim (UPI) — Strong forces of Chinese Communist troops are patrolling the Sikkim border and have made contact with Indian troops protecting the tiny Himalayan state, reliable sources said Saturday. At least one gunfight was reported.

Press estimates in New Delhi said as many as 5,000 Red troops were massed along the border of the state which is defended by India under treaty.

Officials in Gangtok, capital of Sikkim, refused to confirm or deny reports that on one occasion Chinese troops from Tibet penetrated Sikkim and were beaten back by Sikkimese guards.

Shortly after the reported incursion on Sikkim's northern border, reinforcements of Indian troops arrived along the newly-built Indian-Sikkimese road to bolster and expand the border garrisons.

Last Thursday it was reported that Chinese Red troops on the border hailed Indian patrols and tried to fraternize with them. There was no shooting.

Sources said the Reds tried to pry from the Indians information about Indian manpower, defenses and supplies.

Local observers said they believed that the Communists merely were feeling out the border positions and probably would make

Electoral Votes Unity Plan Aired

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Nine Southern states would bundle up their 90 electoral votes for trading bait in next year's presidential election under a plan advanced Saturday.

It was proposed at a meeting of the pro-segregation Citizens Councils of America. More than 100 delegates from Arkansas, Florida, Mississippi, Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee, Louisiana, Virginia and Alabama attended.

Southern political unity was the theme throughout the two - day meeting.

NO THIRD PARTY

Spokesmen said no third party movement is contemplated.

Roy Harris, a former speaker of the Georgia House of Representatives and publisher of the Augusta Courier, was re-elected chairman for a second term.

If the Southern states are able to elect unpledged presidential electors, they would be in position to trade with democratic and republican party leaders on their votes in the electoral college.

This could be an attractive bloc of votes in the event of a close election, the council leaders suggest.

"It is not our intention to bolt or to create a third party," Harris said. "We just want to unify the

21 On French Plane Flirt With Death

SHANNON, Ireland (UPI) — A propeller of a French luxury air liner with 21 persons aboard flew off over the Atlantic Saturday ripped into the aircraft's cabin and sent the plane plunging to wave-top level in a matter of seconds.

The big four-engine air France Super - Constellation managed to limp 400 miles to land with both of its port side engines knocked out and touch down perfectly here in an emergency landing. None of the 12 passengers and nine crew members on the New York to Paris flight was injured.

Shannon Airport officials said that pilot Andre Compere and his crew had performed "a rare feat" in nursing the badly-crippled aircraft safely to land in a two-hour tension packed emergency effort.

Passengers, who emerged from the airliner here still wearing their life jackets, said the plane dropped so low that spray came in through windows smashed by the flying propellor.

Couple Charged With Kidnaping

ALBANY, Ga. (UPI)—An Alabama man and woman were charged with kidnaping Saturday in connection with the wild ride with Royce J. Kennedy, an airman stationed at Turner Air Force Base here.

Lucius McLain Thompson, 27, of Decatur and Opelika, and Wilma Marie Griffin, 25, of Birmingham, were charged with forcing Kennedy to ride with them and beating him.

The two were returned in handcuffs from Tifton. P. J. Ranew, Tifton Police Chief, said a 38-caliber revolver and a chain were found in Thompson's car. Also found was a long - blade knife which the woman allegedly held to Kennedy's throat.

Thompson claimed that the airman went freely with him and the Griffin woman after they had met in a bar. He said he beat Kennedy when the airman "got fresh" with the woman.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev talked animatedly through a movie luncheon Saturday and charmed table partners Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra and David Niven.

300 Census Takers To Converge Here

WASHINGTON — The biggest nose count in the nation's history is being prepared. It will unleash an avalanche of about 300 census takers on Monroe, La. homes.

Some of the questions they will ask may be annoyingly intimate, and it is illegal to refuse an answer.

Besides the usual queries on name, age, and address, they will also inquire as to:

Times married? Use bathtub or shower? How do you get to work? Do have a washing machine, TV, radio, clothes dryer, food freezer, and air-conditioner?

All are part of the 18th Decennial Census of the United States.

The census taker won't be knocking on doors until April 1. But during March the mail will bring the Advance Census Report Form to every household in the United States.

This will ask seven questions about each person in your household and four about your dwelling.

Your answers to all questions will be held in strict confidence by the Department of Commerce. But the census taker could be the guy next door, and he'll know all the answers.

But he is sworn to confidence

Red Chinese Troops Mass Near Sikkim

GANGTOK, Sikkim (UPI) — Strong forces of Chinese Communist troops are patrolling the Sikkim border and have made contact with Indian troops protecting the tiny Himalayan state, reliable sources said Saturday. At least one gunfight was reported.

Press estimates in New Delhi said as many as 5,000 Red troops were massed along the border of the state which is defended by India under treaty.

Officials in Gangtok, capital of Sikkim, refused to confirm or deny reports that on one occasion Chinese troops from Tibet penetrated Sikkim and were beaten back by Sikkimese guards.

Shortly after the reported incursion on Sikkim's northern border, reinforcements of Indian troops arrived along the newly-built Indian-Sikkimese road to bolster and expand the border garrisons.

Last Thursday it was reported that Chinese Red troops on the border hailed Indian patrols and tried to fraternize with them. There was no shooting.

Sources said the Reds tried to pry from the Indians information about Indian manpower, defenses and supplies.

Local observers said they believed that the Communists merely were feeling out the border positions and probably would make

Electoral Votes Unity Plan Aired

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Nine Southern states would bundle up their 90 electoral votes for trading bait in next year's presidential election under a plan advanced Saturday.

It was proposed at a meeting of the pro-segregation Citizens Councils of America. More than 100 delegates from Arkansas, Florida, Mississippi, Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee, Louisiana, Virginia and Alabama attended.

Southern political unity was the theme throughout the two - day meeting.

NO THIRD PARTY

Spokesmen said no third party movement is contemplated.

Roy Harris, a former speaker of the Georgia House of Representatives and publisher of the Augusta Courier, was re-elected chairman for a second term.

If the Southern states are able to elect unpledged presidential electors, they would be in position to trade with democratic and republican party leaders on their votes in the electoral college.

This could be an attractive bloc of votes in the event of a close election, the council leaders suggest.

"It is not our intention to bolt or to create a third party," Harris said. "We just want to unify the

21 On French Plane Flirt With Death

SHANNON, Ireland (UPI) — A propeller of a French luxury air liner with 21 persons aboard flew off over the Atlantic Saturday ripped into the aircraft's cabin and sent the plane plunging to wave-top level in a matter of seconds.

The big four-engine air France Super - Constellation managed to limp 400 miles to land with both of its port side engines knocked out and touch down perfectly here in an emergency landing. None of the 12 passengers and nine crew members on the New York to Paris flight was injured.

Shannon Airport officials said that pilot Andre Compere and his crew had performed "a rare feat" in nursing the badly-crippled aircraft safely to land in a two-hour tension packed emergency effort.

Passengers, who emerged from the airliner here still wearing their life jackets, said the plane dropped so low that spray came in through windows smashed by the flying propellor.

"It was a terrifying experi-

Couple Charged With Kidnaping

ALBANY, Ga. (UPI)—An Alabama man and woman were charged with kidnaping Saturday in connection with the wild ride with Royce J. Kennedy, an airman stationed at Turner Air Force Base here.

Lucius McLain Thompson, 27, of Decatur and Opelika, and Wilma Marie Griffin, 25, of Birmingham, were charged with forcing Kennedy to ride with them and beating him.

The two were returned in handcuffs from Tifton. P. J. Ranew, Tifton Police Chief, said a 38-caliber revolver and a chain were found in Thompson's car. Also found was a long - blade knife which the woman allegedly held to Kennedy's throat.

Thompson claimed that the airman went freely with him and the Griffin woman after they had met in a bar. He said he beat Kennedy when the airman "got fresh" with the woman.

Recipe Contest Winners Named By Newspapers

The winners in the Monroe Morning World and News-Star Recipes for Better Meals Contest were announced today.

Because of the tremendous response, it was impossible to publish all of the recipes submitted in today's special section. However, all first-place winners were listed.

If your recipe did not appear in the special section, it doesn't necessarily mean that one that did appear was better.

Due to the space limitation, many recipes had to be left out of the section. Therefore, starting Monday, we will carry each day in the World a column of the recipes submitted until all have been published. They will be printed in a man-

Wife Of Premier Charms Film Stars

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev talked animatedly through a movie luncheon Saturday and charmed table partners Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra and David Niven.

"I thought she was very charming, very sincere and very sweet," Hope said afterward. "She seemed very interested in all of the people at the luncheon, even though she didn't know who we were. But her interpreter introduced us."

Other stars, such as Dinah Shore, Esther Williams and Joan Collins, commented on her warmth and her interesting face.

To Sinatra the plump little wife of the Soviet leader was "a darling, charming woman of great wisdom." Niven called her "absolutely lovely."

Mrs. Khrushchev speaks and understands enough English for table conversation, but was aided occasionally by the interpreter.

Hope gave the following account of the luncheon:

"The interpreter, who has lived in New York and so knew us, was especially fond of Gary Cooper. He was brought over for an introduction.

"You know what a great admirer Cooper is. He said to her, 'Why don't you move out here?

Officer Is Shot, Escapee Slain

DURANGO, Colo. (AP)—A Colorado state patrolman was shot and seriously wounded and an escapee from an Aztec, N.M., jail was slain in a blazing gun duel on the streets of Durango Saturday night.

The dead man was identified as Aldane Bartlett, who escaped from the New Mexico jail earlier Saturday and took two hostages.

Cpl. Richard Edstron was shot twice during the gun battle in downtown Durango. He was taken to a hospital and underwent emergency surgery.

One of the hostages Bartlett took with him was Barbara Stephenson, 33, also an inmate of the Aztec jail.

300 Census Takers To Converge Here

WASHINGTON — The biggest house count in the nation's history is being prepared. It will unleash an avalanche of about 300 census takers on Monroe, La. homes.

Some of the questions they will ask may be annoyingly intimate, and it is illegal to refuse an answer.

Besides the usual queries on name, age, and address, they will also inquire as to:

Times married? Use bathtub or shower? How do you get to work? Do have a washing machine, TV, radio, clothes dryer, food freezer, and air-conditioner?

All are part of the 18th Decennial Census of the United States.

The census taker won't be knocking on doors until April 1. But during March the mail will bring the Advance Census Report Form to every household in the United States.

This will ask seven questions about each person in your household and four about your dwelling.

Your answers to all questions will be held in strict confidence by the Department of Commerce. But the census taker could be the guy next door, and he'll know all the answers.

But he is sworn to confidence taken hold there who will destroy me?

"Your police are so tough they can lift a bull by the horns. Surely they can protect me. I very much would like to go and see Disneyland. But then, we cannot guarantee your security, they said. What must I do, commit suicide?

"For me, such a situation is inconceivable. I cannot find words to explain this to my people. Come to our country. I will personally accompany anyone anyplace there."

Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations and Khrushchev's escort on the tour, said the decision to cut out the Disneyland trip had been made by the Los Angeles police.

"Why should you risk the life of a great man?" Lodge said. "It just makes no sense if the local police chief says it is dangerous."

Police Chief William H. Parker said that Khrushchev's chief security officer, Maj. Gen. N. S. Zakharov, had omitted Disneyland from a list of visiting places. But Parker confirmed he had told Zakharov that security could not be guaranteed.

Khrushchev's angry and propaganda-loaded taunt stunned an audience which had earlier been chuckling at his pleasantries and enduring his long-winded boasting of Soviet supremacy in all fields, including the arts.

Stars brought to a microphone before television cameras afterwards were obviously non-plussed at the way the Premier had turned on the United States.

Khrushchev stepped into a full-blown Hollywood production on his arrival in Los Angeles.

Marilyn Monroe, in a form-fitting dress, got there early for a change. Eddie Fisher and Liz Taylor, whose marriage is still not legal in California, were not far behind her.

Khrushchev, his wife and family landed at the Los Angeles Airport at 12:10 p.m. pdt (2:10 p.m. est).

Once again, as he had in Washington and New York, Khrushchev was greeted with mild and polite handclapping and an immense security guard.

The roly poly five - footer, dressed in a light grey suit and wearing the Order of Lenin, headed straight for the 20th Century Fox movie lot where a who's who of the entertainment world awaited him.

Frank Sinatra was set to sing the Premier and his wife a song from the movie, "Can Can," now being filmed on the lot.

The "Cafe de Paris" was decorated with red roses, pink stock and red and pink carnations. The head table had American and Soviet flags at either end. The waitresses were dressed in pink and blue gingham.

Correspondents who had covered the entire Khrushchev visit so far said his airport reception was the coolest and briefest he had received so far. His plane halted clear across the field from the regular terminal where Mayor Norris Paulson and other city officials greeted him.

His 10-mile route from the airport to the movie lot was not announced in advance so there were no great crowds as there had been in the capital and New York. He rode in a closed car with Poulson and U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, his escort on the tour.

Khrushchev flew in the Boeing 707 jet that President Eisenhower had used on his tour of Europe. The plane flew above 20,000 feet and had cloudy but smooth weather except for a thunderstorm in the area around Kansas City and Des Moines.

The skies were clear over Arizona for the most spectacular sight of the trip—the magnificent Grand Canyon.

Khrushchev and his wife had expressed a desire to see movie stars and never had a wish been so fulfilled.

UPI correspondent Vernon Scott said that in 10 years of covering Hollywood he had never seen so many stars in one place.

The Fishers, Eddie and Liz, were seated five tables away from and out of sight of Debbie Reynolds. It was the first time they had attended a social function together since their marital breakup.

There was a brief struggle outside the 20th Century gate when a group tried to plant a stake with derogatory Russian words. It was quickly confiscated by police.

The Khrushchevs were greeted at the 20th Century lot by Buddy Adler, chief of studio production, and his wife, actress Anita Louise. Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, made the introductions.

Khrushchev said that his first sight of Los Angeles reminded him of Baku in Russia—particularly the presence of the oil wells he saw not only driving in but which also were pumping right on the movie lot.

Mrs. Khrushchev seemed as excited as a child at the sight of real live movie stars gathered all in one room. She wore a big grin and laughed with everyone else when her husband, in response to some question, shouted "okay."

The jetliner departed from New York at 6:42 a.m. pdt (8:42 a.m. est) while statesmen still were digesting Khrushchev's world disarmament proposal to scrap all armies and weapons in the next four years. His proposal Friday before the United Nations was generally received with skepticism in the Western world.

The tightest security program in Los Angeles history was set up by the State Department and Los Angeles police for the Premier's visit. More than 500 policemen were assigned to protect Khrushchev, including a personal bodyguard of 15 officers armed with shotguns and machine guns for his personal protection. A 15-man scientific team, including bomb experts, will test Khrushchev's food and water during his stay in Los Angeles.

Sikkimese Dewan (Prime Minister) B. Prasad was to leave Gangtok Sunday for a 10-day inspection tour of the northern frontier.

Parties of refugee Tibetan lamas (priests) arriving in Gangtok from Tibet confirmed reports that much of their homeland still was up in arms against the Chinese Communist rulers.

The lamas said the Panchen Lama, installed as god-kind by the Reds after the Dalai Lama fled to India during the uprising last March, had defected and was under house arrest at Potala palace in Lhasa.

There had been reports to this effect last month. The lamas said the palace was heavily guarded by Chinese troops and that the Panchen Lama's father had been arrested as a leader of a new plot to revolt.

He will have obtained his job on referral from the local Republican Party organization, as part of the long-standing political patronage system.

The Monroe census office will employ 297 "enumerators" and 19 "crew leaders." Enumerators do the door-knocking.

They will get paid on a piece work basis, designed to yield about $12 per day for "diligent work." Crew leaders are in charge of 15 to 20 enumerators; they get $15.50 for an eight-hour day.

Enumerators' jobs will last two to four weeks; leaders' five to eight weeks. Job applicants will be told where to apply by press and radio in December or January.

Don't apply unless you're American, 18 and over, "physically vigorous with good hearing or vision", or if you are in a law enforcement or taxation organization, on a federal pension, or are a political officeholder.

There are hosts of more restrictions, due to be published at year's end.

Democrats were in power in 1940 and 1950, so the 1960 census gives the GOP the first chance at the census payroll since 1930, when Herbert Hoover was President.

The first census was held in 1790. The nose count was 3,929,214. This time it will be about 180,000,000.

Millions of people and thousands of organizations use cenus figures. Every program planned by the government, Congress, the armed forces, business, labor, and local government, needs them.

First results of the census will be in by late April and May. They will include population totals of cities of 10,000 and up.

The Census Bureau is required by law to report state figures to the President by Dec. 1, 1960. Population and housing reports are scheduled for publication in 1961. Some detailed reports will not be out until 1962.

For the first time the census will be tabulated by electronic computors.

Eisenhower acidly expressed "disappointment that the majority in Congress seems to find it so difficult to wean itself from the pork barrel."

South so that we can be in a trading position, not only next year in the presidential election but from now on."

Harris told the delegates to return home "and begin now organizing on the grass roots level."

"We must first educate the people back home as to the make-up of the political parties and what role each of them can play in it," he said. "When the people back home begin to clamor, their voices will be heard at the state capitols and in Washington."

Bob Patterson, executive secretary of the Mississippi Citizens Council, said the group should concern itself more with presidential electors than with the election of delegates to the Democratic national convention.

"We are not too much concerned about the convention, because they aren't going to nominate any man acceptable to the South," Patterson said. "But we can make ourselves heard if enough Southern states will get together and elect free and unpledged presidential electors."

Patterson said such electors, free to vote for the candidate they like, could go to the electoral college which follows the general election "and be in good trading position."

"If it is a close election. . .then the Southern presidential electors will hold the balance of power," he added. "They would then be in a position to get committments from the party nominees and if unsuccessful there they could throw the election into the U.S. House of Representatives where the South would be in good position."

The delegates also heard reports on the political racial climate. These speakers included J. A. Stobbs, Sumter, S. C.; L. P. Davis Jr., New Orleans; L. D. Poynter, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Anderson Smith, New Port News, Va., and George Downs, Orlando, Fla.

improved reenlistment rates which mean more professional forces, and a stable limit on personnel appropriations. There might be as much as a 100,000 man cut in the next two or three years, "that would not be a sharp cut."

The cost of operating and maintaining the forces will decline as more and more missiles go into service. For example, it costs far less to keep an intercontinental ballistic missile at-the-ready than to operate a B52 bomber. It costs $1,500 an hour to fly a B52, considering fuel, oil, spare parts and depot overhaul. Missile costs would be a "small fraction."

By concentrating on fewer aircraft and missile types, the services will be able in the years immediately ahead to get more production items for money spent.

All these factors, McNeil said, indicate that the United States from now on will get more weapons and related equipment for its armed forces without making any big changes in the overall defense budget.

He said that in preparing the new budget, which goes to Congress in January, the division of money is about the same as this year with an effort to squeeze out unnecessary duplicating weapons. The spending levels this year are: Army, $9,300,000,000; Navy, $11,600,000,000; Air Force, $18,700,000,0000 and Defense Department, $1,400,000,000.

There was a brief struggle outside the 20th Century gate when a group tried to plant a stake with derogatory Russian words. It was quickly confiscated by police.

The Khrushchevs were greeted at the 20th Century lot by Buddy Adler, chief of studio production, and his wife, actress Anita Louise. Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, made the introductions.

Khrushchev said that his first sight of Los Angeles reminded him of Baku in Russia—particularly the presence of the oil wells he saw not only driving in but which also were pumping right on the movie lot.

Mrs. Khrushchev seemed as excited as a child at the sight of real live movie stars gathered all in one room. She wore a big grin and laughed with everyone else when her husband, in response to some question, shouted "okay."

The jetliner departed from New York at 6:42 a.m. pdt (8:42 a.m. est) while statesmen still were digesting Khrushchev's world disarmament proposal to scrap all armies and weapons in the next four years. His proposal Friday before the United Nations was generally received with skepticism in the Western world.

The tightest security program in Los Angeles history was set up by the State Department and Los Angeles police for the Premier's visit. More than 500 policemen were assigned to protect Khrushchev, including a personal bodyguard of 15 officers armed with shotguns and machine guns for his personal protection. A 15-man scientific team, including bomb experts, will test Khrushchev's food and water during his stay in Los Angeles.

Sikkimese Dewan (Prime Minister) B. Prasad was to leave Gangtok Sunday for a 10-day inspection tour of the northern frontier.

Parties of refugee Tibetan lamas (priests) arriving in Gangtok from Tibet confirmed reports that much of their homeland still was up in arms against the Chinese Communist rulers.

The lamas said the Panchen Lama, installed as god-kind by the Reds after the Dalai Lama fled to India during the uprising last March, had defected and was under house arrest at Potala palace in Lhasa.

There had been reports to this effect last month. The lamas said the palace was heavily guarded by Chinese troops and that the Panchen Lama's father had been arrested as a leader of a new plot to revolt.

He will have obtained his job on referral from the local Republican Party organization, a part of the long-standing political patronage system.

The Monroe census office will employ 297 "enumerators." and 19 "crew leaders." Enumerators do the door-knocking.

They will get paid on a piece work basis, designed to yield about $12 per day for "diligent work." Crew leaders are in charge of 15 to 20 enumerators; they get $15.50 for an eight-hour day.

Enumerators' jobs will last two to four weeks; leaders' five to eight weeks. Job applicants will be told where to apply by press and radio in December or January.

Don't apply unless you're American, 18 and over, "physically vigorous with good hearing or vision", or if you are in a law enforcement or taxation organization, on a federal pension, or are a political officeholder.

There are hosts of more restrictions, due to be published at year's end.

Democrats were in power in 1940 and 1950, so the 1960 census gives the GOP the first chance at the census payroll since 1930, when Herbert Hoover was President.

The first census was held in 1790. The nose count was 3,929,214. This time it will be about 180,000,000.

Millions of people and thousands of organizations use cenus figures. Every program planned by the government, Congress, the armed forces, business, labor, and local government, needs them.

First results of the census will be in by late April and May. They will include population totals of cities of 10,000 and up.

The Census Bureau is required by law to report state figures to the President by Dec. 1, 1960. Population and housing reports are scheduled for publication in 1961. Some detailed reports will not be out until 1962.

For the first time the census will be tabulated by electronic computors.

South so that we can be in a trading position, not only next year in the presidential election but from now on."

Harris told the delegates to return home "and begin now organizing on the grass roots level."

"We must first educate the people back home as to the make-up of the political parties and what role each of them can play in it," he said. "When the people back home begin to clamor, their voices will be heard at the state capitols and in Washington."

Bob Patterson, executive secretary of the Mississippi Citizens Council, said the group should concern itself more with presidential electors than with the election of delegates to the Democratic national convention.

"We are not too much concerned about the convention, because they aren't going to nominate any man acceptable to the South," Patterson said. "But we can make ourselves heard if enough Southern states will get together and elect free and unpledged presidential electors."

Patterson said such electors, free to vote for the candidate they like, could go to the electoral college which follows the general election "and be in good trading position."

"If it is a close election. . .then the Southern presidential electors will hold the balance of power," he added. "They would then be in a position to get committments from the party nominees and if unsuccessful there they could throw the election into the U.S. House of Representatives where the South would be in good position."

The delegates also heard reports on the political racial climate. These speakers included J. A. Stobbs, Sumter, S. C.; L. P. Davis Jr., New Orleans; L. D. Poynter, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Anderson Smith, New Port News, Va., and George Downs, Orlando, Fla.

improved reenlistment rates which mean more professional forces, and a stable limit on personnel appropriations. There might be as much as a 100,000 man cut in the next two or three years, "that would not be a sharp cut."

The cost of operating and maintaining the forces will decline as more and more missiles go into service. For example, it costs far less to keep an intercontinental ballistic missile at-the-ready than to operate a B52 bomber. It costs $1,500 an hour to fly a B52, considering fuel, oil, spare parts and depot overhaul. Missile costs would be a "small fraction."

By concentrating on fewer aircraft and missile types, the services will be able in the years immediately ahead to get more production items for money spent.

All these factors, McNeil said, indicate that the United States from now on will get more weapons and related equipment for its armed forces without making any big changes in the overall defense budget.

He said that in preparing the new budget, which goes to Congress in January, the division of money is about the same as this year with an effort to squeeze out unnecessary duplicating weapons. The spending levels this year are: Army, $9,300,000,000; Navy, $11,600,000,000; Air Force, $18,700,000,0000 and Defense Department, $1,400,000,000.

AT WESTERN CONFERENCE

Governors May Avoid '60 Talk

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP)—If there is one thing Democrats who will attend the Western Governors Conference agree upon, it is that presidential politics should be kept off stage.

Six of them and five of their Republican counterparts will be on hand for the Thursday opening of the five-day conference at this southern Idaho resort.

Some of the observers seem to think Gov. Edmund Brown of California will take this opportunity to wet his political finger and wave it aloft.

Brown and his aides have denied any such intentions. Fellow Democrats say in effect: "That's fine. This is no place for 1960 maneuvers, anyway."

Democratic Govs. Joseph J. Hickey of Wyoming, S. L. R. McNichols of Colorado, John Burroughs of New Mexico, Albert Rosellini of Washington, Grant Sawyer of Nevada, and Brown will attend. Gov. William A. Egan of Alaska said he is too busy.

Asked in an Associated Press poll if they thought there are other Westerners beside Brown who would be strong nominees, Hickey admired McNichols, Burroughs couldn't think of any, Rosellini said there are others, Sawyer said he knew of none, McNichols liked several he did not name, and Brown also admired several, including McNichols and Rosellini.

Do these Democrats think their party should consider a Westerner, particularly a Californian, if it appears Vice President Richard M. Nixon might be the GOP choice?

To Hickey, the thought that Democrats might be concerned with what Republicans do was "un-American."

McNichols said: "I don't think that (the state in which a man resides) has anything to do with it. I have no prejudices against a California candidate or one from any other section."

Burroughs didn't think the Nixon situation would have any practical significance, but Rosellini said the party ought to think about a Westerner for some spot on the ticket.

Sawyer was more emphatic. He said: "If Nixon wins the nomination, a Westerner should certainly be represented on the ticket; not particularly a Californian."

Brown, saying the candidate's location is of no importance, added that what does matter is "his attitude toward the aspirations of the West and its rightful role" in the national scene.

Brown was quick to put himself out of the picture as a vice presidential hopeful, saying he just isn't interested. But if he is firm in this, his time at the conference might be taken up convincing others.

Hickey, asked about Brown as a vice presidential possibility, said: "He is a good governor." Burroughs thought it might depend on the presidential nominee, and Rosellini said his colleague from California is capable of either job. Sawyer said he considers Brown definite vice presidential material.

Despite protestations the conference is a meeting of thinkers concerned with state problems, "Who do you like?" or subtler variations is likely to be a frequent question in both camps.

One thing is evident. Some Western governors are rising to the feeling that the West is no longer the 99-pound weakling of American politics. They indicate they intend to speak louder and louder, eventually gaining political stature more in keeping with the acreage of the West than its population.

A leader in this feeling is Colorado's McNichols. Perhaps it is he, rather than Brown, who might bear watching during the conference. The Colorado governor has not said he is interested in any ticket position, nor has he dealt himself out with firm support of another.

McNichols said the governors meeting will produce no indication of strength—or lack of it—for presidential hopefuls. Brown said it could.

FINAL DAYS TELL TALE

British Experts Ponder Elections

LONDON (UPI) — A number of astute British politicans maintain that general elections here are won in the last seven days of the campaign.

If the Labor Party, which has been in opposition since 1951 hopes to return to power, it may be those final days before the Oct. 8 polling date that will do the job.

When Prime Minister Harold Macmillan announced the election date last Sept. 8, labor's chances of winning looked dim.

But it would take only a slight shift of public opinion, or a sudden upsurge of labor voter interest, to change the picture in the next few weeks.

Labor lost the 1951 election, but its total vote was bigger than the Conservatives.

In 1955, 1,500,000 Labor voters stayed away from the polls; the total Labor vote was lower than the Conservatives, and the party lost the election by a total of 60 seats in the House of Commons.

It is this 1,500,000 figure that is puzzling the poolsters, dimming Conservative optimism, and raising labor hopes.

If, as observers have pointed out, Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell can get only a fraction of these abstentionists back in Labor's ballot box, the Conservatives might lose.

In by-elections since 1955, and particularly since the Suez invasion, Labor voters have gone to the polls in strength. If the party can maintain this momentum, it can win the general election.

The key to victory for either side lies in the "marginal" seats constituencies where either Labor or Tory has just a slight majority of votes.

The Conservatives have 48 very marginal seats. Experts believe that a 3 per cent swing to Labor would be enough to provide a switch.

In 14 of these constituencies, the tiny but fighting Liberal party has decided to run candidates. They could, therefore, draw of enough Conservative votes to give the seats to Labor.

When the election campaign opened, the Conservatives had a 5 per cent edge over the Laborites in public opinion polls. But most experts tend to discount this.

The "Economist" magazine has said that "anyone who says that a Conservative victory of any sort is an absolutely foregone conclusion should check up on what he is assuming: he is assuming, in effect, that more than 98 per cent out of every hundred people are quite certain to vote on Oct. 8 in exactly the same way as the public opinion pollsters suggest they might vote now."

Officers Arrest Actor On Charge Of Drunkenness

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Desi Arnaz says his arrest on a drunk charge early Saturday was "a bum pinch."

The 42-year-old Cuban-born entertainer was taken into custody by two plainclothesmen who said they observed him staggering along a Hollywood street.

He was released from jail an hour and a half later after putting up $21 bail.

Arnaz is the husband of comedienne Lucille Ball.

Lt. R. A. Jackson said Arnaz refused to concede that he was drunk, that he talked erratically and was unsteady on his feet.

The officer said that when asked if he wanted to make a telephone call, Arnaz replied: "Yes, get me Gene Biscailuz (former Los Angeles County sheriff) and J. Edgar Hoober (FBI chief)."

Study Starts On Subsidies For Housing

By EDWARD COWAN
United Pres International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A specialist in city housing matters embarked Thursday on a study of low-rent housing that may some day lead to big changes in the federally subsidized program.

The specialist is Ernest M. Fisher, a professor of urban land economics at Columbia University. He has been hired as a temporary consultant to the Federal Housing Agency to dig into some aspects of public housing that disturb the agency's boss, Norman P. Mason.

Now more than 20 years old, the federally subsidized Public Housing Program, customarily opposed by conservatives, came in for an extra salvo of shelling this year. The presence of unwanted authorization for new low-rent units played a major role in presidential vetoes of two housing bills.

As Mason sees it, the problem he has hired Fisher to tackle is, broadly "how do we care for the part of our population that needs assistance to have decent, sanitary housing?"

For himself, Mason feels that the present public housing program has serious—but not necessarily fatal—defects.

One—for which Fisher is supposed to suggest a remedy—is "too much" federal regulation. Mason put it this way: "I think we're supposed to be the umpire rather than the operator."

While the Public Housing Administaation (PHA) does not manage housing projects—local agencies do that—it does require compliance with many regulations concerning costs, financing, construction standards, design, space and so forth.

Another problem for Fisher is a lack of local enthusiasm for public housing. In 1958 some 10,000 low-rent dwelling units for which no localities had signed contracts were "lost" when authority for them expired.

Many communities trying to plan low-rent projects on new sites have found opposition among property owners and businessmen on grounds that the project would hurt property values. A related problem is high land costs which push the cost of new construction above the $17,000 per dwelling unit ceiling and PHA imposes.

Solutions to both difficulties are being tried in Cedartown, Ga. and Philadelphia. In Cedartown, low-cost prefabricated houses are being erected on scattered sites. In Philadelphia authorities are working on a plan to remodel existing row houses for low-income occupants.

Another problem is accommodating families on relief, or with incomes so low as to leave them unable to meet even the modest project rents. If a project accepts too many such tenants it may find that even the maximum subsidy payment possible under its contract with the PHA is not enough to keep the operation solvent. Yet, there are strong pressures on local housing authorities from social and welfare agencies to shelter the most indigent.

British Experts Ponder Elections

LONDON (UPI) — A number of astute British politicans maintain that general elections here are won in the last seven days of the campaign.

If the Labor Party, which has been in opposition since 1951 hopes to return to power, it may be those final days before the Oct. 8 polling date that will do the job.

When Prime Minister Harold Macmillan announced the election date last Sept. 8, labor's chances of winning looked dim.

But it would take only a slight shift of public opinion, or a sudden upsurge of labor voter interest, to change the picture in the next few weeks.

Labor lost the 1951 election, but its total vote was bigger than the Conservatives.

In 1955, 1,500,000 Labor voters stayed away from the polls; the total Labor vote was lower than the Conservatives, and the party lost the election by a total of 60 seats in the House of Commons.

It is this 1,500,000 figure that is puzzling the poolsters, dimming Conservative optimism, and raising labor hopes.

If, as observers have pointed out, Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell can get only a fraction of these abstentionists back in Labor's ballot box, the Conservatives might lose.

In by-elections since 1955, and particularly since the Suez invasion, Labor voters have gone to the polls in strength. If the party can maintain this momentum, it can win the general election.

The key to victory for either side lies in the "marginal" seats constituencies where either Labor or Tory has just a slight majority of votes.

The Conservatives have 48 very marginal seats. Experts believe that a 3 per cent swing to Labor would be enough to provide a switch.

In 14 of these constituencies, the tiny but fighting Liberal party has decided to run candidates. They could, therefore, draw of enough Conservative votes to give the seats to Labor.

When the election campaign opened, the Conservatives had a 5 per cent edge over the Laborites in public opinion polls. But most experts tend to discount this.

The "Economist" magazine has said that "anyone who says that a Conservative victory of any sort is an absolutely foregone conclusion should check up on what he is assuming; he is assuming, in effect, that more than 98 per cent out of every hundred people are quite certain to vote on Oct. 8 in exactly the same way as the public opinion pollsters suggest they might vote now."

Officers Arrest Actor On Charge Of Drunkenness

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Desi Arnaz says his arrest on a drunk charge early Saturday was "a bum pinch."

The 42-year-old Cuban-born entertainer was taken into custody by two plainclothesmen who said they observed him staggering along a Hollywood street.

He was released from jail an hour and a half later after putting up $21 bail.

Arnaz is the husband of comedienne Lucille Ball.

Lt. R. A. Jackson said Arnaz refused to concede that he was drunk, that he talked erratically and was unsteady on his feet.

The officer said that when asked if he wanted to make a telephone call, Arnaz replied: "Yes, get me Gene Biscailuz (former Los Angeles County sheriff) and J. Edgar Hoober (FBI chief)."

Study Starts On Subsidies For Housing

By EDWARD COWAN
United Pres International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A specialist in city housing matters embarked Thursday on a study of low-rent housing that may some day lead to big changes in the federally subsidized program.

The specialist is Ernest M. Fisher, a professor of urban land economics at Columbia University. He has been hired as a temporary consultant to the Federal Housing Agency to dig into some aspects of public housing that disturb the agency's boss, Norman P. Mason.

Now more than 20 years old, the federally subsidized Public Housing Program, customarily opposed by conservatives, came in for an extra salvo of shelling this year. The presence of unwanted authorization for new low-rent units played a major role in presidential vetoes of two housing bills.

As Mason sees it, the problem he has hired Fisher to tackle is, broadly "how do we care for the part of our population that needs assistance to have decent, sanitary housing?"

For himself, Mason feels that the present public housing program has serious—but not necessarily fatal—defects.

One—for which Fisher is supposed to suggest a remedy—is "too much" federal regulation. Mason put it this way: "I think we're supposed to be the umpire rather than the operator."

While the Public Housing Administaation (PHA) does not manage housing projects—local agencies do that—it does require compliance with many regulations concerning costs, financing, construction standards, design, space and so forth.

Another problem for Fisher is a lack of local enthusiasm for public housing. In 1958 some 10,000 low-rent dwelling units for which no localities had signed contracts were "lost" when authority for them expired.

Many communities trying to plan low-rent projects on new sites have found opposition among property owners and businessmen on grounds that the project would hurt property values. A related problem is high land costs which push the cost of new construction above the $17,000 per dwelling unit ceiling and PHA imposes.

Solutions to both difficulties are being tried in Cedartown, Ga. and Philadelphia. In Cedartown, low-cost prefabricated houses are being erected on scattered sites. In Philadelphia authorities are working on a plan to remodel existing row houses for low-income occupants.

Another problem is accommodating families on relief, or with incomes so low as to leave them unable to meet even the modest project rents. If a project accepts too many such tenants it may find that even the maximum subsidy payment possible under its contract with the PHA is not enough to keep the operation solvent. Yet, there are strong pressures on local housing authorities from social and welfare agencies to shelter the most indigent.

Paralytic Polio Cases In Canada Show Sharp Rise

OTTAWA (AP) — A sharp rise in the number of paralytic polio cases in all provinces except Quebec and Nova Scotia week before last was reported Saturday by the Health Department. It followed an over-all decline the week previous.

There were 120 cases and 14 deaths, compared with 661 cases and 57 deaths a week earlier. There were 120 cases and 14 deaths in the week ended Sept. 12 last year.

Khrushchev Happy Over Visit, U.S. Officals Sad

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev seems to be delighted with the results of his first few days in the United States. But U.S. officials who have hoped for some softening of Soviet policy are disappointed.

The Soviet Premier will hold three days of policy talks with President Eisenhower this week just before he flies home. Unless he produces some newer approach to world problems than he has come up with so far, the conference at Camp David, Md., promises to be a barren affair.

Probably the reason for Khrushchev's evident pleasure in his visits to Washington and New York is that he is having a propaganda success.

In his appearance at the National Press Club Wednesday, the one-time coal miner proved himself a voluble salesman of Communist ideological wares and an artful dodger of questions he disliked or preferred not to meet head on.

Before the United Nations General Assembly in New York Friday, while representatives of more than 80 other nations sat mostly in eager silence, he outlined his plan for saving the world from war.

He did it so skillfully and with implications of such tremendous hope behind it that U.S. officials were stopped from saying what they really thought—that Khrushchev had hoaxed the U.N., that his plan is not a plan at all but a gilded propaganda statement of a noble, Utopian, now unattainable goal.

"The terrible thing about this," one state department official said privately, after watching Khrushchev's U.N. speech on television, "is that you can't be against it. Everybody is for total and universal disarmament. But this does not advance you one inch toward the goal."

So Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, after consulting with his advisers in Washington and New York, issued a statement at the U.N. saying the Khrushchev proposal would have to be carefully studied. Herter said that should be done by a 10-nation disarmament conference which will meet at Geneva early next year.

What Khrushchev described as a plan—complete disarmament in four years backed up by a control system about which he was vague—was in fact one statement of the aim of 10-year-old disarmament negotiations. These negotiations have made one thing clear above all others. The core of an arms reduction and control agreement between the Soviet Union and the Western powers is the kind of system which would enforce it.

Behind this central issue, in turn, lies the mistrust that the Soviet Union and the Western bloc have in each other's pledged word. But the Russians have a tremendous advantage here. Under the Western system, with public inquiry and debate and with a free press, the Soviet Union can have reasonable confidence in its knowledge of the readiness for war of Western armaments.

In the Soviet Union the reverse is true. Rigid controls over press and over legislative discussion and over travel by foreigners give the U.S.S.R. conditions of secrecy unknown in the West.

Disarmament experts believe it would be relatively easy for the Soviet Union to prepare a sneak attack if the political leaders thought they needed war for their purposes.

Hence it is not the lack of a disarmament agreement but the lack of trust and confidence which underlies the tension between Moscow and the Western powers today. The real problem is not the existence of H-bombs and intercontinental rockets, but the existence of suspicion on one side and massive secrecy on the other.

If Eisenhower and Khrushchev are to contribute anything toward a solution of the disarmament problem—which in the short range is extremely unlikely—they will have to come down to such hard realities as these.

In the long run, of course, if the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks and the Soviet Premier's whole U.S. visit contribute a little to better East-West understanding; if Khrushchev gets a better personal sense of the American political and economic systems, the discussions could help to clear the way for more hopeful future negotiations.

Something like that is what Eisenhower had in mind when he invited Khrushchev. That is still the most solid justification for the Premier's visit here, as it is for the President's own trip to the Soviet Union later this year.

Hippocrates Saw Growth Aids Heat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Twenty-three centuries - ago, Hippocrates, the father of medicine, said:

"Growing bodies have the most heat; they therefore require the most food."

Modern scientific research into the energy metabolism of infants and young children verifies the accuracy of Hippocrates' observation.

It has been shown that in calories per pound of body weight, the energy requirements of young babies might be three times that of an active adult.

By the end of the first year of life, the rate drops to about double that of adults.

The high caloric requirements of babies is the result of three factors: Relatively high basal metabolism; perpetual motion and growth.

Basal metabolism is a scientific benchmark meaning energy spent in barely keeping the body alive while at rest. About one - third of this is to power the involuntary practically automatic actions — heart, respiratory system, digestion, kidneys.

The rest powers the body's chemical factories maintaining muscle tone. In calories required per pound, basal metabolism is higher in infancy and childhood.

Perpetual motion, the second factor behind a baby's enormous energy requirement, is seen in the random arm and leg movements during an infant's waking hours.

When a baby does strenuous work — crying and kicking — the rate of energy expenditure might be boosted by 200 per cent over the basal level!

Growth, the third factor accounting for energizing needs in infancy, is most rapid during the first year of life.

During this short period, the birth weight usually is tripled.

The added body proteins and fats accumulated during growth represents calories consumed in excess of those expended for the basal metabolism and voluntary muscle activity.

The daily caloric needs of Infants from one month to two years of age, for checking purposes, follows:

—One month, 500 calories; two months, 600; four months, 700; six months, 800; nine months, 900; one year, 1,000; two years, 1,200.

Carbohydrates, proteins and fats are the main sources of energy—calories. After ingestion, these bring about changes leading to their ultimate oxidation—burning.

Carbohydrates are the most readily available sources of energy, requiring the fewest chemical changes before oxidation.

Winn School Measures Get Easy Victory

WINNFIELD (Special) — Taxpayers in two Winn parish school districts yesterday unanimously approved finances measures.

The Atlanta School district and the Sikes consolidated district were involved. The Atlanta voters approved $175,000 to run 15 years for purchase of land and expansion of buildings. Maximun interest rate was set at five per cent.

Sikes voters approved a straight five mill tax collectable with the beginning of the next taxable year, 1960. The money will go for school maintenance.

TO REPLACE

The Sikes tax will replace a five mill tax which for the last 10 years has been retiring a bond used for construction of a gymnasium. These bonds will be paid off in November.

At Sikes, 180 persons could have voted an assessment of $123,750. There were 39 votes for the tax, and none against. In Ward Five for the Atlanta district 119 persons could have voted $93,540. The vote was 26 for and none against.

Also in the Atlanta district in Ward Six, 44 persons voted for, and none against the bond issue. One hundred sixteen persons could have voted $86,100 in assessment.

Since there were no votes cast against either of the measures the property assessment was not a deciding factor.

The returns reported by commissioners, however, technically are unofficial since they must get official certification of the tabulation.

Khrushchev Sounds Plea On Disarming

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev Saturday night invoked the Christianity's religious commandment "Thou Shalt Not Kill" in a plea for earnest consideration of his program for total disarmament. The Soviet premier declared that his proposals, made to the United Nations Friday, were "in perfect good faith."

He said they represented "the greatest length to which a great power can go, especially in the conditions of the present day international tension . . ."

Khrushchev spoke at a civic banquet at Los Angeles' Ambassador Hotel. At one point, he compared the cold war to the familiar Los Angeles smog.

"The cold war produces more than enough soot," he said.

The Russian leader said:

"I should like to trust that the exchange of visits between President Eisenhower and myself will help to finally relegate the cold war into the past and that a warmer climate resembling that of California or the no less blessed clime of the south shore of Crimea, on which I recently spent my vacation, will be established in international relations."

Sikes voters approved a straight five mill tax collectable with the beginning of the next taxable year, 1960. The money will go for school maintenance.

TO REPLACE

The Sikes tax will replace a five mill tax which for the last 10 years has been retiring a bond used for construction of a gymnasium. These bonds will be paid off in November.

At Sikes, 180 persons could have voted an assessment of $128,750. There were 39 votes for the tax, and none against. In Ward Five for the Atlanta district 119 persons could have voted $93,540. The vote was 26 for and none against.

Also in the Atlanta district in Ward Six, 44 persons voted for, and none against the bond issue. One hundred sixteen persons could have voted $86,100 in assessment.

Since there were no votes cast against either of the measures the property assessment was not a deciding factor.

The returns reported by commissioners, however, technically are unofficial since they must get official certification of the tabulation.

Khrushchev Sounds Plea On Disarming

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev Saturday night invoked the Christianity's religious commandment "Thou Shalt Not Kill" in a plea for earnest consideration of his program for total disarmament. The Soviet premier declared that his proposals, made to the United Nations Friday, were "in perfect good faith."

He said they represented "the greatest length to which a great power can go, especially in the conditions of the present day international tension . . ."

Khrushchev spoke at a civic banquet at Los Angeles' Ambassador Hotel. At one point, he compared the cold war to the familiar Los Angeles smog.

"The cold war produces more than enough soot," he said.

The Russian leader said:

"I should like to trust that the exchange of visits between President Eisenhower and myself will help to finally relegate the cold war into the past and that a warmer climate resembling that of California or the no less blessed clime of the south shore of Crimea, on which I recently spent my vacation, will be established in international relations."

Big Opening, Big Sale At Hemenway's

The new Hemenway Furniture Co. store in Monroe will celebrate its grand opening here tomorrow with a mammoth sale to be combined with the 63rd anniversary of the company.

The Louisiana chain has grown from a single store in Alexandria, to one that now has stores in almost every large city in the state, with the newest here in Monroe.

The Monroe store was formerly the Monroe Furniture Co. and is located at the site of the Monroe Furniture Co.

Frank Hemenway Jr., son of the founder of the company and now president, said, "Any product or service not available at one of our stores can almost always be obtained quickly from one nearby."

"We attempt to have stores with investories and services suitable for everyone in our trade area," he added.

Paul Hemenway, vice president of the company and also a son of the founder, said, "From a small country store in Alexandria, the company has grown and expanded. With a sales volume of over $6 million annually, the Hemenway Furniture Co. has become an important Deep South industry. The payroll of our employees amounts to well over a million dollars in Louisiana alone."

The Hemenway stores have served customers in the Monroe trade area for many years through stores in other cities.

New Interior Design Dept. At Hemenway

Hemenway Furniture Co. in Monroe has announced the opening of their interior design department, along with the grand opening of the Monroe store.

The new department will offer new services including advice — without cost or obligation.

The store will maintain a trained interior designer. He will be available to consult and advise customers in arrangement, period mixture, color and choice of accessories.

The Monroe staff includes Elliott Howe III, and Lars Westerdahl. Howe will be available for consultation on each Tuesday and Westerdahl is available for appointments on Fridays at the store.

The staff has years of experience and degrees from decorating schools in both the United States and Europe.

To help the interior designers, Hemenway's maintains workrooms for making draperies and upholstering, manned by experienced workmen.

LIONS CLUB SPONSORS CIRCUS

'Big Top' Thrills Coming To Area

The Clyde Beatty — Cole Brothers Circus, one of the world's largest amusement organizations, is slated for two performances here on October 1.

The circus, sponsored by the local Lions Club, will give an afternoon performance at 3:30 and an evening performance at 8 p.m. in Bernstein Park. Doors open at 2:30 and at 7 p.m., one hour before each show.

Traveling with the combined shows this season are 600 people, herds of elephants, and at least 200 circus animals. The circus is transported from city to city aboard two special convoys, which carry all performers, aides, workers, and animals.

THRILLS

Fresh from engagements in South America, New York and eastern cities, the combined circus promises to uncork the very latest in complete family entertainment, with thrills and sights that could come only from the "big top."

Six rings and stages, plus the hippodrome track, will be used to present some of the most entertaining talent that showmanship can produce, including 150 acknowledged experts of daring grace and skill, as well as a huge menagerie of wild and trained animals.

Clyde Beatty, famed wild animal trainer, will appear at each performance battling 40 lions and tigers in the big cage.

Among the many other performers highlighting the two Monroe performances are the flying Paustres from Denmark; Gallasso,, the man who stands on one finger; Josephine Berosini, Scandanavian queen of the highwire; Hugo Zacchini, the human cannon ball shot the length of the big top from a giant cannon; eight Moroccos, and Arabian acrobats plus a huge following of other thrilling performers.

Underwriters Study Offered At Northeast

Offered for the first time at Northeast Louisiana State College is a complete Chartered Property Casualty Underwriters (CPCU) program for the benefit of insurance personnel in this area.

The Business Administration Division has added the course to offerings listed by the Evening Division, George C. Brian, director of late afternoon, evening and Saturday morning classes, announced.

Persons affiliated with insurance companies and who are high school graduates will have opportunity to earn a CPCU diploma by successfully completing requirements of the study.

Prospective registrants for the course should report Wednesday at 7 p.m. to room 107 in Brown Hall. The first semester class will be organized at that time.

FIVE PARTS

The Chartered Property Casualty Underwriters program comprises five parts: insurance principles and practices; functional aspects of insurance business (including marketing), economics (government and business); insurance and business law; management, accounting and finance.

Two examinations will be given upon completion of each section of the study. The first will be provided by the Business Administration Division of Northeast to determine whether or not college credit has been earned. The second will be supplied by the American Institute for Property and Liability Underwriters, Inc. When a student completes satisfactorily the five parts, he will receive a CPCU certificate from the American Institute.

Each course will cost $40. Textbooks for the semester may be obtained from the Northeast bookstore at a nominal cost on a rental basis.

Several Evening Division classes have been organized and some were in the formative stage early Saturday.

Classes which required additional students to be offered included: Psychology 56, Education 151, 153 and 170; Economics 51; Secretarial Science 51 (typing), Secretarial Science 56 (shorthand), Business 151 and Business 177; Mathematics 1 and 2, Geology 1 and Physical Science 1.

Special classes are still open for registrants. Persons interested in courses offere by the Evening Division may call the dean of the division in which he wishes to enroll or George Brian at FA 3-0379.

Pet Show Slated By Auxiliary In Jonesville Fri.

JONESVILLE (Special) — The first Catahoula Parish pet show, sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary, will be held Sept. 25 at 4 p.m., at the Jonesville park. Youngsters under 12 years of age were invited to bring their small animals and participate.

The show is limited to small animals with no pet allowed that weighs more than 150 pounds.

Any type is admissable and a prize will be give for the most unusual, most talented, the cutest and the prettiest pet.

Children showing their pets will register at the Auxiliary building. They will be charged a registration fee for each pet.

Finalists in all categories will be judged and prizes will be awarded at the close of the show.

Watermelons were cultivated in the Nile Valley in Egypt thousands of years ago.

Three Demo '60 Hopefuls Plan Tours

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Democratic senators popularly believed to be in pursuit of their party's presidential nomination are going to be out on the campaign trail from one end of the country to the other this fall.

The three, Sens. John F. Kennedy (Mass), Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn), and Stuart Symington (Mo), were off on speaking trips almost the minute Congress adjourned last Tuesday.

Of the trio, only Humphrey is openly a candidate, and his announcement was made for him by friends. But the schedules they will be following in the next three months leave little doubt of what they have in mind.

The two other Democratic senators who are possible contenders for the 1960 White House race, Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex) and Estes Kefauver (Tenn), are confining their touring this fall to their home states. Both are up for reelection next year.

Humphrey's Senate term also expires next year, and he will devote part of his time to Minnesota in the next few weeks, breaking off now and then for sprints to other states.

Both Humphrey and Kennedy will spend several days each in Wisconsin and Oregon, two of the states where they are most likely to clash in the 1960 presidential primaries.

Aides of Kennedy, Humphrey, and Symington report that each senator has had to turn down more engagements than he could accept. Congress ran so late this year that some dates for early September had to be canceled.

Kennedy's office said requests for appearances have been coming into his office at the rate of 6,000 to 8,000 a year, which figures out to around 20 a day.

Tech Forester To Serve As Judge

RUSTON, (Special) — L. P. Blackwell, head of the forestry department of Louisiana Tech, has accepted an invitation to serve as a judge in the Miss Arkansas Forest Queen contest at Little Rock on Sept. 25.

The event is sponsored by the Arkansas Forestry commission. F. H. Martin is director of the contest.

Soviets Jam Broadcasts From West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Russians were filling the airwaves with electronic gibberish again Saturday to block out the Voice of America and other Western broadcasts.

But with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev touring the United States, life was no longer simple for the operators of Russian jamming stations. For the past 10 years, all they had to do was try to garbie everything beamed their way from the West.

But Khrushchev has done a lot of talking since his arrival here, and it is desirable that the folks back home know what he is saying. The electronic curtain was lifted when the Voice of America began broadcasting his speeches.

The Soviets also let through a broadcast of President Eisenhower's press conference on Thursday.

The curtain slammed down again, however, when the Voice carried a Russian translation of Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's speech to the United Nations and news reports on trouble between Communist and Nationalist Chinese.

Undoubtedly the jamming will cease again when Khrushchev speaks again.

U.S. Information Agency officials call this "selective jamming." No one can say this now-you-hear-it, now-you-don't routine is affecting the average Russian radio listeners, but it would be a safe guess that it has the jammers themselves in a nervous state.

In 1956, when Khrushchev and then-Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin visited Britain, the Russians stopped jamming the British Broadcasting Corp. Russian language broadcasts for several months. But they soon resumed the interference.

Jamming of radio broadcasts is not new—it began back in World War II when the Axis powers tried to black out Allied broadcasts, which would have given an entirely different view of the progress of the war than was being circulated by the dictatorships.

Spain and Russia began jamming each other's broadcasts in 1946, and two years later the Soviets began trying to drown out American broadcasts in Russian. The United States complained to the International Telecommunications Union, but didn't even get a reply from the Russians.

Davis Gratified By Response To His Candidacy

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Former Gov. Jimmie Davis Saturday told Davis-Aycock campaign workers and leaders he is "gratified and heartened" over the reception his gubernatorial candidacy is receiving.

Davis spent the morning and early afternoon meeting with supporters in Baton Rouge. Later he was scheduled to attend the LSU-Rice football game.

"Our workers around the state and the members of our ticket tell me that voters have taken our campaign to their hearts," Davis said. "Reports are good and I am gratified and heartened at the way Louisiana voters are receiving our campaign."

Davis said he wanted to be governor "of all the people of the state." He pointed to his background as a businessman, cattleman, tree farmer and school teacher and said this gave him an appreciation of the needs of all the people.

Davis said his 1944-48 administration was "one of the most constructive in the history of the state." He outlined the accomplishments of his administration and pointed out no new taxes were levied.

Receive Certificates

Teenagers Assist In Hospital Work

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

"My feet are killing me — I made a million trips down to the lab this morning."

A teenage Junior Red Cross hospital aid said that, after her first day of helping the nurses at St. Francis hospital this summer.

Yesterday, with more than 800 hours of hospital summer work to their credit, 24 high school students received recognitions certificates for the time and energy which they donated to hospital work.

In a ceremony at St. Francis, Mother Gertrude, hospital supervisor, and Mrs. Adele Brossett, supervisor of nurses, presented the certificates.

BEGAN WORK

The teenagers, both boys and girls, began work at the hospital early in June. Together, they totalled at least 100 eight - hour days.

First, they were trained in hospital work — a ten - hour course.

Then, they scheduled the number of hours per week they would work. Minimum was three hours at a time. Some worked twice a week.

They reported in at 8 a.m., worked to 11:30 a.m. or arrived at 2 p.m. and stayed on the job to 5 p.m.

All wore special uniforms — white smocks, similar to those worn by doctors — over their street lcothes.

"They loved the work — they took their uniforms home at night, and we finally had to number the smocks and issue them like GI equipment to make sure that we would have enough on hand if someone substituted for another hospital aid," laughed Mrs. Taunton Veazey, Red Cross executive director.

From high school athletes to pretty girls, not a one dropped out — and they weren't squemish about their work.

REPORTS

Each day, the youngsters reported to the supervisor of nurses at St. Francis. She assigned them to a certain floor for the day.

Their work: run errands for doctors and nurses, carry trays to rooms, rush specimens to the laboratory, bring meals to patients who had been unable to eat at the regular time.

Everything was done under the supervision of nurses.

This was the second summer for such work. Some teenagers plan to continue to be hospital aides on Saturdays.

"But students have such a heavy schedule, I don't think that many of them will be able to do it during the school term," Mrs. Veazey commented.

Their work this summer, as well as regular Junior Red Cross activities, ties in with the organization's purpose: to give students an opportunity to participate in community services.

Other major Jr. Red Cross projects for Ouachita Parish youngsters include: baking, wrapping and distributing 450 dozen cookies to homes for the aged; Easter project — dyeing Easter eggs, making baskets for them, taking them to rest homes; converting cigar boxes into modern trinket boxes, for the aged.

CLIPBOARDS

The boys make clipboards, to hold magazines and newspapers for patients in Cooley Sanatorium and the veterans hospital at Alexandria. Youngsters also work with the crippled children's clinic here.

They are the answer to the worried comment of Dr. Robert G. Cordon, dean of students at the University of Southern California.

At the National Red Cross convention in Atlantic City this summer, he voiced fear that "many college graduates don't know where they're going .... we need to learn about ourselves as well as from books .... colleges need resources for community services."

Ouachita Jr. Red Cross members are launched into community services.

Receiving certificates yesterday were:

John Brown, Robert Roberson, Buddy Embanato, Kaylene Wilson, Melanie Wood, Addison Graham, Sandra Guyton, Lynn Smith, Cheryl Ann Chapman, Jean Slaughter, Harriet Murray, Carolyn Thompson.

Lab Messengers

Junior Red Cross hospital aides ran errands, carried trays and reports, brought specimens to laboratory. Here, lab technician Mrs. Audrey Cooper, RN, studies slide, as Addison Graham and Cheryl Ann Chapman bring in specimen.

Hospital Work

OPENS TUESDAY

Festival Slated In Bastrop Area

BASTROP (Special) — A five-day celebration, beginning Tuesday with a Prince and Princess contest and culminating with a southwide horse show featuring movie-TV star Dale Robertson, is ready for staging in this agricultural-industrial city of 19,000.

Farmers and cattlemen of Morehouse and surrounding area will bring agricultural produce, poultry and livestock to the fairgrounds exhibit building Tuesday, along with commercial and educational displays, according to John Blanchard, president of the North Louisiana Cotton Festival, Fair and Horse Show, the eighth annual in Bastrop.

Fifty youngsters, four and five year-olds, will compete Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock on the stage of the high school auditorium for the title of Prince and Princess of the festival. Terri McLeod, petite daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby McLeod of Bastrop, and Steve Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ray Robinson, will reign over the contest which is under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Nunnally, Jr., and Mrs. Bill Bolton.

ENTRIES

Fourteen contestants have filed entry in the queen's pageant which will begin with registration Wednesday morning at 9 and continue with a whirlwind of activities through final judging Thursday night at 7:30 at the high school. Lovely Sallye Ann Sumlin of Delhi, a junior at Louisiana Tech, is the reigning queen of the festival.

Three professional pageant judges have been engaged to select Miss North Louisiana Cotton Festival for 1959-60.

"Miss Louisiana" — Mary Mills Hawkins of LSU — and Forest Festival Queen Camille Woodall of Oakdale will arrive Wednesday to attend all of the events of the queen's contest.

Bastrop merchants, encouraged by the Association of Commerce and Industry and led by Harold Fink, have banded together to decorate the town for the coming five-day celebration.

Bands from area high schools, colleges and universities, along with colorful floats will take over at 4 p.m. Thursday in what has been termed the largest parade ever witnessed in North Louisiana. From Monroe will come the Neville and Ouachita bands and their high stepping pep squads. The Bastrop group, decked in new West Point type uniforms, will be seen for the first time by the public in the new regalia.

BEAUTIES

Thursday night, following the parade, a bevy of beauties will compete in talent, bathing suit and evening gown competition. Miss Sumlin will relinquish her crown to a beauty who will represent the Cotton Festival at the state Forest Festival, International Rice Festival, Mardi Gras ball in Washington, D.C., and other state and area observances.

Homemakers from clubs throughout 14 parishes will model garments in the cotton fashion show scheduled at 10 a.m., Friday, September 25 at the new agricultural auditorium on the fairgrounds. The air-conditioned structure is being used for the first time by the festival since its completion earlier in the year.

Walking and gaited horses, along with the famed spotted Appaloosas, from 11 states will go on exhibition Friday night at 7 and at three performances Saturday at 9 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. The southwide event is under the direction of Dr. W. V. Garnier, owner of four world's champion walking horses; Mrs. Sally Garnier McDowell, and Merl L. Padgett of Collinston, breeder and exhibitor of the Indian paint pony, the Appaloosa.

Western star Dale Robertson, more recently famous for his "Tales of Wells Fargo" series, who will visit the Garniers, will appear at all horse show performances Friday and Saturday. He will arrive by plane from his California home Friday.

The festival president said that Hugh McGeever is serving as general chairman of all events and that Layton Stephenson is directing activities for the Bastrop Jaycees, sponsor of the beauty pageant.

"Operated for the second consecutive year without state funds, we are hoping that residents of the North Louisiana area will support the festival and aid in its continued growth," Blanchard stated.

Property Tax For Ruston Is Announced

RUSTON (Special) — Ad valorem taxes on all property subject to taxation in the City of Ruston amounted to a total of 20 mills, city officials reported yesterday. The 1959 taxes were given in city ordinance No. 528.

Taxes levied at the rates per dollar of assessed values are as follows:

For ordinary expenses and public improvements — seven mills; for principal and interest of improvement bonds, issue of 1938 — one mill; and for principal and interest of sewer bonds, issue of 1951 — two mills.

RECREATION

For principal and interest of public improvement (recreation) bonds, issue of 1955 — one mill; for principal and interest of public improvement (sewer) bonds, issue of 1958 — one and a half mills.

For maintenance and operation of recreation buildings and equipment authorized at election hold on Nov. 30, 1954 — two mills.

The following is additional tax levied on all property subject to taxation in sewerage district No. 1:

For principal and interest of sewer bonds, issue of 1951 — three mills; for principal and interest of sewer bonds, issue of 1958 — two and one-half mills.

Jackson To Seek Demo Central Committee Post

B. Fay Jackson, of West Monroe, announced Saturday that he had qualified as a candidate for one of the two State Central Democratic Committee posts to be filled in the Dec. 5 primary.

Jackson said he filed his qualification by registered mail at 2 p.m. Tuesday. He said he had received acknowledgement of filing from Baton Rouge.

In addition to Jackson, other candidates for the two posts are: Lawrence Gibbs, Fred Huenefeld, C. C. Bell, Jr., James A. Noe, Fred Fudickar, Jr. and Pete J. Medak.

Management Institute Set At University

BATON ROUGE (Special) — "Profits, people and petroleum" will be the theme of the first annual management institute of the Louisiana Oil Marketers Association to be held at Louisiana State University October 8-10.

The institute, sponsored by the College of Commerce, will be held in Pleasant Hall and is planned for Louisiana's oil wholesalers, including jobbers, commission agents, consignees, bulk re-sellers and all other categories of bulk plant operators who "sell for re-sell."

Nationally recognized authorities in the oil industry and members of the LSU faculty will speak on such subjects as management principles, taxes (as related to the wholesaler), bulk plant operations, personnel management, finances for the wholesaler and dealer relations and improvement.

FEATURED

Featured as speakers will be Dr. Preston P. LeBreton, associate professor and head of marketing and management at LSU and Dr. Stephen L. McDonald, associate professor and head of the finance department.

Talks will be presented in the morning and afternoon with evenings being devoted to group workshops. Each person attending the institute will have opportunity to participate in discussions.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m., October 8, in the lobby of Pleasant Hall. Further information may be obtained from the LSU General Extension Division or the Louisiana Oil Marketers Association.

High Schools Get Tourist Loving Cups

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Ten Louisiana high schools this week received loving cups from the Louisiana Tourist Commission.

Curt Siegelin, executive director of the State Department of Commerce and Industry, said students from the 10 schools were among winners of the Tourist Commission's 1959 Essay Contest entitled "Why My Family Should See All of Louisiana First."

First place winner in the contest was Miss Kay McIntosh, Davidson High School, St. Joseph. Her school received a 16-inch loving cup as a result of Miss McIntosh's winning the contest.

Schools receiving 14-inch loving cups as a result of their students winning congressional district honors were:

Francis T. Nicholls High School, New Orleans; Fortier Senior High School, New Orleans; Loreauville High School, Loreauville; Stanley High School, Logansport; Wisner High School, Wisner; Central High School, Baton Rouge; Lake Charles High School, Lake Charles; ; and Glenmora High School, Glenmora.

In addition, Warren Easton High School of New Orleans received a 12-inch loving cup as a special award.

Four to eight crops a year are obtained from one planting of sugar cane in Cuba. In other parts of the world, a set of canes will yield only one crop annually.

Teenagers Assist In Hospital Work

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

"My feet are killing me — I made a million trips down to the lab this morning."

A teenage Junior Red Cross hospital aid said that, after her first day of helping the nurses at St. Francis hospital this summer.

Yesterday, with more than 800 hours of hospital summer work to their credit, 24 high school students received recognitions certificates for the time and energy which they donated to hospital work.

In a ceremony at St. Francis, Mother Gertrude, hospital supervisor, and Mrs. Adele Brossett, supervisor of nurses, presented the certificates.

BEGAN WORK

The teenagers, both boys and girls, began work at the hospital early in June. Together, they totalled at least 100 eight - hour days.

First, they were trained in hospital work — a ten - hour course.

Then, they scheduled the number of hours per week they would work. Minimum was three hours at a time. Some worked twice a week.

They reported in at 8 a.m., worked to 11:30 a.m. or arrived at 2 p.m. and stayed on the job to 5 p.m.

All wore special uniforms — white smocks, similar to those worn by doctors — over their street lcothes.

"They loved the work — they took their uniforms home at night, and we finally had to number the smocks and issue them like GI equipment to make sure that we would have enough on hand if someone substituted for another hospital aid," laughed Mrs. Taunton Veazey, Red Cross executive director.

From high school athletes to pretty girls, not a one dropped out — and they weren't squemish about their work.

REPORTS

Each day, the youngsters reported to the supervisor of nurses at St. Francis. She assigned them to a certain floor for the day.

Their work: run errands for doctors and nurses, carry trays to rooms, rush specimens to the laboratory, bring meals to patients who had been unable to eat at the regular time.

Everything was done under the supervision of nurses.

This was the second summer for such work. Some teenagers plan to continue to be hospital aides on Saturdays.

"But students have such a heavy schedule, I don't think that many of them will be able to do it during the school term," Mrs. Veazey commented.

Their work this summer, as well as regular Junior Red Cross activities, ties in with the organization's purpose: to give students an opportunity to participate in community services.

Other major Jr. Red Cross projects for Ouachita Parish youngsters include: baking, wrapping and distributing 450 dozen cookies to homes for the aged; Easter project — dyeing Easter eggs, making baskets for them, taking them to rest homes; converting cigar boxes into modern trinket boxes, for the aged.

CLIPBOARDS

The boys make clipboards, to hold magazines and newspapers for patients in Cooley Sanatorium and the veterans hospital at Alexandria. Youngsters also work with the crippled children's clinic here.

They are the answer to the worried comment of Dr. Robert G. Cordon, dean of students at the University of Southern California.

At the National Red Cross convention in Atlantic City this summer, he voiced fear that "many college graduates don't know where they're going .... we need to learn about ourselves as well as from books .... colleges need resources for community services."

Ouachita Jr. Red Cross members are launched into community services.

Receiving certificates yesterday were:

John Brown, Robert Roberson, Buddy Embanato, Kaylene Wilson, Melanie Wood, Addison Graham, Sandra Guyton, Lynn Smith, Cheryl Ann Chapman, Jean Slaughter, Harriet Murray, Carolyn Thompson.

Lab Messengers

Junior Red Cross hospital aides ran errands, carried trays and reports, brought specimens to laboratory. Here, lab technician Mrs. Audrey Cooper, RN, studies slide, as Addison Graham and Cheryl Ann Chapman bring in specimen.

OPENS TUESDAY

Festival Slated In Bastrop Area

BASTROP (Special) — A five-day celebration, beginning Tuesday with a Prince and Princess contest and culminating with a southwide horse show featuring movie-TV star Dale Robertson, is ready for staging in this agricultural-industrial city of 19,000.

Farmers and cattlemen of Morehouse and surrounding area will bring agricultural produce, poultry and livestock to the fairgrounds exhibit building Tuesday, along with commercial and educational displays, according to John Blanchard, president of the North Louisiana Cotton Festival, Fair and Horse Show, the eighth annual in Bastrop.

Fifty youngsters, four and five year-olds, will compete Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock on the stage of the high school auditorium for the title of Prince and Princess of the festival. Terri McLeod, petite daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby McLeod of Bastrop, and Steve Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ray Robinson, will reign over the contest which is under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Nunnally, Jr., and Mrs. Bill Bolton.

ENTRIES

Fourteen contestants have filed entry in the queen's pageant which will begin with registration Wednesday morning at 9 and continue with a whirlwind of activities through final judging Thursday night at 7:30 at the high school. Lovely Sallye Ann Sumlin of Delhi, a junior at Louisiana Tech, is the reigning queen of the festival.

Three professional pageant judges have been engaged to select Miss North Louisiana Cotton Festival for 1959-60.

"Miss Louisiana" — Mary Mills Hawkins of LSU — and Forest Festival Queen Camille Woodall of Oakdale will arrive Wednesday to attend all of the events of the queen's contest.

Bastrop merchants, encouraged by the Association of Commerce and Industry and led by Harold Fink, have banded together to decorate the town for the coming five-day celebration.

Bands from area high schools, colleges and universities, along with colorful floats will take over at 4 p.m. Thursday in what has been termed the largest parade ever witnessed in North Louisiana. From Monroe will come the Neville and Ouachita bands and their high stepping pep squads. The Bastrop group, decked in new West Point type uniforms, will be seen for the first time by the public in the new regalia.

BEAUTIES

Thursday night, following the parade, a bevy of beauties will compete in talent, bathing suit and evening gown competition. Miss Sumlin will relinquish her crown to a beauty who will represent the Cotton Festival at the state Forest Festival, International Rice Festival, Mardi Gras ball in Washington, D.C., and other state and area observances.

Homemakers from clubs throughout 14 parishes will model garments in the cotton fashion show scheduled at 10 a.m., Friday, September 25 at the new agricultural auditorium on the fairgrounds. The air-conditioned structure is being used for the first time by the festival since its completion earlier in the year.

Walking and gaited horses, along with a group of Appaloosas, from 11 states will go on exhibition Friday night at 7 and at three performances Saturday at 9 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. The southwide event is under the direction of Dr. W. V. Garnier, owner of four world's champion walking horses; Mrs. Sally Garnier McDowell, and Merl L. Padgett of Collinston, breeder and exhibitor of the Indian paint pony, the Appaloosa.

Western star Dale Robertson, personality famous for his "Tales of Wells Fargo" series, who will visit the Garniers, will appear at all horse show performances Friday and Saturday. He will arrive by plane from his California home Friday.

The festival president said that Hugh McGeever is serving as general chairman of all events and that Layton Stephenson is directing activities for the Bastrop Jaycees, sponsor of the beauty pageant.

"Operated for the second consecutive year without state funds, we are hoping that residents of the North Louisiana area will support the festival and aid in its continued growth," Blanchard stated.

Property Tax For Ruston Is Announced

RUSTON (Special) — Ad valorem taxes on all property subject to taxation in the City of Ruston amounted to a total of 20 mills, city officials reported yesterday. The 1959 taxes were given in city ordinance No. 528.

Taxes levied at the rates per dollar of assessed values are as follows:

For ordinary expenses and public improvements — seven mills; for principal and interest of improvement bonds, issue of 1938 — one mill; and for principal and interest of sewer bonds, issue of 1951 — two mills.

RECREATION

For principal and interest of public improvement (recreation) bonds, issue of 1955 — one mill; for principal and interest of public improvement (sewer) bonds, issue of 1958 — one and a half mills.

For maintenance and operation of recreation buildings and equipment authorized at election hold on Nov. 30, 1954 — two mills.

The following is additional tax levied on all property subject to taxation in sewerage district No. 1:

For principal and interest of sewer bonds, issue of 1951 — three mills; for principal and interest of sewer bonds, issue of 1958 — two and one-half mills.

Jackson To Seek Demo Central Committee Post

B. Fay Jackson, of West Monroe, announced Saturday that he had qualified as a candidate for one of the two State Central Democratic Committee posts to be filled in the Dec. 5 primary.

Jackson said he filed his qualification by registered mail at 2 p.m. Tuesday. He said he had received acknowledgement of filing from Baton Rouge.

In addition to Jackson, other candidates for the two posts are: Lawrence Gibbs, Fred Huenefeld, C. C. Bell, Jr., James A. Noe, Fred Fudickar, Jr. and Pete J. Medak.

Management Institute Set At University

BATON ROUGE (Special) — "Profits, people and petroleum" will be the theme of the first annual management institute of the Louisiana Oil Marketers Association to be held at Louisiana State University October 8-10.

The institute, sponsored by the College of Commerce, will be held in Pleasant Hall and is planned for Louisiana's oil wholesalers, including jobbers, commission agents, consignees, bulk re-sellers and all other categories of bulk plant operators who "sell for re-sell."

Nationally recognized authorities in the oil industry and members of the LSU faculty will speak on such subjects as management principles, taxes (as related to the wholesaler), bulk plant operations, personnel management, finances for the wholesaler and dealer relations and improvement.

FEATURED

Featured as speakers will be Dr. Preston P. LeBreton, associate professor and head of marketing and management at LSU and Dr. Stephen L. McDonald, associate professor and head of the finance department.

Talks will be presented in the morning and afternoon with evenings being devoted to group workshops. Each person attending the institute will have opportunity to participate in discussions.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m., October 8, in the lobby of Pleasant Hall. Further information may be obtained from the LSU General Extension Division or the Louisiana Oil Marketers Association.

High Schools Get Tourist Loving Cups

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Ten Louisiana high schools this week received loving cups from the Louisiana Tourist Commission.

Curt Siegelin, executive director of the State Department of Commerce and Industry, said students from the 10 schools were among winners of the Tourist Commission's 1959 Essay Contest entitled "Why My Family Should See All of Louisiana First."

First place winner in the contest was Miss Kay McIntosh, Davidson High School, St. Joseph. Her school received a 16-inch loving cup as a result of Miss McIntosh's winning the contest.

Schools receiving 14-inch loving cups as a result of their students winning congressional district honors were:

Francis T. Nicholls High School, New Orleans; Fortier Senior High School, New Orleans; Lorcauville High School, Loreauville; Stanley High School, Logansport; Wisner High School, Wisner; Central High School, Baton Rouge; Lake Charles High School, Lake Charles; ; and Glenmora High School, Glenmora.

In addition, Warren Easton High School of New Orleans received a 12-inch loving cup as a special award.

Four to eight crops a year are obtained from one planting of sugar cane in Cuba. In other parts of the world, a set of canes will yield only one crop annually.

DENY ANY DEALS

Jackson's Only Rival Withdraws

BATON ROUGE (AP) — F. E. Cole, only candidate to file against state Education Supt. Shelby M. Jackson, withdrew Saturday and both Gov. Earl K. Long and Jackson denied any deals

Cole, on the ticket of former Gov. James A. Noe and Long, is a new member of the State Board of Education.

His withdrawal leaves Jackson unopposed in the Dec. 5 Democratic primary, meaning Jackson is assured of election again.

"I do not believe that education of our youth should become involved in the partisan politics of this period in Louisiana," Cole explained.

"As a member of the State Board of Education," Cole said, "I do not believe that a political contest between the superintendent and a board member would serve the best interests of education."

Thus the final act in the behind-the-scenes drama of Jackson's unfilled desire to run for governor has been played.

He didn't try for the governorship, as every gubernatorial candidate actually feared, and he ends up being unopposed for re-election.

Cole, named to the Education Board recently by Long, was chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

And while in the Legislature under Long, the Many senator was a member of the Joint Legislative Committee on Higher Education.

Long, Jackson and Cole conferred Saturday, informants said.

Jackson, dignified, but a tough fighter, has been considered for some time a political power in Louisiana. When he tried to step into the governorship that became another story, with giant strategy beginning to take shape with the magnitude of a plan of battle.

In the past, campaign opponents, never very strong against him, and legislature enemies have assailed Jackson as a one-man dictator.

But Jackson has forged strongly ahead — doing best the one thing he really knows how to do — building up more and more money in the Legislature for education.

This year, with his known organized support at the grass roots through various educational groups, Jackson prepared to try for the governorship

"I would have received more than 40 per cent of the vote in the first primary," he said, after abandoning the race. "I would have been elected."

Jackson and Gov. Long, who backed Cole's candidacy against Jackson, sat watching each other in Democratic Chairman Rufus Hayes' office last Tuesday on the filing deadline. If either one had changed the other might have filed for governor.

Long and Jackson conferred in private during that wait. And Jackson did not carry out a rumored threat to run for governor, if anyone filed against him for superintendent.

But Long denied there were "any trades, any promises" for Jackson's staying out of the gover's race.

Jackson told The Associated Press there were 'no trades," and Jackson denied pressure from any gubernatorial candidate to keep hands off the Mansion.

Long grumbled, "I don't do no damn trading or dealing. Look at the people I helped elect who turned on me — I should have signed them all up first."

Long backed Cole's filing for the state superintendency, as a threat should Jackson run for governor. Jack's own choice for state superintendent would have faced a fight.

Before the filing deadline, informants reported, Jackson received visitors who flatly informed him if he ran for governor they were prepared to back a man for state superintendent who would receive support from some of the major anti-Long candidates for governor.

DENY ANY DEALS

Jackson's Only Rival Withdraws

BATON ROUGE (AP) — F. E. Cole, only candidate to file against state Education Supt. Shelby M. Jackson, withdrew Saturday and both Gov. Earl K. Long and Jackson denied any deals

Cole, on the ticket of former Gov. James A. Noe and Long, is a new member of the State Board of Education.

His withdrawal leaves Jackson unopposed in the Dec. 5 Democratic primary, meaning Jackson is assured of election again.

"I do not believe that education of our youth should become involved in the partisan politics of this period in Louisiana," Cole explained.

"As a member of the State Board of Education," Cole said, "I do not believe that a political contest between the superintendent and a board member would serve the best interests of education."

Thus the final act in the behind-the-scenes drama of Jackson's unfilled desire to run for governor has been played.

He didn't try for the governorship, as every gubernatorial candidate actually feared, and he ends up being unopposed for re-election.

Cole, named to the Education Board recently by Long, was chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

And while in the Legislature under Long, the Many senator was a member of the Joint Legislative Committee on Higher Education.

Long, Jackson and Cole conferred Saturday, informants said.

Jackson, dignified, but a tough fighter, has been considered for some time a political power in Louisiana. When he tried to step into the governorship that became another story, with giant strategy beginning to take shape with the magnitude of a plan of battle.

In the past, campaign opponents, never very strong against him, and legislature enemies have assailed Jackson as a one-man dictator.

But Jackson has forged strongly ahead — doing best the one thing he really knows how to do — building up more and more money in the Legislature for education.

This year, with his known organized support at the grass roots through various educational groups, Jackson prepared to try for the governorship

"I would have received more than 40 per cent of the vote in the first primary," he said, after abandoning the race. "I would have been elected."

Jackson and Gov. Long, who backed Cole's candidacy against Jackson, sat watching each other in Democratic Chairman Rufus Hayes' office last Tuesday on the filing deadline. If either one had changed the other might have filed for governor.

Long and Jackson conferred in private during that wait. And Jackson did not carry out a rumored threat to run for governor, if anyone filed against him for superintendent.

But Long denied there were "any trades, any promises" for Jackson's staying out of the gover's race.

Jackson told The Associated Press there were 'no trades," and Jackson denied pressure from any gubernatorial candidate to keep hands off the Mansion.

Long grumbled, "I don't do no damn trading or dealing. Look at the people I helped elect who turned on me — I should have signed them all up first."

Long backed Cole's filing for the state superintendency, as a threat should Jackson run for governor. Jack's own choice for state superintendent would have faced a fight.

Before the filing deadline, informants reported. Jackson received visitors who flatly informed him if he ran for governor they were prepared to back a man for state superintendent who would receive support from some of the major anti-Long candidates for governor.

Khrushchev Visits With Rockefeller

NEW YORK (AP)—The world's top communist, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, and one of America's top capitalists, Nelson A. Rockefeller, held a 22-minute tete-a-tete Friday.

They met, in what the New York governor said was a cordial visit, in the splendor of the Soviet leader's suite in the Waldorf-Astoria Towers on Park Avenue.

Rockefeller said there had been some reference that their visit was bringing together a "top communist and top capitalist."

"I said it might hurt him back home," Rockefeller told newsmen later, "but he said that he did not think it would."

Rockefeller, often mentioned as a possible 1960 candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, was asked if Khrushchev had expressed any surprise over Rockefeller's election as governor in view of his family's long background of great wealth.

Rockefeller laughed and replied:

"Yes, frankly he was. He said he never thought it would happen. He said it could only happen in America."

Rockefeller admitted the Soviet premier had mentioned the possibility the New York governor would be a candidate for the presidency next year.

"Yes, he did," the governor said. "It was an oblique allusion."

For his part, Rockefeller said, he had responded with "a deflected comment. We dropped that subject as quickly as we could."

The Kremlin boss also invited Rockefeller to visit Russia.

Rockefeller replied he was too busy as governor to accept the invitation.

Was the atmosphere of the meeting chilly, a newsman asked, aware of the frosty reception Khrushchev has received on his visit to New York.

"No, I would not say that," Rockefeller replied.

Rockefeller said he opened his part of the talk with brief remarks from handwritten notes prepared in advance.

He said he had welcomed Khrushchev to New York and had expressed the hope "his stay in New York with his family would be pleasant and contribute to the cause of peace."

Rockefeller gave this picture of Khrushchev during their visit:

The premier was relaxed and his comments were "very simple. He is serious, then he is gay, but always with a very keen look coming out of his eyes."

FOR WORLD COMMUNISM

Khrushchev Losses May Exceed Gains

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev put on a spectacular show in his first whirlwind week in the United States, but he may have lost more than he gained for the cause of world communism.

It seems obvious from the Soviet premier's performance that his purpose has been to keep one jump ahead of the United States and the West in the great propaganda contest. But his United Nations speech probably represented far too big a jump.

Once the explosive headlines are forgotten and there has been an opportunity for sober reflection, the calculated unreality of the Soviet peace propaganda campaign likely will become more and more apparent.

The proposal for total disarmament — liquidation of all arms and armaments, is far from new. In fact, it is almost as old as gunpowder and as simple and fundamental as the human longing to live in peace.

Nobody, probably, is more aware of its unreality than Khrushchev himself. By his own testimony, such a thing is impossible in four or forty years, so long as a system he regards as inimical to the Soviet brand of communism remains in existence.

Khrushchev's employment of this simple formula, therefore, must be regarded as a gesture intended to be powerful by its meaningless in the light of Khrushchev's own expressed notions very simplicity.

URGE TO MOVE

Trend To Migrate Blankets Nation

NEW YORK (UPI) — This is a nation of movers. And this is one of the prime factors behind the home building boom.

One out of every five families—and these five families represent a record 36 million people—has moved to a new location during the last 12 months. While this migration trend involves 20 per cent of the population, housing studies show that actually 40 per cent of American families would like to move to better homes, according to David O'D. Kennedy, president of Kentile, Inc.

The people who migrate every year are about equally divided between those who move within the same state and those who settle in other states, government and private surveys showed.

The Kentile president listed the following as prime migration causes: substandard housing; new job opportunities and job relocations; overcrowded urban and suburban areas; larger families and new family formations; increased family income; demolition, disaster or abandonment of existing dwellings; retirement.

A powerful motivation in the migration picture, Kennedy asserted, is the nation's "rapidly deteriorating" housing inventory which reveals that nearly 56 million existing homes have a need for some degree of improvement.

Nearly nineteen and one-half years old; eight and one half million over 30 years old; 5,900,000 over 20 years old; nine and one half million over 10 years old, and 13,600,000 million from 1 to 9 years old

Pointing out that sales, professional, technical and kindred workers were among the most mobile occupational groups, Kennedy said these middle income groups have growing families and either must move or remodel their present homes for better living.

In this connection, he said that the big family trend now is a familiar part of the American landscape. Birth records show thousands more first babies, reflecting the upswing in marriages. And more families are welcoming third, fourth, fifth and sixth children.

Babies are checking in at the rate of 11,562 a day, or 482 hourly, which figures out to eight a minute.

Personal income now is at a record 376 billion dollars and this improvement in our living standard will create a demand for better homes, he said.

A notable characteristic of the migration picture is the tendency on the part of people to live only on the average of six or seven years in the same house, Kennedy observed.

Khrush Plan On Disarming Is Not New

NEW YORK (AP) — The "total disarmament" speech by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev marked the third time in 32 years the Soviets have made virtually the same proposal.

Nothing came of the suggestion the first two times.

Maxim Litvinov, the late Soviet foreign minister, first proposed the abolition of armies and navies to the League of Nations in 1927. He offered the same plan to the World Disarmament Conference in Geneva in 1932.

As originally presented, the plan called for disbanding of all armed forces, ending all manufacture of armaments, and forbidding the issuance of patents on military devices.

The league's Preparatory Disarmament Commission ruled in 1929 that the plan was "outside its scope."

Distrust of the plan at the 1935 disarmament conference was reflected by Salvador de Madariaga, the Spanish delegate.

He told an anecdote of an animal disarmament conference.

In it, the lion looked at the eagle and said talons must be abolished. The tiger looked at the elephant and said tusks must be abolished. The elephant looked at the tiger and said jaws and claws must go.

"Thus each animal in turn," said De Madariaga, "proposed the abolition of weapons he did not have, until at last the bear rose up and said in tone's of sweet reasonableness:

" 'Comrades, let us abolish everything — everything but the great universal embrace.' "

Union Sued By Firm For Strike Loss

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Union Tank Car Co. filed suit Friday against Local No. 3, Union Tank Car Workers of America, seeking $70,000 for loss of customers and customer good will as a result of the union's strike against the company here.

The suit filed in U.S. District Court here charged the union violated its contract with the company by going on strike July 31 and remaining on strike to the present time.

The suit asks damages at the rate of $2,000 a day for the duration of the strike. To date, damages amount to $70,000, the company maintains.

The union contends the walkout over working conditions, is a legal one and does not violate its contract with the company. The strike has halted operations at the union tank repair and maintenance shops here.

The petition filed by company attorneys describes Union Tank Car Co. as one which "levys goods and materials from outside the state of Louisiana which are shipped into Louisiana of value exceeding $200,000 a year." At the local plant, the petition says, "plaintiff performs services on railroad tank cars used in interstate commerce of a value exceeding $1,600,000."

Of the plant's 96 employes, about 69 are union members, the suit claims.

If per chance you missed this column last week, it was because we welcomed a new member of the family, so I didn't write anything, and if I had I'm sure it would have made little or no sense at all. You see it was our first. One thing I did learn tho first hand. The camera still is very important to the sentimental—at least 15 new fathers were snapping their new youngsters with everything from Box Cameras to 16 mm movies. The camera most used was polaroid—I guess it was so they could see the results at once—I used a contaflex with isopan-recording using available light which wasn't much. The results were splendid—absolutely no grain. Good contrast and splendid detail—this has allowed me to show relatives all over the country what my son looks like. I suppose you could live without photography—But it would be difficult indeed.

FOR WORLD COMMUNISM

Khrushchev Losses May Exceed Gains

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev put on a spectacular show in his first whirlwind week in the United States, but he may have lost more than he gained for the cause of world communism.

It seems obvious from the Soviet premier's performance that his purpose has been to keep one jump ahead of the United States and the West in the great propaganda contest. But his United Nations speech probably represented far too big a jump.

Once the explosive headlines are forgotten and there has been an opportunity for sober reflection, the calculated unreality of the Soviet peace propaganda campaign likely will become more and more apparent.

The proposal for total disarmament — liquidation of all arms and armaments, is far from new. In fact, it is almost as old as gunpowder and as simple and fundamental as the human longing to live in peace.

Nobody, probably, is more aware of its unreality than Khrushchev himself. By his own testimony, such a thing is impossible in four or forty years, so long as a system he regards as inimical to the Soviet brand of communism remains in existence.

Khrushchev's employment of this simple formula, therefore, must be regarded as a gesture intended to be powerful by its meaningless in the light of Khrushchev's own expressed notions very simplicity.

Americans now drink 100 million, or 34 per cent, more cups of coffee a day than they did 10 years ago, according to the Pan-American Coffee Bureau, but they're only using 10 per cent more pounds of coffee.

URGE TO MOVE

Trend To Migrate Blankets Nation

NEW YORK (UPI) — This is a nation of movers. And this is one of the prime factors behind the home building boom.

One out of every five families—and these five families represent a record 36 million people—has moved to a new location during the last 12 months. While this migration trend involves 20 per cent of the population, housing studies show that actually 40 per cent of American families would like to move to better homes, according to David O'D. Kennedy, president of Kentile, Inc.

The people who migrate every year are about equally divided between those who move within the same state and those who settle in other states, government and private surveys showed.

The Kentile president listed the following as prime migration causes: substandard housing; new job opportunities and job relocations; overcrowded urban and suburban areas; larger families and new family formations; increased family income; demolition, disaster or abandonment of existing dwellings; retirement.

A powerful motivation in the migration picture, Kennedy asserted, is the nation's "rapidly deteriorating" housing inventory which reveals that nearly 56 million existing homes have a need for some degree of improvement.

Nearly nineteen and one-half years old; eight and one half million over 30 years old; 5,900,000 over 20 years old; nine and one half million over 10 years old, and 13,600,000 million from 1 to 9 years old

Pointing out that sales, professional, technical and kindred workers were among the most mobile occupational groups, Kennedy said these middle income groups have growing families and either must move or remodel their present homes for better living.

In this connection, he said that the big family trend now is a familiar part of the American landscape. Birth records show thousands more first babies, reflecting the upswing in marriages. And more families are welcoming third, fourth, fifth and sixth children.

Babies are checking in at the rate of 11,562 a day, or 482 hourly, which figures out to eight a minute.

Personal income now is at a record 376 billion dollars and this improvement in our living standard will create a demand for better homes, he said.

A notable characteristic of the migration picture is the tendency on the part of people to live only on the average of six or seven years in the same house, Kennedy observed.

Khrush Plan On Disarming Is Not New

NEW YORK (AP) — The "total disarmament" speech by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev marked the third time in 32 years the Soviets have made virtually the same proposal.

Nothing came of the suggestion the first two times.

Maxim Litvinov, the late Soviet foreign minister, first proposed the abolition of armies and navies to the League of Nations in 1927. He offered the same plan to the World Disarmament Conference in Geneva in 1932.

As originally presented, the plan called for disbanding of all armed forces, ending all manufacture of armamenis, and forbidding the issuance of patents on military devices.

The league's Preparatory Disarmament Commission ruled in 1929 that the plan was "outside its scope."

Distrust of the plan at the 1935 disarmament conference was reflected by Salvador de Madariaga, the Spanish delegate.

He told an anecdote of an animal disarmament conference.

In it, the lion looked at the eagle and said talons must be abolished. The tiger looked at the elephant and said tusks must be abolished. The elephant looked at the tiger and said jaws and claws must go.

"Thus each animal in turn," said De Madariaga, "proposed the abolition of weapons he did not have, until at last the bear rose up and said in tone's of sweet reasonableness:

"'Comrades, let us abolish everything — everything but the great universal embrace.'"

Union Sued By Firm For Strike Loss

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Union Tank Car Co. filed suit Friday against Local No. 3, Union Tank Car Workers of America, seeking $70,000 for loss of customers and customer good will as a result of the union's strike against the company here.

The suit filed in U.S. District Court here charged the union violated its contract with the company by going on strike July 31 and remaining on strike to the present time.

The suit asks damages at the rate of $2,000 a day for the duration of the strike. To date, damages amount to $70,000, the company maintains.

The union contends the walkout over working conditions, is a legal one and does not violate its contract with the company. The strike has halted operations at the union tank repair and maintenance shops here.

The petition filed by company attorneys describes Union Tank Car Co. as one which "levys goods and materials from outside the state of Louisiana which are shipped into Louisiana of value exceeding $200,000 a year." At the local plant, the petition says, "plaintiff performs services on railroad tank cars used in interstate commerce of a value exceeding $1,600,000."

Of the plant's 96 employes, about 69 are union members, the suit claims.

You see it was our first. One thing I did learn tho first hand. The camera still is very important to the sentimental—at least 15 new fathers were snapping their new youngsters with everything from Box Cameras to 16 mm movies. The camera most used was polaroid—I guess it was so they could see the results at once—I used a contaflex with isopan-recording using available light which wasn't much. The results were splendid—absolutely no grain. Good contrast and splendid detail—this has allowed me to show relatives all over the country what my son looks like. Congress Less Sure Of Powers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic 86th Congress that roared in with a political mandate in January went home this week less sure of its power:

Politically, the session demonstrated that:

—Not even top-heavy legislative majorities like those held by the Democrats in Senate and House necessarily spell victory against a "strong" opposition president. Republicans were unified by President Eisenhower's firmed up stand on key issues late in the session.

—Congress is not the best staging area for presidential candidates. All but one of the five most-mentioned Democratic presidential potentials are senators who found their campaign maneuverability restricted. Vice President Richard M. Nixon, whose Senate attendance need only be nominal and is uncomplicated by record votes, was less hampered.

Traditionally, both parties found something to crow about in the record. Democrats insisted this Congress was "responsible" throughout and former President Harry S. Truman called it "one of the greatest since World War II."

Senate GOP Policy Chairman Styles Bridges said, "the President's stout leadership, using his veto power as necessary and inviting cooperation from some Democrats, made it possible for Congress to do a good job." He said the Republicans "stood together more closely than in years."

Fattened by last November's landslide victory, the January Democratic majority stood at 64 to 34 Republicans in the Senate and 283 Democrats to 153 Republicans in the House. The Hawaiian elections made it 65 Democrats to 35 Republicans in the Senate and 284 Democrats (including one vacancy) to 153 Republicans in the House at the session's close.

Political drama marked the first session on its Jan. 7 opening day when Nixon squared off against Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson on a civil rights test.

Johnson, one of the Senate's four presidential possibilities, criticized Nixon for his free-wheeling advisory rulings on changing the anti-filibuster rule. But Nixon had been able to underline his own pro-civil rights position in the process.

Other presidential hopefuls worked to hammer out pre-convention legislative records which attracted national attention but limited their movements.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), the apparent Democratic front-runner, concentrated on developing an acceptable labor reform bill and shaping welfare legislation. His labor bill chore involved political risk as well as reward. Only an election could show the balance.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) worked on a broader front and perhaps spread his influence as well as his hazard. Humphrey tackled farm, foreign policy, labor-welfare and disarmament issues full tilt. His campaigning outside the Senate thereby suffered.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), less a working candidate than the others, was more on the Senate sidelines. He spoke often on defense, farm, and economic issues, but appeared to be pitching his presidential hopes of being tagged as a convention compromise. Many Democrats thought he had the right idea.

Johnson, as Senate majority leader, held the stage almost daily. Firmly declaring himself not a presidential contender, the Texan remained throughout the session as the prospect the middle-road Democrats thought most qualified but least likely to be nominated for geographic reasons.

Johnson suffered the loss of one of his major objectives—passage of a major civil rights bill before Congress goes into its presidential-election year meeting. The bill had to be put over until 1960, when it could further emphasize the Democratic Party split on this issue.

The man who came out of the 1959 session with the greatest political growth was a Republican—Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana. Named House minority leader in January, he helped Eisenhower put spark back into the GOP by gathering votes to uphold all but one presidential veto—on public works.

This performance put Halleck in the forefront of those who will be considered for the Republican vice presidential nomination next year.

Soviet Chief Shows Flair For Humor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev came to Hollywood Saturday, too late to invent the movies, but still in time to teach this land of the big boff and the rehearsed ad lib something about humor.

It would surprise no one if Milton Berle's gag-stealers began shadowing the Russian Premier's party.

After five intensive days on American soil, he has yet to suffer from over-exposure. He has yet to run out of material—the gag, the anecdote, the proverb—whether his straight man is a U.S. senator, ambassador, mayor, official greeter or reporter.

His timing is sharp, his delivery is sure, his style is enriched by the darting little eyes, the wagging pudgy finger and the wrestler's figure. His humor probably is helped by the fact that few Americans expect jokes out of the dark shadows of the Kremlin and stuffy Marxist dogma.

But the man is fast.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen: "Then you still have censorship in Russia?"

Khrushchev: "I wouldn't call it that."

Dirksen: "What would you call it?"

Khrushchev: "Think up your own name. You brought it up."

After a somewhat needling introduction by U.N Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the one-man "truth squad" charged with answering the Communist chief, Khrushchev responded leisurely with a slow, soft swipe:

"I appreciate Mr. Lodge's burden in accompanying me around the country. I am suffering, t But he is suffering. And the fact that he is suffering makes me suffer less."

Would the chairman of the Council of Ministers of the Soviet Union be willing to discuss East Germany while in the U.S.? No, he told a senator, adding, "talk to Grotewohl (premier there). His address is Berlin, if you wish to write him."

On the platform or in tight huddles with reporters, Khrushchev appears more relaxed than his needlers or questioners. His hand doesn't tremble. He doesn't fuss with his prepared text. If the sun gets in his eyes, he simply shades himself with his hat. If his hat gets in the way, he casually gets rid of it on the nearest brass pole —both of which he did when greeted by President Eisenhower at the airport.

At the government's experimental agricultural station in Beltsville, Md., Khrushchev noted that "you can't tell the difference between capitalist and communist turkeys without a passport." When a pig resisted measuring devices, he said, "see, he wants to keep his fat a military secret."

He called the reporters following him his "sputniks", he referred to a scotch and soda he didn't care for "spoiled water," and to two thousand top businessmen hearing him at the Economic Club in New York, he offered "good jobs at good salaries, with summer houses."

SIMPLE SOLUTION

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — Joseph B. Hilts, 65, reported to police that he'd been robbed of his car and $300. But at the police station, he found he still had his wallet and $115 in his pocket. Then he remembered that he'd spent the rest of the money.

The missing car was still a mystery — until police returned to the tavern from which Hilts had called them. There they found the parked auto. Then they arrested Hilts for drunkeness.

Ike's Winner On Most Of Nominations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the furor this year over nominations, most of those submitted by President Eisenhower were confirmed by the Senate.

Aside from such specific individuals as Clare Boothe Luce and Lewis L. Strauss, the principal controversy centered around the lag by the Senate Judiciary Committee in acting on judicial nominations. Some Republicans assailed the committee as a roadblock.

However, by the time the session came to an end early Tuesday, all but four of the judges nominated by Eisenhower had been confirmed.

The only nomination rejected was that of Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, to be secretary of commerce. After one of the bitterest battles of the session, the Senate refused by a 49-46 vote to confirm Strauss for the Cabinet post in which he was already serving.

At a news conference two days ago, Eisenhower said this was one of the biggest personal disappointments of the session to him.

Mrs. Luce was confirmed as ambassador to Brazil by a 79-vote but then refused the post, saying her usefulness had been impaired by the denunciations of her by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore)

Altogether, the Senate confirmed more than 40,000 presidential nominations during the session. The great bulk of them were routine promotions in the military services.

Of 1,531 postmaster nominations received by the Democratic-controlled Senate, 988 were confirmed, 3 were withdrawn, and 540 were not acted on. None was rejected.

Crash Injuries Prove Fatal For Henderson Man

LAFAYETTE, La. (UPI) —Joseph Stelly, 38, of Henderson, La., died here early today of injuries he received Friday in a highway accident near Port Barre.

State police reported Stelly received internal injuries when his car was hit by two empty gas trucks on U. S. 190. The police reported Stelly apparently ran an intersection stop sign and the truck drivers said they were unable to avoid hitting his car.

High Noon Ceremony Is Held In New Orleans

The Church of The Most Holy Name of Jesus in New Orleans was the setting Saturday, September 12 for the nuptial ceremony which united in marriage Miss Cynthia Lovejoy Robbins, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Peter Robbins Jr., to Robert Henderson Dever III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henderson Dever Jr. of Monroe, and Lexington, Kentucky.

The altar was decked with arrangements of white calla lilies and at the sanctuary gates were graduated columns topped with white urns of calla lilies, the sanctuary rail was encased with woodwardia ferns.

The bride entered the church with her father who gave her in marriage. She was dressed in a gown of silk mist taffeta and re-embroidered Alencon lace. The molded bodice featured a portrait neckline with appliques of the Alencon lace and long tapered sleeves. The very bouffant skirt was fashioned with an overskirt edged in the reembroidered lace. The underskirt was swept to the back to form cartridge pleats from which fell her cathedral train. The entire length of her train was outlined in Alencon lace. The bride's finger-tip veil of imported French illusion was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a garland cascade bouquet of white mystery gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Katherine Bergeret was the maid of honor, and Mrs. Bruce MacArthur of New York, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids included Misses Tommye Lou McMillion of McCombe Mississippi, Patricia Hanley, Donna Dale Trussell, another cousin of the bride, and Jean Owens Jeffers.

The attendants wore frocks of blue mist taffeta which featured a drop - shoulder neckline, and harem overskirt giving the back a bouffant look. Their headpieces were Juliet caps made from the same material as their dresses. They carried shower bouquets of maize tuberous begonias blending into tones of orange and copper.

The flower girl, Barbara Ann Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Cole of Natchez, Mississippi, wore a white batiste frock sashed in blue taffeta over a matching taffeta petticoat. Her headpiece was a miniature Juliet cap. She carried a white basket filled with roses in shades of maize, orange and copper.

Edwin Rudolph Woodman served as Mr. Dever's best man and the groomsmen and ushers included George Peter Robbins III, brother of the bride, Rene Murphy Crane Jr., Lewis Taylor Hardy, of this city, William Murtagh, Richard Ralph Hagen, Charles Lee Sens Jr., Gerald Spremich, Robert Emmet Jeffers, and Hunter Beall McFadden.

RECEPTION

The Orleans Club in upper St. Charles Avenue was the scene for a wedding reception which followed the ceremony. The formal drawing room was the setting for the receiving line. The young couple received their guests before the mantel adorned with arrangements of white roses and fugii mums and garlands of smilax. On each side were formal topiary trees of white flowers and greens, and elsewhere in the room were arrangements of magnolia foliage and calla lillies.

The bride's mother received her guests wearing a gown of Brussels lace in brown and beige. The beige bodice had a sweetheart neckline and three quarter sleeves. The brown sheath skirt was finished at the waistline with a crushed girdle of brown peau de soie and a handmade silk flower in tones of brown and beige. A small hat of beige peau de soie covered with appliques of the brown lace had a short brow veil studded in bronze beads. Her corsage was of hybrid orchids in shades of brown and green. She was assisted in receiving by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Dever, who chose for the occasion a gown of mauve lace and chiffon over taffeta. The lace and chiffon were draped to form a cowl neckline. The chiffon of the neckline extended into a drape that was caught at the waist and then fell in soft folds to the hemline of her waltz length skirt. Her accessories were of matching color, and her corsage was of white phalaenopsis orchids.

Later that afternoon the couple left on a short wedding trip. The bride traveled in a beige raw silk suit with a short jacket and a slim skirt. She wore a small mink colored velvet hat, and her shoes and bag were of matching brown alligator. Short off white gloves and a corsage of white orchids completed her costume.

Upon returning, the young couple will reside in Baton Rouge where Mr. Dever will complete his studies at Louisiana State University.

Place Setting

Many young women establishing their first home prefer to purchase glass by the place setting. The usual place setting consists of goblet, sherbert, juice, ice tea and salad plate. These basic pieces will be appropriate through any meal formal or informal. Each piece can do double duty. The goblet is suitable for water or iced drinks.

A sherbert glass may be used for seafood or fruit cocktails or as a wine glass. The juice glass serves parfait and other deserts. The ice tea can be used for any iced drink or milk. The plate may be used for salad, dessert, or under the sherbert for appetizers or dessert. Carried in open stock which means that place settings or individual glasses may be added at any time over a period of years.

Do you find it difficult to secure pants stretchers to your clothes line? The problem can be solved by using a shower curtain clamp. Hook the clamp through the cuff end of the stretcher and over the clothesline. Then, snap the clamp shut.

Annual Tea Given By League Of Women Voters

The League of Women Voters of Monroe welcomed a large group of visitors to its annual tea last Sunday September 13, in teh home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. McHenry 1203 Fairview Avenue.

Guests were welcomed by the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. McHenry, the president of the Monroe League, Mrs. J. Howard Carroll, and Mrs. Luther Branch, general chairman of the tea.

An especially interesting feature of this year's tea was the large number of men in attendance. Not only were there husbands of league members present, but a group of associate members. Associate members share in the functions and studies of the league, lacking only the privilege of voting on league issues.

Representatives of several nearby cities and towns were among the guests. A delegation from Columbia included Mrs. G. R. Adams, Mrs. J. D. Key, Mrs. H. C. Robinson, Mrs. S. W. Ellington, Mrs. L. B. Jarrell, Mrs. Courtland Fluitt, Mrs. Gilbert Jarrell, and Mrs. Bertha M. Pearce. Mrs. Hazel Landerneau came in from Rayville, Mr. and Mrs. Gail Gay from Oak Grove, while others were present from Ruston and Bastrop. Ruston has recently installed a league.

The McHenry home was decorated in fall colors and flowers. The living room was decorated with vases of roses and a large floral arrangement in autumn hues. In the dining room a centerpiece of deep - shaded orange gladioli and mums was placed on the serving table. Mrs. W. J. Veazey and her committee served refreshments of punch and cookies.

On the porch tables were set up by Mrs. Eugene Scott, treasurer, and her co - workers, to welcome new members as well as to receive membership renewals.

In the entrance hall Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein, board member, presided over the guest book. In addition to league members, their husbands and out-of-town guests there were included many from the political, religious and social life of Monroe.

ACHIEVE FLAVOR

If you like sour cream on fruit salad try adding a little frozen concentrated pineapple - orange juice to the cream for extra flavor. Use the concentrate just as it comes from the can, three tablespoons of it to a half-pint of the cream will be about right.

Don't put the children's plastic wading pool away yet. You can use it when you start your fall house cleaning. Wash your Venetian blinds in it. Just fill the pool with suds and hot water. After washing, let them drain and refill the pool with clear water for rinsing. Then hang them on the clothes line to dry. It will prevent dripping and splashing water over the house.

Couple United In Rayville Church Rites

The First Baptist Church in Rayville held pedestal baskets of white gladioli and pom pon chrysanthemums, cathedral tapers and pew markers of white and green smilax, Friday, September 11, for the wedding ceremony of Miss Betty Lena Bond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Laster Bond, to Max Livingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Livingston all of Rayville. Dr. H. R. Herrington performed the double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock in the evening. David Tschbald presented the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Bobby O'Connor, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of silk antique taffeta with deep Alencon lace yoke extending over the shoulders, long sleeves with points at the wrists and a solitaire neckline, the skirt ended in a full circuler court train. Her seeded pearl tiara held a fingertip veil. Her cascade bouquet of lily of the valley and stephanenotis, was centered with a white orchid.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Linda Harkness, maid of honor, was dressed in a white chiffon dress with satin insets at the waist. The only trim was a single satin rose at the waist.

Bridesmaids were Miss Dixie Livingston, Miss Ann Page, Miss Camille Clark and Miss Mamie Kovac. They wore identical dresses to the maid of honor and each carried a cascade of Rome Glory Roses. Patricia Patterson served as flower girl.

Mr. Livingston chose Wallace Livingston to serve as best man, while the groomsmen were Ben Newson, Kenneth Newsom, Johnny Bond and Bobby Livingston.

Mrs. Bond chose for her daughter's wedding a metallic blue crepe dress with matching slippers and a white sequin hat. Her corsage was of white stephanotis.

RECEPTION

The reception was held in the church parlors, decorated with baskets of white gladioli and pom pon mums.

The bride's table covered with a cut work cloth was centered with an arrangement of pink roses, flanked by cathedral tapers. The tiered cake and crystal punch bowl were used on either end of the table.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a teal blue silk and cotton costume suit with matching velvet hat. Her accessories were black. She wore the orchid from her bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Rayville.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Goodling, Gary, Billy and Paul Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bundrick and Paula all of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Julius McConnell, Dianne, Mary Tersia and Ruth of Springhill; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hawthorne, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harrell of West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Elton Nash, Winnfield; Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson and Martha, Ferriday; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Spurlock of Baton Rouge; Mrs. Leland Patterson, Jon Patricia, Forest Park, Georgia; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hicks, Urania; Mrs. Ruby Wishum, Mrs. R. T. TIME SAVER

Fresh fruits have been luscious and in abundance this summer which means that many homemakers have canned them for winter use. A helpful hint suggests that if you are canning pears, you remove the cores with a melon-ball cutter. This method saves time and makes the finished fruit more attractive.

Miss Wallace, J. O. Walker Pledge Vows

The Ridge Avenue Baptist Church in West Monroe was the scene of the wedding of Miss Eleanor Ruth Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wallace Jr. of West Monroe and Jerry Oleat Walker, son of Mrs. Jackie T. Walker of Alexandria on Saturday. Rev. Dewey Rockett, assisted by Rev. A. T. Mitchell officiated. The altar held baskets of white gladioli interspersed with jade foilage and branched candelabra holding white tapers.

Miss Delores Everritt, organist played the program of nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Ronald Minnick of Alexandria, who sang, "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of lace over slipper satin, featuring a low neckline, long fitted sleeves and fitted bodice attached to a full sweeping skirt. The fingertip length nylon tulle veil was held in place by a pearl encrusted tiara. Her bouquet was fashioned of stephanotis with cascading white ribbons carried on a white Bible.

Miss Rebecca Wallace, maid of honor, and bridesmaid, Mrs. Ronald Minnick of Alexandria, wore identical dresses of ice blue crystalline satin fashioned with low neckline and brief sleeves. The fitted bodices were attached to flowing skirts. Circular headpieces of light blue tulle, short mitts and matching slippers completed their costumes. They each carried a nosegay. Frances Roberts of Alexandria wore a diminutive copy of the bridesmaids' dresses and served as flower girl.

Harold S. Flurry of Homer served as best man. Groomsmen were Jesse Bergeron and Ronald Minnick of Alexandria.

Ushers were Barney Breecheen of Alexandria and John Marshall Robert of Alexandria.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Wallace, wore a light brown two piece sheath dress with matching accessories and corsage of white stephanotis.

The couple will make their home in Jennings.

The bride has completed three years of study in nursing at Northwestern State College in Natchitoches. The bridegroom is a graduate of Northwestern State College where he received his B. A. degree in Speech and Hearing Therapy.

Tea Ushers In A.A.U.W. Activities For Season

The home of Mrs. Lewis Slater on Wood street was the scene of a tea Saturday which ushered in the A.A.U.W. activities for the 1959-60 season.

Hostesses for the occasion were the officers who are president, Miss Mary Alma Tompkins; vice-president, Mrs. Anthony Wilbert; secretary, Miss Hermione Driskell; Treasurer, Miss Annis Klie; Historian, Miss May Coker; and Parliamentarian, Mrs. H. B. McClendon.

Members of the A. A. U. W and guests called between the hours of four and six. Guests were greeted at the door by the president, Miss Tompkins, and by the other hostesses. Mrs. Slater assisted in the courtesies.

Mrs. J. J. Barnes and Mrs. Clarence Ball invited guests into the dining room. A cutwork cloth covered the table, which was centered with an arrangment of fall flowers in a silver bowl. Miss May Coker and Mrs. Anthony Wilbert alternated at the silver service.

Others who assisted during the afternoon were Miss Mabel Lann, membership chairman, Mrs. L. E. Hayden, and Mrs. James Camp.

If you happen to be making new bathroom curtains for the fall, save the left - over material. You can put it to good use. For example, it will come in handy in saving bath and hand towels that have become frayed around the edges. Bind those edges with bias strips cut from your remaining curtain fabric. It rejuvenates the towels and pretties up the bathroom.

Couple United In Rayville Church Rites

The First Baptist Church in Rayville held pedestal baskets of white gladioli and pom pon chrysanthemums, cathedral tapers and pew markers of white and green smilax, Friday, September 11, for the wedding ceremony of Miss Betty Lena Bond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Laster Bond, to Max Livingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Livingston all of Rayville. Dr. H. R. Herrington performed the double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock in the evening. David Tschbald presented the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Bobby O'Connor, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of silk antique taffeta with deep Alencon lace yoke extending over the shoulders, long sleeves with points at the wrists and a solitaire neckline, the skirt ended in a full circuler court train. Her seeded pearl tiara held a fingertip veil. Her cascade bouquet of lily of the valley and stephanotis, was centered with a white orchid.

MRS. MAX LIVINGSTON

ATTENDANTS

Miss Linda Harkness, maid of honor, was dressed in a white chiffon dress with satin insets at the waist. The only trim was a single satin rose at the waist.

Bridesmaids were Miss Dixie Livingston, Miss Ann Page, Miss Camille Clark and Miss Mamie Kovac. They wore identical dresses to the maid of honor and each carried a cascade of Rome Glory Roses. Patricia Patterson served as flower girl.

Mr. Livingston chose Wallace Livingston to serve as best man, while the groomsmen were Ben Newson, Kenneth Newsom, Johnny Bond and Bobby Livingston.

Mrs. Bond chose for her daughter's wedding a metallic blue crepe dress with matching slippers and a white sequin hat. Her corsage was of white stephanotis.

RECEPTION

The reception was held in the church parlors, decorated with baskets of white gladioli and pom pon mums.

The bride's table covered with a cut work cloth was centered with an arrangement of pink roses, flanked by cathedral tapers. The tiered cake and crystal punch bowl were used on either end of the table.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a teal blue silk and cotton costume suit with matching velvet hat. Her accessories were black. She wore the orchid from her bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Rayville.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Goodling, Gary, Billy and Paul Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bundrick and Paula all of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Julius McConnell, Dianne, Mary Tersia and Ruth of Springhill; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hawthorne, Mr. and Mrs. J. TIME SAVER

Fresh fruits have been luscious and in abundance this summer which means that many homemakers have canned them for winter use. A helpful hint suggests that if you are canning pears, you remove the cores with a melon-ball cutter. This method saves time and makes the finished fruit more attractive.

Miss Wallace, J. O. Walker Pledge Vows

The Ridge Avenue Baptist Church in West Monroe was the scene of the wedding of Miss Eleanor Ruth Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wallace Jr. of West Monroe and Jerry Oleat Walker, son of Mrs. Jackie T. Walker of Alexandria on Saturday. Rev. Dewey Rockett, assisted by Rev. A. T. Mitchell officiated. The altar held baskets of white gladioli interspersed with jade foilage and branched candelabra holding white tapers.

Miss Delores Everritt, organist played the program of nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Ronald Minnick of Alexandria, who sang, "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of lace over slipper satin, featuring a low neckline, long fitted sleeves and fitted bodice attached to a full sweeping skirt. The fingertip length nylon tulle veil was held in place by a pearl encrusted tiara. Her bouquet was fashioned of stephanotis with cascading white ribbons carried on a white Bible.

MR. AND MRS. LARRY ALFORD

Afternoon Ceremony Held In Parkview Church For Miss Ruple, L. E. Haynes

The Parkview Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Billie Ann Ruple and Larry Eugene Haynes on September 6 at 4 p.m. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ruple and he is the son of Mrs. Dan Baucum Jr. of Magnolia, Arkansas, and the late Torby Haynes of Lake Village, Arkansas.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of the two families with the Reverend H. L. Sampson officiating. The vows were repeated before an altar of white tapers in gold candelabra forming a cathedral arch with greenery interspersed and flanked with tall gold baskets of white gladioli and greenery.

Mrs. William Wilkerson presented the nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white faille styled along princess lines. A wide V shaped yoke extending into short cap sleeves, overlaid with embroidered organza formed a portrait neckline. The voluminous skirt fashioned with godeys from the waist to hemline were overlaid with embroidered organza. A tiered circular fingertip veil of imported silk illusion fell from a Juliet cap covered with an intricate design of seed pearls and silk tubing. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of feathered white carnations atop a white lace covered Bible, showered with narrow white satin ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Jerry Adams of Ruston, sister of the bride, served as her only attendant. She wore a street length gold silk chiffon shirtwaist dress with wide collar, three quarter length sleeves, and pleated skirt. Her cascade bouquet was of wheat colored fugi chrysanthemums with loops of metallic gold ribbon and net. She wore a small close fitting hat of beige silk and seed pearls, with beige accessories.

Carl Morgan of Shreveport served as best man. Ushers were Jerry Adams of Ruston and Charles James Stagg of Alexandria.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ruple chose an amber wool chiffon sheath dress with front drape featuring a bateau neckline and three quarter length sleeves. Her accessories were of golden brown suede with matching feather pill box hat and beige kid gloves. She wore a corsage of wheat colored feathered fugi mums. Mrs. Baucum, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a dark green crepe dress and jacket ensemble featuring a beaded collar. She wore a black feather hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was identical to that of the bride's mother.

Out of town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Adams, Mr. and Mrs. William Ledoux, Mr. and Mrs. John Stormont, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart, and Miss Jan McLane all of Ruston; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bauman, Columbia; Miss Ann Dodson and Dixie; Mrs. Jane Lord; Mrs. Charles W. Frazier; Charles William Frazier and Dee Anna Frazier of Baskin; Dr. and Mrs. William G. Vernon, Robert Vernon, Jim Stagg and Miss Bobbie Sue Cross all of Alexandria; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Baucum, Jr. Magnolia, Arkansas; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Morgan, Shreveport; Miss Jerrie Smith, Taylor, Arkansas; Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Haynes, Emerson, Arkansas; Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Hassell Haynes, all of Shongaloo.

The bayou home of the Thomas W. Davenports was the scene of a reception following the ceremony. Miss Mary Jo Davenport and Thomas W. Davenport Jr. assisted in the courtesies. The bride's table, covered with a hand drawn Irish linen cloth, was centered with a nine branched silver candelabra entwined with white stock and rosebuds. On opposite ends of the table were the bride's cake, on a reflector, topped with three satin wedding bells and the large ornate crystal punch bowl from which punch was served by Mrs. William Ledoux and Miss Jan McLane. Mrs. John Stormant and Miss Ann Dodson served the wedding cake. All wore corsages of white pompon mums. A buffet supper was served from the buffet which held a pair of crystal hurricane lamps.

Mrs. Carl Morgan presided at the guest book.

Dee Anna Frazier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Frazier, of Baskin, a cousin of the bride, distributed tiny rice bags of gold net. She wore a turquoise cotton dress with a full gathered skirt, and tiny puffed sleeves with a bandeau of turquoise covered with tiny flowers and a feathered white carnation corsage.

The bride chose for her wedding trip a beige tissue worsted flannel suit featuring a fitted jacket. Her hat was a beige feather cloche with other accessories of dark brown leather. She wore a white carnation corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School and Louisiana Tech where she received her B. S. degree in secretarial science. Her sorority is Keppa Delta. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Jane Lord and the late Claude Lord of Baskin, and the late Mr. and Mrs. George B. Ruple of Haynesville. The bridegroom is a graduate of Magnolia High School and is attending Louisiana Tech. His fraternity is Tau Kappa Epsilon.

A rehearsal buffet luncheon was held at noon on the wedding day in the social room of the church.

An arrangement of bronze mums centered the luncheon table. Miss Jerri Smith and Mrs. Carl Morgan assisted in serving.

The bride-elect was dressed in a black cotton polka dotted dress and wide collared matching jacket with black accessories.

The couple presented gifts to their attendants at this time.

Those attending with the honorees were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ruple, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Adams, Jim Stagg, Miss Bobbie Sue Cross, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Morgan and Miss Jerri Smith.

Alford, Johnson Wedding Vows Are Pledged

The Conway Baptist Church, north of Farmerville, was the scene of a wedding ceremony on Saturday evening Aug. 29 at 6 o'clock which united Miss Robbie Dale Johnson and Larry Alford. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Elton Johnson and Mr. Alford is the son of Mrs. A. L. Crenshaw.

The ceremony was performed by evangelist Billy H. Orton, brother-in-law, of the bride.

Reverend Ted Lann at the organ and Mrs. Lann, soloist, presented the nuptial music.

The altar was formed by a background of greenery banked with floor standards of white gladioli and mums. The entire scene was lighted by tall white tapers in branched candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace, its fitted lace bodice featuring a scalloped neckline, trimmed in pearls and sequins. The long sleeves tapered to points at the wrists and the flowing antibellum skirt was of layers of nylon tulle and lace. A coronet of seed pearls and sequins held her veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Billy Orton was her sister's matron of honor. She was dressed in ice blue embroidered taffeta made with a bouffant skirt and tiny sleeves. A cummerbund of blue silk chiffon formed a panel which flowed to the hemline in the back. She carried a crescent shaped arrangement of pink carnations. Miss Patsy Traylor, cousin of the bride, and Miss Nell Odom were bridesmaids. Their dresses were identical to the honor attendant's and they carried crescent shaped bouquets of pink roses. All the attendants wore halo veils of matching blue net. Pamela Forbes was flower girl. She was dressed identically to the bridesmaids and carried a basket of silver net from which she scattered flower petals in the path of the bride. Sherry Brasher, who was also dressed in ice blue taffeta, and Reggie Albritton, both cousins of the bride, were ringbearers. Candle lighters were Don Auger and Jimmy Rogers. They also served as ushers and groomsmen. Lathe Alford served his brother as best man.

Mrs. Johnson chose a rose pink lace dress for her daughter's wedding. She wore a pink feather hat with pink accessories and her corsage was of green cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Crenshaw, the gridegroom's mother, chose a blue lace dress with navy hat and shoes and a corsage of white cymbidium orchids.

REHEARSAL

A reception followed the ceremony at the pastorium of the Conway Church.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over pink and was lighted by tall pink tapers and centered with the bride's bouquet. The tiered wedding cake was decorated with tiny pink roses, and topped by a miniature bridal couple.

Assisting in the serving courtesies were Mrs. Bobby Yarborough and Mrs. Glen Barron. Mrs. Carvin Albritton presided at the bride's book.

After a wedding trip to the Ozarks, Mr. and Mrs. Alford will make their home in Baton Rouge, where he will continue his studies at Louisiana State University. The bride traveled in a navy sheath dress with a navy and white jacket and navy accessories. She wore the orchid from her wedding bouquet at her shoulder.

SUPPER

The bride's parents were hosts at a supper in their new home for the wedding party following rehearsal on Friday evening. Mrs. Darvin Albritton and Mrs. Mattie Lou Griffin assisted in serving the guests from the beautifully appointed table in the dining room. The bride-elect and the bridegroom-to-be chose this occasion to present gifts to their attendants.

Louis Sterns Have Florida Wedding Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Pincus Gardsbane of Tallulah announce the marriage of their daughter, Janice Sue Gardsbane, to Dr. Louis H. Stern of New Orleans.

The marriage was solemnized Friday, September 4th in the late afternoon in the Henry Stern suite of the Pontchartrain Hotel in New Orleans, with members of the immediate family present. The bride's sister, Miss Phyllis Gardsbane, was the maid of honor and Dr. Charles Stern served his brother as best man.

Dr. Stern, son of Mrs. Rachel Stern of Shreveport, received his Bachelor of Science Degree at LSU and his M. D. degree from Louisiana State Medical School. He interned at the Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D. C. He is presently continuing specialty training in pathology at Charity Hospital in New Orleans.

Among the scholastic honors which he has received are memberships in Phi Kappa Phi and Alpha Omega Alpha honorary fraternities, Lederle student research grant and the American research grant. The bride was a former student of Byrd High School of Shreveport and graduated from Tallulah High School. She recently graduated from the Touro School of Nursing in New Orleans.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the young couple will reside in New Orleans.

MRS. LOUIS H. STERN

MODEL THEATER

NEW YORK (AP) — Allan A. Buckhantz is producing "Happy Town" for Broadway after extra-elaborate preparation.

Buckhantz, at work on the idea 2½ years, built in his office a half - inch scale model of the stage on which he visualized the musical. It was equipped with a lightboard to demonstrate theatrical effects, had a real fly gallery, with ropes, pulleys and cleats, and automatically revolving turntables.

"Better than electric trains," commented the producer. "But the theater is the most extravagant plaything in the world."

Mott - May Wedding Held In Clarks Home

The home of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Jones in Clarks was the scene of a quiet ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Bettye May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie May of Clarks, and James Mott, Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mott of Hebert.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul Jones at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, on Saturday in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

Arrangements of summer flowers were placed throughout the reception rooms.

The bride was dressed in a pastel blue embroidered silk lace over taffeta, with white accessories.

Mrs. May, mother of the bride, chose navy blue with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Mott wore a linen sheath.

Immediately after the wedding a reception was given in the home of the bride.

After a short wedding to points of interest in Mississippi, the young couple will make their home in Hebert.

A new sterling silver pattern has a "look through" handle. The handle is a long, slim triangular shape cut out in the center. The tablecloth is meant to become part of the silver pattern.

A cummerbund of blue silk chiffon formed a panel which flowed to the hemline in the back. She carried a crescent shaped arrangement of pink carnations. Miss Patsy Traylor, cousin of the bride, and Miss Nell Odom were bridesmaids. Their dresses were identical to the honor attendant's and they carried crescent shaped bouquets of pink roses. All the attendants wore halo veils of matching blue net. Pamela Forbes was flower girl. She was dressed identically to the bridesmaids and carried a basket of silver net from which she scattered flower petals in the path of the bride. Sherry Brasher, who was also dressed in ice blue taffeta, and Reggie Albritton, both cousins of the bride, were ringbearers. Candle lighters were Don Auger and Jimmy Rogers. They also served as ushers and groomsmen. Lathe Alford served his brother as best man.

Mrs. Johnson chose a rose pink lace dress for her daughter's wedding. She wore a pink feather hat with pink accessories and her corsage was of green cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Crenshaw, the gridegroom's mother, chose a blue lace dress with navy hat and shoes and a corsage of white cymbidium orchids.

REHEARSAL

A reception followed the ceremony at the pastorium of the Conway Church.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over pink and was lighted by tall pink tapers and centered with the bride's bouquet. The tiered wedding cake was decorated with tiny pink roses, and topped by a miniature bridal couple.

Assisting in the serving courtesies were Mrs. Bobby Yarborough and Mrs. Glen Barron. Mrs. Carvin Albritton presided at the bride's book.

After a wedding trip to the Ozarks, Mr. and Mrs. Alford will make their home in Baton Rouge, where he will continue his studies at Louisiana State University. The bride traveled in a navy sheath dress with a navy and white jacket and navy accessories. She wore the orchid from her wedding bouquet at her shoulder.

SUPPER

The bride's parents were hosts at a supper in their new home for the wedding party following rehearsal on Friday evening. Mrs. Darvin Albritton and Mrs. Mattie Lou Griffin assisted in serving the guests from the beautifully appointed table in the dining room. The bride-elect and the bridegroom-to-be chose this occasion to present gifts to their attendants.

Louis Sterns Have Florida Wedding Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Pincus Gardsbane of Tallulah announce the marriage of their daughter, Janice Sue Gardsbane, to Dr. Louis H. Stern of New Orleans.

The marriage was solemnized Friday, September 4th in the late afternoon in the Henry Stern suite of the Pontchartrain Hotel in New Orleans, with members of the immediate family present. The bride's sister, Miss Phyllis Gardsbane, was the maid of honor and Dr. Charles Stern served his brother as best man.

Dr. Stern, son of Mrs. Rachel Stern of Shreveport, received his Bachelor of Science Degree at LSU and his M. D. degree from Louisiana State Medical School. He interned at the Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D. C. He is presently continuing specialty training in pathology at Charity Hospital in New Orleans.

Among the scholastic honors which he has received are memberships in Phi Kappa Phi and Alpha Omega Alpha honorary fraternities, Lederle student research grant and the American research grant. The bride was a former student of Byrd High School of Shreveport and graduated from Tallulah High School. She recently graduated from the Touro School of Nursing in New Orleans.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the young couple will reside in New Orleans.

MODEL THEATER

NEW YORK (AP) — Allan A. Buckhantz is producing "Happy Town" for Broadway after extra-elaborate preparation.

Buckhantz, at work on the idea 2½ years, built in his office a half - inch scale model of the stage on which he visualized the musical. It was equipped with a lightboard to demonstrate theatrical effects, had a real fly gallery, with ropes, pulleys and cleats, and automatically revolving turntables.

"Better than electric trains," commented the producer. "But the theater is the most extravagant plaything in the world."

Mott - May Wedding Held In Clarks Home

The home of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Jones in Clarks was the scene of a quiet ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Bettye May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie May of Clarks, and James Mott, Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mott of Hebert.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul Jones at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, on Saturday in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

Arrangements of summer flowers were placed throughout the reception rooms.

The bride was dressed in a pastel blue embroidered silk lace over taffeta, with white accessories.

Mrs. May, mother of the bride, chose navy blue with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Mott wore a linen sheath.

Immediately after the wedding a reception was given in the home of the bride.

After a short wedding to points of interest in Mississippi, the young couple will make their home in Hebert.

A new sterling silver pattern has a "look through" handle. The handle is a long, slim triangular shape cut out in the center. The tablecloth is meant to become part of the silver pattern.

Afternoon Ceremony Held In Parkview Church For Miss Ruple, L. E. Haynes

The Parkview Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Billie Ann Ruple and Larry Eugene Haynes on September 6 at 4 p.m. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ruple and he is the son of Mrs. Dan Baucum Jr. of Magnolia, Arkansas, and the late Torby Haynes of Lake Village, Arkansas.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of the two families with the Reverend H. L. Sampson officiating. The vows were repeated before an altar of white tapers in gold candelabra forming a cathedral arch with greenery interspersed and flanked with tall gold baskets of white gladioli and greenery.

Mrs. William Wilkerson presented the nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white faille styled along princess lines. A wide V shaped yoke extending into short cap sleeves, overlaid with embroidered organza formed a portrait neckline. The voluminous skirt fashioned with godeys from the waist to hemline were overlaid with embroidered organza. A tiered circular fingertip veil of imported silk illusion fell from a Juliet cap covered with an intricate design of seed pearls and silk tubing. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of feathered white carnations atop a white lace covered Bible, showered with narrow white satin ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Jerry Adams of Ruston, sister of the bride, served as her only attendant. She wore a street length gold silk chiffon shirtwaist dress with wide collar, three quarter length sleeves, and pleated skirt. Her cascade bouquet was of wheat colored fugi chrysanthemums with loops of metallic gold ribbon and net. She wore a small close fitting hat of beige silk and seed pearls, with beige accessories.

Carl Morgan of Shreveport served as best man. Ushers were Jerry Adams of Ruston and Charles James Stagg of Alexandria.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ruple chose an amber wool chiffon sheath dress with front drape featuring a bateau neckline and three quarter length sleeves. Her accessories were of golden brown suede with matching feather pill box hat and beige kid gloves. She wore a corsage of wheat colored feathered fugi mums. Mrs. Baucum, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a dark green crepe dress and jacket ensemble featuring a beaded collar. She wore a black feather hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was identical to that of the bride's mother.

Out of town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Adams, Mr. and Mrs. William Ledoux, Mr. and Mrs. John Stormont, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart, and Miss Jan McLane all of Ruston; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bauman, Columbia; Miss Ann Dodson and Dixie; Mrs. Jane Lord; Mrs. Charles W. Frazier; Charles William Frazier and Dee Anna Frazier of Baskin; Dr. and Mrs. William G. Vernon, Robert Vernon, Jim Stagg and Miss Bobbie Sue Cross all of Alexandria; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Baucum, Jr. Magnolia, Arkansas; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Morgan, Shreveport; Miss Jerrie Smith, Taylor, Arkansas; Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Haynes, Emerson, Arkansas; Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Hassell Haynes, all of Shongaloo.

The bayou home of the Thomas W. Davenports was the scene of a reception following the ceremony. Miss Mary Jo Davenport and Thomas W. Davenport Jr. assisted in the courtesies. The bride's table, covered with a hand drawn Irish linen cloth, was centered with a nine branched silver candelabra entwined with white stock and rosebuds. On opposite ends of the table were the bride's cake, on a reflector, topped with three satin wedding bells and the large ornate crystal punch bowl from which punch was served by Mrs. William Ledoux and Miss Jan McLane. Mrs. John Stormant and Miss Ann Dodson served the wedding cake. All wore corsages of white pompon mums. A buffet supper was served from the buffet which held a pair of crystal hurricane lamps.

Mrs. Carl Morgan presided at the guest book.

Dee Anna Frazier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Frazier held at noon on the wedding day in the social room of the church.

An arrangement of bronze mums centered the luncheon table. Miss Jerri Smith and Mrs. Carl Morgan assisted in serving.

The bride-elect was dressed in a black cotton polka dotted dress and wide collared matching jacket with black accessories.

The couple presented gifts to their attendants at this time.

Those attending with the honorees were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ruple, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Adams, Jim Stagg, Miss Bobbie Sue Cross, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Morgan and Miss Jerri Smith.

Come Fetch Supper Given Pilot Club By Mrs. Riddle

Mrs. James N. Riddle was hostess at the September program meeting of the Pilot Club International of Monroe when the members met for a "Come Fetch" supper in her home on Rapides Street Tuesday night.

The buffet supper was served on the porch overlooking the garden. Guests were seated at small tables centered with arrangements of pink hibiscus. Supper was served from a glass top table which held an unusual "back to school" dried arrangement with ruler, notebook and scissors interspersed in the flowers.

Assisting Mrs. Riddle in the courtesies was Mrs. Ross Coats, chairman of the club service committee who had charge of the affair. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Frank Parker, Mrs. Warren Harker, Miss Nona Martin, Mrs. Hattie Strauss, Mrs. George Breese, and Mrs. M. D. Garlington.

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president, conducted the meeting which followed the supper. Mrs. Breese introduced Dr. Paul Cook, Chief Dental School Health Section State Department of Health who spoke on "Dental Care for Children," a project of the club. A discussion followed the talk.

Mrs. Tisdale was appointed to represent the club at the Business and Professional Women's Club Banquet at the Highland Park Country Club on Tuesday, October 6.

Birthday corsages were presented Mrs. W. F. Latham, Mrs. Coates, and Miss Ida Rose Strohm.

In addition to Dr. Cook other guests introduced were Mr. and Mrs. Otha Trapp.

Members present were Mrs. A. M. Barrett, Mrs. Harker, Miss Hermione Driskell, Miss Katie McGee, Mrs. Alyne Newsome, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mrs. Coates, Mrs. Tisdale, Mrs. Breese, Miss Helen Benoit, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. H. M. Chatham, Mr. H. C. Thompson, Mrs. Zera Edwards, Mrs. Valleye Willis, Mrs. Louis Mockabee, Mrs. Latham, Mrs. W. L. Moore, Miss Strohm and Mrs. Riddle.

Skip the starvation diets and the gimmicks. Eat three meals a day, but cut the portions to keep within the calorie budget you've set for yourself.

The calorie cost of what you do in a day's time, over a month and over the years, figures, too.

Dr. Herbert Pollack, of the New York University Postgraduate School of Medicine, says remember that labor - saving devices cause you to spend less and less energy.

"Not too long ago, the housewife spent 240 calories scrubbing the family wash and another 50 calories hauling it to the line. Today, dumping the clothes into the automatic washer and tapping a button takes no more than 15 calories."

Group Of Small Pictures Is Trick For Blank Wall

By BETTY PEPIS

Q. — Our twenty - two by eleven recreation room has turquoise vinyl flooring with touches of black and white. Walls are panelled in light wood, ceiling is white. Draw draperies on windows are turquoise, black and white checks. We have two new white plastic occasional chairs with black wood legs. Our problem is what to do with our mahogany television set and a maple cabinet with glass doors on top. We would like a game area with four chairs and table and are puzzled about what kind to get.

A. — Lacquer both the television set and the maple cabinet making them both black to harmonize with what sounds like an extremely attractive room. Paint the inside of the cabinet, behind the glass doors, turquoise. Buy a marble topped, metal based old ice cream parlor table on a pedestal and get wire ice - cream parlor chairs in black.

Q. — In my living room I have a medium green rug. Two lamp tables, coffee table and bookcase are light birch. Lamps are white, modern, and have white shades. I am planning to buy a new sofa and two new chairs and would like a striking and modern color scheme.

A. — Try a blue and green scheme. This is quite in vogue at the moment. Walls and woodwork can match the green rug. Sofa could be covered in royal blue and two new chairs covered to match each other in emerald green. Draperies should match walls but could be trimmed with ball fringe in blue of the sofa.

Q. — I have a rather large living room with a lot of blank walls which I do not know how to treat. I've thought of pictures but don't want the room to look like a picture gallery. I have a large sofa above which I would like to put something and a long side wall above low bookcases. I would like to use adhesive picture hooks wherever possible since these are typical apartment house walls and anything heavy will not hold.

A. — Try an arrangement of small pictures over the sofa instead of using a large one. This is a favorite decorators trick for covering a dull wall. Since small pictures are light, adhesive hooks will hold them. Then use no more pictures in the room. Almost anything else will have to be fastened directly to the wall. Above the bookcases, I would suggest a lavebo filled with green leaves and flanked on both sides by wiry brass wall sconces made to hold candles rather than wired for electricity. Light the candles on festive evenings for a romantic touch.

Q. We have a long narrow kitchen widening at the work area. I want to put wood panelling along the long wall side. Cabinets are birch. Should I use birch panelling or would I be better off with a contrast?

A. — By all means stick to the birch and try to finish it as nearly like the existing cabinets as possible.

PTA Theme Is 'Strengthening The Home'

The theme of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers for the new administration is, "Strengthening the Home — The Source of Our Nation's Greatness," was emphasized at the September meeting of the Millsaps P. T. A. by Rev. Ory Miller, Character and Spiritual Education chairman.

Mrs. C. E. Feazel, cafeteria manager, gave an informative talk on the school lunch program. She cited the fact that Louisiana had one of the most outstanding lunch programs in the nation. She also pointed out that one-third of the child's daily food requirements would be met if they participated in the school lunch program.

Mrs. Willis Martin, program chairman, announced the October meeting will be a panel discussion on child discipline and will be held at 7:30 p.m. October 8. She urged all parents, and especially the fathers to attend.

Faculty members were introduced by principal Gene Hardin. He also announced the innovation of Parent - Teacher conferencing would be instituted this year. These conferences will be held in consecutive order on different nights beginning with Grade One. Both parents are urged to attend these conferences.

Routine reports were given by standing chairmen. Membership, Mrs. Ernest Grubbs reported 196 members; magazine, Mrs. Donald Elliott; budget and finance Mrs. Dock F. Brown; ways and means, Mrs. Rolan R. Procell announced plans for a carnival this year and urged all who would like to contribute time or material to contact her at once; treasurer, Mrs. James H. Kelly; and Civil Desense, Mrs. Raymond Estep.

Mrs. C. M. Eaker, president announced the Ouachita Parish School of Instruction to be held at Claiborne School October 12. She also urged members to attend the fall district conference at Crosley School October 7. Featured speaker will be Mrs. W. B. Myrick, State P. T. A. president.

Attendance count was won by Mrs. Culpepper's irst grade room. Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. L. Hattaway, hospitality chairman.

MISS DOROTHY LEE WHITE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee White of Pomona, Calif., and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hines of Start, and Jimmie Lee Fuller will be married on October 2 at Crew Lake Methodist Church at 6 p.m. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Capus Fuller of Start. The Rev. Donald Thrash will perform the ceremony.

European Music Festivals Is Topic For Opera Club

First meeting of the Opera Club for the year was held in the home of Mrs. R. W. Cretney, with Mrs. R. O. Ware, cohostess. Dessert was served by the hostesses preceding the meeting:

A short business meeting was held, after which the meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. Ware, who introduced the guest, Miss Emmy Lou Biedenharn. Miss Biedenharn chose for her subject "Musical Festivals of Europe."

She described the famous festival of Wagner's music at Bayreuth as the "Queen of Festivals."

Other festivals mentioned by Miss Biedenharn were Salzburg, Aspen, Vienna, Edinburgh, and in our own country, Tanglewood and Dallas. In speaking of the Dallas festival, she announced on October 25, Dallas, Texas, will open its first fall festival of music, art, and drama in which both graphic and performing arts will be represented. The biggest attraction of the festivals music program will be Maria Callas singing the soprano roles of Lucia de Lammermoor and the Barber of Seville. There will also be orchestra concerts by the Dallas Symphony, chamber music and recitals.

Other festival events will include the opening of the new Frank Lloyd Wright building of the Dallas Theatre Center School; the opening of the new quarters of the Dallas Museum and contemporary arts and exhibitions in the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts and Hall of State.

Members present for the program were Mrs. Cretney, Mrs. Lee Hodges, Mrs. J. C. Jacobs, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. Paul Newman, Mrs. Merle Padgett, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. John Sholars, Mrs. Duncan Smith, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. Ware and a guest, Mrs. Jack Kimbel.

Group Of Small Pictures Is Trick For Blank Wall

By BETTY PEPIS

Q. — Our twenty - two by eleven recreation room has turquoise vinyl flooring with touches of black and white. Walls are panelled in light wood, ceiling is white. Draw draperies on windows are turquoise, black and white checks. We have two new white plastic occasional chairs with black wood legs. Our problem is what to do with our mahogany television set and a maple cabinet with glass doors on top. We would like a game area with four chairs and table and are puzzled about what kind to get.

A. — Lacquer both the television set and the maple cabinet making them both black to harmonize with what sounds like an extremely attractive room. Paint the inside of the cabinet, behind the glass doors, turquoise. Buy a marble topped, metal based old ice cream parlor table on a pedestal and get wire ice - cream parlor chairs in black.

Q. — In my living room I have a medium green rug. Two lamp tables, coffee table and bookcase are light birch. Lamps are white, modern, and have white shades. I am planning to buy a new sofa and two new chairs and would like a striking and modern color scheme.

A. — Try a blue and green scheme. This is quite in vogue at the moment. Walls and woodwork can match the green rug. Sofa could be covered in royal blue and two new chairs covered to match each other in emerald green. Draperies should match walls but could be trimmed with ball fringe in blue of the sofa.

Q. — I have a rather large living room with a lot of blank walls which I do not know how to treat. I've thought of pictures but don't want the room to look like a picture gallery. I have a large sofa above which I would like to put something and a long side wall above low bookcases. I would like to use adhesive picture hooks wherever possible since these are typical apartment house walls and anything heavy will not hold.

A. — Try an arrangement of small pictures over the sofa instead of using a large one. This is a favorite decorators trick for covering a dull wall. Since small pictures are light, adhesive hooks will hold them. Then use no more pictures in the room. Almost anything else will have to be fastened directly to the wall. Above the bookcases, I would suggest a lavebo filled with green leaves and flanked on both sides by wiry brass wall sconces made to hold candles rather than wired for electricity. Light the candles on festive evenings for a romantic touch.

Q. We have a long narrow kitchen widening at the work area. I want to put wood panelling along the long wall side. Cabinets are birch. Should I use birch panelling or would I be better off with a contrast?

A. — By all means stick to the birch and try to finish it as nearly like the existing cabinets as possible.

PTA Theme Is 'Strengthening The Home'

The theme of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers for the new administration is, "Strengthening the Home — The Source of Our Nation's Greatness," was emphasized at the September meeting of the Millsaps P. T. A. by Rev. Ory Miller, Character and Spiritual Education chairman.

Mrs. C. E. Feazel, cafeteria manager, gave an informative talk on the school lunch program. She cited the fact that Louisiana had one of the most outstanding lunch programs in the nation. She also pointed out that one-third of the child's daily food requirements would be met if they participated in the school lunch program.

Mrs. Willis Martin, program chairman, announced the October meeting will be a panel discussion on child discipline and will be held at 7:30 p.m. October 8. She urged all parents, and especially the fathers to attend.

Faculty members were introduced by principal Gene Hardin. He also announced the innovation of Parent - Teacher conferencing would be instituted this year. These conferences will be held in consecutive order on different nights beginning with Grade One. Both parents are urged to attend these conferences.

Routine reports were given by standing chairmen. Membership, Mrs. Ernest Grubbs reported 196 members; magazine, Mrs. Donald Elliott; budget and finance Mrs. Dock F. Brown; ways and means, Mrs. Rolan R. Procell announced plans for a carnival this year and urged all who would like to contribute time or material to contact her at once; treasurer, Mrs. James H. Kelly; and Civil Desense, Mrs. Raymond Estep.

Mrs. C. M. Eaker, president announced the Ouachita Parish School of Instruction to be held at Claiborne School October 12. She also urged members to attend the fall district conference at Crosley School October 7. Featured speaker will be Mrs. W. B. Myrick, State P. T. A. president.

Attendance count was won by Mrs. Culpepper's first grade room. Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. L. Hattaway, hospitality chairman.

MISS DOROTHY LEE WHITE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee White of Pomona, Calif., and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hines of Start, and Jimmie Lee Fuller will be married on October 2 at Crew Lake Methodist Church at 6 p.m. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Capus Fuller of Start. The Rev. Donald Thrash will perform the ceremony.

European Music Festivals Is Topic For Opera Club

First meeting of the Opera Club for the year was held in the home of Mrs. R. W. Cretney, with Mrs. R. O. Ware, cohostess. Dessert was served by the hostesses preceding the meeting:

A short business meeting was held, after which the meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Mrs. Ware, who introduced the guest, Miss Emmy Lou Biedenharn. Miss Biedenharn chose for her subject "Musical Festivals of Europe."

She described the famous festival of Wagner's music at Bayreuth as the "Queen of Festivals."

Other festivals mentioned by Miss Biedenharn were Salzburg, Aspen, Vienna, Edinburgh, and in our own country, Tanglewood and Dallas. In speaking of the Dallas festival, she announced on October 25, Dallas, Texas, will open its first fall festival of music, art, and drama in which both graphic and performing arts will be represented. The biggest attraction of the festivals music program will be Maria Callas singing the soprano roles of Lucia de Lammermoor and the Barber of Seville. There will also be orchestra concerts by the Dallas Symphony, chamber music and recitals.

Other festival events will include the opening of the new Frank Lloyd Wright building of the Dallas Theatre Center School; the opening of the new quarters of the Dallas Museum and contemporary arts and exhibitions in the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts and Hall of State.

Members present for the program were Mrs. Cretney, Mrs. Lee Hodges, Mrs. J. C. Jacobs, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. Paul Newman, Mrs. Merle Padgett, Mrs. P. A. Poaz, Mrs. John Sholars, Mrs. Duncan Smith, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. Ware and a guest, Mrs. Jack Kimbel.

Highland Park Club Holds Gala Affair

Ushering in a gala fall season of activity for Highland Park Country Club in West Monroe was a style show, water ballet and dinner-dance held Saturday night for members and their guests. Tables were arranged on the patio surrounding the pool which provided the setting for the style show and water ballet.

The fashion show which opened with an umbrella skit, in which all the models were attired in colorful rainwear, was presented on a ramp across the pool, where a screen decorated with brown and orange leaves provided a background.

The lounge of the club was also decorated with colorful autumn leaves and a massive arrangement of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums combined with gilded leaves. Centerpiece for the long buffet table featured a basket of frosted grapes, surrounded by leaves and trailing ivy.

Fall fashions from Humphries and Karline's in West Monroe and Fields and Silversteins in Monroe, were modeled by members of the club.

Mrs. Alex Winn wore a three-piece coordinated ensemble consisting of corduroy slim jims with matching vest and a paisley print blouse. Slim tapered pants in a giant plaid mated with a white bulky knit sweater over a black tailored blouse was the choice of costume modeled by Mrs. Ralph Einhorn.

Mrs. Walter Silman was attired in a fall wardrobe basic, which featured a slim wool skirt with matching gold pullover sweater styled with a flattering rolled collar. Mrs. Jack Dyer wore a coordinated costume featuring a turtle neck sweater with matching slim skirt in October blue, fall's newest color, which was repeated in her suede shoes.

A smart white leather jacket of capeskin with matching beret and gloves completed a knit-top color coordinate outfit with matched large wale corduroy skirt worn by Mrs. Clyde Albritton. Slimly tapered pants with a tailored blouse in new fall colors of Alaskan brown and mountain berry were modeled by Mrs. Elliot B. Martin. A pencil slim skirt transforms the sportswear into daytime casual wear.

Mrs. Klein Crow modeled a costume featuring a sheath dress in black cotton with a Scotch plaid bolero, collared and cuffed in snowy white. A wide nip belt complemented the pencil slim skirt while the bodice was set apart with small tucks blending into the scooped neckline.

Mrs. Vance Hale wore a khaki sheath in basic wool jersey with a fringed extra long stole of vivid red and black which formed a bulky collar effect. The knitted stole was removable to be worn with other costumes.

Mrs. Gordie Roye chose a nubby wool knit in drab green, ornamented with a large rhinestone and emerald pin in the center front. Natural stone marten furs added a touch of elegance to the costume.

Mrs. Raymond Butler modeled a dashing cosmopolitan mink suit of wool boucle in sapphire blue, with matching feathered cloche. The slightly blouson jacket was styled with a draped collar arrangement. Fashioned for easy living was the fitted suit in black and white checked wool worn by Mrs. G. L. Sheppard. The smartly detailed jacket was accented by a leather belt, drawn through slots, another fashion forecast for suit shaping in '59.

Designed for important occasions was the toast lace sheath featuring scooped neckline and bracelet length sleeves which was modeled by Mrs. Ed Hislop. Perfect for gay holiday festivities is the cocktail dress modeled by Mrs. Bob Bentz, in striking black, designed with scoop neckline and pushup sleeves for the fitted crepe bodice, enhanced with a full tiered skirt of black lace. The oriental influence was suggested in the exotic cocktail ensemble worn by Mrs. Terral Kincaid, which featured an emerald green satin sheath with gold embossed design, worn with a matching coat, slit at the sides.

An after five creation of pure silk organza in copper tone was worn by Mrs. L. F. Taylor. The snug waist was set off by richly embroidered lantern sleeves, beneath which were rows of tiny ruffles in pink nylon net. The copper tone of the bouffant skirt was enhanced by the pink satin lining slip beneath.

To conclude the show Mrs. Jack Tarver resembled a true southern belle in a skyblue formal of nylon tulle, with floor length skirt of three layers of ruffled tulle. Large ruffled tulle medallions centered with matching flowers adorned the bouffant skirt. A fur clutch stole of split skin autumn mutation mink completed her formal attire.

Mrs. Mabs Jolissaint was narrator for the show which was followed by dinner and dancing. Door prizes were won by Mrs. Ralph Einhorn, H. W. Tolson and Mrs. Ralph Norman.

Music for dancing was provided by the Mixmasters combo.

Thomas-Varner Nuptials Held In Chatham

Wearing a waltz length gown of peau de soie with French imported lace bodice and a bandeau of simulated pearls and carrying a nosegay of Briarcliff rosebuds with cascading satin ribbons, Miss Carol Louise Varner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Varner of Eagan St., and Warren Baxter Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordy Louis Thomas of Chatham were wed. The ceremony took place in the First Christian Church at 4 p.m., Sept. 6 with Rev. John O. Stewart officiating.

The background of the altar held sprays of eucalyptus in front of which were placed baskets of white gladioli.

Organist, Mrs. Robert Wroten, accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Rabun Wroten, who sang, "I Love Thee" and "At Dawning."

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Alice Smith, cousin of the bride and maid of honor was dressed in a rose taffeta, full skirted dress made along empire lines and a matching ribbon bandeau and rose slippers. Her nosegay of red Delight roses had satin ribbon streamers.

Mr. Thomas chose Ned Thomas, a brother, to serve as best man. Ushers were Benoit Anders and Bobby Smith, cousins of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Varner chose for her daughter's wedding a toast colored lace dress with black accessories and a corsage of white Delight rose buds. Mrs. Thomas was dressed in blue silk, with black accessories and a white Delight rose bud corsage.

RECEPTION

The reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Mrs. Kermit Paylor presided at the guest book which held a large white memory candle and an arrangement of eucalyptus and small pink zinnias. The bride's table, covered with a white linen cloth, had a centerpiece of pink roses, pompom mums and a pink raintree arranged in a fountain. The punch bowl was presided over by Mrs. Armond Wroten. Mrs. W. R. Clark, Mrs. A. C. Thurman and Miss Virginia Dunn. The wedding cake was served by Mrs. S. W. Raby. Tea girls were Miss Diane Clark and Miss Diane McIntoch.

The bride chose for traveling a navy and white dress with white lace edged collar and black accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

The couple will make their home in Starkville, Miss., and attend Miss. State University where they both will do graduate work in Geology.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and Northeast State College.

He graduated from Chatham High School and Northeast State College.

Miss McDonald C. B. Thompson Vows Pledged

The First Baptist Church of Columbia was the setting for the wedding of Miss Carolyn McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McDonald Jr. to Charles Boyer Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hardy Thompson, all of Columbia. The ceremony was performed Saturday, September 12, at 7 p.m.

Rev. Jimmie Bolton officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar background trellis of greenery, roses and tall white tapers in pyramid candelabra with baskets of pink roses and fern. The family pews were marked with satin bows.

Mrs. Erby E. Meredith, organist, played Nuptial music and accompanied Donald McGough who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The candles were lighted by Miss Emma Jean Mott of Hebert and Miss Janice Gallien of West Monroe, both cousins of the bride. They wore identical frocks of pink brocaded taffeta, with cummerbund bow effect. Their corsages were wristlets of pink feathered carnations. Serving the bridegroom was his uncle, Joe Perot, Arlis Grant, and Carl McDaniel of Columbia.

Mrs. McDonald chose for her daughter's wedding a sky blue lace over taffeta dress, with matching hat, white accessories and a white feathered carnation corsage. The groom's mother chose a dusty rose dress, with black accessories. Her corsage was of white feathered carnations.

Mrs. Ray Gregory of Ruston, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Mott of Hebert, cousin of the bride, and Miss Amanda Graham of Columbia. They wore identical pink frocks of brocaded taffeta with moulded bodices, forming a crossed "V" in the back and attached to full circular skirts. They wore tiny matching head bands and carried bouquets of deep pink carnations.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white imported lace and bridal satin. The portrait neckline, was reembroidered in seed pearls. The long tight fitting lace sleeves formed petal points over the wrists and tiny satin covered buttons extended below the waist in the back. The molded lace bodice was attached to a bouffant skirt of satin. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a tiera of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of bridal flowers, centered with an orchid, encircled with maline and white satin bows.

RECEPTION

The social room of the church was the setting for the reception.

The bride's table was centered with the bridal attendants bouquets. At opposite ends were the crystal punch service and the tiered wedding cake, embossed in lilies of the valley and pink roses, topped with a miniature bride and groom under an arch of lilies of the valley and tiny wedding bells. Mrs. T. Gallien, aunt of the bride, cut the cake and her cousin, Miss Janice Gallien, of West Monroe served.

Miss Hazel Simons of Shreveport and Miss Emma Jean Mott of Hebert, presided at the bride's book. Miss Barbara Page and Miss Shirley Ann Graham assisted.

For her wedding trip to points of interest in Mississippi, Alabama and Florida, the bride traveled in a fuscha fall suit, tiny white hat, with matching accessories and the orchid from her corsage.

Among the out of town guest were Mr. and Mrs. T. Gallien, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Gallien, Miss Janice Gallien of West Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. George Mott, Mrs. Annie Mae Hopkins, Mrs. Audrey Tullos, Miss Patricia Mott, Miss Emma Jean Mott, Mrs. James Mott, Mrs. O. Thompson Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Guss Thompson and June, all of Winnfield, and Mrs. Bertha Perot of Urania.

Farm, Home Week Program Account Given

Mrs. A. T. Stout and Mrs. E. M. Granberry entertained the September meeting of Logtown Home Demonstration Club last Wednesday in Mrs. Stout's home. Three visitors, Mrs. Luther Branch, Mrs. A. R. Robinson and Mrs. V. H. Faust were introduced.

The club president, Mrs. Marvin Shipp, gave an interesting account of the Farm and Home Week program held at L. S. U. in August. Plans were made for active participation in the parish fair beginning October 12 and a fair booth committee appointed. Mrs. Shipp also named a nominating committee for the selection of club officers.

At the conclusion of the business session Mrs. Audrey Dawson, home demonstration agent, discussed "Selection of Slip Covers and Upholstering Materials." Durability, comfort and beauty are three prime requisites of fabrics used for slip covers, according to the agent. Mrs. Dawson gave helpful hints on color coordination also.

Mrs. George Tarleton directed the recreational period. Refreshments were served to Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. W. A. Calloway, Mrs. W. J. Lowe, Mrs. C. C. Scharf, Mrs. Neil Long, Mrs. J. T. Bennett, Mrs. Emmett Lee, Mrs. Verne Hanson, Mrs. Shipp, Mrs. Thomas Stockwell and guests.

Accelerated Educational Program Tried

The first Parent - Teacher meeting of the Highland School was called to order by Mrs. Charles DeLand, president who opened with a poem, "Just A Little Friendship," followed by the P.T.A. prayer, by Mrs. Louise Gatlin.

Mrs. Elnora McClendon, principal, extended a welcome to the parents and asked the cooperation and confidence of all concerning the accelerated education program that is in effect at Highland School. This program, being approved and permitttd by the school board, will be evaluated at the end of the year and the results announced.

Objects and policies of the P.T.A. were read by Mrs. DeLand, after which the new parents of the school were recognized.

After reports from the various committee chairmen, the new teachers were introduced and presented corsages.

Delegates elected to attend the fall district meeting were Mrs. Vera Redding and Mrs. W. T. Roberts. Mrs. Ralph Reed's room won the attendance award.

Mrs. Durwood Griffin, program chairman, introduced the plan, "Going Back To Schol," with parents visiting the classrooms where the curricular plans for the year were explained and text books displayed. There were discussions among parents and teachers concerning homework, school activities, extra - curricular activities and discipline.

After the school session the group adjourned to the cafeteria for refreshments.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Benton Moody of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brown, Miss Carolyn Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Jere Joiner and Mike of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Thomas, Greenwood, Miss., Mrs. Morgan Thomas, Chatham, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Mattison and family of Bastrop, Miss Betty Clark, Houston, Mrs. M. B. Anders and Miss Algene Anders of Chatham, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Thomas, Miss Mary Alice Thomas and Miss Carol Ann Thomas of Oak Grove and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Head of Baton Rouge.

Miss McDonald C. B. Thompson Vows Pledged

The First Baptist Church of Columbia was the setting for the wedding of Miss Carolyn McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McDonald Jr. to Charles Boyer Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hardy Thompson, all of Columbia. The ceremony was performed Saturday, September 12, at 7 p.m.

Rev. Jimmie Bolton officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar background trellis of greenery, roses and tall white tapers in pyramid candelabra with baskets of pink roses and fern. The family pews were marked with satin bows.

Mrs. Erby E. Meredith, organist, played Nuptial music and accompanied Donald McGough who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The candles were lighted by Miss Emma Jean Mott of Hebert and Miss Janice Gallien of West Monroe, both cousins of the bride. They wore identical frocks of pink brocaded taffeta, with cummerbund bow effect. Their corsages were wristlets of pink feathered carnations. Serving the bridegroom was his uncle, Joe Perot, Arlis Grant, and Carl McDaniel of Columbia.

Mrs. McDonald chose for her daughter's wedding a sky blue lace over taffeta dress, with matching hat, white accessories and a white feathered carnation corsage. The groom's mother chose a dusty rose dress, with black accessories. Her corsage was of white feathered carnations.

Mrs. Ray Gregory of Ruston, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Mott of Hebert, cousin of the bride, and Miss Amanda Graham of Columbia. They wore identical pink frocks of brocaded taffeta with moulded bodices, forming a crossed "V" in the back and attached to full circular skirts. They wore tiny matching head bands and carried bouquets of deep pink carnations.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white imported lace and bridal satin. The portrait neckline, was re-embroidered in seed pearls. The long tight fitting lace sleeves formed petal points over the wrists and tiny satin covered buttons extended below the waist in the back. The molded lace bodice was attached to a bouffant skirt of satin. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a tiera of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of bridal flowers, centered with an orchid, encircled with maline and white satin bows.

RECEPTION

The social room of the church was the setting for the reception.

The bride's table was centered with the bridal attendants bouquets. At opposite ends were the crystal punch service and the tiered wedding cake, embossed in lilies of the valley and pink roses, topped with a miniature bride and groom under an arch of lilies of the valley and tiny wedding bells. Mrs. T. Gallien, aunt of the bride, cut the cake and her cousin, Miss Janice Gallien, of West Monroe served.

Miss Hazel Simons of Shreveport and Miss Emma Jean Mott of Hebert, presided at the bride's book. Miss Barbara Page and Miss Shirley Ann Graham assisted.

For her wedding trip to points of interest in Mississippi, Alabama and Florida, the bride traveled in a fuscha fall suit, tiny white hat, with matching accessories and the orchid from her corsage.

Among the out of town guest were Mr. and Mrs. T. Gallien, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Gallien, Miss Janice Gallien of West Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. George Mott, Mrs. Annie Mae Hopkins, Mrs. Audrey Tullos, Miss Patricia Mott, Miss Emma Jean Mott, Mrs. James Mott, Mrs. O. C. Hebert, Mrs. Walter Hathorne all of Hebert; Miss Hazel Simons of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Thompson Jr. and Pat of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Thompson Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Guss Thompson and June, all of Winnfield, and Mrs. Bertha Perot of Urania.

Accelerated Educational Program Tried

The first Parent - Teacher meeting of the Highland School was called to order by Mrs. Charles DeLand, president who opened with a poem, "Just A Little Friendship," followed by the P.T.A. prayer, by Mrs. Louise Gatlin.

Mrs. Elnora McClendon, principal, extended a welcome to the parents and asked the cooperation and confidence of all concerning the accelerated education program that is in effect at Highland School. This program, being approved and permittid by the school board will be evaluated at the end of the year and the results announced.

Objects and policies of the P.T.A. were read by Mrs. DeLand, after which the new parents of the school were recognized.

After reports from the various committee chairmen, the new teachers were introduced and presented corsages.

Delegates elected to attend the fall district meeting were Mrs. Vera Redding and Mrs. W. T. Roberts. Mrs. Ralph Reed's room won the attendance award.

Mrs. Durwood Griffin, program chairman, introduced the plan, "Going Back To Schol," with parents visiting the classrooms where the curricular plans for the year were explained and text books displayed. There were discussions among parents and teachers concerning homework, school activities, extra - curricular activities and discipline.

After the school session the group adjourned to the cafeteria for refreshments.

Farm, Home Week Program Account Given

Mrs. A. T. Stout and Mrs. E. M. Granberry entertained the September meeting of Logtown Home Demonstration Club last Wednesday in Mrs. Stout's home. Three visitors, Mrs. Luther Branch, Mrs. A. R. Robinson and Mrs. V. H. Faust were introduced.

The club president, Mrs. Marvin Shipp, gave an interesting account of the Farm and Home Week program held at L. S. U. in August. Plans were made for active participation in the parish fair beginning October 12 and a fair booth committee appointed. Mrs. Shipp also named a nominating committee for the selection of club officers.

At the conclusion of the business session Mrs. Audrey Dawson, home demonstration agent, discussed "Selection of Slip Covers and Upholstering Materials." Durability, comfort and beauty are three prime requisites of fabrics used for slip covers, according to the agent. Mrs. Dawson gave helpful hints on color coordination also.

Mrs. George Tarleton directed the recreational period. Refreshments were served to Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. W. A. Calloway, Mrs. W. J. Lowe, Mrs. C. C. Scharf, Mrs. Neil Long, Mrs. J. T. Bennett, Mrs. Emmett Lee, Mrs. Verne Hanson, Mrs. Shipp, Mrs. Thomas Stockwell and guests.

Paris Fashions Are Copied For Nominal Cost

WOMAN TO WOMAN
By MARY PRIME
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — American manufacturers rush copies of Paris originals from couturiers to customers in about six to eight weeks.

As soon as the clothes are unveiled in Paris, American buyers put in their orders and scout for fabrics. Line-for-line copies (Exact duplicates of the originals) cannot be made until the Chambre Syndicate, which controls the Paris fashion industry, releases the clothes for export. This year, the release date was Sept. 1.

All clothes for American manufacturers clear French customs the same day, are flown in the same plane to the United States, and clear U. S. customs at the same time—usually in a day or day and a half. This year, plane trouble held up the clothes in Labrador.

After clothes clear customs, the race begins. It usually takes wholesale manufacturers and department stores about two weeks from the release date to have clothes on the racks.

However, one manufacturer said there is nothing that can't be copied in 43 hours. One fashionable Fifth Avenue store produces outfits in two to six weeks, including time for two fittings on the customer.

MUST GUARANTEE PURCHASE

Paris couturiers charge from $750 to about $2,000 for originals. Manufacturers and retailers must pay a "caution," or fee, to see the collections, and usually must guarantee to buy a certain number of models. At large houses, a store must agree to buy two models per department. Models cost $900 and up at such houses as Dior, Givenchy, and Balanciaga. In smaller houses, stores must pay a minimum of $250.

The price of American copies depends on construction, workmanship, detail, and fabric. Most copies range from $40 to $200, although at one speciality shop on Fifth Avenue, dresses begin at $695 and coats and suits at $725. However, there are budget-priced reproductions (which retain the original silhouette but not details) costing from $18 to $23, and mail-order adaptations (which may copy only one original feature) at $9.95.

GARMENTS RIPPED APART

In high-priced lines, the original garments are ripped apart, studied and copied down to the last seam. Fabrics, buttons, even flowers are purchased from the Paris couturiers' sources.

Most copies and adaptations, regardless of price, are not extreme in style.

"We select clothes for eye appeal and newness, but the American woman is not ready for extremes," said Louis Handelsman, president of a wholesale manufacturing firm.

"Just for fun, we include one or two extreme things as showpieces, but we can modify them to suit customers. The American woman never dresses as eccentrically as a French woman," said Mrs. Helen Walker, manager of the custom-made department of a Fifth Avenue speciality store.

New style trends such as the long suit jacket, elongated torso, tunic, and big sleeves, will show in all types of copies. Hemlines will be short, but not as high as Dior's mid knee or above knee length. As one buyer said, "American women just don't go for such short skirts."

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PROCLAMATION issued by President Eisenhower designating September 17-23 as Constitution Week and the local proclamation by Mayor Allan Norris, the above is a display on the Constitution of the United States of American at the West Monroe Branch, Ouachita Parish Public Library. Looking on is Mrs. Gordie Roy, National Defense chairman who has arranged for two additional window displays sponsored by Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

MR. AND MRS. LEON JOSEPH BUTLER of Atlanta, Georgia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Susan Theresa Butler, to Allen Earl Schaffer, son of Mr. Robert M. Schaffer and the late Mrs. Schaffer of Holly Ridge and Orlando, Florida. The wedding will take place November 21 at Sacred Heart Church. The couple will reside in Atlanta.

Back To School Night Staged By P.T.A. Group

The parents of Plum Street Grammar School P. T. A. held an evening of back - to - school, visiting their children's class rooms and getting acquainted with the teachers. The building was filled with gay posters of art work and flowers. A short business meeting in the auditorium, presided over by Mrs. James Eppinette, president, opened the evenings program. Jake Benton, units hospitality chairman, offered prayer and extended a warm welcome. Mrs. Ann Harper, music chairman, assisted by Miss Marie Minard led the group in familiar old school songs. The treasurer's report by L. P. Smith and the coming fiscal year's budget was presented and voted upon. The Parent - Teacher Magazine chairman, Miss Minard, provided magazines for the parents to read for their own evaluation of its merits. Membership enrollment under chairman, Mrs. Russell Sampognaro, joined with the La. State President of P. T. A., Mrs. W. B. Myrick's recent statement in urging parents to join and participate in parent - teacher activities. Miss Eloise Cann, principal, welcomed parents and introduced new members of the faculty, Mrs. F. L. Harmon, 1st grade and Miss Eugenia Valentine, fifth grade. Room count was won in three ties in the lower division, Mrs. Harmon's and Miss Minard's first grades and Mrs. Betty Mobley's second grade. In the upper division, Mrs. Mae Snapp's fourth grade won. The unit's first meeting concluded with various announcements of interest posted on the bulletin board and special acknowledgement of flower arrangements contributed by the Leaf and Petal, the Twilight and the Ivy Guild Garden Clubs.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Feel Of Importance Can Cure Jealousy

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It is too much to expect that an older child, whatever its preparation for the new baby, never will feel any jealousy. If the newcomer arrives at the age when a child is most deeply attached to its mother (that is between two and three) it is plain that the green-eyed monster will spring up.

Older children often pretend an interest in the baby, even if they do not feel it. They can see which way the wind blows. But the younger child has no such capacity for finesse and will hurt the child who is causing him such unhappy emotions.

LETTER

Mrs. M.S. writes, "Dear Mrs. Eldred: I have a little girl who will be three this month. She is a very bright child and as the first child and grandchild has had a lot of attention and is spoiled. We thought we had her well prepared for the new baby, but it seems we have not.

"I had a little trouble after the second baby was born and had to return to the hospital. My mother stayed with me for about a month. But the 3-year-old wanted me to do everything for her and I was not able.

"When I took over the care of the children I tried to be patient and spend as much time as possible with her. I tried to ignore the baby, but she is bright, too, and smiled very early. Relatives and friends pay hardly any attention to the older girl, they are so busy admiring the baby.

"I think she loves the baby but still will pinch and hit her at times. She also screams and stamps her feet at me if I do not do something or get a toy for her immediately; this, especially when I am busy with the baby. She is really getting terrible and I find myself yelling at and slapping her. Please suggest something."

ANSWER

Some of this behavior may be as typical of her stage of development as it is of jealousy. Children can get pretty demanding of a mother who always has been attentive to them. It is a real baby. Your daughter will feel more secure when she knows that you love the baby, too, than if she sees you ignoring it.

Try to keep from reacting so strongly to her displays of temper. Remind her softly that you'll take care of her in a minute, that now you are caring for the baby's needs, as you did hers, when she was little and helpless.

Get her to help you with the baby, increasing her sense of importance. If you let her show off the baby, she will quite naturally get the attention which is now diverted from her by thoughtless friends.

'Garden Care In Winter' Is Club Theme

The Monroe Garden club held the first meeting of the new club year in the Fine Arts auditorium of Northeast Louisiana State college on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Jamar Adcock, president, presided.

The subject of the program was "Care of Gardens in the Winter." Mrs. Mildred Swift had charge of the program, assisted by Mrs. Fred Bennett and Mrs. Grayson Guthrie.

Three tables were set up on the stage, where the speakers demonstrated as they lectured. On one table, tiny brick were used to show the proper method of bricking around a flower bed. A small fence held straw, leaves, and fertilizer, demonstrating the way to make a compost heap. At the third table, sand and humus were worked into a lump of clay to show how to prepare a flower bed from poor soil.

Mrs. Swift also used a set of original drawings to illustrate her talk.

About fifty members of the garden club were present.

Recreational Program Is Club Topic

The Magnolia Study Club opened the year's work with a luncheon and business meeting at the Frances Hotel September 10. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. C. C. Lucky and Mrs. J. W. Golson. Mrs. Aline Banister gave the invocation.

The tables were decorated with autumn flowers and foliage. The guest speaker and each member present were presented with corsages of small chrysanthemums.

Guest speaker was Mrs. John Reitzell, who spoke on Monroe's recreational program. She traced its growth from the beginning under Miss Lucile Godwin to its greatly expanded program, now under the leadership of Jack Hesketh. She also told of future plans for the expansion of the department when necessary funds, so badly needed can be secured.

Following the luncheon a short business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Henry Poulan. The new budget for the year was presented by the treasurer, Mrs. P. O. Bedgood, and adopted. The new year books were distributed. The following members, with the hostesses, were present for the occasion: Mesdames Henry Poulan, P. O. Bedgood, L. N. Copes, Jake Benton, R. N. Dozier, Harold Gill, L. T. Harper, Ed Hislop Jr., C. C. Lucky, Floyd Matthews John Osterland, Frank V. Reitzell, W. N. Reynolds, and Miss Athlene Connell.

Jr. Girls Meet V.F.W. Post Home

The members of the Junior Girls' Unit to the Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary 1809 met for the September meeting at the VFW post home with Mary Claire Hanson, president, in charge.

The president requested that the members collect old costume jewelry, old zippers, old nylon hose and pieces of ceramic tile. These articles will be sent to the Veterans Hospital in Alexandria and Shreveport. The articles will be used in the Occupational Therapy department by the hospitalized veterans.

The group will also collect comic books for the Crippled Children Clinic. The books will provide entertainment for the chilren while they are waiting to be examined by the doctors.

The president reported on the organizations first fund raising project. They received $38.00 from a cake sale and the proceeds will be used for rehabilitation work.

After the close of the meeting, the group had their first instructions in marching. They plan to participate in future parades which are held in the city.

The Advisory Council of the Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary 1809 attended the meeting.

New Year Books Distributed To Atheneum Club

Atheneum Club members were entertained by Mrs. Lee Buatt for their first meeting of the club year. Mrs. Buatt used arrangements of roses and lilies in the receiving rooms.

Meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. W. B. Hedgepeth, club president. She gave a brief discussion on the activities for the new club year and welcomed a new member at this time, Mrs. J. W. McCarty.

The program chairman, Mrs. H. H. Walters distributed the new year books announcing the program theme for the year as "variety". Meeting adjourned with reading of Club Collect. A social hour followed with refreshments being served from a tea - table with an arrangement of fall flowers and greenery. Those in attendance were Mrs. Jack Edwards, Mrs. Fred M. Grant, Mrs. Hedgepeth, Mrs. Hugh Hyman, Mrs. Jessie Hutchins, Mrs. Margaret M. Smith, Mrs. W. H. Steen, Jr., Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Vaughn Watson and the new member, Mrs. McCarty.

Girl Scout News

Congratulations to Troop 8! They've done it again. That is, become the first of the troops due to reregister in the fall to complete the registration procedure. The secret? Ask Fola Varnado, who has accomplished this almost every year of the troop's registered existence. Meeting at Jefferson Junior High, these sixth graders are enthusiastically beginning their fifth year of Scouting.

Registered are the following girls: Barbara Antley, Judy Avery, Linda Bradshaw, Cynthia Charlotte Hicks, Judy Hunt, Linda Ann Hunt, Sherry Lasuzzo, Sheila McGough, Nancy Pounds, Mary Louise Schempf, Judy Varnado, Charlotte Wiggins, Linda Kay Willard. The lucky girls have had the continuous leadership of Mrs. E. M. Varnado for the four years. Adults working with the troop in other capacities are: Mrs. Ellis V. Hunt, assistant leader; Mrs. W. H. Chambliss, troop committee chairman: Mrs. E. B. Pounds and Mrs. M. F. Schempf serving on the troop committee.

The troop has a good record of interest in summer activities, Barbara Antley, Charlotte Hicks, Nancy Pounds, Sheila McGough, Judy Varnado, Charlotte Wiggins, Linda Willard attended day camp; four of the troop earned the swimmer badge during the summer and three earned the pottery badge in the class offered as part of summer program.

We hope other troop registrations will be coming in immediately. Right now there is a lot of organization and reorganization going on, but troops should be well on their way to good program in the next two or three weeks.

Two troops in the organization stage are new Brownie troops at Our Lady of Fatima that will have Mrs. Howard P. Landry and Mrs. James E. McCormick as leaders. More about them later.

Training sessions this week are for Brownie leaders who have had some experience, especially leaders of fourth grade troops, Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 9:30. Training is open to any interested adult without obligation. Training for new leaders will begin on the 23rd. Come and join us. Training sessions are fun and quite informal.

B.P. Girls' Club Of Y.W.C.A. Meet At YW

The Business and Professional Girls' Club of the Young Women's Christian Association held its regular meeting at the YW on Thursday evening with Miss Bess Sharp, executive director, in charge. After supper was served by Mrs. Ruth Hundley assisted by the club's hostesses, Ruth Hendry and Betty Napper, the members adjourned to the club room.

Mary Riser Shotwell opened the meeting with a devotional with the thoughts "Consecration".

Two guests, one a former member, Phoebe Miller, and one a newcomer to Monroe: Frances Strickland were welcomed by the following club members, Mary Shotwell, Ella Pearl Sutton, Roberta Hendry, Willie Mae Wroten, Gyl Rowell, Marion Simmons, Jenibe Westbrook, Alline Hall, Betty Napper, Lorraine Ragland Wilson, Clay DeMarchi, Donna Rhea Welch, Pat Patrick Jones, and Carolyn Leggett.

The local club will be hostess to the Arkansas - Monroe, La. Employed Girls' Conference to be held in Monroe October 17 and 18. The theme for the conference is: "The World, The Y, and I". Betty Napper will serve as the conference treasurer.

The social committee for the conference will be Maude Brownlee, Carolyn Leggett, and Clay DeMarchi; the program committee will be Ella Pearl Sutton, Marion Simmons, and Jenibe Westbrook; publicity will be: Gyl Rowell, Betty Napper, and Carolyn Leggett. The next meeting of the club will be for the installation of officers for 1959-60: president, Tommie Melton; vice president, Ella Pearl Sutton; recording secretary, Marion Simmons; corresponding secretary, Betty Napper; treasurer, Willie Mae Wroten; reporter, Carolyn Leggett; sponsor, Mrs. Sam Humphries.

Arrangements Is Theme Of Garden Club

The Sprig and Twig Garden Club of Monroe held its monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Max Kulcke with Mrs. B. L. Talton as hostess.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. R. F. Wilson. After a brief business session, a lecture on distinction was given by Mrs. Kulcke.

Arrangements brought to the meeting were displayed as follows. Mrs. Talton created a distinctive arrangement using pineapple ginger lilies with their own foliage. She chose a flat boat shaped, dark green ceramic container. The triangle design had a vertical line created with the ginger lily foliage graduating in size and inside this foliage were pineapple lilies wtih small buds at the top and larger flowers at the base. The lilies placed at the side had crooked stems that formed a natural base line of the triangle design.

Mrs. W. M. Rasberry made a miniature triangle arrangement of roses in a small brandy snifter. The pink miniature roses created a triangle design. The vertical line was carried by placement of buds graduating in size to the wide opened roses at the base.

A black ceramic compote container was used by Mrs. Wilson to create a distinctive arrangement using canna leaves and banana bloom. The background of the vertical line was formed with canna leaves that were veined and tipped with purple coloring, with furled canna leaves on each side. The banana blooms were placed in front and followed the vertical line with a large blossom at the base.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Wilson. Those present were Mrs. Neil Butler, Mrs. Vernon Whitlock, Mrs. Rasberry, Mrs. Kulcke, Mrs. Talton, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Joe Adams.

Baber Home Setting For Garden Club

College Heights Garden Club held its first meeting of the fall season at the home of Mrs. E. M. Baber with Mrs. George Mullins assisting with the courtesies. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. John L. Tolar, and opened with the club prayer read in unison. A most interesting period followed with the members taking part in a workshop using dried materials which they had gathered during the summer months.

Mrs. M. L. Johnson created an arrangement from some of the material brought to the meeting. Mrs. E. M. Baber and Mrs. John Tolar also displayed arangements om materials they had dried during the summer months. Due during the summer months.

The meeting was held out of doors on the banks of beautiful Bayou DeSiard.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Faheam Cannon, Mrs. M. L. Johnson, Mrs. Paul Keller, Jr., Mrs. John Keller, Mrs. John C. Loftin, Mrs. Amy Moses, Mrs. Leo Montgomery, Mrs. Howard Morton, Mrs. George Mullins, Mrs. Paul Newcomer, Mrs. Archie Pickering and Mrs. John Tolar.

Ransom P.T.A. Plans Carnival For Oct. 16

Between the hours of 1 and 2:30 p.m. Thursday, September 10, parents were invited to visit their child's classroom at Ransom School, after which the first P-TA meeting of the year was held in the cafeteria with Mrs. Jack McDuffie presiding.

A short devotional was given by the Rev. Paul Durbin. Mr. James Walters, principal, introduced the teachers which included three new ones: Mrs. McDuffie introduced the committee chairmen, after which it was announced that the Halloween Carnival was being planned for October 16.

Room count was won by Mrs. Sones' second grade.

Refreshments were served to the group at the close of the meeting.

Baby's Layette Full Of Modern Conveniences

"The aristocratic baby of today has no lace on his frock, is not weighted down with heavy embroidery, but instead has all his clothes beautifully decorated with hemstitching and fine drawn work or the baby's frocks, nainsook, or cambric, is usually chosen, a preference being given to the first, as it is so much softer."

Authough this is quoted from a popular women's magazine published in 1892, softness is still a prime requirement of clothes for baby. Today it is not only far easier to dress and take care of a baby, but it is also easier to provide the softness a baby's tender skin requires.

Mothers today are blessed with a wide array of soft knits and jersey garments, clothes that are not only soft and comfortable for baby, but clothes that are easy to put on and take off, clothes that are also easy to launder and care for.

The very first piece of clothing a baby wears is a diaper. In recent years, everything has been done to make baby's diaper as soft and comfortable as possible. Just as diaper services treat their diapers with a commercial fabric softener conscientious mothers use a fabric softener in their own home laundry. The fabric softener, available in concentrated form, is added to the final clear-rinse.

In recent years there have been many new developments in baby's diapers. One is the prefold diaper which eliminates tedious and time consuming folding. Another on the way is a diaper that is held on by means of a new nylon tape fastener that not only holds when the tapes are pressed together but readily adjusts to size changes.

Other advances in baby's department are soft knits that are preshrunk, garments with can't-chafe seams, and pants with heat - resistant elastic. While yesterday's baby wore cashmere, today's mother is thankful for the orlon sweater and the wide array of synthetic blankets and carriage robes, all of which can go right into the washer with baby's other clothes.

Many of the infant clothes shown today are made of wash and wear and easy - care cottons, a trend that started in the grown - up department but progressed very quickly to infant wear.

Baby's wash and wear and easy - care cottons benefit when rinsed with the addition of a fabric softener. Tests conducted show that many easy - care garments need no ironing at all when treated with a fabric softener and dryer dried.

Logtown H.D.C. Entertained By Two Hostesses

The Logtown Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. A. T. Stout with Mrs. E. M. Granberry, co - hostess. The president, Mrs. Marvin Shipp, called the meeting to order and the members repeated the club collect followed by the pledge of allegiance.

After the roll call plans were discussed for a booth at the fair this year. Mrs. Ruby Hanson, Mrs. Velma Bennett, and Mrs. Vivian Long were chosen to plan and erect the booth. Plans were also made to have the club help in the concession stand at the fair on Wednesday, Oct. 14, from one until six.

Mrs. Granberry, Mrs. W. A. Calloway and Mrs. Long were chosen as the nominating committee for this year. Mrs. Shipp and Mrs. J. G. Haynes reported on the short course at L. S. U. this summer and stressed the fact that women should know more about insurance. The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Audrey Dawson, home demonstration agent, who gave a demonstration on selecting material for slip covers, draperies, and upholstering.

The October meeting was changed to the first Wednesday so final plans for the fair booth could be discussed. After the meeting adjourned refreshments were served to the members and two guests. Mrs. Haynes won the door prize.

Lida Benton P.T.A. Holds Open House

The Lida Benton P.-T. A. held Open House Thursday, September 10.

Refreshments were served in the teachers lounge by the executive committee.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by Mrs. E. O. Williams, president. The invocation was given by Reverend Conie Ward. The minutes were read by Mrs. W. P. Marine, secretary and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. W. O. Fisher, treasurer. The principal, Mrs. James Riddle, gave a short welcome talk after which she introduced the teachers. Three new teachers were welcomed to the faculty.

The meeting was adjourned and the parents went to their child's rooms, where the teacher presented an abbreviated day's schedule.

Room count was won by Mrs. Dupree's first grade and Mrs. Buchanan's fifth grade.

Chairmen Report On Activities

The Dixieland Daylily Society met at the Agriculture Building Monday, Sept. 14. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. A. Irving, presided with the opening of the club collect. Chairmen from each committee reported on the coming activities of the year. New members were introduced and welcomed. They are Mrs. C. L. Cain, Mrs. Rowena Westmorland and Mrs. Fred Cox of Clear Lake. A guest was Mrs. Bill Snyder.

The program chairman turned the program over to Mrs. R. C. Pittard. Slides of 1957-58 conventions in gardens from Nebraska, Missouri and Louisiana were shown.

Daylilies from some of the South's best hybridizers, one in particular of Mrs. Edna Spaldings', "Dorcas," some of Mrs. Pittards were shown including "Blue Shadows." This day lily received the Junior Citation reward in '57. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Collier Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. Julius Irving.

Fall arrangements by Mrs. Suzee Gorman were used on the president's table.

Those present were: Mrs. Cain, Mrs. Patti Carr, Mrs. Wiley Roach, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Gorman, Miss Judy Gates, Mrs. A. L. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Murphey, Mrs. J. G. Haynes, Mrs. Warren McGee, Mrs. L. C. Willett, Mrs. Beaulah Albright, Mrs. Abbie Leckie, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Irving, Mr. and Mrs. Pittard, Mrs. Westmorand, Mrs. Cox and Mrs. J. T. Williams.

Two Hostesses Entertain For The Amo Club

The Amo Club met with Mrs. H. W. Shepard for its monthly meeting with Mrs. Ramah Butler as co-hostess. Fall flowers were arranged throughout the reception rooms. The dining table was covered in red satin overlaid with lace. A milk glass bowl contained red flowers.

Mrs. Shepard opened the meeting with everyone repeating the Lord's Prayer. Minutes and treasurers report was given by Mrs. Mae Lucky. Several matters of business were transacted with the nominating committee appointed to report on officers for the coming year.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served to the following present: Mrs. Bessie Nixon, Mrs. Florence Hinton, Mrs. Pat White, Mrs. Lucky, Mrs. Lottie Wooten, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Daisy Rasberry, Mrs. Shepard, Mrs. Nina Evans, Mrs. Willie Pumphrey, Mrs. Delinda Gillham, Miss Gyl Rowell, Mrs. Mildred Schrader, Mrs. Hazel Pettit, Miss Geneve Castles, Mrs. Zylpha Wainwright, Mrs. Callie McMullen and Mrs. Bessie Woods.

These articles will be sent to the Veterans Hospital in Alexandria and Shreveport. The articles will be used in the Occupational Therapy department by the hospitalized veterans.

The group will also collect comic books for the Crippled Children Clinic. The books will provide entertainment for the children while they are waiting to be examined by the doctors.

The president reported on the organizations first fund raising project. They received $38.00 from a cake sale and the proceeds will be used for rehabilitation work.

After the close of the meeting, the group had their first instructions in marching. They plan to participate in future parades which are held in the city.

The Advisory Council of the Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary 1809 attended the meeting.

New Year Books Distributed To Atheneum Club

Atheneum Club members were entertained by Mrs. Lee Buatt for their first meeting of the club year. Mrs. Buatt used arrangements of roses and lilies in the receiving rooms.

Meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. W. B. Hedgepeth, club president. She gave a brief discussion on the activities for the new club year and welcomed a new member at this time, Mrs. J. W. McCarty.

The program chairman, Mrs. H. H. Walters distributed the new year books announcing the program theme for the year as "variety". Meeting adjourned with reading of Club Collect. A social hour followed with refreshments being served from a tea - table with an arrangement of fall flowers and greenery. Those in attendance were Mrs. Jack Edwards, Mrs. Fred M. Grant, Mrs. Hedgepeth, Mrs. Hugh Hyman, Mrs. Jessie Hutchins, Mrs. Margaret M. Smith, Mrs. W. H. Steen, Jr., Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Vaughn Watson and the new member, Mrs. McCarty.

Girl Scout News

Congratulations to Troop 8! They've done it again. That is, become the first of the troops due to reregister in the fall to complete the registration procedure. The secret? Ask Fola Varnado, who has accomplished this almost every year of the troop's registered existence. Meeting at Jefferson Junior High, these sixth graders are enthusiastically beginning their fifth year of Scouting.

Registered are the following girls: Barbara Antley, Judy Avery, Linda Bradshaw, Cynthia Charlotte Hicks, Judy Hunt, Linda Ann Hunt, Sherry Lasuzzo, Sheila McGough, Nancy Pounds, Mary Louise Schempf, Judy Varnado, Charlotte Wiggins, Linda Kay Willard. The lucky girls have had the continuous leadership of Mrs. E. M. Varnado for the four years. Adults working with the troop in other capacities are: Mrs. Ellis V. Hunt, assistant leader; Mrs. W. H. Chambliss, troop committee chairman: Mrs. E. B. Pounds and Mrs. M. F. Schempf serving on the troop committee.

The troop has a good record of interest in summer activities, Barbara Antley, Charlotte Hicks, Nancy Pounds, Sheila McGough, Judy Varnado, Charlotte Wiggins, Linda Willard attended day camp; four of the troop earned the swimmer badge during the summer and three earned the pottery badge in the class offered as part of summer program.

We hope other troop registrations will be coming in immediately. Right now there is a lot of organization and reorganization going on, but troops should be well on their way to good program in the next two or three weeks.

Two troops in the organization stage are new Brownie troops at Our Lady of Fatima that will have Mrs. Howard P. Landry and Mrs. James E. McCormick as leaders. More about them later.

Training sessions this week are for Brownie leaders who have had some experience, especially leaders of fourth grade troops, Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 9:30. Training is open to any interested adult without obligation. Training for new leaders will begin on the 23rd. Come and join us. Training sessions are fun and quite informal.

B.P. Girls' Club Of Y.W.C.A. Meet At YW

The Business and Professional Girls' Club of the Young Women's Christian Association held its regular meeting at the YW on Thursday evening with Miss Bess Sharp, executive director, in charge. After supper was served by Mrs. Ruth Hundley assisted by the club's hostesses, Ruth Hendry and Betty Napper, the members adjourned to the club room.

Mary Riser Shotwell opened the meeting with a devotional with the thoughts "Consecration".

Two guests, one a former member, Phoebe Miller, and one a newcomer to Monroe: Frances Strickland were welcomed by the following club members, Mary Shotwell, Ella Pearl Sutton, Roberta Hendry, Willie Mae Wroten, Gyl Rowell, Marion Simmons, Jenibe Westbrook, Alline Hall, Betty Napper, Lorraine Ragland Wilson, Clay DeMarchi, Donna Rhea Welch, Pat Patrick Jones, and Carolyn Leggett.

The local club will be hostess to the Arkansas - Monroe, La. Employed Girls' Conference to be held in Monroe October 17 and 18. The theme for the conference is: "The World, The Y, and I". Betty Napper will serve as the conference treasurer.

The social committee for the conference will be Maude Brownlee, Carolyn Leggett, and Clay DeMarchi; the program committee will be Ella Pearl Sutton, Marion Simmons, and Jenibe Westbrook; publicity will be: Gyl Rowell, Betty Napper, and Carolyn Leggett. The next meeting of the club will be for the installation of officers for 1959-60: president, Tommie Melton; vice president, Ella Pearl Sutton; recording secretary, Marion Simmons; corresponding secretary, Betty Napper; treasurer, Willie Mae Wroten; reporter, Carolyn Leggett; sponsor, Mrs. Sam Humphries.

Arrangements Is Theme Of Garden Club

The Sprig and Twig Garden Club of Monroe held its monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Max Kulcke with Mrs. B. L. Talton as hostess.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. R. F. Wilson. After a brief business session, a lecture on distinction was given by Mrs. Kulcke.

Arrangements brought to the meeting were displayed as follows. Mrs. Talton created a distinctive arrangement using pineapple ginger lilies with their own foliage. She chose a flat boat shaped, dark green ceramic container. The triangle design had a vertical line created with the ginger lily foliage graduating in size and inside this foliage were pineapple lilies wtih small buds at the top and larger flowers at the base. The lilies placed at the side had crooked stems that formed a natural base line of the triangle design.

Mrs. W. M. Rasberry made a miniature triangle arrangement of roses in a small brandy snifter. The pink miniature roses created a triangle design. The vertical line was carried by placement of buds graduating in size to the wide opened roses at the base.

A black ceramic compote container was used by Mrs. Wilson to create a distinctive arrangement using canna leaves and banana bloom. The background of the vertical line was formed with canna leaves that were veined and tipped with purple coloring, with furled canna leaves on each side. The banana blooms were placed in front and followed the vertical line with a large blossom at the base.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Wilson. Those present were Mrs. Neil Butler, Mrs. Vernon Whitlock, Mrs. Rasberry, Mrs. Kulcke, Mrs. Talton, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Joe Adams.

Baber Home Setting For Garden Club

College Heights Garden Club held its first meeting of the fall season at the home of Mrs. E. M. Baber with Mrs. George Mullins assisting with the courtesies. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. John L. Tolar, and opened with the club prayer read in unison. A most interesting period followed with the members taking part in a workshop using dried materials which they had gathered during the summer months.

Mrs. M. L. Johnson created an arrangement from some of the material brought to the meeting. Mrs. E. M. Baber and Mrs. John Tolar also displayed arangements om materials they had dried during the summer months. Due during the summer months.

The meeting was held out of doors on the banks of beautiful Bayou DeSiard.

Ransom P.T.A. Plans Carnival For Oct. 16

Between the hours of 1 and 2:30 p.m. Thursday, September 10, parents were invited to visit their child's classroom at Ransom School, after which the first P-TA meeting of the year was held in the cafeteria with Mrs. Jack McDuffie presiding.

A short devotional was given by the Rev. Paul Durbin. Mr. James Walters, principal, introduced the teachers which included three new ones. Mrs. McDuffie introduced the committee chairmen, after which it was announced that the Halloween Carnival was being planned for October 16.

Room count was won by Mrs. Sones' second grade.

Refreshments were served to the group at the close of the meeting.

Baby's Layette Full Of Modern Conveniences

"The aristocratic baby of today has no lace on his frock, is not weighted down with heavy embroidery, but instead has all his clothes beautifully decorated with hemstitching and fine drawn work or the baby's frocks, nainsook, or cambric, is usually chosen, a preference being given to the first, as it is so much softer."

Authough this is quoted from a popular women's magazine published in 1892, softness is still a prime requirement of clothes for baby. Today it is not only far easier to dress and take care of a baby, but it is also easier to provide the softness a baby's tender skin requires.

Mothers today are blessed with a wide array of soft knits and jersey garments, clothes that are not only soft and comfortable for baby, but clothes that are easy to put on and take off, clothes that are also easy to launder and care for.

The very first piece of clothing a baby wears is a diaper. In recent years, everything has been done to make baby's diaper as soft and comfortable as possible. Just as diaper services treat their diapers with a commercial fabric softener conscientious mothers use a fabric softener in their own home laundry. The fabric softener, available in concentrated form, is added to the final clear-rinse.

In recent years there have been many new developments in baby's diapers. One is the prefold diaper which eliminates tedious and time consuming folding. Another on the way is a diaper that is held on by means of a new nylon tape fastener that not only holds when the tapes are pressed together but readily adjusts to size changes.

Other advances in baby's department are soft knits that are preshrunk, garments with can't-chafe seams, and pants with heat - resistant elastic. While yesterday's baby wore cashmere, today's mother is thankful for the orlon sweater and the wide array of synthetic blankets and carriage robes, all of which can go right into the washer with baby's other clothes.

Many of the infant clothes shown today are made of wash and wear and easy - care cottons, a trend that started in the grown - up department but progressed very quickly to infant wear.

Baby's wash and wear and easy - care cottons benefit when rinsed with the addition of a fabric softener. Tests conducted show that many easy - care garments need no ironing at all when treated with a fabric softener and dryer dried.

Logtown H.D.C. Entertained By Two Hostesses

The Logtown Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. A. T. Stout with Mrs. E. M. Granberry, co - hostess. The president, Mrs. Marvin Shipp, called the meeting to order and the members repeated the club collect followed by the pledge of allegiance.

After the roll call plans were discussed for a booth at the fair this year. Mrs. Ruby Hanson, Mrs. Velma Bennett, and Mrs. Vivian Long were chosen to plan and erect the booth. Plans were also made to have the club help in the concession stand at the fair on Wednesday, Oct. 14, from one until six.

Mrs. Granberry, Mrs. W. A. Calloway and Mrs. Long were chosen as the nominating committee for this year. Mrs. Shipp and Mrs. J. G. Haynes reported on the short course at L. S. U. this summer and stressed the fact that women should know more about insurance. The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Audrey Dawson, home demonstration agent, who gave a demonstration on selecting material for slip covers, draperies, and upholstering.

The October meeting was changed to the first Wednesday so final plans for the fair booth could be discussed. After the meeting adjourned refreshments were served to the members and two guests. Mrs. Haynes won the door prize.

Lida Benton P.T.A. Holds Open House

The Lida Benton P.-T. A. held Open House Thursday, September 10.

Refreshments were served in the teachers lounge by the executive committee.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by Mrs. E. O. Williams, president. The invocation was given by Reverend Conie Ward. The minutes were read by Mrs. W. P. Marine, secretary and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. W. O. Fisher, treasurer. The principal, Mrs. James Riddle, gave a short welcome talk after which she introduced the teachers. Three new teachers were welcomed to the faculty.

The meeting was adjourned and the parents went to their child's rooms, where the teacher presented an abbreviated day's schedule.

Room count was won by Mrs. Dupree's first grade and Mrs. Buchanan's fifth grade.

Chairmen Report On Activities

The Dixieland Daylily Society met at the Agriculture Building Monday, Sept. 14. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. A. Irving, presided with the opening of the club collect. Chairmen from each committee reported on the coming activities of the year. New members were introduced and welcomed. They are Mrs. C. L. Cain, Mrs. Rowena Westmorland and Mrs. Fred Cox of Clear Lake. A guest was Mrs. Bill Snyder.

The program chairman turned the program over to Mrs. R. C. Pittard. Slides of 1957-58 conventions in gardens from Nebraska, Missouri and Louisiana were shown.

Daylilies from some of the South's best hybridizers, one in particular of Mrs. Edna Spaldings', "Dorcas," some of Mrs. Pittards were shown including "Blue Shadows." This day lily received the Junior Citation reward in '57. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Collier Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. Julius Irving.

Fall arrangements by Mrs. Suzee Gorman were used on the president's table.

Those present were: Mrs. Cain, Mrs. Patti Carr, Mrs. Wiley Roach, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Gorman, Miss Judy Gates, Mrs. A. L. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Murphey, Mrs. J. G. Haynes, Mrs. Warren McGee, Mrs. L. C. Willett, Mrs. Beaulah Albright, Mrs. Abbie Leckie, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Irving, Mr. and Mrs. Pittard, Mrs. Westmorand, Mrs. Cox and Mrs. J. T. Williams.

Two Hostesses Entertain For The Amo Club

The Amo Club met with Mrs. H. W. Shepard for its monthly meeting with Mrs. Ramah Butler as co-hostess. Fall flowers were arranged throughout the reception rooms. The dining table was covered in red satin overlaid with lace. A milk glass bowl contained red flowers.

Mrs. Shepard opened the meeting with everyone repeating the Lord's Prayer. Minutes and treasurers report was given by Mrs. Mae Lucky. Several matters of business were transacted with the nominating committee appointed to report on officers for the coming year.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served to the following present: Mrs. Bessie Nixon, Mrs. Florence Hinton, Mrs. Pat White, Mrs. Lucky, Mrs. Lottie Wooten, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Daisy Rasberry, Mrs. Shepard, Mrs. Nina Evans, Mrs. Willie Pumphrey, Mrs. Delinda Gillham, Miss Gyl Rowell, Mrs. Mildred Schrader, Mrs. Hazel Pettit, Miss Geneve Castles, Mrs. Zylpha Wainwright, Mrs. Callie McMullen and Mrs. Bessie Woods.

Candle Trees Blooming Late

By MILDRED SWIFT

Seems to me the imperial candle tree is blooming later than usual this year, and that it has not grown to its usual height. All that I have seen in bloom are small. Still beautiful but not quite as showy.

This candle tree will not go through the winters, here. Neither do the seed mature enough to be used for propagation. You just have to treat the tree as an annual like we do our hibiscus. Aren't the blooms lovely in arrangements?

SEPTEMBER WORK

Seed planting begins in earnest this month. Of course the soil must be prepared by heavy spading and pulverizing. Small seed can't go through "clods of soil".

Sweet alyssum can be planted this month. If you can find the seed, try the 1959 All American pink heather variety. This is supposed to be the first and only pink.

You can begin in September or October to divide some perennials such as callas, daisies, gerberas, stokesias, violets, if the clumps have grown too large. Some perennials need to be divided every year. Some every three or four years.

Continue to feed chrysanthemums every two weeks until buds show color. Use 8-8-8 sprinkling this lightly around the plants and wetting it down well.

Put falling leaves and disease free weeds and dead flowers in the compost heap.

During warm spells in the winter, scale can really get a head way on camellias. I found, last winter, we needed to spary three times for this disease. Of course we used malathion which will also get aphids, white fly, mealy bugs, and thrips.

Watch for frost forecast. Get the caladiums up just before frost hits them. Dig with a fork so as not to cut any of the fleshy bulb. Let the tops die, then store in a dry place where they'll not freeze. I find a light sprinkling of 5 per cent DDT insures them against bug injury during storage.

The old white clematis has really been beautiful. The lacy blossoms remind you of a bride's veil. After this vine has finished blooming, that's the time to cut it back, if it needs pruning. This you can do by cutting back some of the limbs or by cutting the vine down to a stub. The plant will have plenty of time to grow and set buds next spring and bloom in late summer.

SO PRETTY

Can you think of a flower as lovely as the milk and wine crinum, that requires so little labor? These plants do take up lots of room and you'll probably not want to use them unless you have a large garden. These multiply very fast and give a big showing after a few years.

As a rule, this crinum does need full sun or filtered shade. They're a member of the amaryllis family, so that means plant very shallow, the neck of the bulb exposed. Work bone meal in the soil before planting or around established plants.

On dividing, one gardener says she has not divided the milk and wine lilies in her garden in 25 years. So that in itself is a labor saver.

These lilies have no diseases, but are often bothered by snails.

Crinums are nice for cutting. They can be arranged with short stems in a soup tureen. Or — you can use their long stems effectively in tall colored vases or bottles.

HINTS

Shorty nighties for the girls can be made from Dad's worn white shirts. Cut off the collar and sleeves and stitch ruffling around neck and arm holes. You can even dye the garments a favorite color.

Feather pillows come out "light and airy" after a quick trip through an automatic washer and dryer. You can keep them that way by fluffing in your dryer from time to time, provided it has a "no heat" setting.

Mrs. Jessie Mae Hill, our house furnishing specialist, says the best wax for the tops of your tables is paste shoe polish. Get the light or dark brown, according to the color of your tables, apply according to same instructions given for polishing shoes.

Frequently the condition of your nails is a reflection of your general health. If the nails tend to break and split and the cuticle becomes rough and ragged, you'd better check to make sure you're eating properly. A good nutritional diet and plenty of rest is essential to your well-being, of course.

GET THAT RUST

Now, before the onset of winter, is the time to protect your wrought iron from rust or repair the damage. Specially processed primers and paints are in the stores for just this purpose. The paint not only restores the original beauty of metals of different kinds, but it forms a protective coat to prevent future rusting. Of course this does not last indefinitely.

This paint is available in spray cans or for brush application and comes in a full assortment of colors, including black.

BEWARE

Be careful in your selection of jewelry — either the real or costume type. According to a fashion coordinater she says: "You can learn to analyze a woman by her jewelry. Take the insecure person. This type woman overloads herself with jewelry, hoping the glitter will hide this insecure feeling she has." What about it?

The new look in earrings is the upswept. These follow the lines of the face and are gaining in importance. Shape can mean as much as color or texture in these new earrings.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Lola Caldwell will show you how to make flower containers and lamps. This is a repeat by request from you. Tuesday, Lola will show us how to select and care for shears and scissors. Wednesday Mrs. Jardine will bring the flower arrangements; Thursday and Friday, marketing with Mildred.

See you next Sunday.

Tackle Fall Bulb Setting As Two Jobs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Lawnmaking and bulb - planting time arrive almost simultaneously, but the gardener who has both chores on his agenda will be wise to tackle the jobs one at a time. And the bulbs, logically, should come second in line because they may becomes unworkable - often as be safely planted until the ground late as December in this area.

Setting in bulbs for spring bloom is one job which cannot be postponed until early spring. The crocuses, daffodils, tulips and others need a fall period in which to establish root systems and others need a fall period in which to establish root systems and they also need cold winter weather. (Gardeners in warm areas who want to grow tulips, for instance, must give their bulbs an artificial taste of freezing weather — in the refrigerator.)

Bulbs should be planted in well drained, well fed and well cultivated soil. Most of them are sensitive about manure — contact often causes rot — so save this increasingly precious material for more appreciative plants. My own favorite fertilizer, dug in deeply and thoroughly while preparing a bed, is bone meal. Many bulb fanciers follow this up when the plants are developing in the spring with an extra feeding of a quick - acting chemical fertilizer high in potash — for instance, one with a 5-10-10 formulation.

The trick in preparing a bulb bed is to prepare the soil deeply, for the bulbs are set in the ground — depending on their size, of course — at a depth which may be eight or 10 inches, and they develop their root systems below this point. Smaller bulbs, of course, are planted closer to the surface. The rule of thumb which is merely a general guide is to set the top of the bulb at a depth about two and one half times its height.

All this applies to planting new bulbs. Established beds may be handled by cultivatting and maintaining a feeding schedule so that the bulbs have plenty of food during the period when their foliage is withering after blooming which is the time when the bloom and foliage for the next year is being formed. Because I use slow - acting bone meal, I feed my established bulb beds each fall. Others do well by using a fast - acting fertilizer at the time the food is needed. When the beds become overcrowded, it is time to dig up the bed and thin out the bulbs. Best time for this activity, however, is earlier in the growing year — late July and August. Wise gardeners, too, change the location of tulip beds after three or four years of use in order to avoid disease.

Most satisfactory way to plant bulbs is to dig up a whole bed and plant them. Bulb plants, which make the job easier, often make holes as tight as coffins and the bulbs have no way to develop in the contraints of hard packed, airless and badly drained soil — and just disappear. A planter is handy, however, where the soil is properly cultivated.

A long, delightful period of spring bloom may be achieved with bulbs — starting in late winter with snow - drops, crocus. Careful selection of daffodils as to varieties and types can provide a period of six weeks, bloom which is then followed by the tulips, which may also be chosen on the basis of early, mid-season and late bloomers.

Appliance Store Will Be Opened

The Sam Thomas Mercantile Company of Quitman is planning to open an appliance store in West Monroe in the near future, it was announced last week by Sam Thomas, president of the firm.

Thomas said the new store will be located in the McLemore Shopping Center, next door to a supermarket. He added, "Several carloads of appliances and merchandise have already been ordered."

Long Range Shooting

Close-up results in long range shooting is done with this cannon-like accessory for a single-lens reflex—the 1,000mm telephoto lens for the new Heiland-Pentax H2 35mm camera. Weighing 16 pounds, it comes with its own 30 pound tripod. The camera weighs only 27 ounces.

Camera Notes

THE SINGLE-LENS reflex camera, which has undergone revolutionary changes and improvements in recent years, is probably the fair-haired favorite in today's camera world and the one that can be tagged "Most Likely To Go Far" in the near future.

Basically, a single-lens reflex is one in which you see on a ground-glass screen the exact picture image coming through your lens. It's done by intercepting the image on a mirror which is tilted at a 45-degree angle. When the picture is shot, the mirror springs up out of the way before the camera shutter opens to record the image on the negative.

In early models of single-lens reflex cameras the ground-glass image was seen upside down and reversed from left to right. Focusing could be done only with a wide-open lens, otherwise the image was seen too dimly. After focusing, the lens had to be reset to whatever opening the exposure called for. And after shooting the mirror had to be returned to position in order to see the next picture to be shot and the lens had to be opened wide again for refocusing.

All of these disadvantages have been overcome in recent new models of the single-lens reflex.

A current dual announcement emphasizes the trend toward the single-lens reflex camera and brings us the latest 35mm model with a full line of accessories.

The Heiland division of Minneapolis-Honeywell, after two years of study proved to them that the future lies with the single-lens reflex field, has taken over distribution of the Pentax single-lens reflex camera line of the Asahi Optical Co. of Japan.

The Asahi Company introduced the first 35mm single-lens reflex camera in Japan in 1951 and invented the instant-return mirror system in 1954 — a feature that has been copied all over the world.

Heiland's first baby is the 27-ounce Heiland Pentax H2 with a 55mm f-2 eye, a pentaprism head and an automatic disposition. The pentaprism gives a same size, right side up, unreversed view of the image coming through the taking lens. Features include an automatic matic diaphragm and the instant-return mirror. The diaphragm, after focusing wide open, automatically stops down to any pre-selected f-stop when the camera button is pushed. The instant-return mirror not only springs out of the way to permit an exposure but returns to position immediately. This brings the subject back into view, after an exposure, instead of leaving a blackout.

The new camera has a focal plane shutter with speeds from 1-500th to 1 second set on a single non-rotating dial. A single stroke rapid rewind lever advances the film and cocks the shutter. A red signal in a small window by the speed dial reveals when the shutter is cocked. This visual indicator makes it easier to leave the shutter tension spring unwound between shooting sessions especially if it's a matter of days or more.

Two items you won't find in the camera, left out to keep the final cost down, are a self timer and a built-in exposure meter.

A fairly complete line of accessories are available to make the new camera adaptable and useful in many fields. Auxiliary lenses range from a wide-angle 35mm f-2.3 lens with automatic diaphragm up to a howitzer-sized 1,000mm (40 inches) f-8 telephoto lens. There are extension tubes, bellows units, microscope adapters and a right-angle finder.

Camera fans wishing to dig deeper into this subject may refer to a couple of guide books published earlier this year. "Single-Lens Reflex Photography" by Joseph D. Cooper (Universal Photo Books, New York) describes how to take pictures through binoculars and telescopes, and how the cameras can be used in medical, industrial and for other professional uses. The other is "Single-Lens Reflex Guide" by Paul Wahl (Clinton, Philadelphia).

Plan Now For Spring Garden

By AUDREY DAWSON

It's about time to take up caladium bulbs for winter storage. However, I never take mine up until I am sure we are going to have a killing frost. Because the caladiums are about the only thing that gives color to my yard at this time of year. So although a great many of the leaves are turning yellow, I clip them off and the plant looks fine.

KEEPING BULBS

Many homemakers tell me they have trouble keeping these bulbs through the winter. I have used the same ones for about 4 years and the procedure I follow is quite simple. Dig the plant, leaves and all, when there's danger of frost. Tie them in bunches and hang in dry place. Be sure to hang them so the air can dry out the moisture. (Don't lay them on concrete.) The moisture from the concrete will keep bulbs damp. When tops are completely dry, remove and store in warm dry place. I place mine in cardboard boxes and store them on a shelf in the storeroom.

MORE GARDENING

For a beautiful garden next spring now is the time to begin planning and planting. If you take a little time now to make plans you will be rewarded in the spring when your garden comes into bloom. Beautful gardens do not just happen, they are carefully planned for. Make your plans now by studying information on fall preparations. We have several bulletins in our office that will help you. Come by and visit us at the Agriculture Building, 704 Cypress, West Monroe and look through our list and get your copy of the bulletins which will help you.

FOOD FADDISM

Dr. Grace Goldsmith, Tulane University School of Medicine, warned homemakers to beware of food faddisms. She pointed out that food faddism is spreading out this country as some 10 million Americans spend $500 million annually for dubious kinds of dietary supplements. Misinformation about nutrition must be combatted and education is the only solution to problems of food faddism. We have the necessary information to provide adequate nutrition for all normal healthy persons and in this country we have an abundant supply of a wide variety of foods to meet nutritional needs. Everyone should learn that he can get the food he needs by proper choice from the family garden, grocery and meat counter.

FROZEN CAKES

Most kinds of cake keep well in the food freezer. Recent research by the U. S. Department of Agriculture showed only slight differences in freshness among five kinds of frozen cake — chocolate and yellow layer, angel food, chiffon and pound cake.

Chocolate and yellow layer cakes keep fresh slightly longer than the others. After a month's storage at zero degrees F. they were still rated superior to similar day-old unfrozen cakes.

Angel Food cakes in frozen storage for 2 weeks rated better than day - old unfrozen cakes and cakes frozen 3 weeks rated just as good.

Pound cakes, the research showed, react somewhat differently to freezing. Quality of the texture decreases during the first few days, but later seems to recover so that after a few weeks at zero, there is little difference between the frozen and fresh cakes. Taste panels noted that pound cake after 4 days of frozen storage had firmed and become mealy and crumbly. After five weeks however these unattractive qualities had disappeared.

IMPORTANT MEETINGS

Home Demonstration Council members don't forget the important meeting Friday, September 25 at 10:00 a.m. at the Agricultural Building, West Monroe. Final plans will be made for our Ouachita Valley Fair October 12-17. Be on hand to help us make the plans.

Miss Estelle Fournet, our Food Preservation specialist will be here Tuesday, September 22 to train Food preservation leaders so don't forget the meeting at 9:30, Agricultural Building, West Monroe.

Harvest Time Arrangements

By MARY JARDINE

The bounteous harvest of fruits and vegetables available now in the markets offers unlimited possibilities for decorative designs in our homes. One of the joys of arranging with these materials is that you can have your arrangement and "eat it too."

Very elegant designs can be achieved by the addition of flowers and foliage. Rae Goldson combines purple and green grapes and plums with housleek foliage and lavender hydrangeas in an antique coffee grinder for an informal luncheon table.

Gregory Conway combines deep purple leaves with luscious purple grapes in a low rush basket.

Greens and yellows are featured by Esther Wheeler in a modern horizontal arrangement suitable for a buffet. Plant materials, artichokes, squash, cucumbers, eggplant, chestnuts, orange kumquats and ivy, all having interesting textures and strong patterns, were placed on a bamboo mat to produce a long lasting and inexpensive arrangement.

Try combining white chrysanthemums and white grapes with aspidistra foliage in an alabaster compote, lovely!

ONIONS

Even the lowly onion has beauty. A recent composition that pleased me was a design of dark red canna foliage placed in a triangular pattern on a bamboo raft. Spikes of French mulberries strengthened the line. A deep purple eggplant was placed diagonally to the right carrying out the triangle design with groups of purple hull peas in front of it. For a focal point, a large purple red onion. The color combination was compelling.

Fruits without stems may be made suitable for a pinholder by attaching the fruit to florists' picks (unpainted) with wire and inserting the other end of the stick in the pin-holder. Fruit may also be held in place by first impaling a potato on the pinholder. Insert one end of a floral pick into the potato, the other end into to a flat tray by means of a small bit of clay. When using flowers and folige be sure to use a small cup holder for the water to keep materials fresh.

Points to remember in making fruit and vegetable arrangements. Always select materials in perfect condition. Best results are obtained if we select forms of different sizes, shapes and textures. Group colors and blend from one color to another. Also use a gradation of sizes; Film fruits such as lemons, lines, winter squash, etc. have lasting qualities. Grapes, peaches, plums, and softer fruits are perishable and should be used for arrangements of brief duration. The place and setting where the arrangement is to be used will determine the type of container.

For informal effects, trays, baskets, placques, and pottery are suitable. Also copper, brass and pewter containers. For more formal occasions, with finer fruit and flowers use alabaster, silver and crystal. Idea for a buffet supper. For a quick arrangement of unstudied simplicity, select a firm pineapple (symbol of hospitality) place on a round or rectangular wooden tray and group, according to kinds, colors and sizes edible fruits around it. Such as peaches, plums, grapes, nectarines, small bananas, pears. This may be arranged most effectively. Use a few leaves of tropical foliage underneath. Then this may be used as the dessert for guests, along with cheese and crackers.

Date to remember: Welcome Garden Club cordially invites all flower lovers to their open meeting Monday, September 21, Virginia Hotel Ballroom 2 p.m. Fee for non members. Mrs. Roy Davis, Shreveport will do a lecture demonstration on Table Settings.

New Brunswick Presented Gift Of Art Gallery

FREDERICTON, N.B. (UPI) — Canadian-born newspaper millionaire Lord Beaverbrook gave his native New Brunswick his greatest gift this week, an art gallery.

The two-million-dollar block vault sits on the terraced bank of the St. John River directly across from the province's parliament buildings. The plain gray structure contains spacious display rooms with beige walls and terazza floors. A lattice-work ceiling in each of the three exhibition halls reflects hidden lighting which gives the pictures full benefit of even illumination.

The principal gallery of the building is dedicated to Canadian art. The greatest single section here is the collection of Kreighoffs, centered by the large and famous "Merrymaking," which has been exhibited in Great Britain. Most of the 25 Kreighoffs in the collection have been presented to the gallery by Dr. M. J. Boylen, of Toronto. The group now held by the Beaverbrook Gallery will be the largest collection of Kreighoff canvasses on public display in the world.

Television Notes

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some of those umpteen-hundred "specials" you've been hearing about that are supposed to make this television season something special show up on the networks next week.

There will be five, two for NBC and three for CBS, if you count Ed Sullivan's weekly CBS show which the network feels becomes a special because it is 90 minutes this time instead of the usual hour. One other special is 90 minutes.

For NBC the week represents the opening up of two of the three one-hour periods on three nights (Sunday, Tuesday, Friday) that will be devoted to varied specials throughout the season.

The week brings four new series programs, and five established series begin using new material.

Details week of Sept. 20-26:

SUNDAY

CBS has a National Football League exhibition game between the Chicago Cardinals and the Baltimore Colts from Louisville, Ky.

The "Twentieth Century" documentary repeat on CBS at 6:30 is "War in Spain".

The second of NBC's new period adventure dramas in the one-hour "Riverboat" series is "The Barrier," with William Bendix.

ABC's "Maverick" features Jack Kelly as Bart in "Royal Four - Flush." He gets involved with a countess in trying to collect a gambling debt.

NBC's 8-9 special slot, which will be devoted mainly, but not exclusively, to dramas, gets started with a new TV play called "People Kill People Sometimes" by S. Lee Pogostin.

Headlining on Sullivan's expanded show, which CBS labels as his seasonal premere, will be Louis Armstrong, Eileen Farrell, Rosemary Clooney, Wayne and Shuster, Alan King, Ford and Hines and the Kim Sisters.

The CBS "General Electric Theater" starts it new season of half-hour dramas with "Miracle at the Opera," in which Ed Wynn stars as a second-string flutist who is devoted to his dog.

"The Loretta Young Show" begins a new season of dramatic fare on NBC with "The Road" in which the star plays a lonely sophisticate who has a tragic secret.

MONDAY

Repeats in "The Thin Man" mystery-comedy series, seen for two seasons on Friday nights, become a Monday-through - Friday daytime feature on NBC.

"Cheyenne" moves into the 7:30-8:30 spot on ABC for weekly exposure. Clint Walker is back as the star.

"Love and Marriage" is a new situation comedy series on NBC. Regulars in the cast are William Demarest, Stubby Kaye, Kay Armen, Jeanne Bal and Murray Hamilton.

ABC's "John Gunther's High Road" travelogue in "Togoland."

NBC's "Peter Gunn" gets a new season started with "Protection," an episode in which the night club where this private eye hangs out is destroyed by hoodlums.

CBS introduces a new half-hour drama series, "The June Allyson Show". Miss Allyson is in this story of a young woman who loses all hope for the future when her husband dies.

TUESDAY

A new one-hour every-other-week Western drama series entitled "Bronco" starts on ABC. Ty Hardin, who spent last season as the "Cheyeen" star, has the title role in the series. The first play is "Game at the Beacon Club," a gambling story in old San Francisco.

The second drama on NBC's new one-hour "Laramie" series has Nanette Fabray and Eddie Albert as special guest stars in "Glory Road."

"The Dennis O'Keefe Show" is a new half-hour series on NBC headed by the veteran movie star in the role of a syndicated newspaper columnist.

"A Toast to Jerome Kern" is a 90-minute special on NBC with Howard Keel, Patrice Munsel, Carol Channing, Louis Prima, Keely Smith and others.

Guests on Andy Williams' CBS hour include Jane Morgan, Shari Lewis, Johnny Mercer and Dave Barry.

WEDNESDAY

The "Wagon Train" repeat on NBC is "The Jenny Tannen Story," starring Ann Blyth.

This is the last Dave King Variety Show on NBC.

The one-hour "U. S. Steel Hour" play starts at 10:05 instead of the usual 10 because of a five-minute special telecast by President Eisenhower in behalf of the United Community Fund. The play is "Hours Before Dawn" with Teresa Wright.

ABC's "Wednesday Night Fights" features the Chicago 10-rounder between middleweights Rudy Ellis, of South Haven, Mich., and Rory Calhoun, of White Plains, N.Y.

THURSDAY

Groucho Marx starts his new season of "You Bet Your Life" on NBC.

The repeat on the CBS "Playhouse 90" is "Child of our Time."

FRIDAY

The "Rawhide" hour on CBS is a Western drama entitled "Incident of the Roman Candles," with boy-actor Richard eyer in a main role with the series regulars.

ABC's "Walt Disney Presents" repeats "Tomorrow the Moon".

The 8:30-9:30 p.m. spot on NBC, which from now on will be occupied by a variety of specials, is put into business with a one-hour melange headed up by Jimmy Durante.

The first of several irregularly scheduled "Westinghouse Lucile Ball-Desi Arnaz Show" comedy hours turns up on CBS. The title, "Milton Berle Hides out at the Ricardos," tells you who the guest star is.

ABC's "77 Sunset trip" repeats "The Girl Who Couldn't Remember".

NBC's "Cavalcade of Sports" brings together Charlie Powell of San Diego, Calif., and Mike de John of Syracuse, N.Y., in a 10-round heavyweight boxing bout in Syracuse.

SATURDAY

The NBC college football game is between Northwestern and Oklahoma.

The one-hour Western drama on NBC's "Bonanza" is "Death on Sun Mountain."

"John Gunther's High Road" turns up for the second time within the week on ABC.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Nourishment For Conifers

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

OLD CONIFERS

After Pfitzer junipers, some of the arborvitaes and other shrubby conifers become leggy and thin, it takes a long time to nurse and feed them back into good condition. Three to five years is a long time to have to look at derelicts. Some of them may not make it, no matter what you do to them, and most people just dig them up and plant new ones.

FOOD AND CARE

When conifers are fed and cared for with sensible pruning to preserve their shapes, they are beautiful, winter and summer. All of these members of the pine family except the hemlocks and the plum - yews need almost full sun to develop into furry shrubs. If trees grow into a shade over them, conifers will dwindle away. In terribly dry places, they will perish during our summer droughts, too.

Since they are needle evergreens, they can survive the dry spells as well if not better than other shrubs, but they cannot put up with as dry a place as a cactus.

The worst mistake gardeners make with conifers is to plant them in places that are too small. In a very few years, Pfitzer junipers will grow into huge shrubs. They cannot be butchered and survive it after they get this large but should be pruned back once or twice a year. "Pfitzers" are beautiful large shrubs when planted in enough space to allow them to grow to full size. The fairly new compact type, is a stunning plant. Although compact, however, it will still attain the size of the ordinary plant. The truly prostrate junipers are often confused with the upright types. The prostrate ones hug the ground as a real ground cover and will not grow upright at all. One of the most beautiful of these is the Waukegan juniper.

Many of the coniferous shrubs need a little shaping up in the spring and again during the summer if they are to look respectable when the leaves come down in October. Do not hesitate to prune them a little to thicken them up. The solid columnar and the roundish ones may even be sheared some just before they come out in March and again in May. After this, they may not grow enough to hide the pruning. One main rule in pruning conifers is not to cut them back beyond the green needles. If you do, they may not come out again or sun scald may kill them.

Candle Trees Blooming Late

By MILDRED SWIFT

Seems to me the imperial candle tree is blooming later than usual this year, and that it has not grown to its usual height. All that I have seen in bloom are small. Still beautiful but not quite as showy.

This candle tree will not go through the winters here. Neither do the seed mature enough to be used for propagation. You just have to treat the tree as an annual like we do our hibiscus. Aren't the blooms lovely in arrangements?

SEPTEMBER WORK

Seed planting begins in earnest this month. Of course the soil must be prepared by heavy spading and pulverizing. Small seed can't go through "clods of soil".

Sweet alyssum can be planted this month. If you can find the seed, try the 1959 All American pink heather variety. This is supposed to be the first and only pink.

You can begin in September or October to divide some perennials such as callas, daisies, gerberas, stokesias, violets, if the clumps have grown too large. Some perennials need to be divided every year. Some every three or four years.

Continue to feed chrysanthemums every two weeks until buds show color. Use 8-8-8 sprinkling this lightly around the plants and wetting it down well.

Put falling leaves and disease free weeds and dead flowers in the compost heap.

During warm spells in the winter, scale can really get a head way on camellias, I found, last winter, we needed to spary three times for this disease. Of course we used malathion which will also get aphids, white fly, mealy bugs, and thrips.

Watch for frost forecast. Get the caladiums up just before frost hits them. Dig with a fork so as not to cut any of the fleshy bulb. Let the tops die, then store in a dry place where they'll not freeze. I find a light sprinkling of 5 per cent DDT insures them against bug injury during storage.

The old white clematis has really been beautiful. The lacy blossoms remind you of a bride's veil. After this vine has finished blooming, that's the time to cut it back, if it needs pruning. This you can do by cutting back some of the limbs or by cutting the vine down to a stub. The plant will have plenty of time to grow and set buds next spring and bloom in late summer.

SO PRETTY

Can you think of a flower as lovely as the milk and wine crinum, that requires so little labor? These plants do take up lots of room and you'll probably not want to use them unless you have a large garden. These multiply very fast and give a big showing after a few years.

As a rule, this crinum does need full sun or filtered shade. They're a member of the amaryllis family, so that means plant very shallow, the neck of the bulb exposed. Work bone meal in the soil before planting or around established plants.

On dividing, one gardener says she has not divided the milk and wine lilies in her garden in 25 years. So that in itself is a labor saver.

These lilies have no diseases, but are often bothered by snails.

Crinums are nice for cutting. They can be arranged with short stems in a soup tureen. Or — you can use their long stems effectively in tall colored vases or bottles.

HINTS

Shorty nighties for the girls can be made from Dad's worn white shirts. Cut off the collar and sleeves and stitch ruffling around neck and arm holes. You can even dye the garments a favorite color.

Feather pillows come out "light and airy" after a quick trip through an automatic washer and dryer. You can keep them that way by fluffing in your dryer from time to time, provided it has a "no heat" setting.

Mrs. Jessie Mae Hill, our house furnishing specialist, says the best wax for the tops of your tables is paste shoe polish. Get the light or dark brown, according to the color of your tables, apply according to same instructions given for polishing shoes.

Frequently the condition of your nails is a reflection of your general health. If the nails tend to break and split and the cuticle becomes rough and ragged, you'd better check to make sure you're eating properly. A good nutritional diet and plenty of rest is essential to your well-being, of course.

GET THAT RUST

Now, before the onset of winter, is the time to protect your wrought iron from rust or repair the damage. Specially processed primers and paints are in the stores for just this purpose. The paint not only restores the original beauty of metals of different kinds, but it forms a protective coat to prevent future rusting. Of course this does not last indefinitely.

This paint is available in spray cans or for brush application and comes in a full assortment of colors, including black.

BEWARE

Be careful in your selection of jewelry — either the real or costume type. According to a fashion coordinater she says: "You can learn to analyze a woman by her jewelry. Take the insecure person. This type woman overloads herself with jewelry, hoping the glitter will hide this insecure feeling she has." What about it?

The new look in earrings is the upswept. These follow the lines of the face and are gaining in importance. Shape can mean as much as color or texture in these new earrings.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Lola Caldwell will show you how to make flower containers and lamps. This is a repeat by request from you. Tuesday, Lola will show us how to select and care for shears and scissors. Wednesday Mrs. Jardine will bring the flower arrangements; Thursday and Friday, marketing with Mildred.

See you next Sunday.

Tackle Fall Bulb Setting As Two Jobs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Lawn-making and bulb - planting time arrive almost simultaneously, but the gardener who has both chores on his agenda will be wise to tackle the jobs one at a time. And the bulbs, logically, should come second in line because they may becomes unworkable - often as be safely planted until the ground late as December in this area.

Setting in bulbs for spring bloom is one job which cannot be postponed until early spring. The crocuses, daffodils, tulips and others need a fall period in which to establish root systems and others need a fall period in which to establish root systems and they also need cold winter weather. (Gardeners in warm areas who want to grow tulips, for instance, must give their bulbs an artificial taste of freezing weather — in the refrigerator.)

Bulbs should be planted in well drained, well fed and well cultivated soil. Most of them are sensitive about manure — contact often causes rot — so save this increasingly precious material for more appreciative plants. My own favorite fertilizer, dug in deeply and thoroughly while preparing a bed, is bone meal. Many bulb fanciers follow this up when the plants are developing in the spring with an extra feeding of a quick - acting chemical fertilizer high in potash — for instance, one with a 5-10-10 formulation.

The trick in preparing a bulb bed is to prepare the soil deeply, for the bulbs are set in the ground — depending on their size, of course — at a depth which may be eight or 10 inches, and they develop their root systems below this point. Smaller bulbs, of course, are planted closer to the surface. The rule of thumb which is merely a general guide is to set the top of the bulb at a depth about two and one half times its height.

All this applies to planting new bulbs. Established beds may be handled by cultivatting and maintaining a feeding schedule so that the bulbs have plenty of food during the period when their foliage is withering after blooming which is the time when the bloom and foliage for the next year is being formed. Because I use slow - acting bone meal, I feed my established bulb beds each fall. Others do well by using a fast - acting fertilizer at the time the food is needed. When the beds become overcrowded, it is time to dig up the bed and thin out the bulbs. Best time for this activity, however, is earlier in the growing year — late July and August. Wise gardeners, too, change the location of tulip beds after three or four years of use in order to avoid disease.

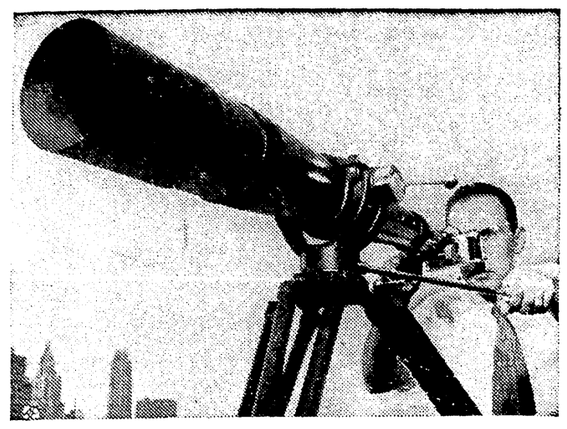
Most satisfactory way to plant bulbs is to dig up a whole bed and plant them. Bulb plants, which make the job easier, often make holes as tight as coffins and the bulbs have no way to develop in the contraints of hard packed, airless and badly drained soil — and just disappear. A planter is handy, however, where the soil is properly cultivated.

A long, delightful period of spring bloom may be achieved with bulbs — starting in late winter with snow - drops, crocus. Careful selection of daffodils as to varieties and types can provide a period of six weeks, bloom which is then followed by the tulips, which may also be chosen on the basis of early, mid-season and late bloomers.

Appliance Store Will Be Opened

The Sam Thomas Mercantile Company of Quitman is planning to open an appliance store in West Monroe in the near future, it was announced last week by Sam Thomas, president of the firm.

Thomas said the new store will be located in the McLemore Shopping Center, next door to a supermarket. He added, "Several carloads of appliances and merchandise have already been ordered."



Long Range Shooting

Close-up results in long range shooting is done with this cannon-like accessory for a single-lens reflex—the 1,000mm telephoto lens for the new Heiland-Pentax H2 35mm camera. Weighing 16 pounds, it comes with its own 30 pound tripod. The camera weighs only 27 ounces.

Camera Notes

THE SINGLE-LENS reflex camera, which has undergone revolutionary changes and improvements in recent years, is probably the fair-haired favorite in today's camera world and the one that can be tagged "Most Likely To Go Far" in the near future.

Basically, a single-lens reflex is one in which you see on a ground-glass screen the exact picture image coming through your lens. It's done by intercepting the image on a mirror which is tilted at a 45-degree angle. When the picture is shot, the mirror springs up out of the way before the camera shutter opens to record the image on the negative.

In early models of single-lens reflex cameras the ground-glass image was seen upside down and reversed from left to right. Focusing could be done only with a wide-open lens, otherwise the image was seen too dimly. After focusing, the lens had to be reset to whatever opening the exposure called for. And after shooting the mirror had to be returned to position in order to see the next picture to be shot and the lens had to be opened wide again for refocusing.

All of these disadvantages have been overcome in recent new models of the single-lens reflex.

A current dual announcement emphasizes the trend toward the single-lens reflex camera and brings us the latest 35mm model with a full line of accessories.

The Heiland division of Minneapolis-Honeywell, after two years of study proved to them that the future lies with the single-lens reflex field, has taken over distribution of the Pentax single-lens reflex camera line of the Asahi Optical Co. of Japan.

The Asahi Company introduced the first 35mm single-lens reflex camera in Japan in 1951 and invented the instant-return mirror system in 1954 -- a feature that has been copied all over the world.

Heiland's first baby is the 27-ounce Heiland Pentax H2 with a 55mm f-2 eye, a pentaprism head and an automatic disposition. The pentaprism gives a same size, right side up, unreversed view of the image coming through the taking lens. Features include an automatic matic diaphragm and the instant-return mirror. The diaphragm, after focusing wide open, automatically stops down to any pre-selected f-stop when the camera button is pushed. The instant-return mirror not only springs out of the way to permit an exposure but returns to position immediately. This brings the subject back into view, after an exposure, instead of leaving a blackout.

The new camera has a focal plane shutter with speeds from 1-500th to 1 second set on a single non-rotating dial. A single stroke rapid rewind lever advances the film and cocks the shutter. A red signal in a small window by the speed dial reveals when the shutter is cocked. This visual indicator makes it easier to leave the shutter tension spring unwound between shooting sessions especially if it's a matter of days or more.

Two items you won't find in the camera, left out to keep the final cost down, are a self timer and a built-in exposure meter.

A fairly complete line of accessories are available to make the new camera adaptable and useful in many fields. Auxiliary lenses range from a wide-angle 35mm f-2.3 lens with automatic diaphragm up to a howitzer-sized 1,000mm (40 inches) f-8 telephoto lens. There are extension tubes, bellows units, microscope adapters and a right-angle finder.

Camera fans wishing to dig deeper into this subject may refer to a couple of guide books published earlier this year. "Single-Lens Reflex Photography" by Joseph D. Cooper (Universal Photo Books, New York) describes how to take pictures through binoculars and telescopes, and how the cameras can be used in medical, industrial and for other professional uses. The other is "Single-Lens Reflex Guide" by Paul Wahl (Clinton, Philadelphia).

Plan Now For Spring Garden

By AUDREY DAWSON

It's about time to take up caladium bulbs for winter storage. However, I never take mine up until I am sure we are going to have a killing frost. Because the caladiums are about the only thing that gives color to my yard at this time of year. So although a great many of the leaves are turning yellow, I clip them off and the plant looks fine.

KEEPING BULBS

Many homemakers tell me they have trouble keeping these bulbs through the winter. I have used the same ones for about 4 years and the procedure I follow is quite simple. Dig the plant, leaves and all, when there's danger of frost. Tie them in bunches and hang in dry place. Be sure to hang them so the air can dry out the moisture. (Don't lay them on concrete.) The moisture from the concrete will keep bulbs damp. When tops are completely dry, remove and store in warm dry place. I place mine in cardboard boxes and store them on a shelf in the storeroom.

MORE GARDENING

For a beautiful garden next spring now is the time to begin planning and planting. If you take a little time now to make plans you will be rewarded in the spring when your garden comes into bloom. Beautful gardens do not just happen, they are carefully planned for. Make your plans now by studying information on fall preparations. We have several bulletins in our office that will help you. Come by and visit us at the Agriculture Building, 704 Cypress, West Monroe and look through our list and get your copy of the bulletins which will help you.

FOOD FADDISM

Dr. Grace Goldsmith, Tulane University School of Medicine, warned homemakers to beware of food faddisms. She pointed out that food faddism is spreading out this country as some 10 million Americans spend $500 million annually for dubious kinds of dietary supplements. Misinformation about nutrition must be combatted and education is the only solution to problems of food faddism. We have the necessary information to provide adequate nutrition for all normal healthy persons and in this country we have an abundant supply of a wide variety of foods to meet nutritional needs. Everyone should learn that he can get the food he needs by proper choice from the family garden, grocery and meat counter.

FROZEN CAKES

Most kinds of cake keep well in the food freezer. Recent research by the U. S. Department of Agriculture showed only slight differences in freshness among five kinds of frozen cake — chocolate and yellow layer, angel food, chiffon and pound cake.

Chocolate and yellow layer cakes keep fresh slightly longer than the others. After a month's storage at zero degrees F. they were still rated superior to similar day-old unfrozen cakes.

Angel Food cakes in frozen storage for 2 weeks rated better than day - old unfrozen cakes and cakes frozen 3 weeks rated just as good.

Pound cakes, the research showed, react somewhat differently to freezing. Quality of the texture decreases during the first few days, but later seems to recover so that after a few weeks at zero, there is little difference between the frozen and fresh cakes. Taste panels noted that pound cake after 4 days of frozen storage had firmed and become mealy and crumbly. After five weeks however these unattractive qualities had disappeared.

IMPORTANT MEETINGS

Home Demonstration Council members don't forget the important meeting Friday, September 25 at 10:00 a.m. at the Agricultural Building, West Monroe. Final plans will be made for our Ouachita Valley Fair October 12-17. Be on hand to help us make the plans.

Miss Estelle Fournet, our Food Preservation specialist will be here Tuesday, September 22 to train Food preservation leaders so don't forget the meeting at 9:30, Agricultural Building, West Monroe.

Harvest Time Arrangements

By MARY JARDINE

The bounteous harvest of fruits and vegetables available now in the markets offers unlimited possibilities for decorative designs in our homes. One of the joys of arranging with these materials is that you can have your arrangement and "eat it too."

Very elegant designs can be achieved by the addition of flowers and foliage. Rae Goldson combines purple and green grapes and plums with housecleek foliage and lavender hydrangeas in an antique coffee grinder for an informal luncheon table.

Gregory Conway combines deep purple leaves with luscious purple grapes in a low rush basket.

Greens and yellows are featured by Esther Wheeler in a modern horizontal arrangement suitable for a buffet. Plant materials, artichokes, squash, cucumbers, eggplant, chestnuts, orange kumquats and ivy, all having interesting textures and strong patterns, were placed on a bamboo mat to produce a long lasting and inexpensive arrangement.

Try combining white chrysanthemums and white grapes with aspidistra foliage in an alabaster compote, lovely!

ONIONS

Even the lowly onion has beauty. A recent composition that pleased me was a design of dark red canna foliage placed in a triangular pattern on a bamboo raft. Spikes of French mulberries strengthened the line. A deep purple eggplant was placed diagonally to the right carrying out the triangle design with groups of purple hull peas in front of it. For a focal point, a large purple red onion. The color combination was compelling.

Fruits without stems may be made suitable for a pinholder by attaching the fruit to florists' picks (unpainted) with wire and inserting the other end of the stick in the pin-holder. Fruit may also be held in place by first impaling a potato on the pinholder. Insert one end of a floral pick into the potato, the other end into to a flat tray by means of a small bit of clay. When using flowers and folige be sure to use a small cup holder for the water to keep materials fresh.

Points to remember in making fruit and vegetable arrangements. Always select materials in perfect condition. Best results are obtained if we select forms of different sizes, shapes and textures. Group colors and blend from one color to another. Also use a gradation of sizes. Film fruits such as lemons, lines, winter squash, etc. have lasting qualities. Grapes, peaches, plums, and softer fruits are perishable and should be used for arrangements of brief duration. The place and setting where the arrangement is to be used will determine the type of container.

For informal effects, trays, baskets, placques, and pottery are suitable. Also copper, brass and pewter containers. For more formal occasions, with finer fruit and flowers use alabaster, silver and crystal. Idea for a buffet supper. For a quick arrangement of unstudied simplicity, select a firm pineapple (symbol of hospitality) place on a round or rectangular wooden tray and group, according to kinds, colors and sizes edible fruits around it. Such as peaches, plums, grapes, nectarines, small bananas, pears. This may be arranged most effectively. Use a few leaves of tropical foliage underneath. Then this may be used as the dessert for guests, along with cheese and crackers.

Date to remember: Welcome Garden Club cordially invites all flower lovers to their open meeting Monday, September 21, Virginia Hotel Ballroom 2 p.m. Fee for non members. Mrs. Roy Davis, Shreveport will do a lecture demonstration on Table Settings.

September 24, Flower Show at Hemenway's in Shreveport. Sponsored by Shreveport Council of Garden Clubs.

The "Twentieth Century" documentary repeat on CBS at 6:30 is "War in Spain".

The second of NBC's new period adventure dramas in the one-hour "Riverboat" series is "The Barrier," with William Bendix.

ABC's "Maverick" features Jack Kelly as Bart in "Royal Four - Flush." He gets involved with a countess in trying to collect a gambling debt.

NBC's 8-9 special slot, which will be devoted mainly, but not excusively, to dramas, gets started with a new TV play called "People Kill People Sometimes" by S. Lee Pogostin.

Headlining on Sullivan's expanded show, which CBS labels as his seasonal premere, will be Louis Armstrong, Eileen Farrell, Rosemary Clooney, Wayne and Shuster, Alan King, Ford and Hines and the Kim Sisters.

The CBS "General Electric Theater" starts it new season of half-hour dramas with "Miracle at the Opera," in which Ed Wynn stars as a second-string flutist who is devoted to his dog.

"The Loretta Young Show" begins a new season of dramatic fare on NBC with "The Road" in which the star plays a lonely sophisticate who has a tragic secret.

MONDAY

Repeats in "The Thin Man" mystery-comedy series, seen for two seasons on Friday nights, become a Monday-through - Friday daytime feature on NBC.

"Cheyenne" moves into the 7:30-8:30 spot on ABC for weekly exposure. Clint Walker is back as the star.

"Love and Marriage" is a new situation comedy series on NBC. Regulars in the cast are William Demarest, Stubby Kaye, Kay Armen, Jeanne Bal and Murray Hamilton.

ABC's "John Gunther's High Road" travelogue in "Togoland."

NBC's "Peter Gunn" gets a new season started with "Protection," an episode in which the night club where this private eye hangs out is destroyed by hoodlums.

CBS introduces a new half-hour drama series, "The June Allyson Show". Miss Allyson is in this story of a young woman who loses all hope for the future when her husband dies.

TUESDAY

A new one-hour every-other-week Western drama series entitled "Bronco" starts on ABC. Ty Hardin, who spent last season as the "Cheyeen" star, has the title role in the series. The first play is "Game at the Beacon Club," a gambling story in old San Francisco.

The second drama on NBC's new one-hour "Laramie" series has Nanette Fabray and Eddie Albert as special guest stars in "Glory Road."

"The Dennis O'Keefe Show" is a new half-hour series on NBC headed by the veteran movie star in the role of a syndicated newspaper columnist.

"A Toast to Jerome Kern" is a 90-minute special on NBC with Howard Keel, Patrice Munsel, Carol Channing, Louis Prima, Keely Smith and others.

Guests on Andy Williams' CBS hour include Jane Morgan, Shari Lewis, Johnny Mercer and Dave Barry.

WEDNESDAY

The "Wagon Train" repeat on NBC is "The Jenny Tannen Story," starring Ann Blyth.

This is the last Dave King Variety Show on NBC.

The one-hour "U. S. Steel Hour" play starts at 10:05 instead of the usual 10 because of a five-minute special telecast by President Eisenhower in behalf of the United Community Fund. The play is "Hours Before Dawn" with Teresa Wright.

ABC's "Wednesday Night Fights" features the Chicago 10-rounder between middleweights Rudy Ellis, of South Haven, Mich., and Rory Calhoun, of White Plains, N.Y.

THURSDAY

Groucho Marx starts his new season of "You Bet Your Life" on NBC.

The repeat on the CBS "Playhouse 90" is "Child of our Time."

FRIDAY

The "Rawhide" hour on CBS is a Western drama entitled "Incident of the Roman Candles," with boy-actor Richard eyer in a main role with the series regulars.

ABC's "Walt Disney Presents" repeats "Tomorrow the Moon".

The 8:30-9:30 p.m. spot on NBC, which from now on will be occupied by a variety of specials, is put into business with a one-hour melange headed up by Jimmy Durante.

The first of several irregularly scheduled "Westinghouse Lucile Ball-Desi Arnaz Show" comedy hours turns up on CBS. The title, "Milton Berle Hides out at the Ricardos," tells you who the guest star is.

ABC's "77 Sunset trip" repeats "The Girl Who Couldn't Remember".

NBC's "Cavalcade of Sports" brings together Charlie Powell of San Diego, Calif., and Mike de John of Syracuse, N.Y., in a 10-round heavyweight boxing bout in Syracuse.

SATURDAY

The one-hour Western drama on NBC's "Bonanza" is "Death on Sun Mountain."

"John Gunther's High Road" turns up for the second time within the week on ABC.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Nourishment For Conifers

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

OLD CONIFERS

After Pfitzer junipers, some of the arborvitaes and other shrubby conifers become leggy and thin, it takes a long time to nurse and feed them back into good condition. Three to five years is a long time to have to look at derelicts. Some of them may not make it, no matter what you do to them, and most people just dig them up and plant new ones.

FOOD AND CARE

When conifers are fed and cared for with sensible pruning to preserve their shapes, they are beautiful, winter and summer. All of these members of the pine family except the hemlocks and the plum - yews need almost full sun to develop into furry shrubs. If trees grow into a shade over them, conifers will dwindle away. In terribly dry places, they will perish during our summer droughts, too.

Since they are needle evergreens, they can survive the dry spells as well if not better than other shrubs, but they cannot put up with as dry a place as a cactus.

The worst mistake gardeners make with conifers is to plant them in places that are too small. In a very few years, Pfitzer junipers will grow into huge shrubs. They cannot be butchered and survive it after they get this large but should be pruned back once or twice a year. "Pfitzers" are beautiful large shrubs when planted in enough space to allow them to grow to full size. The fairly new compact type, is a stunning plant. Although compact, however, it will still attain the size of the ordinary plant. The truly prostrate junipers are often confused with the upright types. The prostrate ones hug the ground as a real ground cover and will not grow upright at all. One of the most beautiful of these is the Waukegan juniper.

Many of the coniferous shrubs need a little shaping up in the spring and again during the summer if they are to look respectable when the leaves come down in October. Do not hesitate to prune them a little to thicken them up. The solid columnar and the roundish ones may even be sheared some just before they come out in March and again in May. After this, they may not grow enough to hide the pruning. One main rule in pruning conifers is not to cut them back beyond the green needles. If you do, they may not come out again or sun scald may kill them.

'The Blue Angel' Opens Today

"The Blue Angel," Jack Cummings', CinemaScope, De Luxe Color production of the famed story of a wanton night club entertainer who ruins the life of a repressed professor, starring Curt Jurgens, Europe's most sensational leading man, and Swedish beauty May Britt, will have its local premiere today at the Paramount Theatre.

The Twentieth Century - Fox release also features Theodore Bikel, noted international actor and popular folk singer in a key role.

Miss Britt, was discovered for American films by Twentieth Century - Fox executive producer Buddy Adler when he saw her in a small role in "War and Peace."

Prior to her discovery, Miss Britt worked as a photographer's assistant in her native Stockholm where she was recruited by Italian Producer Carlo Ponti for a role in a film he was then making.

Jurgens is probably one of the most well known international stars in the film industry, having made films all over the world and maintaining residences in Bavaria, Vienna, the French Riviera and now in Los Angeles.

Folk singer, guitarist and radio commentator Theodore Bikel plays a pivotal role in the relationship of Miss Britt and Jurgens. Bikel won an Academy Award nomination for his role in "The Defiant Ones."

"The Blue Angel" is Jack Cummings first production for Twentieth Century - Fox after having worked many years for MGM, where he started as an office boy and worked his way up to producer. Some of his more memorable productions were "Kiss Me Kate," "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," "The Last Time I Saw Paris" and "Teahouse of the August Moon."

Director Edward Dmytryk has come up through the ranks of film editors. Some of the pictures he is known for are "Caine Mutiny," "Soldier of Fortune" and "The Young Lions," where he first worked with Miss Britt.

For the location scenes of the "Blue Angel," Cummings and Dymtryk took the cast and crew to the old city of Rothenburg in Bavaria.

They used such places as the town's railroad station, boys school, street scenes and the botany walk through the woods. For the interiors such as the music halls, Jurgen's apartment and Miss Britt's dressing room, they were constructed and photographed in Hollywood.

LITTLE THEATRE

The excitement in Little Theater Circles over the new building is really contagious. More and more people are realizing that it is their theater and want to become members. This is the time to join and take advantage of the entire season. The play reading committee has been very busy and have selected a fine group of plays for the year. The first production will be "Janus," followed by "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial", "Sabrina Fair," "Remains to be Seen" and the last play will be either "Damn Yankees" or "Guys and Dolls." This will be a musical and it is the hope of the Board that the new building will be completed in time for this last production.

Many Little Theater members attended the opening of "Kismet" at the Marjorie Lyons Playhouse in Shreveport last weekend. Those who had not seen the playhouse before were delighted and came back with a renewed interest in our new playhouse. Others commented on the beauty of the settings and the costumes and the wonderful staging as well as the acting. Some of those who went over were Betty and Bernard Biedenharn, Sue and King Stubbs, Virginia Thompson, Myrtle and L. H. Carter, Dell Moore, Carolyn Roberts, Norman Jones, Jean Weil and Ivan Uttal.

Rehearsals are now underway for "Janus" at the Selman Field Playhouse. Written by Carolyn Green, this is a sophisticated modern comedy, which took the New York stage by storm in 1955. Next week we hope to give you the cast of this play. Seen at tryouts last week were Bill Haddad, Betty Bandy, Dr. Ed Brown, V. P. Dalrymple, Dell Moore, Charlene Correro, Ed Anders, Fred Henry, Pat Medaries, Jerry and Tavie Kenny, Margaret Fryant, Julius Cahn, Scherck Bogan, Henry Haas, Jr., as well as Joan Barber who is serving as assistant director of Ivan Uttal for this play and Val Ringo who is stage manager.

Little Theater members traveled extensively this summer. One of the most enjoyable trips was taken by Mrs. Matt Hirsch, who toured Europe. Little Theater's own Beth Breese is attending LSU for the fall term. She will be missed in Little Theater circles.

The membership drive is underway. Purchase your tickets now. Call Jean Hamilton at FA 2-9812 or Myrtle Carter at FA 3-8509.

Board members are reminded that the Board meeting will be held at the home of the president, Mary Gill, 701 K Street on Monday night, Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m. Much important business is on the agenda and Mary would like to have a full attendance.

Curtain Call will be published weekly this year. Watch this column next week for the full cast of "Janus."

Lancaster Has Happy Review As Producer

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Burt Lancaster, as much a businessman as an actor, reviewed his 12 years of independent production today by comparing his most successful movie with his only turkey.

The balance sheet shows "Trapeze" earned 14 million dollars. "Sweet Smell of Success" lost 1½ million.

"And that about sums it up," he said. "I have ownership in 20 independent pictures, and you can safey say I'm way ahead of the game financially."

Burt, an iconoclastic guy who generally gets his way, was changing clothes in a sweltering dressing room at Columbia Pictures. Among the articles emptied from his pockets was a roll of hundred dollar bills that could have choked a Wells Fargo horse.

From sports shirt and slacks, Lancaster stepped into a pair of old fashioned BVD's for a scene in "Elmer Gantry," latest of his films, which he owns in conjunction with director Richard Brooks.

A poineer among actor-producers, the muscular star says his breed saved the motion picture industry.

"It's the best thing that ever happened to pictures," he said.

"I have no regrets about striking out on my own. You see, the only fun is investing myself in the creative end of the business. So far I've worked seven months on this picture without a penny of pay, but the excitement and stimulation of working on the script makes up for it."

Lancaster's success in the independent field encouraged such other stalwarts as John Wayne, Dick Powell and Kirk Douglas to branch into ownership-participation deals.

"A lot depends on the personality of the actor," he went on. Some like to perform and get out with the money, but I feel sorry for them because they have no real interest outside of acting.

"When I first started out the studios were opposed to independent producing. They didn't want actors moving in on their business.

"Now they welcome us. Ownership of movies is an important thing—like owning real estate. It's a question of whether actors want to gamble by working for a small salary and a large percentage of the profits. Others prefer a large salary spread out over a period of time to beat high taxes."

Sexy Looks No Asset, Actress Says

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Cara Williams, a red-haired temptress who moves in sections, says her sexiness has been a drawback in her acting career and her marriage to John Barrymore Jr.

"Most producers," she said, "thought of me as a chorus girl type until 'The Defiant Ones' got me a nomination for best supporting actress of last year.

"Unfortunately, I look like the kind of girl that producers chase around a desk."

Wearing tight white slacks and matching blouse, the Brooklyn-born actress slinked into a chair in her living room and explained:

"Sexy looks can be a handican in this town, baby. You don't know how many people told me to change my hair, but it's mine and it's natural.

"Nobody listened when I said I had talent and had worked on the stage under Elia Kazan and played in the Chicago production of 'Born Yesterday.'"

Miss Williams, who admits to being somewhere between 30 and 32, lamented that being sexy also made for troubles in her ill-fated marriage to young Barrymore, 27.

"John's a fine actor and a nice boy, but he resented my looking attractive," said the actress, who is in the process of divorcing Barrymore.

"Most of the time in our six years of marriage I wore blue jeans and no makeup so he wouldn't be concerned. I didn't pay much attention to acting and even gained a little weight."

Miss Williams, who once opined that "marriage is the chief cause of divorce," said part of the reason for her split with Barrymore was her success in "The Defiant Ones" combined with his hard times.

"The tradition of his name was a major thing for him always," she said. "And I guess my success caught him at his lowest ebb. He never sent me a wire of congratulations."

Part of Miss Williams' therapy for her dirovce is a trip to New York, where she will appear in the Broadway play "Goodbye, Charlie" with Lauren Bacall and Sydney Chaplin.

French Star

Beautiful French star Chrisine Carere stars in "A Private's Affair" coming Sunday, Sept. 27, to the Paramount Theatre.

AFTER 29-YEAR ABSENCE

Pat O'Brien, Wife Returning To Stage

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Pat O'Brien and his wife, Eloise, are going back on stage together after an absence of 29 years during which time he made a batch of movie hits and she raised their four children.

"All the youngsters are grown up now, except the little on," Pat said. "Mavourneen is married; Sean, 23, an Air Force navigator, who is married and plans to make the service his career; and Terry, 18, is going to Georgetown University to study for the foreign service.

"That leaves little Bridget, who's 13 now," Pat added. "So, we can get away for awhile after leaving somebody here to care for her.

"Of course, Eloise can't be on the road too long. She'll have to come back and be with Bridget.

"In fact, it was the kids' idea that Eloise go on tour with me," the genial Irishman laughed.

Eloise, who co-starred in legitimate theatre with Pat before they were married, has done some TV personal appearances since then, but no plays.

"She's had lots of stage experience," Pat said, as he tuned in his radio to the San Francisco-Milwaukee baseball game.

Little Theater members traveled extensively this summer. One of the most enjoyable trips was taken by Mrs. Matt Hirsch, who toured Europe. Little Theater's own Beth Breese is attending LSU for the fall term. She will be missed in Little Theater circles.

The membership drive is underway. Purchase your tickets now. Call Jean Hamilton at FA 2-9812 or Myrtle Carter at FA 3-8509.

Board members are reminded that the Board meeting will be held at the home of the president, Mary Gill, 701 K Street on Monday night, Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m. Much important business is on the agenda and Mary would like to have a full attendance.

Curtain Call will be published weekly this year. Watch this column next week for the full cast of "Janus."

Sexy Looks No Asset, Actress Says

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Cara Williams, a red-haired temptress who moves in sections, says her sexiness has been a drawback in her acting career and her marriage to John Barrymore Jr.

"Most producers," she said, "thought of me as a chorus girl type until 'The Defiant Ones' got me a nomination for best supporting actress of last year.

"Unfortunately, I look like the kind of girl that producers chase around a desk."

Wearing tight white slacks and matching blouse, the Brooklyn-born actress slinked into a chair in her living room and explained:

"Sexy looks can be a handicap in this town, baby. You don't know how many people told me to change my hair, but it's mine and it's natural.

"Nobody listened when I said I had talent and had worked on the stage under Elia Kazan and played in the Chicago production of 'Born Yesterday.'"

Miss Williams, who admits to being somewhere between 30 and 32, lamented that being sexy also made for troubles in her ill-fated marriage to young Barrymore, 27.

"John's a fine actor and a nice boy, but he resented my looking attractive," said the actress, who is in the process of divorcing Barrymore.

"Most of the time in our six years of marriage I wore blue jeans and no makeup so he wouldn't be concerned. I didn't pay much attention to acting and even gained a little weight."

Miss Williams, who once opined that "marriage is the chief cause of divorce," said part of the reason for her split with Barrymore was her success in "The Defiant Ones" combined with his hard times.

"The tradition of his name was a major thing for him always," she said. "And I guess my success caught him at his lowest ebb. He never sent me a wire of congratulations."

Part of Miss Williams' therapy for her divorce is a trip to New York, where she will appear in the Broadway play "Goodbye, Charlie" with Lauren Bacall and Sydney Chaplin.

Lancaster Has Happy Review As Producer

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Burt Lancaster, as much a businessman as an actor, reviewed his 12 years of independent production today by comparing his most successful movie with his only turkey.

The balance sheet shows "Trapeze" earned 14 million dollars. "Sweet Smell of Success" lost 1½ million.

"And that about sums it up," he said. "I have ownership in 20 independent pictures, and you can safey say I'm way ahead of the game financially."

Burt, an iconoclastic guy who generally gets his way, was changing clothes in a sweltering dressing room at Columbia Pictures. Among the articles emptied from his pockets was a roll of hundred dollar bills that could have choked a Wells Fargo horse.

From sports shirt and slacks, Lancaster stepped into a pair of old fashioned BVD's for a scene in "Elmer Gantry," latest of his films, which he owns in conjunction with director Richard Brooks.

A peineer among actor-producers, the muscular star says his breed saved the motion picture industry.

"It's the best thing that ever happened to pictures," he said.

"I have no regrets about striking out on my own. You see, the only fun is investing myself in the creative end of the business. So far I've worked seven months on this picture without a penny of pay, but the excitement and stimulation of working on the script makes up for it."

Lancaster's success in the independent field encouraged such other stalwarts as John Wayne, Dick Powell and Kirk Douglas to branch into ownership-participation deals.

"A lot depends on the personality of the actor," he went on. Some like to perform and get out with the money, but I feel sorry for them because they have no real interest outside of acting.

"When I first started out the studios were opposed to independent producing. They didn't want actors moving in on their business.

"Now they welcome us. Ownership of movies is an important thing—like owning real estate. It's a question of whether actors want to gamble by working for a small salary and a large percentage of the profits. Others prefer a large salary spread out over a period of time to beat high taxes."

French Star

Beautiful French star Chrisine Carere stars in "A Private's Affair" coming Sunday, Sept. 27, to the Paramount Theatre.

AFTER 29-YEAR ABSENCE

Pat O'Brien, Wife Returning To Stage

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Pat O'Brien and his wife, Eloise, are going back on stage together after an absence of 29 years during which time he made a batch of movie hits and she raised their four children.

"All the youngsters are grown up now, except the little on," Pat said. "Mavourneen is married; Sean, 23, an Air Force navigator, who is married and plans to make the service his career; and Terry, 18, is going to Georgetown University to study for the foreign service.

"That leaves little Bridget, who's 13 now," Pat added. "So, we can get away for awhile after leaving somebody here to care for her.

"Of course, Eloise can't be on the road too long. She'll have to come back and be with Bridget.

"In fact, it was the kids' idea that Eloise go on tour with me," the genial Irishman laughed.

Eloise, who co-starred in legitimate theatre with Pat before they were married, has done some TV personal appearances since then, but no plays.

"She's had lots of stage experience," Pat said, as he tuned in his radio to the San Francisco-Milwaukee baseball game.

Past Lives Again In Vivid Painting

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

A century ago, a man and his wife posed for a portrait. During the past five months, their portrait "posed" for a new, vivid painting.

Their grave is surrounded by a weather - worn cast iron fence in the Old City Cemetery on busy DeSiard Street.

But they emerge from the past this Sunday when their portrait is dedicated at 2 p.m. in the Western Star Masonic Lodge.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert F. McGuire were leaders in the Monroe of the 1850's. Their contributions to Western Star still aid in the many charitable and civic activities of the lodge.

Charles Copeland, a city draftsman, artist and Mason, contributed 700 hours in painting an oil portrait of the historic couple.

GUIDED

Guided by the ragged remains of a 100 - year - old portrait that was nearly destroyed by fire, Copeland has recaptured the dignity and elegance of the late antebellum period.

Dr. and Mrs. McGuire posed for the original in New Orleans . . . probably at the start of the War Between the States. A Confederate battle flag flies from a distant rooftop in the portrait.

W. G. Nixon, worshipful master of the Lodge, observes that the new painting, "looks a great deal better than the old one. The colors are magnificent, and the facial features are perfect."

Using the finest grade of oil paints, Copeland created a work of art that he forecasts "should last 500 years, if it is not exposed to weather."

Dr. McGuire first saw Monroe in 1819, as his riverboat docked here. A young doctor, he had just completed medical school in Kentucky.

MARRIED

Within a year, he and almond-eyed Louise Lamy were married. The daughter of Judge Louis Lamy, she was born in wealth at the plantation home on Bayou DeSiard.

Monroe was in frontier country and a physician's life was hazardous.

For 33 years, the Kentucky doctor tended to sickness and injuries.

He rode 50 miles through rugged territory, cared for rural patients and evaded the bear, wildcats and wolves.

Dr. McGuire was fascinated by the practice of law. In 1853 he was admitted to the bar, and quickly became known as one of the keenest attorneys in north Louisiana.

OFFICIAL

A Mason, he was named worshipful master in 1852, 1853 and 1856, was deputy grand master in 1852 and first high priest of Monroe chapter in 1853.

He held the highest Masonic office in Louisiana in 1857, as grand high priest of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons.

The McGuires had two children, but in 1829, Lewis, 8, and Mary Louisa, 5, died. McGuire succumbed during the second year of the Civil War, on Aug. 8, 1862.

Mrs. McGuire devoted her time and property to the lodge, and in 1876, donated a large lot on Walnut Street for a lodge building.

Several thousand dollars and 1,000 acres of her plantation in the Cole addition also were given to the lodge. In 1880, she presented the original portrait of Dr. McGuire and herself.

"About all I could tell from the original was that Dr. McGuire's suit was black. A pin, probably medical caduces emblem, jutted from his shirt," reveals Copeland.

"Both faces still were clear and Mrs. McGuire's dress looked like black velvet, with lace collar and cuffs. I could see a Confederate flag on a building in the background. The rug had been added to the portrait and did not measure up to the rest of the painting," he recalls.

Going on this sketchy "model," Copeland painstakingly created an entire new, revitalized portrait.

"From the best I could tell, it was painted at the time when Henry Clay was in his heyday, so I borrowed a lawyer's book and copied the clothing from a Clay portrait," Copeland said.

Using an old rocking chair, a pair of borrowed black patent shoes and a lace panel as models, the artist created a lifelike portrait of Louise McGuire.

He studied a blue serge suit, "to get the proper effect of black buttons for Dr. McGuire's coat."

He turned an electric fan on a Confederate flag to get the proper flag creases for the portrait.

OBJECTIVE

"The main thing I was interested in was getting a likeness of the faces. The rest of the old portrait was in such bad condition, I had to use my imagination," Copeland explains.

He worked carefully . . . "it took four hours to get as close a likeness as possibly on a mouth."

The old portrait which had toppled onto a heater is nearly in ruins. The new one has a third-dimensional depth.

Copeland placed a few drops of water in his turpentine and oil, causing the paint to "sink into the canvas."

The advantage is this will lengthen the life of the portrait.

Lodge Master Nixon mounted the portrait in a mahogany frame. A masonic emblem of wrought iron, done by Nixon, adorns the top of the portrait.

ANOTHER

Copeland also is painting a portrait of Dr. McGuire for the Rayville Masonic lodge.

An artist who "never took a lesson," Copeland draws street plans and land plats for the city of Monroe.

A batchelor, he lives at 715 Calypso and "never paints just for a hobby."

"I have to force myself to paint, just to be killing time. I only enjoy painting if someone else wants something done," he reveals.

Several hundred Masons, their wives and friends will see the result of this generous talent at the portrait dedication, in the Western Star building, corner of DeSiard and N. Fourth this afternoon.

PENAL AUTHORITIES
Doubt Red Claims

By ROGER GREENE
Associated Press Writer

American penal authorities are frankly skeptical of claims that the Soviet Union has outstripped this country in the humane treatment of convicted criminals.

Nevertheless, members of Congress are beginning to question our own penal officials to find out why U. S. prisons are falling down on the job of rehabilitating criminals before returning them to society.

Among other things, recent travelers to the U.S.S.R. have reported:

1. Under the Soviet system, prison inmates live in hope instead of drifting in an atmosphere of black despair so common in American prisons. Riots and escape attempts are said to be rare.

WORK AT TRADE

2. Soviet prisoners work at a trade and earn as much as they would outside, thus helping support their families and saving money for a fresh start.

(In many U. S. prisons, the only job available are made work. Laws forbid prison-made goods to compete in the open market. And too often, when a man has served his time, he goes out to face the world in a prison-made suit with a $10 bill.)

3. Soviet authorities encourage the preservation of marriage ties and discourage sexual depravity in prison by permitting inmates' wives to visit them for several days each month.

By contrast with these reported conditions in the Soviet Union, too many U.S. prisons are swept by recurrent riots, seething with escape plots, and admittedly hotbeds of homosexuality.

But there is widespread doubt—and some controversy—whether methods adopted in the U.S.S.R. would be desirable in this country.

Discussing the Soviet conjugal visit system, Lamoyne Green, superintendent of Ohio's sparkling new 12-million-dollar Marion Correctional Institution, told me: "I don't know if we should build our population with children sired by murderers who are going to spend the rest of their lives in prison.

"There is a good deal of talk now about permitting home furloughs to prisoners with good behavior records. From the standpoint of rehabilitation, it might be a good thing, but from the standpoint of punishment it would be bad.

"When we see that a man is ready to go home and lead a decent life, than it's a different story. I'd let them go home over the weekend, during the last six weeks in prison, so they could look for a job and get back into the community."

FAVORS

James V. Bennett, veteran chief of the Federal Bureaus of Prissons and one of the country's top penologists, says he too would favor home furloughs for prisoners with good conduct records.

"I think it's the coming thing. And I'd give more discretion to wardens to grant such furloughs," he said in an interview.

As for Soviet-style conjugal visits in prison, Bennet said: "I don't think we're ready for that in this country. There's still a good deal of puritanical makeup in our people.

"But a restricted form of family visitation would solve many social problems if a selected prison were permitted, occasionally and particularly just prior to release, an opportunity to visit his family over a weekend."

So far as known, Mississippi's State Penitentiary at Parchman is the only American prison where conjugal visits are openly authorized. Perhaps significantly, it has escaped the unrest which has been exploding in prisons elsewhere across the country.

At Parchman, wives are permitted to visit their husbands every Sunday afternoon.

"We believe the program is very successful," says William Harpole, superintendent of the Mississippi prison.

"For one thing, the prisoners are contented. Perhaps more important is that allowing a man and his wife to have a little of the normal relationship helps hold families together while the man is in prison."

Parchman also permits 10-day Christmas furloughs for honor prisoners serving 10 years or more who have been in the penitentiary for five years and a trusty for six months. About 250 inmates get furloughs each Christmas.

The current furore over American penal methods gained momentum recently when New York's famed Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz reported he was amazed by what he saw during an inspection of the Soviet prison at Krukovd, outside Moscow.

Leibowitz hailed it as "so remarkable as to make our American (penal) methods seem positively archaic."

The New York jurist said he was told that the prison, with no walls or cells, has never experienced a riot. Describing Soviet prisoners, he said their cheerful faces contrast with "the beaten, shamed look of the American convict (and) the sickly, sullen atmosphere of the average American prison yard."

Leibowitz, writing in Life magazine, said he was also profoundly impressed by the Soviet system of conjugal visits as a means of averting homosexuality. Mexico, Argentina, Brazil and other Latin American countries have similar systems.

Most American wardens speak in guarded terms about "sexual tensions" in prison. Privately, they acknowledge that perversion is their biggest headache, often triggering bitter feuds, stabbings and riots.

During a recent visit to Ohio's 120-year-old State Penitentiary at Columbus, Warden Ralph W. Alvis told me: "We've got 14 known homos in the (solitary confinement) hole right now, and I'd be lying if I said there aren't plenty of others we haven't caught. What can you do when you've got 600 cells with four men in each cell?"

Commenting on Soviet Prison wages, Federal Prison Director Bennett says he doubts Soviet inmates get as much as $100 a month, as reported by Judge Leibowitz. The subject is frequently discussed at international penal conferences, he says, and "I never heard of so generous a system."

In this country, prison wages vary widely. Ohio, for example, pays its convicts 4 cents an hour for a maximum of 200 hours work a month—$8 a month. Those who send money home to dependents get 8 cents an hour.

Federal prisoners receive 12 to 30 cents an hour, according to skills involved in the work. Average pay is $33.35 a month.

To prison inmates, wages are important, but the big over-all question is how to rehabilitate the sex maniacs, murderers, forgers, burglars, embezzlers, arsonists, bank robbers, kidnapers, dope addicts, gang hoodlums, swindlers.

Psychiatrists say they are like a car running down a mountain road without brakes, and every warden knows the terrifying truth of that statement when inmates' pent-up emotions blow the lid off.

SEASON

Summer is the riot season. Exploding like a string of firecrackers, outbreaks of mass violence flare up in prisons across the land during the hot summer months. Each time, the public asks: why?

On a sweltering July day in 1956, guards patrolling the rim of Georgia's notorious Rock Quarry Prison were too hot to notice anything unusual—except a strange silence—as convicts toiling in the pit below took a 30-minute work break.

Unseen by the guards, 36 prisoners stuffed handkerchiefs into their mouth to stifle outcries of pain, hoisted 10-pound sledgehammers and deliberately smashed their own legs. Next day five more repeated the performance.

A few months later, 30 convicts at the same Rock Quarry prison slashed the achilles tendon in their heels with razor blades.

"They just don't want to work," said Warden Hubert Smith.

Penal authorities say the explanation is never quite that simple. Self-mutilation, they say, requires a greater stimulant than simply a desire not to work.

Prison inmates often resort to savage demonstrations in protest against wretched food, harsh discipline, brutal guards, overcrowded cells, constant shakedowns, and a host of other real or petty grievances.

But the overriding cause, according to experts, is the whole atmosphere of prison life: the deadly, corroding monotony of spending year after year behind bars, the sour stench of fear and animal-like hatreds, the reek of cabbage soup, rank stews and rancid grease, and the all-pervading prison smell of disinfectant.

Living like zombies, prison inmates suddenly awaken to the feverish excitement of a riot and become obsessed with a raging desire to destroy , burn and kill —until subdued by the fire hose, hunger, state troopers or National Guardsmen.

Asked why convicts riot, a long-time Ohio prison guard shrugged: "They just seem to want to wreck the joint."

Penologists say that theoretically a prison is a well-planned institution for reforming the criminal. Actually, they say, there are grave misgivings whether anything more effective could be contrived to debase the human personality.

Raw Fish Eater Is Plagued With Hallucinations

COLTON, Calif. (AP)—A feeling of impending death overwhelms you.

You're not sick, especially, but you are terribly afraid.

You know, beyond all reason, that you are going to die. So strongly do you feel this that you lie down and wait for death to come.

Twelve hours later you awaken. The fear is gone, but in its place are memories so poignant you feel almost as if you had been brought back from the dead.

What happened?

You just ate a small piece of tropical fish containing a natural poison which causes hallucinations of immense depression.

This poison, called a hallucinogen, is one of several new chemical substances found by Dr. Bruce Halstead in his worldwide hunt for the ancient secrets of primitive witch doctors.

"Russia is exceedingly interested in nerve drugs such as this," says Halstead, "so I can't disclose the name of the fish or the poison. But just think of the psychological effect it would have on a political prisoner—perhaps even on an entire population."

Not long ago he established an institute here devoted to the discovery of new foods and drugs in plant and animal life on land and in the oceans.

Past Lives Again In Vivid Painting

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

A century ago, a man and his wife posed for a portrait. During the past five months, their portrait "posed" for a new, vivid painting.

Their grave is surrounded by a weather - worn cast iron fence in the Old City Cemetery on busy DeSiard Street.

But they emerge from the past this Sunday when their portrait is dedicated at 2 p.m. in the Western Star Masonic Lodge.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert F. McGuire were leaders in the Monroe of the 1850's. Their contributions to Western Star still aid in the many charitable and civic activities of the lodge.

Charles Copeland, a city draftsman, artist and Mason, contributed 700 hours in painting an oil portrait of the historic couple.

GUIDED

Guided by the ragged remains of a 100 - year - old portrait that was nearly destroyed by fire, Copeland has recaptured the dignity and elegance of the late antebellum period.

Dr. and Mrs. McGuire posed for the original in New Orleans . . . probably at the start of the War Between the States. A Confederate battle flag flies from a distant rooftop in the portrait.

W. G. Nixon, worshipful master of the Lodge, observes that the new painting, "looks a great deal better than the old one. The colors are magnificent, and the facial features are perfect."

Using the finest grade of oil paints, Copeland created a work of art that he forecasts "should last 500 years, if it is not exposed to weather."

Dr. McGuire first saw Monroe in 1819, as his riverboat docked here. A young doctor, he had just completed medical school in Kentucky.

MARRIED

Within a year, he and almond-eyed Louise Lamy were married. The daughter of Judge Louis Lamy, she was born in wealth at the plantation home on Bayou DeSiard.

Monroe was in frontier country and a physician's life was hazardous.

For 33 years, the Kentucky doctor tended to sickness and injuries.

He rode 50 miles through rugged territory, cared for rural patients and evaded the bear, wildcats and wolves.

Dr. McGuire was fascinated by the practice of law. In 1853 he was admitted to the bar, and quickly became known as one of the keenest attorneys in north Louisiana.

OFFICIAL

A Mason, he was named worshipful master in 1852, 1853 and 1856, was deputy grand master in 1852 and first high priest of Monroe chapter in 1853.

He held the highest Masonic office in Louisiana in 1857, as grand high priest of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons.

The McGuires had two children, but in 1829, Lewis, 8, and Mary Louisa, 5, died. McGuire succumbed during the second year of the Civil War, on Aug. 8, 1862.

Mrs. McGuire devoted her time and property to the lodge, and in 1876, donated a large lot on Walnut Street for a lodge building.

Several thousand dollars and 1,000 acres of her plantation in the Cole addition also were given to the lodge. In 1880, she presented the original portrait of Dr. McGuire and herself.

"About all I could tell from the original was that Dr. McGuire's suit was black. A pin, probably medical caduces emblem, jutted from his shirt," reveals Copeland.

"Both faces still were clear and Mrs. McGuire's dress looked like black velvet, with lace collar and cuffs. I could see a Confederate flag on a building in the background. The rug had been added to the portrait and did not measure up to the rest of the painting," he recalls.

Going on this sketchy "model," Copeland painstakingly created an entire new, revitalized portrait.

"From the best I could tell, it was painted at the time when Henry Clay was in his heyday, so I borrowed a lawyer's book and copied the clothing from a Clay portrait," Copeland said.

Using an old rocking chair, a pair of borrowed black patent shoes and a lace panel as models, the artist created a lifelike portrait of Louise McGuire.

He studied a blue serge suit, "to get the proper effect of black buttons for Dr. McGuire's coat."

He turned an electric fan on a Confederate flag to get the proper flag creases for the portrait.

OBJECTIVE

"The main thing I was interested in was getting a likeness of the faces. The rest of the old portrait was in such bad condition, I had to use my imagination," Copeland explains.

He worked carefully . . . "it took four hours to get as close a likeness as possibly on a mouth."

The old portrait which had toppled onto a heater is nearly in ruins. The new one has a third-dimensional depth.

Copeland placed a few drops of water in his turpentine and oil, causing the paint to "sink into the canvas."

The advantage is this will lengthen the life of the portrait.

Lodge Master Nixon mounted the portrait in a mahogany frame. A masonic emblem of wrought iron, done by Nixon, adorns the top of the portrait.

ANOTHER

Copeland also is painting a portrait of Dr. McGuire for the Rayville Masonic lodge.

An artist who "never took a lesson," Copeland draws street plans and land plats for the city of Monroe.

A batchelor, he lives at 715 Calypso and "never paints just for a hobby."

"I have to force myself to paint, just to be killing time. I only enjoy painting if someone else wants something done," he reveals.

Several hundred Masons, their wives and friends will see the result of this generous talent at the portrait dedication, in the Western Star building, corner of DeSiard and N. Fourth this afternoon.

PENAL AUTHORITIES
Doubt Red Claims

By ROGER GREENE
Associated Press Writer

American penal authorities are frankly skeptical of claims that the Soviet Union has outstripped this country in the humane treatment of convicted criminals.

Nevertheless, members of Congress are beginning to question our own penal officials to find out why U. S. prisons are falling down on the job of rehabilitating criminals before returning them to society.

Among other things, recent travelers to the U.S.S.R. have reported:

1. Under the Soviet system, prison inmates live in hope instead of drifting in an atmosphere of black despair so common in American prisons. Riots and escape attempts are said to be rare.

WORK AT TRADE

2. Soviet prisoners work at a trade and earn as much as they would outside, thus helping support their families and saving money for a fresh start.

(In many U. S. prisons, the only job available are made work. Laws forbid prison-made goods to compete in the open market. And too often, when a man has served his time, he goes out to face the world in a prison-made suit with a $10 bill.)

3. Soviet authorities encourage the preservation of marriage ties and discourage sexual depravity in prison by permitting inmates' wives to visit them for several days each month.

By contrast with these reported conditions in the Soviet Union, too many U.S. prisons are swept by recurrent riots, seething with escape plots, and admittedly hotbeds of homosexuality.

But there is widespread doubt—and some controversy—whether methods adopted in the U.S.S.R. would be desirable in this country.

Discussing the Soviet conjugal visit system, Lamoyne Green, superintendent of Ohio's sparkling new 12-million-dollar Marion Correctional Institution, told me: "I don't know if we should build our population with children sired by murderers who are going to spend the rest of their lives in prison.

"There is a good deal of talk now about permitting home furloughs to prisoners with good behavior records. From the standpoint of rehabilitation, it might be a good thing, but from the standpoint of punishment it would be bad.

"When we see that a man is ready to go home and lead a decent life, than it's a different story. I'd let them go home over the weekend, during the last six weeks in prison, so they could look for a job and get back into the community."

FAVORS

James V. Bennett, veteran chief of the Federal Bureaus of Prisons and one of the country's top penologists, says he too would favor home furloughs for prisoners with good conduct records.

"I think it's the coming thing. And I'd give more discretion to wardens to grant such furloughs," he said in an interview.

As for Soviet-style conjugal visits in prison, Bennet said: "I don't think we're ready for that in this country. There's still a good deal of puritanical makeup in our people.

"But a restricted form of family visitation would solve many social problems if a selected prison were permitted, occasionally and particularly just prior to release, an opportunity to visit his family over a weekend."

So far as known, Mississippi's State Penitentiary at Parchman is the only American prison where conjugal visits are openly authorized. Perhaps significantly, it has escaped the unrest which has been exploding in prisons elsewhere across the country.

At Parchman, wives are permitted to visit their husbands every Sunday afternoon.

"We believe the program is very successful," says William Harpole, superintendent of the Mississippi prison.

"For one thing, the prisoners are contented. Perhaps more important is that allowing a man and his wife to have a little of the normal relationship helps hold families together while the man is in prison."

Parchman also permits 10-day Christmas furloughs for honor prisoners serving 10 years or more who have been in the penitentiary for five years and a trusty for six months. About 250 inmates get furloughs each Christmas.

The current furore over American penal methods gained momentum recently when New York's famed Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz reported he was amazed by what he saw during an inspection of the Soviet prison at Krukovd, outside Moscow.

Leibowitz hailed it as "so remarkable as to make our American (penal) methods seem positively archaic."

The New York jurist said he was told that the prison, with no walls or cells, has never experienced a riot. Describing Soviet prisoners, he said their cheerful faces contrast with "the beaten, shamed look of the American convict (and) the sickly, sullen atmosphere of the average American prison yard."

Leibowitz, writing in Life magazine, said he was also profoundly impressed by the Soviet system of conjugal visits as a means of averting homosexuality. Mexico, Argentina, Brazil and other Latin American countries have similar systems.

Constitutional Elections

America's democratic election system will be in full swing in Louisiana and in the individual parishes, wards and precincts during the slightly less than three months between now and the December 5 primary.

In most races there are plenty of candidates to choose from. In those races in which there is only one candidate, the qualifications of these candidates and the general approbation of the candidates have been accepted. If this were not so, they would have had opponents, for the opportunity was there during the whole qualification period

Our form of government seems good, whether compared to those in which there is no flexibility or to those in which there is even more flexibility. No flexibility means dictatorship and too much flexibility may mean a government that is not stable enough. In Russia and other dictator countries there are no free elections. In England, France and many other countries elections are held when the governments decide to step down or when they receive votes of no confidence. In the United States we have free, open elections at specified times, so that people can vote changes if they want them, but in which the government is not continually on trial.

Other nations may like their forms of government but we like ours and still think it is best. We find no example of a nation which has a better form of government than ours and we object when any group of radicals attempts to break down this system or to take from the states the rights that belong to them.

While Louisiana is witnessing democracy in action in the coming election campaigns and in the voting that will take place in the first primary and the subsequent elections, the same thing is taking place in many other states, either now or later.

Appropriately, the official opening of this year's election campaign season in Louisiana falls near the time of Constitution Week, a week set aside for paying honor and respect to and expressing gratitude for the Constitution of the United States, which gives us our freedom and guarantees our free elections.

Public law No. 915 guarantees the issuing of a proclamation by the president of the United States of America designating September 17 through 23 of each year as Constitution Week.

Such a proclamation not only has been issued this year by President Eisehower but by the governors of many states and the mayors of many cities, including Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard of Monroe. Governors and mayors are not required by law to issue these proclamations but do it out of recognition of our unsurpassed form of government.

For a good many years the Daughters of the American Revolution have paid special attention to Constitution Week and have helped to call attention to the heritage it has given us as American citizens.

September 17, 1959, marked the 172nd anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States.

We are well aware of the threat against our country posed by Russia and, from time to time, other countries, but we know that as long as we remain strong and adhere to the principles of our country we will be a free nation, well able to cope with threats from the outside.

Our greatest danger is not from the enemies from without but from those within. Those who continually try to gnaw away at our constitution and the principles for which it stands are the enemies who should be feared most.

Among these enemies our peril is not from direct assault but from insidious infiltration—from breaking down our ideals and our principles bit by bit. Those who would trample on the constitution in the name of a fictitious grand cause or Utopian mirage are more to be feared than the enemies from the outside who might like to devour us.

Because of the need for preserving our constitution, our American form of government and our principles, the custom of observing Constitution week deserves the highest praise and support.

Defensive Driving

Some earnest workers in the interest of safe driving take a rather strange position. The terms they use seem either to be misnomers or of doubtful value.

Going along with the proposed method, one commentator says:

"Now and then some expert on traffic advises the average motorist to indulge in 'defensive driving.'

"There may be no precise set of rules and regulations for the procedure mentioned, but the general idea is clear enough, or so it seems to us. It means keeping fully alert at all times and presuming that every other driver on the road may do the worst possible thing at the most inopportune time.

"One pretty good driver we know says he assumes that every other motorist is either crazy or apt to be. It amounts to the same thing, we suppose. Expect the left turn from the right lane, that is to say, and so on and on."

Rather than being defensive, we would say that a driver should be alert, careful and confident. Total defensiveness is hardly a good plan to follow in any endeavor.

No businessman who is purely defensive will succeed and neither will anyone succeed in any of the sports if his attitude is wholly defensive. The same is true of nations. Total defensiveness takes away confidence and confidence is necessary in any activity.

To say that a motorist should regard all other drivers as insane is the equivalent of saying that every businessman should question the sanity and honesty of other businessmen.

Everything we do is based largely on our confidence in other people. Anyone who distrusts everybody will be distrusted and anyone who thinks all other people are crazy will be considered crazy.

A driver who actually expected all other drivers to do the wrong thing would be so jumpy that he would not be capable of driving safely himself.

As a matter of fact, about 90 per cent of the drivers are safe and anyone who watches streams of traffic pouring through the streets might well be pleased with the smoothness with which the traffic flows. Probably not more than 10 per cent of the drivers upset this flow and drive dangerously.

Nothing in this is intended to mean that motorists should assume that all drivers are safe drivers. That is the farthest thing from our minds.

In business, we assume that most men are honest, and most of them are. We conduct our business on that basis and do not take a distrustful attitude toward everyone who comes along. That does not keep us from exercising proper precautions against being defrauded or from punishing those who are dishonest. We are thus better able to recognize dishonesty than if we distrusted everyone.

The same is true in driving. If a driver kept a suspicious eye on all the other drivers he would not have time to look out for the driver who does the dangerously unexpected thing.

An alert mind and an alert eye, surveying the whole situation, will do far more toward furthering safe driving than will a suspicious attitude toward everybody.

Kansas Not Included

Khrushchev Should See Russians Now Living In Kansas Who Fled Horrors Of Communist Russia

Khrushchev's program does not include Kansas where a large party of Russian Mennonites settled as far back as 1874. These Russians came from the steppes of South Russia and brought with them the seeds for "Turkey Red" wheat. Their story is told by Kendall Bailes in the August issue of American Heritage.

As I read this article, I could not help thinking that it would be a wonderful experience for Khrushchev to go to Kansas to meet the descendants of these immigrants who today are very different from their ancestors who came to America in search of religious freedom. They are no longer frightened people.

Khrushchev comes from a country which cannot accept religious freedom because it interferes with an old Russian adage, "One Czar, one religion, one language." It was the acceptance of this principle by Czar Alexander II which drove the German-speaking Mennonites from Russia to Kansas. In Kansas, they found religious freedom. They settled along the Sante Fe Railroad and no one has interfered with them since, except for a slight misunderstanding about Mennonite pacifism during World War I.

It would be a valuable experience for a man who had never lived in a system of freedom to see what can happen to men from his own country who settled in this land nine decades ago. Altogether 18,000 of them left Russia between 1873 and 1883. Of these, 10,000 went to Kansas, Nebraska and Dakota Territory — mostly to Kansas, however. About 8,000 immigrated to Manitoba in Canada.

In Washington, Khrushchev will meet officials; in New York, he will meet capitalistic tycoons. In Kansas, however, he could meet people whose ancestors were like his, farmers who toiled black soil and who believed in God. Now he can meet their children and grandchildren, English-speaking, looking like any other Americans anywhere, but worshipping God in their own way uncompromisingly. They have been among our most successful farmers and are honored and respected wherever they live.

It could be a novel experience for Khrushchev to meet such Americans. Of course, he can meet other kinds of ex-Russians in many parts of this country, even in New York. He can also meet some of the men and women who helped to make the Russian revolution to which he is an heir. He did not participate in the initial battles, for he only joined the Communist Party in 1918. But he could sit down with Alexander Kerensky and discover what it took to break away from Czarism. He might hear first hand the story of the early struggles from some of the real revolutionaries who have taken refuge in this country.

Religious freedom is one of the most valuable assets of American life. In Soviet Russia it is not only non-existent but it is regarded as absurd. No person may be a member of the Communist Party unless he is an atheist which means that no God-fearing or God-loving person may hold high office in that country. This is regarded as a scientific view of life. The few religious buildings that remain are a compromise.

Demos Will Slug

Undecided On Whether To Do It Now Or Wait For Convention

The question before the Democrats when their National Committee meets here Wednesday will be whether they should slug it out now or at the National Convention in Los Angeles next summer. The prospects are that they will fully employ both occasions.

That would mean that the slugfest would be staged here and be resumed with greater intensity in Los Angeles and that it will probably be continued throughout the summer and into the autumn of 1960.

It has been 23 years since the Democrats could say they were fresh out of family quarrels. In that year — 1936 — they renominated Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Nance Garner and went on to an electoral sweep which took in all but the States of Maine and Vermont.

In 1940 and 1944 the division was over an unprecedented third and fourth nomination to President Roosevelt. In 1948 there was at the outset of the Philadelphia convention what at first looked like a majority sentiment to sidetrack President Truman, and which collapsed only when General Dwight D. Eisenhower made it known he would not accept a nomination from the Democrats.

There was the bolt of some Southern delegations from the 1948 convention, and the subsequent nomination of the Thurmond - Wright ticket, which carried four Southern States. Since then there have been the loyalty oaths fights of 1952 and 1956, and that is what the shouting is all about now.

The loyalty oath has been rechristened twice since it was trotted out in 1952. This year it is being called "the good faith pledge," but by whatever name it may be called it identifies the ghost of division which walks within the Democratic party. The focal point of that schism is civil rights and integration and what the party platform and candidates will have to say on those subjects.

This year at the national committee meeting and next year at the national convention the issue is a rule aimed at curbing party revolts. State party rules and laws permit the choice of unpledged electors in Arkansas, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi. Other States are talking of taking similar action. The liberal wing of the party wants to purge delegates from these States from taking part in writing the platform or nominating candidates unless they give a "good faith pledge."

To avoid this purge their state Democratic organizations in convention would send their delegates to the National convention with the pledge that it "undertakes to assure that voters in the State will have the opportunity to cast their election ballots for the Presidential and Vice Presidential nominees selected by said convention, and for electors pledged formally and in good conscience to the election of these Presidential and Vice Presidential nominees under the Democratic party label and designation."

The Democratic National Committee will undergo some competition for newspaper headlines and radio and television coverage. Nikita Khrushchev will be holding a press conference at the National Press Club and engaging in other attention-taking activities. But no foreign interloper of any kind, especially a Muscovite Communist, is going to keep the undaunted Democrats from plunging headlong into a dubious party battle.

The plain fact is that the liberal wing of the Democratic party does not include the prospect as dubious at all. They don't think the South will fight. Their reasoning is that Dixieland will go through a routine of breast-beating both here this week and at Los Angeles next summer and then swing into line behind the ticket nominated there.

There is a minority in the North and West who do not relish a fight and fear that 1960 might just be the year the South would revolt. Their reasoning is that while Democratic office holders, especially in Congress, will take whatever ticket is nominated and platform written in Los Angeles and try to persuade their States that they have nothing to expect from either the Republican party or a third party, non office - holders and some State office holders might assume a different view.

One State, and not a large State at that, may contribute decisively the difference in the South's attitude in 1960. In 1956 Governor J. P. Coleman of Mississippi was one of the architects of the loyalty rule adopted by the convention. His successor-designate, Ross Barnett, isn't about to agree to any such rule when he goes to Los Angeles as the Governor of the State and leader of his delegation next year.

Good Dictator?

One Is As Bad As Another Regardless Of Reason For Action

WASHINGTON, D.C. — During last winter's Cuban Revolution many were playing the game which was entitled here, "My Dictator Is Nicer Than Yours." This silly business was played off and on during the Congressional session. Last Saturday night in the Senate the game nearly turned into a fracas between Senators Fulbright and Dodd.

Earlier in the year, it was Senator Morse — he entered a proposal to the effect that Latin American dictators should get no American aid. Then there was Senator Kennedy — he was for aiding Communist dictators in Europe just so long as they weren't Russian. Finally there was Senator Fulbright — he demurred against our stone-faced attitude of non-recognition of Red China and took the position himself of non-aid to Dictator Franco of Spain. Senator Dodd disagreed — and there were harsh words.

Later on, Dodd got to thinking (he tells me) of a Memorial Day address which he made in Norwich, Conn., in what seems like the pre-historical year of 1937. In that long-ago speech when he held no national office, Dodd commented with some asperity upon the Spanish Revolution, and went on to discuss the several dictators of that day — Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini and Franco. When he returned home, one of his children cut through all the oratorical embroidery and asked him what was the difference between one dictator and another:

"My answer was pretty good and I wish I'd used it in public," mused Dodd. "Here in Washington I'm finding that people aren't against dictatorship—they're just against some dictators. When Morse introduced that resolution against peanut - and-banana dictators, I asked him why he didn't make it a general indictment? How can you condemn the despot of some little country and not take even a stronger position against Khrushchev, who affects the lives of millions? I told my child that so far as it mattered to him, there was no difference between Communism, Fascism, or Nazism. One dictator persecutes in the name of racism, another in the name of statism — one excuse is as bad as the next."

Foreign aid need not indicate approval of the aided country. In the Cold War against Communism foreign aid is ammunition which we are expending, whether wisely or not. But no people in Latin America, Africa, Asia or Europe ought to get thhe idea that we like Castro but not Batista; like Chiang but not Mao; like Trujillo but not Jimenez, like DeGaulle's legalized domination of Algeria but don't like Khrushchev's de facto domination of Hungary. This country, although not foolish enough (let's hope) to go around fighting other people's wars, is against dictatorships — big, little and middling.

In past years, to say that this country opposed dictatorship would be to recite the obvious. But with all the meddling in internationalism, all the joining of 40-some entangling alliances, the American foreign policy has no more constancy or morality than a tom cat on the prowl. In the asinine game of "My Dictator Is Nicer ...." the Lunatic Leftists love Castro, while the Radical Rightists love Chiange Kai-shek. And if you're a writer who dosen't agree, they don't love you at all.

But the plain American people, I would bet, still have a bedrock belief that dictatorship is wrong, regardless of what color its shirt. This would account for the coolness of many people toward the Khrushchev visit and their underlying repugnance toward the implied Eisehhower Doctrine of buttering up Big K. so that we don't have to fight him.

For — how can we finally be friends with any dictator? Especially one who bestrides not a few loin-cloth natives but half the world's population?

Senator Dodd's explanation to his child might seem too simple for our national foreign policy, but has anything better come out of the State Department or the White House or the Senate? And in this game which finds sophisticated Senators holding one dictator as superior to another, how many fathers would like to explain that one to their children?

Dictatorship is not an American dish. When you've said that, you've stated a policy which a child in his innate honesty will accept, and which a grown - up American in search of truth will need to explain no further.

Fraud In Magic

Formula Is Shown For Getting Best Gambling Hand

In recommending a mail fraud order against a Los Angeles firm dealing in "black and white magic," a post office department examiner recently found that the firm's scheme "consists of dangling a chain before gullible prospects and having the prospects swallow the chain a link at a time." Typical of the "magic" guaranteed by the firm was this formula for getting the best gambling hand: "you will take the nutmeg of India, in it you will drill a hole in which you will pour the pure mercury and seal it with pure wax. After this, take a Chamois Bag, in this bay you will put a piece of Highly Magnetic Sand, John the Conqueror Root, Devil Shoe String, and the Five Finger Grass, then on top of this you will place the prepared Nutmeg of India. This done, seal the bag; and on the outside of this bag you shall sprinkle three drops of Jockey Club Perfume once every week." Naturally, the firm sold all the exotic ingredients as a "slight additional charge."

Senate Majority Whip Sen. Mike Mansfield (D - Mont.) thinks he knows a stall when he sees it. During efforts by some of his Democratic colleagues to delay consideration of a measure until they had time to read the transcript of public hearings, Mansfield rose to say, "I may say I know a dilatory tactic when I see it, even if it is being committed by a Democrat."

WHATS IN A NAME one of the knottiest problems facing Capitol Hill wizzards is what to call the $64 million third House office building now under construction. At present, one of the two existing buildings housing Congressmen and their staffs is the Old House Office Building and the other is the New House Office Building. When the third building is completed sometime in 1962, members wonder, what happens? Does it become the New, New H. O. B., or does the oldest building become the Old, Old H. O. B or what?

One member opposed to the construction of the new building recently offered a suggestion which might solve the problem—just call the third building "The Monster."

Rep. Richard Bolling (D-Mo.) was presiding over the House last week during an emotional debate on a controversial measure. During the debate, one member leaped to his feet demanding to be recognized. Bolling solemnly intoned, "The Gentleman is recognized in support of his emotion."

THE BACK PAGE AND THE BACK DOOR — That is the title that Republican Senate Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois personally put on a short speech he made in the Senate last week. He was complaining, perhaps a little late, over the frequent use of the back page of the daily Congressional Record, for a tabulation of two tables, never before published in the Record. One, which is normally carried on the Congress, details appropriation bills and their status. This did not concern Dirksen a great deal, but the second table did. It has the following heading: New obligational authority provided outside the appropriations process (so - called backdoor financing.) The idea, according to the Illinois Senator, originated with Democratic Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, and Dirksen had to admit to the Senate that Johnson was only able to insert this unusual feature in the factual Congressional Record by unanimous consent. Conceding that perhaps he had been outfoxed on political propaganda in the official record of Congressional deliberation, Dirksen, who is not only an astute politician, but has a good sense of humor, told the Senate:

"I am wondering whether we ought to ask unanimous consent to have some other tables printed in the Record. Of course, we cannot have two back pages of the Record — that is the difficulty — any more than we can have two back doors. One back door that is wide enough and high enough is sufficient to enable money to be shoveled out of the Treasury. But there cannot be two back pages of the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, unless I obtain unanimous consent to have such an arrangement made, although I do not know how the Government Printing Office would be able to contrive it. So I shall have to try to think up some other dodge, in order to have printed in the Record a table which will receive equal emphasis."

Constitutional Elections

America's democratic election system will be in full swing in Louisiana and in the individual parishes, wards and precincts during the slightly less than three months between now and the December 5 primary.

In most races there are plenty of candidates to choose from. In those races in which there is only one candidate, the qualifications of these candidates and the general approbation of the candidates have been accepted. If this were not so, they would have had opponents, for the opportunity was there during the whole qualification period

Our form of government seems good, whether compared to those in which there is no flexibility or to those in which there is even more flexibility. No flexibility means dictatorship and too much flexibility may mean a government that is not stable enough. In Russia and other dictator countries there are no free elections. In England, France and many other countries elections are held when the governments decide to step down or when they receive votes of no confidence. In the United States we have free, open elections at specified times, so that people can vote changes if they want them, but in which the government is not continually on trial.

Other nations may like their forms of government but we like ours and still think it is best. We find no example of a nation which has a better form of government than ours and we object when any group of radicals attempts to break down this system or to take from the states the rights that belong to them.

While Louisiana is witnessing democracy in action in the coming election campaigns and in the voting that will take place in the first primary and the subsequent elections, the same thing is taking place in many other states, either now or later.

Appropriately, the official opening of this year's election campaign season in Louisiana falls near the time of Constitution Week, a week set aside for paying honor and respect to and expressing gratitude for the Constitution of the United States, which gives us our freedom and guarantees our free elections.

Public law No. 915 guarantees the issuing of a proclamation by the president of the United States of America designating September 17 through 23 of each year as Constitution Week.

Such a proclamation not only has been issued this year by President Eisehower but by the governors of many states and the mayors of many cities, including Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard of Monroe. Governors and mayors are not required by law to issue these proclamations but do it out of recognition of our unsurpassed form of government.

For a good many years the Daughters of the American Revolution have paid special attention to Constitution Week and have helped to call attention to the heritage it has given us as American citizens.

September 17, 1959, marked the 172nd anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States.

We are well aware of the threat against our country posed by Russia and, from time to time, other countries, but we know that as long as we remain strong and adhere to the principles of our country we will be a free nation, well able to cope with threats from the outside.

Our greatest danger is not from the enemies from without but from those within. Those who continually try to gnaw away at our constitution and the principles for which it stands are the enemies who should be feared most.

Among these enemies our peril is not from direct assault but from insidious infiltration—from breaking down our ideals and our principles bit by bit. Those who would trample on the constitution in the name of a fictitious grand cause or Utopian mirage are more to be feared than the enemies from the outside who might like to devour us.

Because of the need for preserving our constitution, our American form of government and our principles, the custom of observing Constitution week deserves the highest praise and support.

Defensive Driving

Some earnest workers in the interest of safe driving take a rather strange position. The terms they use seem either to be misnomers or of doubtful value.

Going along with the proposed method, one commentator says:

"Now and then some expert on traffic advises the average motorist to indulge in 'defensive driving.'

"There may be no precise set of rules and regulations for the procedure mentioned, but the general idea is clear enough, or so it seems to us. It means keeping fully alert at all times and presuming that every other driver on the road may do the worst possible thing at the most inopportune time.

"One pretty good driver we know says he assumes that every other motorist is either crazy or apt to be. It amounts to the same thing, we suppose. Expect the left turn from the right lane, that is to say, and so on and on."

Rather than being defensive, we would say that a driver should be alert, careful and confident. Total defensiveness is hardly a good plan to follow in any endeavor.

No businessman who is purely defensive will succeed and neither will anyone succeed in any of the sports if his attitude is wholly defensive. The same is true of nations. Total defensiveness takes away confidence and confidence is necessary in any activity.

To say that a motorist should regard all other drivers as insane is the equivalent of saying that every businessman should question the sanity and honesty of other businessmen.

Everything we do is based largely on our confidence in other people. Anyone who distrusts everybody will be distrusted and anyone who thinks all other people are crazy will be considered crazy.

A driver who actually expected all other drivers to do the wrong thing would be so jumpy that he would not be capable of driving safely himself.

As a matter of fact, about 90 per cent of the drivers are safe and anyone who watches streams of traffic pouring through the streets might well be pleased with the smoothness with which the traffic flows. Probably not more than 10 per cent of the drivers upset this flow and drive dangerously.

Nothing in this is intended to mean that motorists should assume that all drivers are safe drivers. That is the farthest thing from our minds.

In business, we assume that most men are honest, and most of them are. We conduct our business on that basis and do not take a distrustful attitude toward everyone who comes along. That does not keep us from exercising proper precautions against being defrauded or from punishing those who are dishonest. We are thus better able to recognize dishonesty than if we distrusted everyone.

The same is true in driving. If a driver kept a suspicious eye on all the other drivers he would not have time to look out for the driver who does the dangerously unexpected thing.

An alert mind and an alert eye, surveying the whole situation, will do far more toward furthering safe driving than will a suspicious attitude toward everybody.

Kansas Not Included

Khrushchev Should See Russians Now Living In Kansas Who Fled Horrors Of Communist Russia

Khrushchev's program does not include Kansas where a large party of Russian Mennonites settled as far back as 1874. These Russians came from the steppes of South Russia and brought with them the seeds for "Turkey Red" wheat. Their story is told by Kendall Bailes in the August issue of American Heritage.

As I read this article, I could not help thinking that it would be a wonderful experience for Khrushchev to go to Kansas to meet the descendants of these immigrants who today are very different from their ancestors who came to America in search of religious freedom. They are no longer frightened people.

Khrushchev comes from a country which cannot accept religious freedom because it interferes with an old Russian adage, "One Czar, one religion, one language." It was the acceptance of this principle by Czar Alexander II which drove the German-speaking Mennonites from Russia to Kansas. In Kansas, they found religious freedom. They settled along the Sante Fe Railroad and no one has interfered with them since, except for a slight misunderstanding about Mennonite pacifism during World War I.

It would be a valuable experience for a man who had never lived in a system of freedom to see what can happen to men from his own country who settled in this land nine decades ago. Altogether 18,000 of them left Russia between 1873 and 1883. Of these, 10,000 went to Kansas, Nebraska and Dakota Territory — mostly to Kansas, however. About 8,000 immigrated to Manitoba in Canada.

In Washington, Khrushchev will meet officials; in New York, he will meet capitalistic tycoons. In Kansas, however, he could meet people whose ancestors were like his, farmers who toiled black soil and who believed in God. Now he can meet their children and grandchildren, English-speaking, looking like any other Americans anywhere, but worshipping God in their own way uncompromisingly. They have been among our most successful farmers and are honored and respected wherever they live.

It could be a novel experience for Khrushchev to meet such Americans. Of course, he can meet other kinds of ex-Russians in many parts of this country, even in New York. He can also meet some of the men and women who helped to make the Russian revolution to which he is an heir. He did not participate in the initial battles, for he only joined the Communist Party in 1918. But he could sit down with Alexander Kerensky and discover what it took to break away from Czarism. He might hear first hand the story of the early struggles from some of the real revolutionaries who have taken refuge in this country.

Religious freedom is one of the most valuable assets of American life. In Soviet Russia it is not only non-existent but it is regarded as absurd. No person may be a member of the Communist Party unless he is an atheist which means that no God-fearing or God-loving person may hold high office in that country. This is regarded as a scientific view of life. The few religious buildings that remain are a compromise.

Demos Will Slug

Undecided On Whether To Do It Now Or Wait For Convention

The question before the Democrats when their National Committee meets here Wednesday will be whether they should slug it out now or at the National Convention in Los Angeles next summer. The prospects are that they will fully employ both occasions.

That would mean that the slugfest would be staged here and be resumed with greater intensity in Los Angeles and that it will probably be continued throughout the summer and into the autumn of 1960.

It has been 23 years since the Democrats could say they were fresh out of family quarrels. In that year — 1936 — they renominated Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Nance Garner and went on to an electoral sweep which took in all but the States of Maine and Vermont.

In 1940 and 1944 the division was over an unprecedented third and fourth nomination to President Roosevelt. In 1948 there was at the outset of the Philadelphia convention what at first looked like a majority sentiment to sidetrack President Truman, and which collapsed only when General Dwight D. Eisenhower made it known he would not accept a nomination from the Democrats.

There was the bolt of some Southern delegations from the 1948 convention, and the subsequent nomination of the Thurmond - Wright ticket, which carried four Southern States. Since then there have been the loyalty oaths fights of 1952 and 1956, and that is what the shouting is all about now.

The loyalty oath has been rechristened twice since it was trotted out in 1952. This year it is being called "the good faith pledge," but by whatever name it may be called it identifies the ghost of division which walks within the Democratic party. The focal point of that schism is civil rights and integration and what the party platform and candidates will have to say on those subjects.

This year at the national committee meeting and next year at the national convention the issue is a rule aimed at curbing party revolts. State party rules and laws permit the choice of unpledged electors in Arkansas, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi. Other States are talking of taking similar action. The liberal wing of the party wants to purge delegates from these States from taking part in writing the platform or nominating candidates unless they give a "good faith pledge."

To avoid this purge their state Democratic organizations in convention would send their delegates to the National convention with the pledge that it "undertakes to assure that voters in the State will have the opportunity to cast their election ballots for the Presidential and Vice Presidential nominees selected by said convention, and for electors pledged formally and in good conscience to the election of these Presidential and Vice Presidential nominees under the Democratic party label and designation."

The Democratic National Committee will undergo some competition for newspaper headlines and radio and television coverage. Nikita Khrushchev will be holding a press conference at the National Press Club and engaging in other attention-taking activities. But no foreign interloper of any kind, especially a Muscovite Communist, is going to keep the undaunted Democrats from plunging headlong into a dubious party battle.

The plain fact is that the liberal wing of the Democratic party does not include the prospect as dubious at all. They don't think the South will fight. Their reasoning is that Dixieland will go through a routine of breast-beating both here this week and at Los Angeles next summer and then swing into line behind the ticket nominated there.

There is a minority in the North and West who do not relish a fight and fear that 1960 might just be the year the South would revolt. Their reasoning is that while Democratic office holders, especially in Congress, will take whatever ticket is nominated and platform written in Los Angeles and try to persuade their States that they have nothing to expect from either the Republican party or a third party, non office - holders and some State office holders might assume a different view.

One State, and not a large State at that, may contribute decisively the difference in the South's attitude in 1960. In 1956 Governor J. P. Coleman of Mississippi was one of the architects of the loyalty rule adopted by the convention. His successor-designate, Ross Barnett, isn't about to agree to any such rule when he goes to Los Angeles as the Governor of the State and leader of his delegation next year.

Wayward Hope

EDITOR'S NOTE — Gang violence exploding this summer in New York's juvenile jungle has touched off a profusion of recommendations for curbing delinquency. But as the experts wrangle, and gang boys and girls watch cynically, a Salvation Army home in a nearby community is quietly going about its business of turning wayward girls into responsible young women.

By BERNARD GAVZER

VALLEY STREAM, N.Y. (AP) —Dolly is a 15-year-old blue-eyed blonde with a body bursting into womanly curves. For her favors, teen-age gangs cracked heads and waged bloody battles.

In the bucolic setting of this Long Island community, she has not been drunk for more than 11 months.

Fourteen - year - old Rebecca, a lovely coffee-colored girl who was seduced at 13, once spent a harrowing night in a seamy New York hotel room defending herself against three drunks who tried to batter down the door. It wasn't until she was 10 that she realized her Scandinavian father was white—and that white people were different.

At 16, Grace is torn by a terrible fear of dying. She wants to turn time back, so far into the past that she would have no handsome stepfather, no beautiful mother, no kid brothers or sister —never have been born herself. Her family is like the "ideal" one that could be pictured on the cover of a magazine—but she can't keep from running away from it.

Dolly, Rebecca and Grace are wayward minors. Their difficulties have never made headlines, but they've caused enough grief to come before a judge in Children's Court.

Rather than being let loose on the streets or being confined in reformatories where they could learn tougher ways, they have been sent to the Salvation Army's Wayside Home School for Girls.

"We try to give them something they never had," says Maj. Emily Eastwood, a tall, gray - haired woman whose voice has a quality suggesting infinite patience. "We try to give them love and understanding and guidance and discipline."

Such a program implies a great deal of personal attention. And at Wayside there are almost as many staff members as girls.

"Eight of the staff live in," says the major, "but altogether we have 20, including a professional case worker, a psychologist, a psychiatrist, a psysician, a registered nurse and three teachers. Now we have 27 girls, but after our building program is completed we may have 43."

There is considerable excitement among the girls and the staff about the building program. A high point comes Monday with the dedication of two splendid new cottages and an addition to the old Tudor building in which they all once resided.

In the ranch - style cottages, where there are sunken living rooms and expansive sun-porches as well as smart kitchens, the girls seem to walk differently and talk differently. For almost all of them, such elegant quarters belong in dreams and motion pictures. Most of the girls have private rooms—bright and airy and comfortable.

Asked if she ever had such a room to herself, Rebecca says defensively, "Sure I did. I pushed my little sister out of the bedroom and it was all mine."

This is the kind of self-deception that sometimes gives Maj. Eastwood cause for worry.

"No matter how poorly they've been treated or how terrible their surroundings were, these girls have a yearning to return," says the major. "It seems they think that in the interim the good Lord has stepped in and miraculously changed things. But they find the family is the same, that nothing is different."

Does this mean Wayside wants to wean them from the environment from which they came?

"No, not at all," explains the major. "Not in the sense that it would further break up an already broken family. What we try to do is to get the girls to look upon their whole problem realistically, so that when they return to their homes they can do so without counting on miracles that never happen. We also work with the parents at the same time, trying to get them to have a better understanding."

While Maj. Eastwood may have recurring doubts about the whole troublesome problem — for instance, do you create discontent by giving girls private rooms and then expecting them to return to squalid surroundings — Wayside's record is an admirable one. Of more than 300 girls who have been at the home for periods of between 12 and 18 months, the average stay, less than 5 per cent have become second offenders.

Within the 11½ acres of Wayside there is a converted chicken house in which grades 8, 9 and 10 are taught. More advanced students go to Valley Stream High School.

For those with promise, there is help in going to secretarial schools. Other girls do housework locally and keep all the money they earn at $1 an hour, and some work in small shops, again for their own earnings, as part of the rehabilitation.

"When they come here from the courts, they arrive with everything they own in the world wrapped in a brown paper bag," says Maj. Eastwood. "When they leave, they have a nice suitcase and clothes of their own and money they've earned and saved. I like to think they go out with the feeling that they are better equipped to take a more rewarding place in the world."

Walking past a huge plastic swimming pool where a few girls splashed happily and a tennis court where some others worked off adolescent steam in dizzying roller skating, Rebecca talked of the freedom she has found at Wayside.

"I don't mean that it's because there ain't walls or gates," she says. "It would be easy to run from here, especially with the new cottages. I feel free mostly because it ain't like home. There ain't all the threatening like my mother used to make about having the cops on me and saying they going to do this or going to do that to me."

But to Grace, Wayside is a place where "there's no freedom." She finds the rules restricting, but "at least it's not like home where there was all that arguing and my stepfather beating me. When he hit me, my mother used to say, 'Oh, Frank, quit hurting the child, she's scaring the neighbors.' How about that?"

What faces them — especially after leaving Wayside?

"I know I'll never go home again," says tall and beautiful Grace. "My future is cut out for me. I'm going to be a model and then an actress, and I'm going to learn how to do office work so I can support myself until I become a model. My mother is a part-time fashion model and she and all the people I know always told me I'd be a good model. I know I'll never be a bum in the street and I never want to be considered a tramp."

Rebecca says "I could go home and get straight. I learned my lesson, and I ain't going to run no more. I'm not going to be like my sister, who had a baby when she was 13. When I first came here I didn't know was I colored, white or what. But to me, I'm just a plain ordinary 14-year-old girl. I can't help what people think of me. My papa, he's 75, never said much to me, just hello and goodbye, and I guess he won't ever say that any more. My mama, she's 46, and me used to fight all the time, but I don't think we will anymore. I just want to see my older brother. He's in prison now, but he's my buddy-buddy. Maybe he comes out and we'll all be straight again."

To Dolly, Wayside has been a dream-world away from the slovenly East Side New York slum along whose streets she began boozing on beer, whisky and vodka at 11, and engaged in petty thievery at 12. She started stealing after her father deserted the family and there wasn't any money for food.

"This place is okay in a way, especially the food," she says. "But I'm not interested in going to school and learning anything. All I want in life is to go to Florida to see my father. I haven't seen him for almost five years. Then I guess I'll probably end up like I began. I'll be chickie for the boys and go along for the kicks.

Super Secret Center
GI's Act Funny

Editor's Note: There was a spate of headlines recently over antics of a group of enlisted men in Maryland who acted in a manner unbecoming privates—and got away with it. Here's a report on those soldier - scientists, the special service they perform and the special problems they create.

By LOUIS G. PANOS

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP) — On a barracks wall at the super-secret Army chemical center here hangs a printed sign: "turn lights off when leaving."

To this an anonymous author had added in pencil, "please" — perhaps as a reminder that at Edgewood the Army should remember its manners even when addressing a corporal.

For at this closely guarded base 20 miles northeast of Baltimore, most of the men in uniform are enlisted scientific and professional personnel, a fraction of the 3,500 SPP's whose special knowledge has been harnessed by the U.S Army in various chemical, engineering, physics and administrative centers across the nation.

College - trained and mostly in their early 20s, they lead a curious kind of double life as scientists by day and soldiers by night.

For 16 hours a day they are under military rule. They polish brass, scrub the barrack floor where they sleep and wrestle with the countless other chores thrust upon enlisted men since armies began.

But from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. they are members of civilian - supervised research teams, delving into the mysteries of chemical warfare. The tools of their trade are gases and bugs, some capable of wiping out all life in a city, others designed merey to render its entire population militarily impotent by inducing temporary mass blindness, nausea, stupor or mania.

When you take 390 brilliant young civilians, convert them into Army privates and corporals for two years, and try to fit them into a relatively new mold like the soldier-scientist classification at Edgewood, some strange things may happen.

Besides the mysterious editing of the barracks sign, for example, about 60 of them, imbibing too freely at a public inn, may raise their voices in ribald song proclaiming their distate for Army life.

Or a general, investigating such an outburst, may find himself discussing Freudian psychology with a private acting as spokesmen for the offenders.

Or four SPP's may hold an unmonitored press conference inside the flask-lined walls of their laboratory to articulate their gripes for public consumption.

All these things have happened at Edgewood.

After the anti-Army songfest last Aug. 13, criticism of the nation's schools and parents came from Brig. Gen. Harold Walmsley, commander of the chemical center.

"Somewhere along the line," he said, "American parents and educational systems have failed to instill in these men an appreciation for their heritage and a desire to perform duties for their country."

But after a four-hour conference with four privates representing the celebrants, Walmsley told newsmen he felt this defiency existed not only among the SPP party-goers. It was so general, he said, that he had ordered more intensive backgrounding on "American history and heritage" for his entire command, including officers

What did the SPP's tell him during that long conference?

"They quoted Freud to me," says Walmsley who requested retirement last June and leaves active service Sept. 30. "They say he says people who work under tension have to have some way to blow off steam." He added that they had apologized and there would be no court-martial.

At their laboratory press conference, set up by an officer with the general's permission, four SPP's summarized their feelings about being soldier-scientists.

All gave the Army credit for realizing the potential value of young scientists' talents. But their potential is not being fully realized, they said, because they must divide their attention between the intellectual dmands of the laboratory and the uninspiring routine of the Barracks.

Pfc. Robert D. Cotton, 23, of Grass Lake, Mich., says some of the men experience a psychological jolt at 4 p.m. when they switch from scientist to soldier.

"In the laboratory we're treated as human beings," he says, "but in the barracks some of the non commissioned officers could use greater consideration in their manner of speech.

Paul Savonen, a 24-year-old private first class from Newark, N.Y., pulls on a cigar and nods in agreement.

"When we're over here we gear ourselves to the scientific approach, bing inquisitive, analyzing, reasoning. But over there," he waves the cigar toward the barracks area, "they want the conditioned reflex, an immediate reaction to a command without thinking, like in Pavlov's dogs.

"You can't criticize them, of course, because that's necessarily the Army way. But how can you behave like a scientist one minute and like Pavlov's dog the next?"

The regular Army men who give orders around the barracks deny there is any harassment of SPP's. Four noncoms, asking that their names be withheld, suggested that only a handful of the soldier - scientists are dissatisfied with their treatment and this is to be expected in any large group of draftees.

But another NCO said he does not think they "accept responsibility."

"They are just out of college, most of them," he added, "and they haven't matured. Some have but the majority haven't."

Pfc. John P. Stahl takes a less critical view of the noncoms than some of his fellow-SPP's. He says K.P. is the only soldierly duty which really hampers his work, primarily because it sometimes means a 14 - hour detail in the kitchen and leaves him tired through the following day.

"Some of the NCO's who are in direct charge of SPP's are swell people," he volunteers. "There is an element of truth in the statement that some NCO's treat us as 'bodies' But I'd say these are in the minority, about 40-60."

If conditions in the barracks area adversely affect the work of SPP's in the laboratory, Lt. Col. T.R. Isaacs says it doesn't show. He's the executive laboratory officer.

"We're very happy to have them and are pleased with the work they're doing," he says. "We'd be in bad shape without them."

Dr. Bernard P. McNamara, one of the civilian scientists, admits he'd like to have SPP's on full-time duty in the laboratory without man-hour losses to K.P. or other details.

"But I think they do a good job as it is," he says.

Nevertheless, the Pentagon has taken steps to reduce the soldier-scientists' "duties of a housekeeping nature."

The Department of the Army says the new plan, developed after "a survey of attitudes and opinions" of SPP's, is being gradually introduced.

Another feature is the use of scientists with more practical experience in industry instead of college-fresh draftees, as has been the case since the Army first began experimenting with SPP's in 1948.

Moral Slackness And Big Tragedy

ONE HOUR. By Lillian Smith. Harcourt, Brace. $5.

Late one afternoon after working in his garden, Dr. Mark Channing, a research scientist, decides it's time for cocktails, walks to the store for the mixings, and goes back home to relax with his wife Grace. In that one hour, 8-year-old Susan Newell, in the neighborhood of the store, stops in at a shop where carpenters were working. Then she goes home to tell her mother Renie that a bad man did something naughty to her. He was tall, she says; he was Channing.

It is Channing's good fortune to have as friend the local pastor, David Landrum; and there are a few other enlightened souls: A rich man's daughter, a young doctor, the organist composer Charlie, an understanding police official, and a sage old physician with a happy gruff way of moralizing.

It is he who assures Landrum, the narrator, that Susan hasn't been harmed in the least, and apparently made the whole story up out of her glib imagination. If you tell the whole town about this, he vainly warns the parents, all you'll do will be to ruin the child's future.

But this is a Southern town, and as this Southern author sees it, it is disastrously underlaid with strange hidden guilt, and a communal guilty conscience bedevils the good as well as the bad. The ignorant and superstitious suspect Channing's laboratory experiments; they produce photos charging Grace in the North went to ballet school with Negroes; they accuse the organist of perversion, they balk Channing's role in drive for welfare funds, they send poison - pen letters.

No 8-year-old did quiet so much harm, and there is some melodrama in these pages. But fundamentally Miss Smith's characters — though naturally they do her bidding and accomplish her purpose — would be recognizable in novels by Faulkner or by Erskine Caldwell. There is a rot of sinning built right into them; dig back into their tender years and you find them evil years, and what vices they didn't think up themselves affect them indirectly by inheritance or through husbands, wives or friends. Out of this general moral slackness, says Miss Smith, there can come little but tragedy. As always, the author of "Strange Fruit" is a good teacher as well as good story teller.

Women Were Women, Even In Minoan Age

THE HOUSE OF THE DOUBLE AXE. Agnes Carr Vaughan. Doubleday. $5.95.

Although she is much too well bred to point a moral, Agnes Carr Vaughan writes in "The House of the Double Axe" that social historians often say women's fashions sometimes sow the first seeds of decadence in a civilization.

There is no doubt the Minoan civilization had reached its prime by the 15th Century B. C. And a lady during the golden age of Crete, says Miss Vaughan, painted her lips, wore tight skirts - and jackets that bared the bosom, went in for elaborate hairdos. She occupied the front seats at the theater, while the men stood behind. With men, and clad only in breechcloths like them, she vaulted and somersaulted over bulls in the arena, in the favorite Minoan sport of bull - grappling. (The bulls weren't hurt.)

Perhaps the most distinctive thing about the emancipated Minoan lady — as any museum - goer will tell you — was her wasp waist. At one time only men had slender midriffs, achieved by wearing tight metal belts from childhood But later, as it has happened many times and places since, the women adopted the masculine practice.

We don't know if the sophisticated freedom of the Minoan women was either a symptom or a factor in the fall of Knossos, center of the complex civilization that flourished in the Mediterranean more than 3,500 years ago. But archeologists, notably Sir Arthur Evans who excavated the Priest-king's great palace called "The House of the Double Axe," have determined that complete destruction enveloped the island about 1400 B. C., and a new people appeared.

Miss Vaughan, professor emeritus of classical languages and literature at Smith College, admittedly had written a book for laymen. But the graceful, luxury-loving Minoans make fascinating reading whether you are so erudite you know the double-bladed axe was the symbol of the Minoan Age or whether you still aren't sure whether the Minotaur who lived in the great palace's labyrinth was a bull-man or a man-bull.

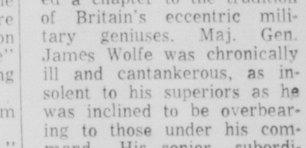
Gentle Aid For Gentle Gentlemen

TWO GENTLE MEN. The Lives of George Herbert and Robert Herrick. By Marchette Chute. Dutton. $5.

The inexhaustible stock of English writers which has inspired Miss Chute to biographies of Chaucer, Shakespeare and Ben Jonson has driven her to work again on a pair of authors — a poet-parson pair from the 17th century, contemporaries though one long outlived the other.

Herbert, 1593-1633, and Herrick, 1591-1674, each had a parish, each left a single volume of poems. Herbert's "The Temple" came out only a few months after his death; Herrick's "Hesperides" was published in his lifetime. Herbert had a Welsh background; Herrick came from the gayer London, and a step lower in the social scale. Admirer of Ben Jonson's, and a member of the Tribe of Ben, Herrick lived on into the turbulent times of King Charles and the rebellion, and Herbert's stepfather Danvers was one of the regicides who sent the bumbling Tudor to the block.

With a bibliography — and a "selected" one — of around 500 titles, Miss Chute's scholarship again deserves recognition. As her subjects are "gentle" gentlemen, so is her treatment gentle in its quiet, modest manner.



The Cat and the Mice, by Leonard Mosley (Harper): The sort of spy tale that only Hollywood ordinarily would dare to tell, but it is an actual account of events in wartime Cairo. The principal character is John Eppler, German by birth, Egyptian by adoption, who was smuggled into Cairo to collect information about the British forces grouping around El Alamein in 1942. Eppler and a companion were assigned to hang around bars and bordellos to listen for chance remarks from British soldiers. British counter - intelligence was anxious to frustrate their efforts. Each side had a Mata Hari and as it happened they cancelled each other out. The ending is as neat a bit of deception as any screenwriter could ask.

Wolfe at Quebec, by Christopher Hibbert (World): The story of a general whose meteoric career during the French and Indian War added a chapter to the tradition of Britain's eccentric military geniuses. Maj. Gen. James Wolfe was chronically ill and cantankerous, as insolent to his superiors as he was inclined to be overbearing to those under his command. His senior subordinates crowded him into the decision that defeated the French at Quebec, and there is more than a suggestion that treachery contributed to his great victory. On the other hand, he was courageous and energetic and if he had not died so young he might have had a fateful influence on the American revolution. This is an eminently readable account. The author had access to previously unpublished letters and diaries which contribute some unexpected sidelights.

Shakespeare and Company, by Sylvia Beach (Harcourt, Brace): In 1919, an American girl named Sylvia Beach opened a bookstore devoted mainly to English - language novels on Paris' Left Bank. From then until 1941, when the shop closed under pressure from the Nazis, it was a haven for the literate American, Englishman, Irishman or Frenchman. Miss Beach's moment of greatest glory came when her firm was chosen by James Joyce to be the first publisher of "Ulysses," then proscribed throughout the English - speaking world. This is an odd and interesting book furnishing a parade of the literate giants of those days, especially Joyce.

STAR ASSISTS PAINTER

NEW YORK (AP) — The most exclusive painting exhibit in the city is running in the Broadway dressing room of Gwen Verdon, star of "Redhead."

Through a cast member, Miss Verdon heard of the work of Yoram Kaniuck, a young Israeli artist, and was so taken with his works that she decided to convert backstage quarters into a gallery.

The clientele is limited to other players and acquaintances who visit Miss Verdon, but so far more than $250 worth of original Kaniucks have been sold.

BUSY SUMMER

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1959 summer theater season has been the busiest for actors in the history of Equity, the performing union.

At the peak of the period, 4,500 professionals were employed compared to the previous record of 4,200 in 1958. During an average winter week about 3,000 actors are engaged.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

High culture here began showing its hand for the coming season this week with the Northeast State College Concert Series announcing principal attractions. The organization's drive for memberships opens tomorrow.

The Northeast series is a result of a unified effort of the former Community Concerts organization and the college's artists series. Mrs. John D. Mullens is serving as membership chairman and headquarters will be in the lobby of the Frances Hotel.

Among the attractions featured thus far: Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, billed as a new "stereo festival" program; the Philharmonia Hungarica, a full symphony orchestra made up of Hungarian refugees, and the Broadway play, "Dark at the Top of the Stairs," starring Joan Blondell.

AT RUSTON

An impressive booklet from over Ruston way has been printed to commemorate the 15th anniversary of the Louisiana Tech Concert Association. This group, headed by L. V. E. Irvine of the La. Tech Music Department, has grown in finances and facilities to the size of any such organization in the state.

A "coffee break" conversation with Irvine during the appearance of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo last season revealed a degree of warmth and sincerity rarely found in a person who has maintained close contact with the business side of music for more than half a generation. He can still say fine music is of great value, worthy of the effort it requires to be passed on to the younger generation. He recalls an appreciation for the civic organizations in the Pittsburgh, Pa., area which enabled the young people of his own college days to hear fine music with the limited pocket money they could scrape together.

When the enrollment of La. Tech was about one - fourth its present number, the music department tried to stir up interest in a concert by the Kryl Symphony Orchestra. The turnout was disappointing. This was no fault of Kryl, his orchestra or even his programming. It was a case of something the students and townspeople were not accustomed to attending. So at Irvine's urging, La. Tech set up an organization to book serious music and other events to be brought to the campus. In order to get the ball rolling, the main attraction was to be Sigmund Romberg and His Orchestra — a light opera concert combination which had general appeal.

This concert in 1944 was a success and interest in the series has grown ever since. It is well to note that while the Kryl Symphony was poorly attended in 1938, it was a symphony orchestra — the Houston — which drew unanimous student support for the infant association during its first season.

This year's season at Louisiana Tech boasts 10 attractions: The United States Air Force Band on October 29, 30; Goldowsky's Grand Opera Theatre with Verdi's "Rigoletto," November 9; The Dallas Symphony Orchestra, December 3; Hollywood Bowl "Pops" Concert, December 7; Richard Dyer - Bennet, January 13 and 14; An Evening of Carl Sandburg, with Bette Davis and Gary Merrill, February 4; "The Taming of the Shrew," by the Canadian Players, February 17; The Robert Shaw Chorale and Orchestra performing the Bach B Minor Mass, February 22, 23; The National Ballet of Canada, March 23, and Virgil Fox, organist, April 26, 27.

Call On Kuprin Is Tense Trip To Red Capitol

A CALL ON KUPRIN. By Maurice Edelman. Lippincott. $3.95.

Member of Parliament Laye - Parker and newsman Smith go to Russia to "call on Kuprin." They knew him at Cambridge; back in his native Soviet he seems to hold a space secret that could shift the balance of power from the East to the West. The Englishmen will ask him politely to return, and if he objects, play it by ear.

In Moscow, they meet him, but also they compromise themselves, one falling in love, one falling into a drunken stupor. It isn't all their fault, for the Russian suspecting some free - world skulduggery trail and search them and lay traps. Edelman, himself an M.P., deserves credit for his mangnanimity in making the newsman rather than the M.P. his hero. And also he writes a tense story that speeds on to the striking ironies of the last pages.

Top Twenty

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bobby Darin's version of the old - time tune "Mack The Knife" was the nation's top song this week, according to United Press International's top 20 survey.

The Browns' "The Three Bells," leader for the last five weeks, fell to the number three spot. Santo and Johnny's "Sleepwalk" was in the second position.

There was little change in the rest of the top 10, with "Till I Kissed You," "I'm Gonna Get Married," "Red River Rock" and "Teen Beat" the next four songs in that order.

Four newcomers to the top 20 were the Fleetwoods' "Mr. Blue," the Fireflies' "You Were Mine," Bobby Rydell's "Kissin' Time," and Andy Williams' "Lonely Street."

The complete list of the top 20; this week's position, last week's position and number of weeks on the top 20):

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Each day new books arrive at the Ouachita Parish Public Library and it is very exciting to see them and know what we have to offer our readers. The book certain to be most popular among this week's additions is "Station Wagon in Spain" by Frances Parkinson Keyes. Set against the brilliant and colorful background of present day Spain, this is a story of high adventure and intrigue. Mrs. Keyes has spent a great deal of time in Spain and knows the country well. Although her characterizations are never very good, the background and plot should carry the reader along with this story. Considered by many critics to be one of the very best of the young American novelists, Louis Auchincloss has a new book which he calls "Pursuit of the Prodigal". It is the story of a young man who was born to wealth and social position, but who gave it up to see what life had for him on his wits and his merit, not his inherited position. This is the story of the answers he sought and found. It is well written and will appeal to all thoughtful readers. "The Seventeen Widows of San Souci" by Charlotte Armstrong is skillfully written and is a triumph of sympathy, understanding and moving storytelling. Miss Armstrong writes of the seventeen widows with humor and often with irony, but they are always people and the reader will enjoy the solutions that many of them made to the problem which faces so many women today; how to go on living when an important part of life has ended.

If you want to read a really funny story, let me suggest "The Street of the Laughing Camel" by Ben Lucien Burman. Here is an account of the irresistible adventures of Yance Collum, Texas Cowboy and ex-GI, who opens a laundry in Algeria. From this he goes to other enterprises, such as the importation of a ferris wheel. This story is as refreshing as an oasis in the desert and makes delightful reading. Readers of mystery stories will welcome three new titles "The Body in the Bed" by Stewart Sterling, "The Man Who Was Three Jumps Ahead" by Hampton Stone and "The Case of the Running Man" by Christopher Bush.

In the field of non - fiction there are a variety of interesting books. "A Silver-Plated Spoon" by John, Duke of Bedford is a very humorous and interesting autobiography. "Groucho and Me" is the clever autobiography of Groucho Marx. "Beloved Infidel" is an account of the life of F. Scott Fitzgerald written by his wife Sheilah Graham. "Act One" is the autobiography of Moss Hart and will be of special interest to those who love the American theater. "What Next, Doctor Peck" is the autobiography of a young doctor who had an exciting life on the frontier of Arizona. "John Paul Jones" by Samuel Eliot Morison, may well be the definitive biography of the founder of the American Navy, while "Belle Out of Order" by Belle Livingstone is another very humorous autobiography.

Two new books in the field of sports and games are available. "Instinct Shooting" by Mike C. Jennings explains this interesting method of shooting, while Fred Reinfeld is the author of "A New Approach to Chess Mastery." "Lincoln Finds a General V. 5" by Kenneth P. Williams continues this exciting account of the Civil War and Monica Sutherland's "The Damnedest Finest Ruins" is an account of the San Francisco earthquake.

A book which will interest every Southerner is "The South Strikes Back" by Hodding Carter. This is an account of the methods which the South has used to fight the supreme court decision on integration. A book for which we have had many requests is now available. It is "How I Turned a Thousand Dollars into a Million in Real Estate in Spare Time" written by W. S. Nickerson. Brides will want to read Barbara Wilson's "The Bride's School Complete Book of Engagement and Wedding Etiquette" and those interested in physical fitness will welcome "Bonnie Pridden's Fitness Book", which gives pictures and exercises to develop a better physical condition.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Gang violence exploding this summer in New York's juvenile jungle has touched off a profusion of recommendations for curbing delinquency. But as the experts wrangle, and gang boys and girls watch cynically, a Salvation Army home in a nearby community is quietly going about its business of turning wayward girls into responsible young women.

By BERNARD GAVZER

VALLEY STREAM, N.Y. (AP) —Dolly is a 15-year-old blue-eyed blonde with a body bursting into womanly curves. For her favors, teen-age gangs cracked heads and waged bloody battles.

In the bucolic setting of this Long Island community, she has not been drunk for more than 11 months.

Fourteen - year - old Rebecca, a lovely coffee-colored girl who was seduced at 13, once spent a harrowing night in a seamy New York hotel room defending herself against three drunks who tried to batter down the door. It wasn't until she was 10 that she realized her Scandinavian father was white—and that white people were different.

At 16, Grace is torn by a terrible fear of dying. She wants to turn time back, so far into the past that she would have no handsome stepfather, no beautiful mother, no kid brothers or sister —never have been born herself. Her family is like the "ideal" one that could be pictured on the cover of a magazine—but she can't keep from running away from it.

Dolly, Rebecca and Grace are wayward minors. Their difficulties have never made headlines, but they've caused enough grief to come before a judge in Childrn's Court.

Rather than being let loose on the streets or being confined in reformatories where they could learn tougher ways, they have been sent to the Salvation Army's Wayside Home School for Girls.

"We try to give them something they never had," says Maj. Emily Eastwood, a tall, gray - haired woman whose voice has a quality suggesting infinite patience. "We try to give them love and understanding and guidance and discipline."

Such a program implies a great deal of personal attention. And at Wayside there are almost as many staff members as girls.

"Eight of the staff live in," says the major, "but altogether we have 20, including a professional case worker, a psychologist, a psychiatrist, a psysician, a registered nurse and three teachers. Now we have 27 girls, but after our building program is completed we may have 43."

There is considerable excitement among the girls and the staff about the building program. A high point comes Monday with the dedication of two splendid new cottages and an addition to the old Tudor building in which they all once resided.

In the ranch - style cottages, where there are sunken living rooms and expansive sun-porches as well as smart kitchens, the girls seem to walk differently and talk differently. For almost all of them, such elegant quarters belong in dreams and motion pictures. Most of the girls have private rooms—bright and airy and comfortable.

Asked if she ever had such a room to herself, Rebecca says defensively, "Sure I did. I pushed my little sister out of the bedroom and it was all mine."

This is the kind of self-deception that sometimes gives Maj. Eastwood cause for worry.

"No matter how poorly they've been treated or how terrible their surroundings were, these girls have a yearning to return," says the major. "It seems they think that in the interim the good Lord has stepped in and miraculously changed things. But they find the family is the same, that nothing is different."

Does this mean Wayside wants to wean them from the environment from which they came?

"No, not at all," explains the major. "Not in the sense that it would further break up an already broken family. What we try to do is to get the girls to look upon their whole problem realistically, so that when they return to their homes they can do so without counting on miracles that never happen. We also work with the parents at the same time, trying to get them to have a better understanding."

While Maj. Eastwood may have recurring doubts about the whole troublesome problem — for instance, do you create discontent by giving girls private rooms and then expecting them to return to squalid surroundings — Wayside's record is an admirable one. Of more than 300 girls who have been at the home for periods of between 12 and 18 months, the average stay, less than 5 per cent have become second offenders.

Within the 11½ acres of Wayside there is a converted chicken house in which grades 8, 9 and 10 are taught. More advanced students go to Valley Stream High School.

For those with promise, there is help in going to secretarial schools. Other girls do housework locally and keep all the money they earn at $1 an hour, and some work in small shops, again for their own earnings, as part of the rehabilitation.

"When they come here from the courts, they arrive with everything they own in the world wrapped in a brown paper bag," says Maj. Eastwood. "When they leave, they have a nice suitcase and clothes of their own and money they've earned and saved. I like to think they go out with the feeling that they are better equipped to take a more rewarding place in the world."

Walking past a huge plastic swimming pool where a few girls splashed happily and a tennis court where some others worked off adolescent steam in dizzying roller skating, Rebecca talked of the freedom she has found at Wayside.

"I don't mean that it's because there ain't walls or gates," she says. "It would be easy to run from here, especially with the new cottages. I feel free mostly because it ain't like home. There ain't all the threatening like my mother used to make about having the cops on me and saying they going to do this or going to do that to me."

But to Grace, Wayside is a place where "there's no freedom." She finds the rules restricting, but "at least it's not like home where there was all that arguing and my stepfather beating me. When he hit me, my mother used to say, 'Oh, Frank, quit hurting the child, she's scaring the neighbors.' How about that?"

What faces them — especially after leaving Wayside?

"I know I'll never go home again," says tall and beautiful Grace. "My future is cut out for me. I'm going to be a model and then an actress, and I'm going to learn how to do office work so I can support myself until I become a model. My mother is a part-time fashion model and she and all the people I know always told me I'd be a good model. I know I'll never be a bum in the street and I never want to be considered a tramp."

Rebecca says "I could go home and get straight. I learned my lesson, and I ain't going to run no more. I'm not going to be like my sister, who had a baby when she was 13. When I first came here I didn't know was I colored, white or what. But to me, I'm just a plain ordinary 14-year-old girl. I can't help what people think of me. My papa, he's 75, never said much to me, just hello and goodbye, and I guess he won't ever say that any more. My mama, she's 46, and me used to fight all the time, but I don't think we will anymore. I just want to see my older brother. He's in prison now, but he's my buddy-buddy. Maybe he comes out and we'll all be straight again."

To Dolly, Wayside has been a dream-world away from the slovenly East Side New York slum along whose streets she began boozing on beer, whisky and vodka at 11, and engaged in petty thievery at 12. She started stealing after her father deserted the family and there wasn't any money for food.

"This place is okay in a way, especially the food," she says. "But I'm not interested in going to school and learning anything. All I want in life is to go to Florida to see my father. I haven't seen him for almost five years. Then I guess I'll probably end up like I began. I'll be chickie for the boys and go along for the kicks."

Moral Slackness And Big Tragedy

ONE HOUR. By Lillian Smith. Harcourt, Brace. $5.

Late one afternoon after working in his garden, Dr. Mark Channing, a research scientist, decides it's time for cocktails, walks to the store for the mixings, and goes back home to relax with his wife Grace. In that one hour, 8-year-old Susan Newell, in the neighborhood of the store, stops in at a shop where carpenters were working. Then she goes home to tell her mother Renie that a bad man did something naughty to her. He was tall, she says; he was Channing.

It is Channing's good fortune to have as friend the local pastor, David Landrum; and there are a few other enlightened souls: A rich man's daughter, a young doctor, the organist composer Charlie, an understanding police official, and a sage old physician with a happy gruff way of moralizing.

It is he who assures Landrum, the narrator, that Susan hasn't been harmed in the least, and apparently made the whole story up out of her glib imagination. If you tell the whole town about this, he vainly warns the parents, all you'll do will be to ruin the child's future.

But this is a Southern town, and as this Southern author sees it, it is disastrously underlaid with strange hidden guilt, and a communal guilty conscience bedevils the good as well as the bad. The ignorant and superstitious suspect Channing's laboratory experiments; they produce photos charging Grace in the North went to ballet school with Negroes; they accuse the organist of perversion, they balk Channing's role in drive for welfare funds, they send poison - pen letters.

No 8-year-old did quiet so much harm, and there is some melodrama in these pages. But fundamentally Miss Smith's characters — though naturally they do her bidding and accomplish her purpose — would be recognizable in novels by Faulkner or by Erskine Caldwell. There is a rot of sinning built right into them; dig back into their tender years and you find them evil years, and what vices they didn't think up themselves affect them indirectly by inheritance or through husbands, wives or friends. Out of this general moral slackness, says Miss Smith, there can come little but tragedy. As always, the author of "Strange Fruit" is a good teacher as well as good story teller.

Women Were Women, Even In Minoan Age

THE HOUSE OF THE DOUBLE AXE. Agnes Carr Vaughan. Doubleday. $5.95.

Although she is much too well bred to point a moral, Agnes Carr Vaughan writes in "The House of the Double Axe" that social historians often say women's fashions sometimes sow the first seeds of decadence in a civilization.

There is no doubt the Minoan civilization had reached its prime by the 15th Century B. C. And a lady during the golden age of Crete, says Miss Vaughan, painted her lips, wore tight skirts - and jackets that bared the bosom, went in for elaborate hairdos. She occupied the front seats at the theater, while the men stood behind. With men, and clad only in breechcloths like them, she vaulted and somersaulted over bulls in the arena, in the favorite Minoan sport of bull - grappling. (The bulls weren't hurt.)

Perhaps the most distinctive thing about the emancipated Minoan lady — as any museum - goer will tell you — was her wasp waist. At one time only men had slender midriffs, achieved by wearing tight metal belts from childhood But later, as it has happened many times and places since, the women adopted the masculine practice.

We don't know if the sophisticated freedom of the Minoan women was either a symptom or a factor in the fall of Knossos, center of the complex civilization that flourished in the Mediterranean more than 3,500 years ago. But archeologists, notably Sir Arthur Evans who excavated the Priest-king's great palace called "The House of the Double Axe," have determined that complete destruction enveloped the island about 1400 B. C., and a new people appeared.

Miss Vaughan, professor emeritus of classical languages and literature at Smith College, admittedly had written a book for laymen. But the graceful, luxury-loving Minoans make fascinating reading whether you are so erudite you know the double-bladed axe was the symbol of the Minoan Age or whether you still aren't sure whether the Minotaur who lived in the great palace's labyrinth was a bull-man or a man-bull.

Super Secret Center
GI's Act Funny

Editor's Note: There was a spate of headlines recently over antics of a group of enlisted men in Maryland who acted in a manner unbecoming privates—and got away with it. Here's a report on those soldier - scientists, the special service they perform and the special problems they create.

By LOUIS G. PANOS

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP) — On a barracks wall at the super-secret Army chemical center here hangs a printed sign: "turn lights off when leaving."

To this an anonymous author had added in pencil, "please" — perhaps as a reminder that at Edgewood the Army should remember its manners even when addressing a corporal.

For at this closely guarded base 20 miles northeast of Baltimore, most of the men in uniform are enlisted scientific and professional personnel, a fraction of the 3,500 SPP's whose special knowledge has been harnessed by the U.S Army in various chemical, engineering, physics and administrative centers across the nation.

College - trained and mostly in their early 20s, they lead a curious kind of double life as scientists by day and soldiers by night.

For 16 hours a day they are under military rule. They polish brass, scrub the barrack floor where they sleep and wrestle with the countless other chores thrust upon enlisted men since armies began.

But from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. they are members of civilian - supervised research teams, delving into the mysteries of chemical warfare. The tools of their trade are gases and bugs, some capable of wiping out all life in a city, others designed merely to render its entire population militarily impotent by inducing temporary mass blindness, nausea, stupor or mania.

When you take 390 brilliant young civilians, convert them into Army privates and corporals for two years, and try to fit them into a relatively new mold like the soldier-scientist classification at Edgewood, some strange things may happen.

Besides the mysterious editing of the barracks sign, for example, about 60 of them, imbibing too freely at a public inn, may raise their voices in ribald song proclaiming their distate for Army life.

Or a general, investigating such an outburst, may find himself discussing Freudian psychology with a private acting as spokesmen for the offenders.

Or four SPP's may hold an unmonitored press conference inside the flask-lined walls of their laboratory to articulate their gripes for public consumption.

All these things have happened at Edgewood.

After the anti-Army songfest last Aug. 13, criticism of the nation's schools and parents came from Brig. Gen. Harold Walmsley, commander of the chemical center.

"Somewhere along the line," he said, "American parents and educational systems have failed to instill in these men an appreciation for their heritage and a desire to perform duties for their country."

But after a four-hour conference with four privates representing the celebrants, Walmsley told newsmen he felt this detiency existed not only among the SPP party-goers. It was so general, he said, that he had ordered more intensive backgrounding on "American history and heritage" for his entire command, including officers

What did the SPP's tell him during that long conference?

"They quoted Freud to me," says Walmsley who requested retirement last June and leaves active service Sept. 30. "They say he says people who work under tension have to have some way to blow off steam." He added that they had apologized and there would be no court-martial.

At their laboratory press conference, set up by an officer with the general's permission, four SPP's summarized their feelings about being soldier-scientists.

All gave the Army credit for realizing the potential value of young scientists' talents. But their potential is not being fully realized, they said, because they must divide their attention between the intellectual dmands of the laboratory and the uninspiring routine of the Barracks.

Pfc. Robert D. Cotton, 23, of Grass Lake, Mich., says some of the men experience a psychological jolt at 4 p.m. when they switch from scientist to soldier.

"In the laboratory we're treated as human beings," he says, "but in the barracks some of the non commissioned officers could use greater consideration in their manner of speech.

Paul Savonen, a 24-year-old private first class from Newark, N.Y., pulls on a cigar and nods in agreement.

"When we're over here we gear ourselves to the scientific approach, bing inquisitive, analyzing, reasoning. But over there," he waves the cigar toward the barracks area, "they want the conditioned reflex, an immediate reaction to a command without thinking, like in Pavlov's dogs.

"You can't criticize them, of course, because that's necessarily the Army way. But how can you behave like a scientist one minute and like Pavlov's dog the next?"

The regular Army men who give orders around the barracks deny there is any harassment of SPP's. Four noncoms, asking that their names be withheld, suggested that only a handful of the soldier - scientists are dissatisfied with their treatment and this is to be expected in any large group of draftees.

But another NCO said he does not think they "accept responsibility."

"They are just out of college, most of them," he added, "and they haven't matured. Some have but the majority haven't."

Pfc. John P. Stahl takes a less critical view of the noncoms than some of his fellow-SPP's. He says K.P. is the only soldierly duty which really hampers his work, primarily because it sometimes means a 14 - hour detail in the kitchen and leaves him tired through the following day.

"Some of the NCO's who are in direct charge of SPP's are swell people," he volunteers. "There is an element of truth in the statement that some NCO's treat us as 'bodies' But I'd say these are in the minority, about 40-60."

If conditions in the barracks area adversely affect the work of SPP's in the laboratory, Lt. Col. T.R. Isaacs says it doesn't show. He's the executive laboratory officer.

"We're very happy to have them and are pleased with the work they're doing," he says. "We'd be in bad shape without them."

Dr. Bernard P. McNamara, one of the civilian scientists, admits he'd like to have SPP's on full-time duty in the laboratory without man-hour losses to K.P. or other details.

"But I think they do a good job as it is," he says.

Nevertheless, the Pentagon has taken steps to reduce the soldier-scientists' "duties of a housekeeping nature."

The Department of the Army says the new plan, developed after "a survey of attitudes and opinions" of SPP's, is being gradually introduced.

Another feature is the use of scientists with more practical experience in industry instead of college-fresh draftees, as has been the case since the Army first began experimenting with SPP's in 1948.

Gentle Aid For Gentle Gentlemen

TWO GENTLE MEN. The Lives of George Herbert and Robert Herrick. By Marchette Chute. Dutton. $5.

The inexhaustible stock of English writers which has inspired Miss Chute to biographies of Chaucer, Shakespeare and Ben Jonson has driven her to work again on a pair of authors — a poet-parson pair from the 17th century, contemporaries though one long outlived the other.

Herbert, 1593-1633, and Herrick, 1591-1674, each had a parish, each left a single volume of poems. Herbert's "The Temple" came out only a few months after his death; Herrick's "Hesperides" was published in his lifetime. Herbert had a Welsh background; Herrick came from the gayer London, and a step lower in the social scale. Admirer of Ben Jonson's, and a member of the Tribe of Ben, Herrick lived on into the turbulent times of King Charles and the rebellion, and Herbert's stepfather Danvers was one of the regicides who sent the bumbling Tudor to the block.

With a bibliography — and a "selected" one — of around 500 titles, Miss Chute's scholarship again deserves recognition. As her subjects are "gentle" gentlemen, so is her treatment gentle in its quiet, modest manner.

The Cat and the Mice, by Leonard Mosley (Harper): The sort of spy tale that only Hollywood ordinarily would dare to tell, but it is an actual account of events in wartime Cairo. The principal character is John Eppler, German by birth, Egyptian by adoption, who was smuggled into Cairo to collect information about the British forces grouping around El Alamein in 1942. Eppler and a companion were assigned to hang around bars and bordellos to listen for chance remarks from British soldiers. British counter - intelligence was anxious to frustrate their efforts. Each side had a Mata Hari and as it happened they cancelled each other out. The ending is as neat a bit of deception as any screenwriter could ask.

Wolfe at Quebec, by Christopher Hibbert (World): The story of a general whose meteoric career during the French and Indian War added a chapter to the tradition of Britain's eccentric military geniuses. Maj. Gen. James Wolfe was chronically ill and cantankerous, as insolent to his superiors as he was inclined to be overbearing to those under his command. His senior subordinates crowded him into the decision that defeated the French at Quebec, and there is more than a suggestion that treachery contributed to his great victory. On the other hand, he was courageous and energetic and if he had not died so young he might have had a fateful influence on the American revolution. This is an eminently readable account. The author had access to previously unpublished letters and diaries which contribute some unexpected sidelights.

Shakespeare and Company, by Sylvia Beach (Harcourt, Brace): In 1919, an American girl named Sylvia Beach opened a bookstore devoted mainly to English - language novels on Paris' Left Bank. From then until 1941, when the shop closed under pressure from the Nazis, it was a haven for the literate American, Englishman, Irishman or Frenchman. Miss Beach's moment of greatest glory came when her firm was chosen by James Joyce to be the first publisher of "Ulysses," then proscribed throughout the English - speaking world. This is an odd and interesting book furnishing a parade of the literate giants of those days, especially Joyce.

STAR ASSISTS PAINTER

NEW YORK (AP) — The most exclusive painting exhibit in the city is running in the Broadway dressing room of Gwen Verdon, star of "Redhead."

Through a cast member, Miss Verdon heard of the work of Yoram Kaniuck, a young Israeli artist, and was so taken with his works that she decided to convert backstage quarters into a gallery.

The clientele is limited to other players and acquaintances who visit Miss Verdon, but so far more than $250 worth of original Kaniucks have been sold.

BUSY SUMMER

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1959 summer theater season has been the busiest for actors in the history of Equity, the performing union.

At the peak of the period, 4,500 professionals were employed compared to the previous record of 4,200 in 1958. During an average winter week about 3,000 actors are engaged.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

High culture here began showing its hand for the coming season this week with the Northeast State College Concert Series announcing principal attractions. The organization's drive for memberships opens tomorrow.

The Northeast series is a result of a unified effort of the former Community Concerts organization and the college's artists series. Mrs. John D. Mullens is serving as membership chairman and headquarters will be in the lobby of the Frances Hotel.

Among the attractions featured thus far: Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, billed as a new "stereo festival" program; the Philharmonia Hungarica, a full symphony orchestra made up of Hungarian refugees, and the Broadway play, "Dark at the Top of the Stairs," starring Joan Blondell.

AT RUSTON

An impressive booklet from over Ruston way has been printed to commemorate the 15th anniversary of the Louisiana Tech Concert Association. This group, headed by L. V. E. Irvine of the La. Tech Music Department, has grown in finances and facilities to the size of any such organization in the state.

A "coffee break" conversation with Irvine during the appearance of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo last season revealed a degree of warmth and sincerity rarely found in a person who has maintained close contact with the business side of music for more than half a generation. He can still say fine music is of great value, worthy of the effort it requires to be passed on to the younger generation. He recalls an appreciation for the civic organizations in the Pittsburgh, Pa., area which enabled the young people of his own college days to hear fine music with the limited pocket money they could scrape together.

When the enrollment of La. Tech was about one - fourth its present number, the music department tried to stir up interest in a concert by the Kryl Symphony Orchestra. The turnout was disappointing. This was no fault of Kryl, his orchestra or even his programming. It was a case of something the students and townspeople were not accustomed to attending. So at Irvine's urging, La. Tech set up an organization to book serious music and other events to be brought to the campus. In order to get the ball rolling, the main attraction was to be Sigmund Romberg and His Orchestra — a light opera concert combination which had general appeal.

This concert in 1944 was a success and interest in the series has grown ever since. It is well to note that while the Kryl Symphony was poorly attended in 1938, it was a symphony orchestra — the Houston — which drew unanimous student support for the infant association during its first season.

This year's season at Louisiana Tech boasts 10 attractions: The United States Air Force Band on October 29, 30; Goldowsky's Grand Opera Theatre with Verdi's "Rigoletto," November 9; The Dallas Symphony Orchestra, December 3; Hollywood Bowl "Pops" Concert, December 7; Richard Dyer - Bennet, January 13 and 14; An Evening of Carl Sandburg, with Bette Davis and Gary Merrill, February 4; "The Taming of the Shrew," by the Canadian Players, February 17; The Robert Shaw Chorale and Orchestra performing the Bach B Minor Mass, February 22, 23; The National Ballet of Canada, March 23, and Virgil Fox, organist, April 26, 27.

Call On Kuprin Is Tense Trip To Red Capitol

A CALL ON KUPRIN. By Maurice Edelman. Lippin — cott. $3.95.

Member of Parliament Laye - Parker and newsman Smith go to Russia to "call on Kuprin." They knew him at Cambridge; back in his native Soviet he seems to hold a space secret that could shift the balance of power from the East to the West. The Englishmen will ask him politely to return, and if he objects, play it by ear.

In Moscow, they meet him, but also they compromise themselves, one falling in love, one falling into a drunken stupor. It isn't all their fault, for the Russian suspecting some free - world skulduggery trail and search them and lay traps. Edelman, himself an M.P., deserves credit for his mangnanimity in making the newsman rather than the M.P. his hero. And also he writes a tense story that speeds on to the striking ironies of the last pages.

Top Twenty

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bobby Darin's version of the old - time tune "Mack The Knife" was the nation's top song this week, according to United Press International's top 20 survey.

The Browns' "The Three Bells," leader for the last five weeks, fell to the number three spot. Santo and Johnny's "Sleepwalk" was in the second position.

There was little change in the rest of the top 10, with "Till I Kissed You," "I'm Gonna Get Married," "Red River Rock" and "Teen Beat" the next four songs in that order.

Four newcomers to the top 20 were the Fleetwoods' "Mr. Blue," the Fireflies' "You Were Mine," Bobby Rydell's "Kissin' Time," and Andy Williams' "Lonely Street."

The complete list of the top 20; this week's position, last week's position and number of weeks on the top 20):

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Each day new books arrive at the Ouachita Parish Public Library and it is very exciting to see them and know what we have to offer our readers. The book certain to be most popular among this week's additions is "Station Wagon in Spain" by Frances Parkinson Keyes. Set against the brilliant and colorful background of present day Spain, this is a story of high adventure and intrigue. Mrs. Keyes has spent a great deal of time in Spain and knows the country well. Although her characterizations are never very good, the background and plot should carry the reader along with this story. Considered by many critics to be one of the very best of the young American novelists, Louis Auchincloss has a new book which he calls "Pursuit of the Prodigal". It is the story of a young man who was born to wealth and social position, but who gave it up to see what life had for him on his wits and his merit, not his inherited position. This is the story of the answers he sought and found. It is well written and will appeal to all thoughtful readers. "The Seventeen Widows of San Souci" by Charlotte Armstrong is skillfully written and is a triumph of sympathy, understanding and moving storytelling. Miss Armstrong writes of the seventeen widows with humor and often with irony, but they are always people and the reader will enjoy the solutions that many of them made to the problem which faces so many women today; how to go on living when an important part of life has ended.

If you want to read a really funny story, let me suggest "The Street of the Laughing Camel" by Ben Lucien Burman. Here is an account of the irresistible adventures of Yance Collum, Texas Cowboy and ex-GI, who opens a laundry in Algeria. From this he goes to other enterprises, such as the importation of a ferris wheel. This story is as refreshing as an oasis in the desert and makes delightful reading. Readers of mystery stories will welcome three new titles "The Body in the Bed" by Stewart Sterling, "The Man Who Was Three Jumps Ahead" by Hampton Stone and "The Case of the Running Man" by Christopher Bush.

In the field of non - fiction there are a variety of interesting books. "A Silver-Plated Spoon" by John, Duke of Bedford is a very humorous and interesting autobiography. "Groucho and Me" is the clever autobiography of Groucho Marx. "Beloved Infidel" is an account of the life of F. Scott Fitzgerald written by his wife Sheilah Graham. "Act One" is the autobiography of Moss Hart and will be of special interest to those who love the American theater. "What Next, Doctor Peck" is the autobiography of a young doctor who had an exciting life on the frontier of Arizona. "John Paul Jones" by Samuel Eliot Morison, may well be the definitive biography of the founder of the American Navy, while "Belle Out of Order" by Belle Livingstone is another very humorous autobiography.

Two new books in the field of sports and games are available. "Instinct Shooting" by Mike C. Jennings explains this interesting method of shooting, while Fred Reinfeld is the author of "A New Approach to Chess Mastery." "Lincoln Finds a General V. 5" by Kenneth P. Williams continues this exciting account of the Civil War and Monica Sutherland's "The Damnedest Finest Ruins" is an account of the San Francisco earthquake.

A book which will interest every Southerner is "The South Strikes Back" by Hodding Carter. This is an account of the methods which the South has used to fight the supreme court decision on integration. A book for which we have had many requests is now available. It is "How I Turned a Thousand Dollars into a Million in Real Estate in Spare Time" written by W. S. Nickerson. Brides will want to read Barbara Wilson's "The Bride's School Complete Book of Engagement and Wedding Etiquette" and those interested in physical fitness will welcome "Bonnie Prudden's Fitness Book", which gives pictures and exercises to develop a better physical condition.

PAST CONGRESS SESSION

Senators Agree Record Is Good

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five senators voiced widely varying views Saturday on accomplishments on the recent Congress, but most agreed that it made substantial progress.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) termed the session "rather fruitful" with "some good, needful legislation."

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) said the overall record was "moderately good" but that Congress left behind many "unfinished tasks" for next year.

Sen. George A. Smathers (D—Fla.) said the record refuted claims of the Eisenhower administration that the Congress was a "spendthrift organization." Smathers claimed congress cut the President's original budget requests by $1,900,000,000. Sparkman set the figure at an estimated $2,500,000,000.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) said the record showed that it was "essentially a caretaker Congress" and "in some vitally important areas, there was real failure to act."

Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) asserted that Congress "failed to meet its responsibilities to railroad and ferry passengers, especially commuters," by not acting on legislation to shore up commuter rail service in such areas as metropolitan New York.

The senators spoke out in separate statements or radio-TV interviews for home state audiences.

Sparkman said he thought one of the best accomplishments was cutting Eisenhower's budget requests. The lawmakers were "able to go the President one better and hold appropriations down" below the President's estimates, he said.

Wiley cited strengthened defense, the labor union reform law, highway financing, extension of the Civil Rights Commission, and continuation of the foreign aid program as major accomplishments. But he said farm legislation, better labor laws, city planning legislation, and education are fields in which Congress must act more strongly next year.

Smathers said that "despite continued charges of spending made against Congress by the press and by this administration, the figures show that rather than being spenders we're very thrifty people insofar as running the government is concerned."

Javits cited civil rights as the field in which Congress "failed to supply some desperately needed measures." But he said the session "does merit a 'well done' on its enactment of a labor reform bill that should effectively curb racketeering and encourage union democracy."

He listed civil rights, federal aid to education, minimum wage legislation and national health and housing programs as major items for the second session next year.

Awaits Danish Singing Star

John Spagnolo, 21, part-owner of a street fruit stand in South Bend, Ind., awaits the arrival of Denmark's top female singer, Birthe Wilke, 22, of Copenhagen. She is enroute to this country, presumably to marry Spagnolo. Miss Wilke sold her home and auto before leaving Denmark. She is expected in New York Monday or Tuesday. The couple met in Florida last year when the singer was in this country. (AP Wirephoto)

UNION CLEAN-UP

Possible Ouster Of Hoffa Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A legal sword of Damocles was poised this week over Jimmy Hoffa's neck.

If it falls, the little man with big ideas could be ousted as provisional president of the huge Teamsters Union and face possible oblivion as a labor leader.

The sword was swung into place by court-appointed union clean-up monitors who charged the 46-year-old Hoffa had consistently defied their anti-corruption directives.

Specifically, two of the three monitors—the labor member did not join in—claimed before Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts that Hoffa had misused $675,000 of union funds in Florida banking and real estate transactions. They said the money belonged to Teamsters Local 299 in Detroit, which Hoffa heads, and demanded a full accounting.

They also specified that unless Hoffa provides satisfactory answers he be expelled from the union—a fate that also could befall many of his front-line lieutenants.

Judge Letts gave Hoffa 20 days to respond. Hoffa, whose hold on the nation's truckers gives him life-and-death power over a big slice of the national economy, said through associates that he would fight the accusations every step of the way—through the Supreme Court if need be.

But he has twice failed in court attempts to shed the monitors and gain unfettered control of the union through a convention that would confirm him as president. He has been serving provisionally since 1957, pending another convention which the monitors have blocked.

Letts originally set up the monitors in January, 1958, in a "consent" settlement of a suit by dissident teamsters who charged Hoffa was hand-picked in a "rigged" election to succeed much-indicted union President Dave Beck.

This was also after the Senate Rackets Committee branded Hoffa the "fountainhead of labor corruption" and cleared the way for recent enactment of drastic union reform legislation.

This latter development led AFL-CIO President George Meany to label Hoffa "labor's No. 1 enemy." Meany said that Hoffa, whose 1,600,000-man union was ousted from the AFL-CIO for alleged corruption, was responsible for passage of the legislation.

Hoffa now appears to be in a legal squeeze. The monitors have no punitive power. They merely can recommend. But the three-judge Federal Court of Appeals here said in rejecting a Hoffa appeal of monitor directives that the monitors have the right to ask Letts to enforce their edicts if Hoffa remains defiant. Letts is backing them up.

In general, the ruling upheld a dozen clean-up orders already approved by the judge. In addition, the Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter has refused to interfere with the monitors.

Hoffa's critics—and there are many in Congress and labor—say the monitors now have him "on the run." The monitors are still screening 200 more charges but preferred to open their expulsion campaign with their strongest case—alleged misuse of funds.

But Hoffa is a fighter. He can muster powerful legal talent, including the noted Edward Bennett Williams who thrives on trouble. It is regarded as certain that Williams will use every legal device to keep his client in office.

There is no doubt the final decision will come in the Supreme Court. But no matter how great the odds, Hoffa won't throw in the sponge. He directs the largest independent labor organization in the world. His is a lucrative post. He regards the Teamsters as "a race apart" from other labor organizations which he views with suspicion. He is always geared to fight and will use whatever methods seem most applicable.

"A union isn't a social club," he once said.

Conferences For Parents, Teachers Set

A series of parent - teacher conference sessions designed to a acquaint parents with their children's school progress will be held this year at the Millsaps Elementary School in West Monroe, according to an announcement by the principal Gene Hardin.

Hardin said that to his knowledge this is the first program of this type ever initiated in Ouachita parish.

The principal reported, "These sessions might be classified as orientation periods for parents concerning the school program on each grade level.

RESULTS

"The end results should be better relations between home and school, thereby helping pupils to achieve the fullest."

Explained Hardin, "The parents of the children on each grade level will meet with the children's teachers in the room in which the children work each day.

"Teachers will outline the school program to parents at the beginning of the conference period. The latter part will be a discussion period."

Each period is scheduled to last for one hour and does nor replace the individual parent -teacher conferences that a parent may want to slate anytime during the school year.

Some of the items to be discussed at the first conference are subjects studied, homework, what the teacher expects of the child and parent, what parents may expect of the teacher, how parents may help children in school work, testing, report cards and grading, the P-TA, the cafeteria, school day schedules, vending machines, safety, school attire, absences and tardinesses, telephone calls, saving stamps and parties.

Meetings will be for parents only and they are urged to have someone keep their children during the confabs. Hardin said both mothers and fathers should attend the meets.

Each conference will begin at 7:30 p.m. on the following evenings:

First grade, Monday, Sept. 21; second grade, Tuesday, Sept. 22; third grade, Thursday, Sept. 24; fourth grade, Monday Sept. 28; fifth grade, Tuesday, Sept. 29; sixth grade, Thursday, Oct. 1

First School Is Integrated In Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Eight Negroes began classes at Memphis State University Friday while segregationists waved banners and flew Confederate flags in a funeral-like motorcade circling the campus.

It was the first public school integration in this capital of the cotton belt, a city of 500,000 which adjoins both Mississippi and Arkansas.

Admission of the Negroes was agreed upon by university officials. A federal judge who heard the case said an integration order was moot inasmuch as the state Board of Education has ordered integration of the institution. Memphis State is a state-supported school and has 4,500 white students.

There was no disturbance. Most of the protesting segregationists did not move onto the campus, and confined the demonstration to waving flags and driving slowly. A police squad car followed the demonstrators. Four cars drove onto the campus.

One of the segregationists, an elderly man named Henry Hand, said the motorcade was organized "in protest against colored students entering white schools.

"They have schools of their own they could attend, he said.

On the campus itself, white students generally ignored the Negro students. Marvis Kneeland, 18, one of the Negroes, said she found the white students "indifferent."

"They ignored us," she said.

A few white students greeted the Negroes with a polite "good morning." The Negroes replied, "good morning."

MSU assigned segregated rest room facilities for the Negroes and their classes were arranged so that they can leave the campus before lunch, without eating in the campus cafeteria.

Faubus Declares Oath Can't Bind People Of State

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Friday the people of a state could not be bound to support a political party just because a few officials were asked to sign a loyalty oath.

This was his reaction to support given the National Democratic Committee's loyalty oath by Arkansas party officials.

But the governor said he backed the action of the pair because he also planned to support the Democratic ticket "in good conscience."

State Committee Chairman Tom Harper of Fort Smith and Arkansas National Committeeman Paul Chambers of Little Rock voted for the loyalty oath at a Democratic National Committee meeting in Washington Wednesday.

Harper attended the meeting with the proxy vote of Mrs. Jack Carnes of Camden, Democratic national committeewoman.

Faubus warned at a news conference that if action is taken at the 1960 Democratic convention that "any state delegation, North, East, South or West, can't stomach," a loyalty oath could not prevent the delegation from walking out.

Personally, he said, he will support the party's presidential and vice presidential nominees but "I think there is something stronger to loyalty than the mere writing down of words on a piece of paper."

OPERETTAS POPULAR

NEW YORK (AP) — Old time operettas are still highly popular summer theater properties, says David M. Holtzmann, president of the Musical Arena Theatres Association.

Holtzmann says "Rose Marie," "The Merry Widow," "Desert Song," "Naughty Marietta" and "The Vagabond King" are among the most frequently performed shows.

70 Surplus Labor Areas Designated

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government Saturday classified 70 areas as centers of "chronic labor surplus" because of their heavy unemployment ratio in both good times and bad.

In issuing the report, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said unemployment continues to be a "significant" problem in some parts of the nation despite general prosperity.

Seventeen major industrial centers were officially labeled for the first time as "chronic" unemployment areas. They included Detroit, Providence, R. I., Charleston, W. Va., five areas in Pennsylvania and four in Massachusetts.

Fifty - three smaller areas were placed on the list by the Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security.

Unemployment in all the areas was nearly double the rate for the nation as a whole, the bureau said. Mitchell estimated that 500,000 workers of the 3,426,000 idle in August were in the 70 most distressed areas.

Coal mining, textile and auto industry towns suffer the brunt of chronic unemployment, the study disclosed. All chronic areas fared worse than the rest of the nation during last year's recession and currently are lagging far behind in the business recovery, it added.

Shutdown of obsolete plants, transfer of industries to other regions, changes in consumer demand, depletion of natural resources, changes in competitive position of products and production advances were blamed.

To be listed, an area must have suffered at least 50 per cent more unemployment than the national average during four of the five past years. These areas are part of a larger group of industrial centers with "substantial labor surpluses" which are given preference in the award of defense contracts.

The 53 smaller areas with chronic labor surplus included:

Alabama — Florence-Sheffield, Jasper.

Kentucky — Corbin, Hazard, Madisonville, Middlesboro-Harlan, Morehead - Grayson, Owensboro, Paducah, Paintsville, Prestonburg and Pikeville-Williamson.

North Carolina — Fayetteville, Shelby-Kings Mountain.

Tennessee — LaFollette-Jellico-Tazewell.

Virginia — Big Stone Gap-Appalachia.

Auto Industry Feeling 'Pinch' Of Steel Strike

DETROIT (UPI) — A shortened work week at General Motors' A. C. Spark Plug Division in Flint, Mich., Friday marked the first indication the auto industry was feeling the "pinch" of the steel strike.

The division announced 300 employes at its Flint plant were working only four days this week because of a steel shortage. Officals said the men would work only four days next week also.

A spokesman emphasized, however, that GM has enough steel to build cars to supply its dealers and make initial sales.

The spokesman gave no estimate as to how long its production lines could go before a steel shortage would curtail actual production of cars.

Ford and Chrysler both said earlier they have enough steel for "substantial production" of 1960 models and unofficial remarks have been that production could continue through October.

Dean R. M. Robison said the administration hoped to keep the Negro students "as inconspicuous as possible" until students adjust to the situation. University President Jack Smith said the Negro students "cooperated" and that the integration "went as smoothly as we could have hoped."

"MR. PRESIDENT"

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Bellamy's presidential roles keep rolling along.

After two years of delineating Franklin D. Roosevelt in the Broadway hit "Sunrise at Campobello," Bellamy is to portray Thomas Jefferson on film. The movie, "Divided We Stand," is part of a series planned for NBC's television network.

PAST CONGRESS SESSION

Senators Agree Record Is Good

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five senators voiced widely varying views Saturday on accomplishments on the recent Congress, but most agreed that it made substantial progress.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) termed the session "rather fruitful" with "some good, needful legislation."

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) said the overall record was "moderately good" but that Congress left behind many "unfinished tasks" for next year.

Sen. George A. Smathers (D—Fla.) said the record refuted claims of the Eisenhower administration that the Congress was a "spendthrift organization." Smathers claimed congress cut the President's original budget requests by $1,000,000,000. Sparkman set the figure at an estimated $2,500,000,000.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) said the record showed that it was "essentially a caretaker Congress" and "in some vitally important areas, there was real failure to act."

Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) asserted that Congress "failed to meet its responsibilities to railroad and ferry passengers, especially commuters," by not acting on legislation to shore up commuter rail service in such areas as metropolitan New York.

The senators spoke out in separate statements or radio-TV interviews for home state audiences.

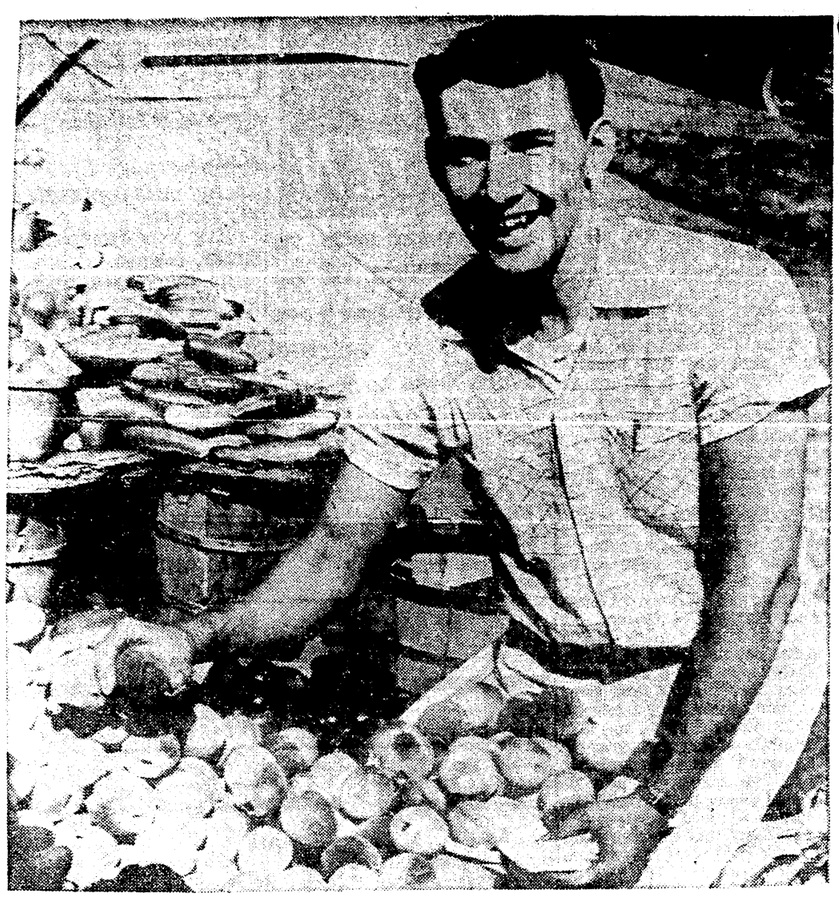
Sparkman said he thought one of the best accomplishments was cutting Eisenhower's budget requests. The lawmakers were "able to go the President one better and hold appropriations down" below the President's estimates, he said.

Wiley cited strengthened defense, the labor union reform law, highway financing, extension of the Civil Rights Commission, and continuation of the foreign aid program as major accomplishments. But he said farm legislation, better labor laws, city planning legislation, and education are fields in which Congress must act more strongly next year.

Smathers said that "despite continued charges of spending made against Congress by the press and by this administration, the figures show that rather than being spenders we're very thrifty people insofar as running the government is concerned."

Javits cited civil rights as the field in which Congress "failed to supply some desperately needed measures." But he said the session "does merit a 'well done' on its enactment of a labor reform bill that should effectively curb racketeering and encourage union democracy."

He listed civil rights, federal aid to education, minimum wage legislation and national health and housing programs as major items for the second session next year.



Awaits Danish Singing Star

John Spagnolo, 21, part-owner of a street fruit stand in South Bend, Ind., awaits the arrival of Denmark's top female singer, Birthe Wilke, 22, of Copenhagen. She is enroute to this country, presumably to marry Spagnolo. Miss Wilke sold her home and auto before leaving Denmark. She is expected in New York Monday or Tuesday. The couple met in Florida last year when the singer was in this country. (AP Wirephoto)

70 Surplus Labor Areas Designated

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government Saturday classified 70 areas as centers of "chronic labor surplus" because of their heavy unemployment ratio in both good times and bad.

In issuing the report, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said unemployment continues to be a "significant" problem in some parts of the nation despite general prosperity.

Seventeen major industrial centers were officially labeled for the first time as "chronic" unemployment areas. They included Detroit, Providence, R. I., Charleston, W. Va., five areas in Pennsylvania and four in Massachusetts.

Fifty - three smaller areas were placed on the list by the Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security.

Unemployment in all the areas was nearly double the rate for the nation as a whole, the bureau said. Mitchell estimated that 500,000 workers of the 3,426,000 idle in August were in the 70 most distressed areas.

Coal mining, textile and auto industry towns suffer the brunt of chronic unemployment, the study disclosed. All chronic areas fared worse than the rest of the nation during last year's recession and currently are lagging far behind in the business recovery, it added.

Shutdown of obsolete plants, transfer of industries to other regions, changes in consumer demand, depletion of natural resources, changes in competitive position of products and production advances were blamed.

To be listed, an area must have suffered at least 50 per cent more unemployment than the national average during four of the five past years. These areas are part of a larger group of industrial centers with "substantial labor surpluses" which are given preference in the award of defense contracts.

The 53 smaller areas with chronic labor surplus included:

Alabama — Florence-Sheffield, Jasper.

Kentucky — Corbin, Hazard, Madisonville, Middlesboro-Harlan, Morehead - Grayson, Owensboro, Paducah, Paintsville, Prestonburg and Pikeville-Williamson.

North Carolina — Fayetteville, Shelby-Kings Mountain.

Tennessee — LaFollette-Jellico-Tazewell.

Virginia — Big Stone Gap-Appalachia.

Auto Industry Feeling 'Pinch' Of Steel Strike

DETROIT (UPI) — A shortened work week at General Motors' A. C. Spark Plug Division in Flint, Mich., Friday marked the first indication the auto industry was feeling the "pinch" of the steel strike.

The division announced 300 employes at its Flint plant were working only four days this week because of a steel shortage. Officials said the men would work only four days next week also.

A spokesman emphasized, however, that GM has enough steel to build cars to supply its dealers and make initial sales.

The spokesman gave no estimate as to how long its production lines could go before a steel shortage would curtail actual production of cars.

Ford and Chrysler both said earlier they have enough steel for "substantial production" of 1960 models and unofficial remarks have been that production could continue through October.

Dean R. M. Robison said the administration hoped to keep the Negro students "as inconspicuous as possible" until students adjust to the situation. University President Jack Smith said the Negro students "cooperated" and that the integration "went as smoothly as we could have hoped."

UNION CLEAN-UP

Possible Ouster Of Hoffa Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A legal sword of Damocles was poised this week over Jimmy Hoffa's neck.

If it falls, the little man with big ideas could be ousted as provisional president of the huge Teamsters Union and face possible oblivion as a labor leader.

The sword was swung into place by court-appointed union clean-up monitors who charged the 46-year-old Hoffa had consistently defied their anti-corruption directives.

Specifically, two of the three monitors—the labor member did not join in—claimed before Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts that Hoffa had misused $675,000 of union funds in Florida banking and real estate transactions. They said the money belonged to Teamsters Local 299 in Detroit, which Hoffa heads, and demanded a full accounting.

They also specified that unless Hoffa provides satisfactory answers he be expelled from the union—a fate that also could befall many of his front-line lieutenants.

Judge Letts gave Hoffa 20 days to respond. Hoffa, whose hold on the nation's truckers gives him life-and-death power over a big slice of the national economy, said through associates that he would fight the accusations every step of the way—through the Supreme Court if need be.

But he has twice failed in court attempts to shed the monitors and gain unfettered control of the union through a convention that would confirm him as president. He has been serving provisionally since 1957, pending another convention which the monitors have blocked.

Letts originally set up the monitors in January, 1958, in a "consent" settlement of a suit by dissident teamsters who charged Hoffa was hand-picked in a "rigged" election to succeed much-indicted union President Dave Beck.

This was also after the Senate Rackets Committee branded Hoffa the "fountainhead of labor corruption" and cleared the way for recent enactment of drastic union reform legislation.

This latter development led AFL-CIO President George Meany to label Hoffa "labor's No. 1 enemy." Meany said that Hoffa, whose 1,600,000-man union was ousted from the AFL-CIO for alleged corruption, was responsible for passage of the legislation.

Hoffa now appears to be in a legal squeeze. The monitors have no punitive power. They merely can recommend. But the three-judge Federal Court of Appeals here said in rejecting a Hoffa appeal of monitor directives that the monitors have the right to ask Letts to enforce their edicts if Hoffa remains defiant. Letts is backing them up.

In general, the ruling upheld a dozen clean-up orders already approved by the judge. In addition, the Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter has refused to interfere with the monitors.

Hoffa's critics—and there are many in Congress and labor—say the monitors now have him "on the run." The monitors are still screening 200 more charges but preferred to open their expulsion campaign with their strongest case—alleged misuse of funds.

But Hoffa is a fighter. He can muster powerful legal talent, including the noted Edward Bennett Williams who thrives on trouble. It is regarded as certain that Williams will use every legal device to keep his client in office.

There is no doubt the final decision will come in the Supreme Court. But no matter how great the odds, Hoffa won't throw in the sponge. He directs the largest independent labor organization in the world. His is a lucrative post. He regards the Teamsters as "a race apart" from other labor organizations which he views with suspicion. He is always geared to fight and will use whatever methods seem most applicable.

"A union isn't a social club," he once said.

Conferences For Parents, Teachers Set

A series of parent - teacher conference sessions designed to acquaint parents with their children's school progress will be held this year at the Millsaps Elementary School in West Monroe, according to an announcement by the principal Gene Hardin.

Hardin said that to his knowledge this is the first program of this type ever initiated in Ouachita parish.

The principal reported, "These sessions might be classified as orientation periods for parents concerning the school program on each grade level.

RESULTS

"The end results should be better relations between home and school, thereby helping pupils to achieve the fullest."

Explained Hardin, "The parents of the children on each grade level will meet with the children's teachers in the room in which the children work each day.

"Teachers will outline the school program to parents at the beginning of the conference period. The latter part will be a discussion period."

Each period is scheduled to last for one hour and does nor replace the individual parent -teacher conferences that a parent may want to slate anytime during the school year.

Some of the items to be discussed at the first conference are subjects studied, homework, what the teacher expects of the child and parent, what parents may expect of the teacher, how parents may help children in school work, testing, report cards and grading, the P-TA, the cafeteria, school day schedules, vending machines, safety, school attire, absences and tardinesses, telephone calls, saving stamps and parties.

Meetings will be for parents only and they are urged to have someone keep their children during the confabs. Hardin said both mothers and fathers should attend the meets.

Each conference will begin at 7:30 p.m. on the following evenings:

First grade, Monday, Sept. 21; second grade, Tuesday, Sept. 22; third grade, Thursday, Sept. 24; fourth grade, Monday Sept. 28; fifth grade, Tuesday, Sept. 29; sixth grade, Thursday, Oct. 1

First School Is Integrated In Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Eight Negroes began classes at Memphis State University Friday while segregationists waved banners and flew Confederate flags in a funeral-like motorcade circling the campus.

It was the first public school integration in this capital of the cotton belt, a city of 500,000 which adjoins both Mississippi and Arkansas.

Admission of the Negroes was agreed upon by university officials. A federal judge who heard the case said an integration order was moot inasmuch as the state Board of Education has ordered integration of the institution. Memphis State is a state-supported school and has 4,500 white students.

There was no disturbance. Most of the protesting segregationists did not move onto the campus, and confined the demonstration to waving flags and driving slowly. A police squad car followed the demonstrators. Four cars drove onto the campus.

One of the segregationists, an elderly man named Henry Hand, said the motorcade was organized "in protest against colored students entering white schools.

"They have schoo's of their own they could attend, he said.

On the campus itself, white students generally ignored the Negro students. Marvis Kneeland, 18, one of the Negroes, said she found the white students "indifferent."

"They ignored us," she said.

A few white students greeted the Negroes with a polite "good morning." The Negroes replied, "good morning."

MSU assigned segregated rest room facilities for the Negroes and their classes were arranged so that they can leave the campus before lunch, without eating in the campus cafeteria.

Faubus Declares Oath Can't Bind People Of State

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Friday the people of a state could not be bound to support a political party just because a few officials were asked to sign a loyalty oath.

This was his reaction to support given the National Democratic Committee's loyalty oath by Arkansas party officials.

But the governor said he backed the action of the pair because he also planned to support the Democratic ticket "in good conscience."

State Committee Chairman Tom Harper of Fort Smith and Arkansas National Committeeman Paul Chambers of Little Rock voted for the loyalty oath at a Democratic National Committee meeting in Washington Wednesday.

Harper attended the meeting with the proxy vote of Mrs. Jack Carnes of Camden, Democratic national committeewoman.

Faubus warned at a news conference that if action is taken at the 1960 Democratic convention that "any state delegation, North, East, South or West, can't stomach," a loyalty oath could not prevent the delegation from walking out.

Personally, he said, he will support the party's presidential and vice presidential nominees but "I think there is something stronger to loyalty than the mere writing down of words on a piece of paper."

OPERETTAS POPULAR

NEW YORK (AP) — Old time operettas are still highly popular summer theater properties, says David M. Holtzmann, president of the Musical Arena Theatres Association.

Holtzmann says "Rose Marie," "The Merry Widow," "Desert Song," "Naughty Marietta" and "The Vagabond King" are among the most frequently performed shows.

DR. W. R. COURTENAY

Nashville Minister To Speak Here

Dr. Walter R. Courtenay, minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Nashville, Tennessee, will give a series of talks at the First Presbyterian Church here beginning next Sunday, according to Dr. Wave H. McFadden, pastor.

Sermons were scheduled for Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.; the following Monday through Thursday at 7:30 p.m.; to the men of the church at 7 a.m. Tuesday and to the women of the church Monday through Thursday at 10 a.m.

Dr. Courtenay was born in Canada and moved to Georgia as a boy and considers that his "home state." He was graduated from Maryvile College in East Tennessee in 1929 and completed his theological training at Princeton University in 1932. He was pastor of a church in Wisconsin until he came to the Nashville church in 1944.

During recent years, seven of Dr. Courtenay's addresses have been read into the Congressional Record and the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge has twice honored him with medals of merit.

In 1957, Life Magazine featured him and one of his sermons, calling the sermon one of the six best Easter sermons preached in 1956.

Judge Harper To Speak At Local Church

Judge W. M. Harper of Monroe will be the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Worker's Conference and Church School Teachers that will be held at the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church tomorrow at 7 p.m. in Fellowship Hall, according to Rev. W. M. Allen, pastor.

A Wesleyan Service Guild has also been organized at the church, Rev. Allen said. The Guild held their installation service by candle-light last Sunday with each officer lighting their different colored candles representing different offices they will hold. The pastor installed the officers: President, Mrs. Lennie Whitaker; Vice - president, Mrs. Lucille Durham; recording secretary, Mrs. Ruth Stratford and treasurer, Miss Bobbye Hearn.

Swor To Speak At College Place Baptist Church

Dr. Chester E. Swor, nationally - known lecturer and conference leader, will be in special services this week at the College Place Baptist church, it has been announced.

Dr. Swor received his education at Mississippi College, his native state, but received his Master's Degree from the University of North Carolina and a Professional Diploma in Guidance from Columbia University. He has received several honorary Doctor's Degrees from various institutions.

He will speak in the College Place Baptist Church three services today. At 10 a.m. he will speak to the intermediates and young people, ages 13 through 25. He will speak at the regular worship hour at 11 a.m. and the regular worship hour at 8 p.m. Services will be held throughout the week at 7 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Outside engagements by Dr. Chester Swor while he is in Monroe will be at West Monroe High School, at the West Monroe Rotary Club and at the Neville High School.

Presbyterians Plan New Church In South Monroe

A new Presbyterian Church for the south section of Monroe was proposed by the Ouachita Parish extension committee of the church, it has been announced.

At a meeting of the committee at Grace Presbyterian Church in Fairbanks last week, it was the unanimous vote of all present that this group sponsor such a church in that location, members of the committee announced.

It was also announced by the group, comprised of laymen from the Presbyterian churches in the parish, that a property committee has been appointed to seek a site for the location of the proposed church.

Sometimes it's best not to ask an author a question.

He may write a whole book about it.

A few years ago a friend put a simple question about Judaism to best-selling novelist Herman Wouk.

The result is Wouk's first nonfiction work, "This Is My God," a casual and highly readable explanation of the Jewish religion as Wouk knows it and lives it.

"This Is My God" (Doubleday) tops the list of religious reading as the usually heavy fall publishing season moves into high gear.

In this case it was well that author Wouk was asked the question.

His personalized history of the Jewish religion and customs is a good starting point for those interested parties who are inclined to panic at the thought of wading through deeply theological accounts.

The 1959-60 publishing season shows promise of looming large in books dealing with Judaism.

In addition to the Wouk book there is "World Jewry Today," edited by Simon Federbush (Thomas Yoseloff) one of the most thoroughly researched guides to any religion.

It surveys Jewry country by country, including a brief history of each Jewish community and its current status right down to the officers and addresses of its congregations and societies.

There is also Harry Gersh's "These Are My People" (Behrman House) a collection of brief biographies of the greatest Jews from Abraham and Moses down to Albert Einstein and Chaim Weizman.

For the reader with a casual interest, a library of Jewry made up of Wouk, Federbush and Gersh would be just about complete in itself.

The Rev. A. C. Pounds, of Gainesville, Georgia, will serve as evangelist at a revival at the Free Methodist Church in West Monroe beginning Wednesday evening. Services will be held each evening at 7:30. The Church is located Lincoln and McGuire Streets in West Monroe and Rev. H. Austin Smith is pastor.

Mayor To Speak At Church Meet

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard of Monroe will speak at the regular monthly meeting of the young adults of the Covenant Presbyterian Church of Monroe, Rev. Wayne Gray, pastor, announced.

Mayor Howard will speak on the topic, "Civil Defense." Craig Campbell,president of the church group, said other young adults of the city were invited to attend. The meeting will be held in the newly completed education and fellowship hall of the church.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have committed some very wicked sins in the past. Now that I am a Christian, these sins constantly come to my mind. What purpose does God have in reminding me of them? G. J. B.

ANSWER: I am sure that God is too busy to remind you of the sins He has forgiven you of. The Bible says: "I will forgive their iniquity; and I will remember their sins no more." The Bible clearly indicates that it is impossible for Him to remember any sin He has ever forgiven.

You say that these sins come to your mind. A wound may be healed but the scars remain. Memories of your past sins are tucked away in your subconsciousness, and from time to time you may recall them, but that doesn't mean that they haven't been forgiven. A man may commit a crime and pay the penalty for it, but that doesn't mean that he completely forgets that he had ever broken the law. Is it even necessary that it be completely erased from the mind?

I know many people whom God has forgiven, but they haven't forgiven themselves. Perhaps that is the case with you. You insist on punishing yourself for sins of the past which God has forgiven. This will not do you nor anyone else any good. I suggest that you turn your eyes outward from your own problems and begin helping others to find the forgiveness of Christ. If we think too much about ourselves we may get the paralysis of analysis.

Take by faith God's promise of forgiveness — then ask Him to help you remove these thoughts from your mind.

Baptists Plan Teacher Clinic For Parish

The Baptist Churches of Ouachita Parish Baptist Association are planning a Teaching Improvement Clinic for September 28 - October 1, it was learned today. This four-day clinic with emphasis on methods and principles for better teaching through the Sunday School will be held at College Place Baptist Church.

A faculty from this area and from surrounding states have been enlisted to lead conferences for every age group and interest.

Conference leaders from other states will include Mrs. Fred Essex, Texarkana, Texas; Mrs. J. E. Morrow, Jackson, Mississippi; Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Williams, Jackson, Mississippi; and Mrs. Edgar Williamson, Little Rock, Arkansas.

Among the local leadership will be Mrs. Georgia Darnell, Mrs. C. A. Lutrell, Mrs. James Newland, and Mrs. Johnny Painech of West Monroe; Mrs. James Hudson, Mrs. C. B. Littleton, Mrs. Julius Nelson, Mrs. A. L. New, Mrs. Truman Potts, and Mrs. Matt Wetzel, of Monroe.

James Neyland, minister of education, First Baptist Church, West Monroe, will lead the conference for pastors and Sunday School general officers in a study of "A Church Using Its Sunday School" daily from 7:00-9:00 p.m. at the College Place Baptist Church. Neyland will also lead one of the fourteen conferences of the Teaching Improvement Clinic planned for September 28 — October 1 by the Baptist churches of this area.

West Monroe Church Holds Revival Week

A revival has been scheduled this week at Claiborne Methodist Church on Highway 80 in West Monroe, it was announced today.

Evangelist for the occasion will be Rev. Lloyd Williams of the Jonesboro Methodist Church. Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. throughout the week.

Members of the church said Rev. Williams is known as a specialist in the field of visitation evangelism and is also known as an evangelistic speaker. He is the author of the book, "Queen Without a Crown," which deals with the life of a minister's wife.

Rev. Williams was the pastor of the Methodist Church in Maplewood before coming to Jonesboro.

Rev. Huffine Received By W.M. Church

Rev. A. P. Huffine has arrived at First Pilgrim Holiness church in West Monroe. He is the successor to Rev. Raymond Kensell. The Rev. and Mrs. Huffine are both natives of Ohio and they have two sons and a daughter.

Rev. Huffine has served as pastor in Coolidge, and Tucson, Ariz. In Tucson, he and Mrs. Huffine were instrumental in the founding of Drexel Heights Community Church. He was an associate pastor at the Bibleway Mission and served as the youth director at Parkview Pilgrim Holiness Church in Tucson. He has served as purchasing agent for the Foreign Missionary Department at International Headquarters in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Rev. and Mrs. Huffine are both ministers and are graduates of Burton Seminary, formerly known as Pikes Peak Bible College, of Manitou Springs, Colorado.

They will reside at 900 Stella street, West Monroe.

Teacher Courses To Be Conducted

The First Methodist Church of Monroe will serve as host church for a Christian Workers' Training School for the Twin Cities area, it was announced today.

The three - day session will open Monday, September 28 with classes scheduled at 9:30-11:30 a.m. and from 7:00-9:00 p.m.

Instruction will include courses for teachers and workers with seven categories of children and older youth, as well as courses for teachers of adults, the announcement said.

Enlargement Campaign At Ridge Ave.

As part of the associational "pastor - led" enlargement campaign of the Trenton Baptist Association, the Rev. A. T. Mitchell, pastor of the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church is to teach the book, "The Ministry of Visitation" beginning tomorrow.

A "pastor - led" enlargement campaign of this type has as its purpose the strengthening and enlarging of the Sunday schools of the participating churches.

Ridge Avenue Baptist Church will be a participating church in the associational Sunday School enlargement campaign. The Rev. Mitchell will lead in a study of visitation methods each evening at 7:00 through Friday.

DR. W. R. COURTENAY

Nashville Minister To Speak Here

Dr. Walter R. Courtenay, minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Nashville, Tennessee, will give a series of talks at the First Presbyterian Church here beginning next Sunday, according to Dr. Wave H. McFadden, pastor.

Sermons were scheduled for Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.; the following Monday through Thursday at 7:30 p.m.; to the men of the church at 7 a.m. Tuesday and to the women of the church Monday through Thursday at 10 a.m.

Dr. Courtenay was born in Canada and moved to Georgia as a boy and considers that his "home state." He was graduated from Maryvile College in East Tennessee in 1929 and completed his theological training at Princeton University in 1932. He was pastor of a church in Wisconsin until he came to the Nashville church in 1944.

During recent years, seven of Dr. Courtenay's addresses have been read into the Congressional Record and the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge has twice honored him with medals of merit.

In 1957, Life Magazine featured him and one of his sermons, calling the sermon one of the six best Easter sermons preached in 1956.

Judge Harper To Speak At Local Church

Judge W. M. Harper of Monroe will be the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Worker's Conference and Church School Teachers that will be held at the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church tomorrow at 7 p.m. in Fellowship Hall, according to Rev. W. M. Allen, pastor.

A Wesleyan Service Guild has also been organized at the church, Rev. Allen said. The Guild held their installation service by candle-light last Sunday with each officer lighting their different colored candles representing different offices they will hold. The pastor installed the officers: President, Mrs. Lennie Whitaker; Vice - president, Mrs. Lucille Durham; recording secretary, Mrs. Ruth Stratford and treasurer, Miss Bobbye Hearn.

Swor To Speak At College Place Baptist Church

Dr. Chester E. Swor, nationally - known lecturer and conference leader, will be in special services this week at the College Place Baptist church, it has been announced.

Dr. Swor received his education at Mississippi College, his native state, but received his Master's Degree from the University of North Carolina and a Professional Diploma in Guidance from Columbia University. He has received several honorary Doctor's Degrees from various institutions.

He will speak in the College Place Baptist Church three services today. At 10 a.m. he will speak to the intermediates and young people, ages 13 through 25. He will speak at the regular worship hour at 11 a.m. and the regular worship hour at 8 p.m. Services will be held throughout the week at 7 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Outside engagements by Dr. Chester Swor while he is in Monroe will be at West Monroe High School, at the West Monroe Rotary Club and at the Neville High School.

Presbyterians Plan New Church In South Monroe

A new Presbyterian Church for the south section of Monroe was proposed by the Ouachita Parish extension committee of the church, it has been announced.

At a meeting of the committee at Grace Presbyterian Church in Fairbanks last week, it was the unanimous vote of all present that this group sponsor such a church in that location, members of the committee announced.

It was also announced by the group, comprised of laymen from the Presbyterian churches in the parish, that a property committee has been appointed to seek a site for the location of the proposed church.

Question Puts Author's Pen To New Book

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Sometimes it's best not to ask an author a question.

He may write a whole book about it.

A few years ago a friend put a simple question about Judaism to best-selling novelist Herman Wouk.

The result is Wouk's first nonfiction work, "This Is My God," a casual and highly readable explanation of the Jewish religion as Wouk knows it and lives it.

"This Is My God" (Doubleday) tops the list of religious reading as the usually heavy fall publishing season moves into high gear.

In this case it was well that author Wouk was asked the question.

His personalized history of the Jewish religion and customs is a good starting point for those interested parties who are inclined to panic at the thought of wading through deeply theological accounts.

The 1959-60 publishing season shows promise of looming large in books dealing with Judaism.

In addition to the Wouk book there is "World Jewry Today," edited by Simon Federbush (Thomas Yoseloff) one of the most thoroughly researched guides to any religion.

It surveys Jewry country by country, including a brief history of each Jewish community and its current status right down to the officers and addresses of its congregations and societies.

There is also Harry Gersh's "These Are My People" (Behrman House) a collection of brief biographies of the greatest Jews from Abraham and Moses down to Albert Einstein and Chaim Weizman.

For the reader with a casual interest, a library of Jewry made up of Wouk, Federbush and Gersh would be just about complete in itself.

The Rev. A. C. Pounds, of Gainesville, Georgia, will serve as evangelist at a revival at the Free Methodist Church in West Monroe beginning Wednesday evening. Services will be held each evening at 7:30. The Church is located Lincoln and McGuire Streets in West Monroe and Rev. H. Austin Smith is pastor.

Mayor To Speak At Church Meet

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard of Monroe will speak at the regular monthly meeting of the young adults of the Covenant Presbyterian Church of Monroe, Rev. Wayne Gray, pastor, announced.

Mayor Howard will speak on the topic, "Civil Defense." Craig Campbell, president of the church group, said other young adults of the city were invited to attend. The meeting will be held in the newly completed education and fellowship hall of the church.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have committed some very wicked sins in the past. Now that I am a Christian, these sins constantly come to my mind. What purpose does it serve in reminding me of them? G. J. B.

ANSWER: I am sure that God is too busy to remind you of the sins He has forgiven you of. The Bible says: "I will forgive their iniquity: and I will remember their sins no more." The Bible clearly indicates that it is impossible for Him to remember any sin He has ever forgiven.

You say that these sins come to your mind. A wound may be healed but the scars remain. Memories of your past sins are tucked away in your subconsciousness, and from time to time you may recall them, but that doesn't mean that they haven't been forgiven. A man may commit a crime and pay the penalty for it, but that doesn't mean that he completely forgets that he had ever broken the law. Is it even necessary that it be completely erased from the mind?

I know many people whom God has forgiven, but they haven't forgiven themselves. Perhaps that is the case with you. You insist on punishing yourself for sins of the past which God has forgiven. This will not do you nor anyone else any good. I suggest that you turn your eyes outward from your own problems and begin helping others to find the forgiveness of Christ. If we think too much about ourselves we may get the paralysis of analysis.

Take by faith God's promise of forgiveness — then ask Him to help you remove these thoughts from your mind.

Baptists Plan Teacher Clinic For Parish

The Baptist Churches of Ouachita Parish Baptist Association are planning a Teaching Improvement Clinic for September 28 - October 1, it was learned today. This four-day clinic with emphasis on methods and principles for better teaching through the Sunday School will be held at College Place Baptist Church.

A faculty from this area and from surrounding states have been enlisted to lead conferences for every age group and interest.

Conference leaders from other states will include Mrs. Fred Essex, Texarkana, Texas; Mrs. J. E. Morrow, Jackson, Mississippi; Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Williams, Jackson, Mississippi; and Mrs. Edgar Williamson, Little Rock, Arkansas.

Among the local leadership will be Mrs. Georgia Darnell, Mrs. C. A. Lutrell, Mrs. James Newland, and Mrs. Johnny Painech of West Monroe; Mrs. James Hudson, Mrs. C. B. Littleton, Mrs. Julius Nelson, Mrs. A. L. New, Mrs. Truman Potts, and Mrs. Matt Wetzel, of Monroe.

James Neyland, minister of education, First Baptist Church, West Monroe, will lead the conference for pastors and Sunday School general officers in a study of "A Church Using Its Sunday School" daily from 7:00-9:00 p.m. at the College Place Baptist Church. Neyland will also lead one of the fourteen conferences of the Teaching Improvement Clinic planned for September 28 — October 1 by the Baptist churches of this area.

West Monroe Church Holds Revival Week

A revival has been scheduled this week at Claiborne Methodist Church on Highway 80 in West Monroe, it was announced today.

Evangelist for the occasion will be Rev. Lloyd Williams of the Jonesboro Methodist Church. Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. throughout the week.

Members of the church said Rev. Williams is known as a specialist in the field of visitation evangelism and is also known as an evangelistic speaker. He is the author of the book, "Queen Without a Crown," which deals with the life of a minister's wife.

Rev. Williams was the pastor of the Methodist Church in Maplewood before coming to Jonesboro.

Rev. Huffine Received By W.M. Church

Rev. A. P. Huffine has arrived at First Pilgrim Holiness church in West Monroe. He is the successor to Rev. Raymond Kensell. The Rev. and Mrs. Huffine are both natives of Ohio and they have two sons and a daughter.

Rev. Huffine has served as pastor in Coolidge, and Tucson, Ariz. In Tucson, he and Mrs. Huffine were instrumental in the founding of Drexel Heights Community Church. He was an associate pastor at the Bibleway Mission, and served as the youth director at Parkview Pilgrim Holiness Church in Tucson. He has served as purchasing agent for the Foreign Missionary Department at International Headquarters in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Rev. and Mrs. Huffine are both ministers and are graduates of Burton Seminary, formerly known as Pikes Peak Bible College, of Manitou Springs, Colorado.

They will reside at 900 Stella street, West Monroe.

Teacher Courses To Be Conducted

The First Methodist Church of Monroe will serve as host church for a Christian Workers' Training School for the Twin Cities area, it was announced today.

The three - day session will open Monday, September 28 with classes scheduled at 9:30-11:30 a.m. and from 7:00-9:00 p.m.

Instruction will include courses for teachers and workers with seven categories of children and older youth, as well as courses for teachers of adults, the announcement said.

Enlargement Campaign At Ridge Ave.

As part of the associational "pastor - led" enlargement campaign of the Trenton Baptist Association, the Rev. A. T. Mitchell, pastor of the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church is to teach the book, "The Ministry of Visitation" beginning tomorrow.

A "pastor - led" enlargement campaign of this type has as its purpose the strengthening and enlarging of the Sunday schools of the participating churches.

Ridge Avenue Baptist Church will be a participating church in the associational Sunday School enlargement campaign. The Rev. Mitchell will lead in a study of visitation methods each evening at 7:00 through Friday.

U. S. TREND

School Day May Be Lengthened

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

American children, who now attend school for about 1,000 hours a year, are headed for longer stints in the classroom.

Schools districts throughout the country are taking steps to lengthen the school day, the school year, or both.

"This is one of the most important trends in American education," says Dr. Lawrence G. Derthick, U. S. commissioner of education.

Prolonging the total period of instruction has become "almost a necessity," according to Dr. Shirley Cooper, associate secretary of the American Association of Administrators.

"Children today have more to learn than ever before — in cultural subjects as well as the sciences," says Dr. Cooper. "More time in the classroom is an essential condition of better education."

There are four ways in which extra teaching time can be added, and each has its advocates.

The first is to lengthen the school day, which now averages about 5½ hours of classroom work. Dr. Lloyd E. Blauch, assistant U. S. commissioner of education, proposed recently that schools go on a regular eight hour day. He said all homework could then be done at school, under far better study conditions than prevail in the average home.

Dr. Blauch's suggestion for a 9 to 5 school day has not stirred widespread enthusiasm. But a few school districts are experimenting with a longer day. High schools in Wilmington, Del., Gorham, Maine, and Bellefontaine, Ohio, added one classroom period this fall. Lansing Central School System near Ithaca, N.Y., scheduled a "voluntary" period at the end of the day for children who want to work on special projects in science or business education.

Alternative No. 2 is for American children to attend classes six days a week, as Russian children do. Most teachers and parents, not to mention children, take a dim view of this idea. But some experimental is taking place. Rock Island, Ill., for example, has begun to offer special Saturday classes, on a voluutary basis, for talented youngsters who want to do extra work.

The third alternative is to lengthen the school year, which now averages 180 days. Many educators believe this is a long--overdue reform. They point out that the nine-month school term is simply a hangover from the 19th Century, when children were needed on the farms during the summer.

Washington, D. C., schools are adding one week to their term this year. Montgomery County, Maryland, is adding four days. Other communities that have lengthened their school terms in recent years include Atlanta, Ga., Champaign, Ill., and Haywood, Calif.

The fourth alternative is to provide real educational opportunities during the summer for children who need or want additional teaching. More is currently being done on this front than any other.

ON SERVING OF TERM

Noe Offers To Bet Morrison $100,000

BATON ROUGE, (UPI) —Former Gov. Jimmy Noe said today he was willing to bet mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans $100,000 that he would complete the full four-year term as governor if elected.

Noe said he would deposit a performance bond of $100,000 with the state treasurer payable "if I fail to perform my solemn obligation." He asked Morrison to post a similar bond "payable on the date I complete my four years in office.

"A few short hours after my qualification as a candidate for governor, Mayor Morrison was quoted in a speech at Lake Providence as stating 'if Noe is elected governor, he will not serve one day, but will resign to permit Earl Long who is running for lieutenant governor, to be governor,'" Noe explained.

"I am shocked and astounded—and prepared to challenge the truth of Mayor Morrison's speeches right from the start of this campaign—if he did make that statement as recorded," Noe said.

"I have drawn up an affidavit which I am ready to file immediately with the treasurer of the state of Louisiana.

"It is, in effect, a performance bond in the amount of $100,000 payable to the old age pension fund if I fail to fulfill my solemn obligation to serve the people of Louisiana as their governor for the full four year term unless death should unexpectedly cut short my term.

"I will file this affidavit the very day and hour that Mayor Morrison agrees to deposit a similar bond of $100,000...payable on the date I complete my four years in office."

Noe said Morrison "should show his metal now—right at the start. If he is sincere in this remark he will have no reluctance in posting the $100,000 bond. If he is not sincere his failure to execute such a bond will reflect to every voter his obvious insincerity."

Noe said he had "always been sincere in my responsibilities and duties...and it seems to me Mayor Morrison should measure up to equally solemn obligations."

Chinese Keep Khrushchev's Visit Secret

TOKYO (UPI)—Red China Saturday gave its people lackluster reports on Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's American tour and his new disarmament plan, without a word that he also will visit Peiping.

The vivid, if inaccurate, descriptions of "enthusiastic" American crowds greeting Khrushchev which Soviet correspondents have sent home to Russia are missing in Communist China's coverage of the tour.

There have been no commentaries on the trip, although the Chinese Reds usually use commentaries to express their views.

Observers refused to guess at the reasons for withholding from the Chinese people the fact that Khrushchev will visit Peiping immediately after he ends his American tour. He was scheduled to leave for the Red Chinese capital Sept. 29.

The Russian people themselves were not told this until Friday, although it had been disclosed in the West.

Chinese coverage of Khrushchev's tour in America has been based solely upon the dispatches of the Soviet Tass news agency.

No Chinese Communist newsmen have been permitted in the United States.

Radio Peiping has been broadcasting some summaries of press reaction in other Communist nations to the Khrushchev visit. All the reaction has been favorable.

Since the Soviet premier began his historic American exchange visit, the Chinese Reds have shown a marked reluctance to discuss it. Although Peiping officials have publicly approved the exchange between President Eisenhower and Khrushchev, there is belief that the Chinese Communists basically opposed such meetings.

The Communist New China news agency broadcast matter-of-fact details of Khrushchev's disarmament speech before the United Nations in New York Friday.

There was no immediate comment, indicating that Peiping was not told in advance the details of the total disarmament proposals.

Two Are Hurt In Car Wreck

An automobile accident yesterday injured two persons shortly after noon at the intersections on Catalpa and Calypso streets.

Taken to a private physician by a motorist were Mrs. M. J. Richardson of Calhoun, and Effie W. Rikard of Chestnut, La. Neither was seriously injured, reports indicated.

Drivers of the two vehicles involved were identified as Katherine F. Caskey, 38, of 107 McNeese in DeQuincy, who was going west on Calypso, and Marie R. Burns, 35, of Grayson, who was going south on Catalpa.

Morrison Says Long Seeks To Insure Chances

PORT BARRE, La. (AP) — Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans, in his gubernatorial campaign talk here Saturday declared Gov. Earl K. Long "is running his political campaign the same way he bets on horses — He always has two horses going for him in the same race."

"Earl always said he insures his bet by playing not just one, but two horses in each race," Morrison told his hearers.

"He is doing the same thing in this campaign by not only running on the so-called Long-Noe ticket but he is also the 'secret' candidate on the Jimmie Davis ticket."

Morrison said this "became obvious when Long did not immediately fire from state jobs the Old Regulars in New Orleans who voted to support Davis instead of Long in the coming election."

"It is really a Long-Noe-Davis ticket," Morrison concluded, calling it "subterfuge."

George Bowdon, mayor of Alexandria and candidate for lieutenant governor, said the Morrison-Bowdon ticket "represents a breath of fresh air in the dark dusty arena that has been representative of the state administration for so many years."

"We represent a clean start, a new beginning for the people of Louisiana," Bowdon said. "We are not making deals. We don't have to make deals."

The columbine, after which President Eisenhower named his personal airplane, is the blue and white state flower of Colorado.

Honarary pallbearers will be members of the official board of the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church.

Marshall Brown Turns Campaign Guns On Waste

EUNICE, La. (AP) — Gubernatorial candidate Marshall Brown of New Orleans Saturday turned his campaign guns on "wheeling and dealing" candidates, unnecessary taxes and overlapping functions of state boards and commissions.

Brown spoke to shopping crowds here and at Kinder, Basile and Mamou. He kept asking his audience if they were really ready for a change in government.

"You take a look at the present lineup in the governor's race," Brown said, "and wherever you look you are going to see the same tired old faces and the same tired old political names. The only thing some of them have done is to slap a new label on the package and expect you to swallow the bait."

Hitting at what he called excess weight on state payrolls, Brown said, "We have two types of government in Baton Rouge. On the one hand you have a hard-working employe who puts in his eight hours a day and justifies his existence on the state payroll At the same time you have a government of bureaus and commissions whose sole duty is to take huge bites out of your tax dollar for entertainment, travel and expensive automobiles. And I pledge to you that when I say 'I do' (takes office) heads will roll and the functions of the various offices will be returned to the proper department."

GRANDMA'S MUMPS

LIBERAL, Kan. (UPI) — An 80-year-old grandmother who attended her granddaughter's wedding came down with the mumps shortly after kissing the bride.

Mumps is a rarity in persons over 60 years old. But Mrs. C. M. Bright got a full-blown case of the disease.

DR. ELTON R. BARRETT

Dr. Barrett Assumes Post At Northeast

Dr. Elton R. Barrett has joined the teaching staff at Northeast Louisiana State College, it was announced last week.

Barrett will be associated with the college as an instructor in biology. He is a graduate of Georgetown High School and holds the B.S. degree from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, an M.S. degree from Louisiana State University and the Ph.D., which he received from LSU in August.

The new faculty member held a graduate fellowship at LSU from August 1955 through August 1959.

During the summer of 1955 he worked as a cotton entomologist in the Winnsboro area.

He has made a comparative study of the bunch method of sugar cane selection and the single plant selection method, which now is being used in Louisiana.

Barrett is affiliated with the American Phytopathological Society and the Louisiana Acadamy of Sciences. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary fraternity.

China Planning Satellite Firing On Anniversary

MACAO (UPI)—Communist China will definitely launch an earth satellite on Oct. 1, the 10th anniversary of the establishment of the Peiping regime, according to pro-Communist businessmen who have made recent tours of the China mainland.

United Press International interviewed several leading local pro-Red businesmen who recently visited not only China but Russia and East European countries.

Without exception, those interviewed asked that they not be idenified.

One of the businesmen said, however, that during a meeting with Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai he learned from Mao that "China soon will perform a big achievement and will prove in many fields we are ahead of Great Britain."

The same source said that Mao "did not mention the word satellite but he (the businessman) was sure the Chinese leader meant a Chinese satellite would be launched Oct. 1.

Search Starts For Missing Girl In Wooded Area

MERIDIAN, Miss. (UPI) — An extensive air and land search was begun Saturday shortly after a 20-year-old Georgia girl left the home of a prominent relative near here and headed into a heavily wooded area.

Margaret Martin of Augusta, Ga., left the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Swartzfager five miles north of here at 9 a. m. Officers reported she was in a "nervous" condition.

An estimated 100 National Guardsmen and a helicopter began looking for her after she failed to return. Bloodhounds were brought into the search and more searchers were to be called on if she was not found by Sunday morning.

Two persons reported they saw a girl matching Miss Martin's description about three hours later three miles west of the Swartzfager home. Two more persons reported seeing her at 3 p. m., still further west. Each time the girl headed into a wooded area.

Miss Martin was graduated recently from Mississippi Southern College. She has light brown hair, weighed about 105 pounds and stood five - foot - six. She was wearing a blue skirt and a blue blouse.

She was visiting with the Swartzfagers, her uncle and aunt.

Swartzfager is a Meridian auto Dealer.

Mother Charged In Burglaries

NATCHEZ, Miss. Sept. 19 — (UPI) — The young mother of three children was held on burglary charges Saturday and officers said she broke into the same drug store four times and a jewelry store once since Aug. 15.

Police said Mrs. Barbara Wilkinson, 24, took cosmetics from the drug store and broke the show window of the jewelry store with a rock to take six watches.

INTERRUPTS BIG CITY TOURS

Soviet Premier To View Iowa's Tall Corn Tuesday

COON RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI) — The world's No. 1 Communist interrupts his big-city tour this week for a down-on-the-farm look at the heartland of the nation and a not-so-typical American farmer.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, a one-time shepherd boy who made good, flies to Iowa's tall corn country on Tuesday for a 29½-hour view of the greatness of American agriculture. He'll see some of the reasons why the American farmer out-produces his Russian counterpart by 5 to 1.

Focal point of the visit will be the productive cornland owned or managed by Roswell Garst, a 61-year-old prosperous hybrid seed corn expert considered something of a maverick in agriculture.

The Soviet leader also will rub elbows with perhaps the most varied group of Americans he will get close to on the tour—farmers and agricultural experts, top state and city officials, industrial workers and university professors.

Khrushchev, whom Garst describes as "just a farmer at heart," also will undoubtedly get a sizeable amount of good Iowa dirt in his shoes and on his clothes as he tramps around the extensive Garst farms near here.

Garst owns or manages some 5,000 acres in central Iowa on which he puts into practice some of his pet theories. One of them is abandoning crop rotation for heavy fertilization.

Garst, a dinner guest of Khrushchev's last March at the Kremlin, honestly believes the Khrushchev visit is a chance to contribute to world peace. He feels that if he can show Khrushchev how to produce more food, the chances of war will be lessened because "a full stomach makes a peaceful man."

The visitor will travel something over 250 miles during his Iowa stay, a fact which causes concern among security officials. The job of providing sufficient personnel over such an area is a difficult one and there are no large metropolitan police forces to call upon for aid.

At the urging of the State Depatement, Gov. Herschel C. Loveless called up 700 to 800 men of the Iowa National Guard to help beef up the security forces.

While the visit to the Garst farm on Wednesday is the highlight of Khrushchev's visit, he also will see other aspects of agriculture in visits to farm-associated industries on Tuesday.

One is the sprawling, 46-acre John Deere farm implement plant near Des Moines, which comes about as close as you can to filling the biblical philosophy of beating "swords into plowshares."

The plant, a World War II small arms ammunition plant, now makes a wide variety of farm implements. At least 20 of them will be on display for the occasion.

Khrushchev also is scheduled to visit a meat-packing plant where he can view the process of turning livestock into meat products. Here he will see such things as that All-American favorite, the Hot Dog, rolling off an assembly line at 288 a minute.

A strike forced a switch in plans on this stop. Khrushchev was scheduled to visit the large Iowa Packing Co. but the United Packinghouse Workers Union is now on strike there, so the smaller Des Moines Packing Co. was substituted.

Much of the tour schedule is still flexible. During his Tuesday tour, the route will take Khrushchev past the Iowa State Capitol and also winds through a substandard housing area. Officials hope to find time to include a tour of more elegant West Side residential areas.

In between will come several other festivities—ranging from a Des Moines Chamber of Commerce banquet (dress informal-Tuesday night featuring roast prime ribs of beef washed down with champagne to a "farmer's style" meal of ham, chicken and spareribs to be served under a tent at the Garst farm Wednesday.

Mr Garst plans to decorate the buffet tables in autumn motiff of pumpkins or squash, Indian corn and stalks of grains. Nothing could be more appropriate. The Soviet visitor will be digging in just about the time fall officially arrives at 1:09 p.m. Wednesday.

Other points of interest on the itinerary include a visit to the pioneer Hi-Bred Corn Co. farms near Des Moins and a campus tour of Iowa State University, one of the nation's leading agricultural institutions, at Ames.

Tractor, Auto Collision Hurts Two From Area

OAK GROVE (Special) — Two men were hospitalized yesterday afternoon after a tractor - automobile collision about four miles north of here near the Terry community.

Earl Ashley, 44, of Terry, driver of the tractor, was taken to a local hospital, where he was treated for a severe cut on the left forehead and a lacerated left arm.

Driver of the automobile, which collided with the tractor from behind, was identified as Aaron Harp, about 80, of Delhi. He was taken to the Delhi Clinic, where he was being held for treatment and observation last night.

Neither was considered in critical condition.

The crash, which happened about 1 p.m., resulted in extensive damage to the right side of the auto involved, and broke the tractor in half. Both vehicles were headed north when the mishap occurred, reports said.

French Singer Is Treated For Double Fracture

TORONTO (UPI) — Doctors worked two hours Saturday setting the double-fractured leg of perky French singer Genevieve, star of the travel musical "Can-Can," who was dropped Friday night while she was being carried backstage because her dress was too tight to walk in.

The gamin-like star, a top performer on Jack Parr's TV show, was worried that the break would result in a permanent limp.

Jack Trefall, an official of the show which was scheduled for a 15-week tour in the United States and Canada said "Can-Can" would be folded.

"It's all over for us," he said. "We can't go on without Genevieve."

It was Genevieve's first part in a play—something she said has been a goal of her life.

The French born singer was reported to be worrying about the rest of the cast despite the painful break. Lee Poret, her music arranger who was the only person allowed to see her in the hospital, said it was "tragic."

Coroner Rules Grief Is Caused In Suicide Case

LONDON (AP)—Grief over the death of an American rock 'n' roll star drove a young British fan to suicide, a coroner ruled Saturday The ruling was made in the death Thursday of 15-year-old Stephen Pike.

He was found electrocuted in his room. Stacked on his bed was a pile of records by his idol, Buddy Holly of Lubbock, Tex., who was killed in an air crash last February.

Stephen apparently never got over Holly's death. Plastered over his bed was a newspaper clipping reporting Holly's death.

A coroner said Stephen wrote letters in which he said all his plans had gone with Holly's death. Stephen had met Holly briefly during the American singer's tour of Britain last year.

Famed Lawyer Suffers Attack

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Famed Hollywood attorney Jerry Giesler collapsed from a heart attack at his home Friday and was taken by ambulance to Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Dr. Jack A. Sheinkopf said the attack was "mild." But Giesler, 72, was expected to remain hospitalized for about two weeks for observation as well as "rest and treatment."

Robert Neeb, Jr., a partner, said Giesler has been "ill and sort of tired" recently. He said Giesler collapsed Friday in the bedroom of his home.

Giesler's courtroom career has spanned nearly half a century. His clients have included Rudolph Valentino· Errol Flynn, Marilyn Monroe and the teenage daughter of actress Lana Turner in the Johnny Stompanato killing.

Livestock Sales At Ashley Fair 11-Year Record

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — Livestock sales at the Ashley County Fair last week brought the best prices in the 11 - year history of the auction, authorities said.

The champion steer was bought for 55 cents per pound by the Ben Hogan Plantation of Portland. The reserve champion brought the same rate per pound from the Portland Bank. The next two top - ranking steers were bought by the Portland Bank and the Bank of Crossett for 55 cents and 52 cents respectively.

In the swine division of the livestock sales, the champion barrow was bought by Kent's Shop-Rite store for 52 cents per pound. Reserve champion barrow was bought by The Crossett Co. for 46 cents per pound. The 25 hogs sold in the auction brought a total of $1,800, as compared to the total $1,828.75 brought by the ten steers sold.

Total sales from the Junior Livestock brought in $5,015.75, according to D. M. Vaught, county agent, who commented that the auction Saturday brought the highest prices in the 11-year history of the sale.

Negro Prisoner Dies In Wreck

MEMPHIS (UPI) — A flaming automobile - truck wreck here Saturday killed a Negro prisoner who witnesses said had been hand-cuffed behind his back.

Name of the dead man was not known at John Gaston Hospital, and sheriff's deputies were trying to find out his identity.

Two sheriff's deputies in the car with the Negro were injured. John Edgely was reported in satisfactory condition, and Glen Parks was in fair condition at St. Joseph Hospital

West Is Cool To Proposal On Disarming

LONDON (UPI)—The Western world Saturday gingerly examined Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's total disarmament proposal.

Reaction from Tokyo to London stressed the fact that foolproof inspection and control systems were the essence of any disarmament plan—and that Russia has balked at such controls for years.

Britain called for "close examination" of the Russian plan for disarmament by all nations in four years time

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd who met with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan for a policy discussion, plugged the British step-by-step disarmament plan presented to the United Nations earlier this week.

"We need to work on both plans and see whether anything can be made of them," he said on his arrival from New York to confer with Macmillan.

Caution was the watchword in other countries.

First readings of the 8,000 - word Khrushchev address to the U. N. failed to give Western officials any indication of what kind of control system and the degree of its enforcement envisaged by the Soviets.

In Bonn, West German parliamentary Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Hans Furler called for "careful study" of Russia's plan.

In Paris, newspapers called the plan "spectacular" but not realistic.

Informed sources in Rome called it a "propaganda" stunt.

Nationalist China and the Repubic of Korea bitterly denounced the program as virtually meaningless.

Japanese officials said privately that it "smacked of propaganda" and "contained nothing really new."

Red China's New China news agency reported that no single speech before the U. N. made "as great an impression" as did Khrushchev's.

Winn Expects Record High Registration

WINNFIELD (Special) — The Winn Parish registrar of voters predicted yesterday that registration figures before the December 5 primary will reach an all-time high.

A record number of 122 candidates have already qualified for parish and state posts in the parish.

Registrar Mrs. Mary C. Flournoy said the large list of candidates will doubtless push the parish registration beyond 8,000 which she says would be a record.

She added that the largest previous registration was below 8,000. This was during the last general election. When over 6,000 persons voted.

LATEST

The latest count on voters she said was made Sept. 17, at which time 6,076 persons were registered.

This figure showed 2,657 for Ward One, the City of Winnfield, and that figure included 455 negroes. The total registration in the other nine wards showed 3,419 including 295 negroes.

Mrs. Flournoy said that her 8,000 prediction probably would include about 1,400 negroes.

The registration books currently are on tour of parish precincts except Sundays, Mondays and Saturdays, Mrs. Flournoy said. The books will be returned to the registrar's office Oct. 22 and remain open there until November 4, at which time they must close to allow 30 days before the election.

Since Sept. 17, Mrs. Flournoy said she had registered about 200 persons.

Primary Ballot Numbers To Be Assigned Soon

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr. said Friday numbers for candidates on the Democratic primary ballot will be assigned by noon Monday.

Martin said numbers for district and parish offices will be assigned and available one week later."

A 1952 act provides that numbers follow all candidates' names on the ballot.

The numbers, Martin said, "are assigned after expiration of the five-day 'protest period' in which the qualifications of candidates may be contested.

Clerks of court in all parishes will be sent listings—both of state office candidates and district and parish candidates to run in their parishes.

Martin said no numbers will be given by telephone because of the possibility of error.

Certified

WINNSBORO (Special) — All Franklin Parish candidates were certified Saturday morning, with the exception of Julian Russell, who had qualified as a candidate for Clerk of Court but withdrew before the committee met Saturday morning.

U. S. TREND

School Day May Be Lengthened

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

American children, who now attend school for about 1,000 hours a year, are headed for longer stints in the classroom.

Schools districts throughout the country are taking steps to lengthen the school day, the school year, or both.

"This is one of the most important trends in American education," says Dr. Lawrence G. Derthick, U. S. commissioner of education.

Prolonging the total period of instruction has become "almost a necessity," according to Dr. Shirley Cooper, associate secretary of the American Association of Administrators.

"Children today have more to learn than ever before — in cultural subjects as well as the sciences," says Dr. Cooper. "More time in the classroom is an essential condition of better education."

There are four ways in which extra teaching time can be added, and each has its advocates.

The first is to lengthen the school day, which now averages about 5½ hours of classroom work. Dr. Lloyd E. Blauch, assistant U. S. commissioner of education, proposed recently that schools go on a regular eight hour day. He said all homework could then be done at school, under far better study conditions than prevail in the average home.

Dr. Blauch's suggestion for a 9 to 5 school day has not stirred widespread enthusiasm. But a few school districts are experimenting with a longer day. High schools in Wilmington, Del., Gorham, Maine, and Bellefontaine, Ohio, added one classroom period this fall. Lansing Central School System near Ithaca, N.Y., scheduled a "voluntary" period at the end of the day for children who want to work on special projects in science or business education.

Alternative No. 2 is for American children to attend classes six days a week, as Russian children do. Most teachers and parents, not to mention children, take a dim view of this idea. But some experimental is taking place. Rock Island, Ill., for example, has begun to offer special Saturday classes, on a voluutary basis, for talented youngsters who want to do extra work.

The third alternative is to lengthen the school year, which now averages 180 days. Many educators believe this is a long-overdue reform. They point out that the nine-month school term is simply a hangover from the 19th Century, when children were needed on the farms during the summer.

Washington, D. C., schools are adding one week to their term this year. Montgomery County, Maryland, is adding four days. Other communities that have lengthened their school terms in recent years include Atlanta, Ga., Champaign, Ill., and Haywood, Calif.

The fourth alternative is to provide real educational opportunities during the summer for children who need or want additional teaching. More is currently being done on this front than any other.

ON SERVING OF TERM

Noe Offers To Bet Morrison $100,000

BATON ROUGE, (UPI) —Former Gov. Jimmy Noe said today he was willing to bet mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans $100,000 that he would complete the full four-year term as governor if elected.

Noe said he would deposit a performance bond of $100,000 with the state treasurer payable "if I fail to perform my solemn obligation." He asked Morrison to post a similar bond "payable on the date I complete my four years in office.

"A few short hours after my qualification as a candidate for governor, Mayor Morrison was quoted in a speech at Lake Providence as stating 'if Noe is elected governor, he will not serve one day, but will resign to permit Earl Long who is running for lieutenant governor, to be governor,'" Noe explained.

"I am shocked and astounded—and prepared to challenge the truth of Mayor Morrison's speeches right from the start of this campaign—if he did make that statement as recorded," Noe said.

"I have drawn up an affidavit which I am ready to file immediately with the treasurer of the state of Louisiana.

"It is, in effect, a performance bond in the amount of $100,000 payable to the old age pension fund if I fail to fulfill my solemn obligation to serve the people of Louisiana as their governor for the full four year term unless death should unexpectedly cut short my term.

"I will file this affidavit the very day and hour that Mayor Morrison agrees to deposit a similar bond of $100,000...payable on the date I complete my four years in office."

Noe said Morrison "should show his metal now—right at the start. If he is sincere in this remark he will have no reluctance in posting the $100,000 bond. If he is not sincere his failure to execute such a bond will reflect to every voter his obvious insincerity."

Noe said he had "always been sincere in my responsibilities and duties...and it seems to me Mayor Morrison should measure up to equally solemn obligations."

Chinese Keep Khrushchev's Visit Secret

TOKYO (UPI)—Red China Saturday gave its people lackluster reports on Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's American tour and his new disarmament plan, without a word that he also will visit Peiping.

The vivid, if inaccurate, descriptions of "enthusiastic" American crowds greeting Khrushchev which Soviet correspondents have sent home to Russia are missing in Communist China's coverage of the tour.

There have been no commentaries on the trip, although the Chinese Reds usually use commentaries to express their views.

Observers refused to guess at the reasons for withholding from the Chinese people the fact that Khrushchev will visit Peiping immediately after he ends his American tour. He was scheduled to leave for the Red Chinese capital Sept. 29.

The Russian people themselves were not told this until Friday, although it had been disclosed in the West.

Chinese coverage of Khrushchev's tour in America has been based solely upon the dispatches of the Soviet Tass news agency.

No Chinese Communist newsmen have been permitted in the United States.

Radio Peiping has been broadcasting some summaries of press reaction in other Communist nations to the Khrushchev visit. All the reaction has been favorable.

Since the Soviet premier began his historic American exchange visit, the Chinese Reds have shown a marked reluctance to discuss it. Although Peiping officials have publicly approved the exchange between President Eisenhower and Khrushchev, there is belief that the Chinese Communists basically opposed such meetings.

The Communist New China news agency broadcast matter-of-fact details of Khrushchev's disarmament speech before the United Nations in New York Friday.

There was no immediate comment, indicating that Peiping was not told in advance the details of the total disarmament proposals.

Two Are Hurt In Car Wreck

An automobile accident yesterday injured two persons shortly after noon at the intersections on Catalpa and Calypso streets.

Taken to a private physician by a motorist were Mrs. M. J. Richardson of Calhoun, and Effie W. Rikard of Chestnut, La. Neither was seriously injured, reports indicated.

Drivers of the two vehicles involved were identified as Katherine F. Caskey, 38, of 107 McNeese in DeQuincy, who was going west on Calypso, and Marie R. Burns, 35, of Grayson, who was going south on Catalpa.

Morrison Says Long Seeks To Insure Chances

PORT BARRE, La. (AP) — Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans, in his gubernatorial campaign talk here Saturday declared Gov. Earl K. Long "is running his political campaign the same way he bets on horses — He always has two horses going for him in the same race."

"Earl always said he insures his bet by playing not just one, but two horses in each race," Morrison told his hearers.

"He is doing the same thing in this campaign by not only running on the so-called Long-Noe ticket but he is also the 'secret' candidate on the Jimmie Davis ticket."

Morrison said this "became obvious when Long did not immediately fire from state jobs the Old Regulars in New Orleans who voted to support Davis instead of Long in the coming election."

"It is really a Long-Noe-Davis ticket," Morrison concluded, calling it "subterfuge."

George Bowdon, mayor of Alexandria and candidate for lieutenant governor, said the Morrison-Bowdon ticket "represents a breath of fresh air in the dark dusty arena that has been representative of the state administration for so many years."

"We represent a clean start, a new beginning for the people of Louisiana," Bowdon said. "We are not making deals. We don't have to make deals."

The columbine, after which President Eisenhower named his personal airplane, is the blue and white state flower of Colorado.

Marshall Brown Turns Campaign Guns On Waste

EUNICE, La. (AP) — Gubernatorial candidate Marshall Brown of New Orleans Saturday turned his campaign guns on "wheeling and dealing" candidates, unnecessary taxes and overlapping functions of state boards and commissions.

Brown spoke to shopping crowds here and at Kinder, Basile and Mamou. He kept asking his audience if they were really ready for a change in government.

"You take a look at the present lineup in the governor's race," Brown said, "and wherever you look you are going to see the same tired old faces and the same tired old political names. The only thing some of them have done is to slap a new label on the package and expect you to swallow the bait."

Hitting at what he called excess weight on state payrolls, Brown said, "We have two types of government in Baton Rouge. On the one hand you have a hard-working employe who puts in his eight hours a day and justifies his existence on the state payroll. At the same time you have a government of bureaus and commissions whose sole duty is to take huge bites out of your tax dollar for entertainment, travel and expensive automobiles. And I pledge to you that when I say 'I do' (takes office) heads will roll and the functions of the various offices will be returned to the proper department."

GRANDMA'S MUMPS

LIBERAL, Kan. (UPI) — An 80-year-old grandmother who attended her granddaughter's wedding came down with the mumps shortly after kissing the bride.

Mumps is a rarity in persons over 60 years old. But Mrs. C. M. Bright got a full-blown case of the disease.

MACAO (UPI)—Communist China will definitely launch an earth satellite on Oct. 1, the 10th anniversary of the establishment of the Peiping regime, according to pro-Communist businessmen who have made recent tours of the China mainland.

Without exception, those interviewed asked that they not be identified.

One of the businesmen said, however, that during a meeting with Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai he learned from Mao that "China soon will perform a big achievement and will prove in many fields we are ahead of Great Britain."

The same source said that Mao "did not mention the word satellite but he (the businessman) was sure the Chinese leader meant a Chinese satellite would be launched Oct. 1.

Search Starts For Missing Girl In Wooded Area

MERIDIAN, Miss. (UPI) — An extensive air and land search was begun Saturday shortly after a 20-year-old Georgia girl left the home of a prominent relative near here and headed into a heavily wooded area.

Margaret Martin of Augusta, Ga., left the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Swartzfager five miles north of here at 9 a. m. Officers reported she was in a "nervous" condition.

An estimated 100 National Guardsmen and a helicopter began looking for her after she failed to return. Bloodhounds were brought into the search and more searchers were to be called on if she was not found by Sunday morning.

Two persons reported they saw a girl matching Miss Martin's description about three hours later three miles west of the Swartzfager home. Two more persons reported seeing her at 3 p. m., still further west. Each time the girl headed into a wooded area.

Miss Martin was graduated recently from Mississippi Southern College. She has light brown hair, weighed about 105 pounds and stood five - foot - six. She was wearing a blue skirt and a blue blouse.

She was visiting with the Swartzfagers, her uncle and aunt.

Swartzfager is a Meridian auto Dealer.

Mother Charged In Burglaries

NATCHEZ, Miss. Sept. 19 — (UPI) — The young mother of three children was held on burglary charges Saturday and officers said she broke into the same drug store four times and a jewelry store once since Aug. 15.

Police said Mrs. Barbara Wilkinson, 24, took cosmetics from the drug store and broke the show window of the jewelry store with a rock to take six watches.

INTERRUPTS BIG CITY TOURS

Soviet Premier To View Iowa's Tall Corn Tuesday

COON RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI) — The world's No. 1 Communist interrupts his big-city tour this week for a down-on-the-farm look at the heartland of the nation and a not-so-typical American farmer.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, a one-time shepherd boy who made good, flies to Iowa's tall corn country on Tuesday for a 2½-hour view of the greatness of American agriculture. He'll see some of the reasons why the American farmer out-produces his Russian counterpart by 5 to 1.

Focal point of the visit will be the productive cornland owned or managed by Roswell Garst, a 61-year-old prosperous hybrid seed corn expert considered something of a maverick in agriculture.

The Soviet leader also will rub elbows with perhaps the most varied group of Americans he will get close to on the tour—farmers and agricultural experts, top state and city officials, industrial workers and university professors.

Khrushchev, whom Garst describes as "just a farmer at heart," also will undoubtedly get a sizeable amount of good Iowa dirt in his shoes and on his clothes as he tramps around the extensive Garst farms near here.

Garst owns or manages some 5,000 acres in central Iowa on which he puts into practice some of his pet theories. One of them is abandoning crop rotation for heavy fertilization.

Garst, a dinner guest of Khrushchev's last March at the Kremlin, honestly believes the Khrushchev visit is a chance to contribute to world peace. He feels that if he can show Khrushchev how to produce more food, the chances of war will be lessened because "a full stomach makes a peaceful man."

The visitor will travel something over 250 miles during his Iowa stay, a fact which causes concern among security officials. The job of providing sufficient personnel over such an area is a difficult one and there are no large metropolitan police forces to call upon for aid.

At the urging of the State Depatement, Gov. Herschel C. Loveless called up 700 to 800 men of the Iowa National Guard to help beef up the security forces.

While the visit to the Garst farm on Wednesday is the highlight of Khrushchev's visit, he also will see other aspects of agriculture in visits to farm-associated industries on Tuesday.

One is the sprawling, 46-acre John Deere farm implement plant near Des Moines, which comes about as close as you can to filling the biblical philosophy of beating "swords into plowshares."

The plant, a World War II small arms ammunition plant, now makes a wide variety of farm implements. At least 20 of them will be on display for the occasion.

Khrushchev also is scheduled to visit a meat-packing plant where he can view the process of turning livestock into meat products. Here he will see such things as that All-American favorite, the Hot Dog, rolling off an assembly line at 288 a minute.

A strike forced a switch in plans on this stop. Khrushchev was scheduled to visit the large Iowa Packing Co. but the United Packinghouse Workers Union is now on strike there, so the smaller Des Moines Packing Co. was substituted.

Much of the tour schedule is still flexible. During his Tuesday tour, the route will take Khrushchev past the Iowa State Capitol and also winds through a substandard housing area. Officials hope to find time to include a tour of more elegant West Side residential areas.

In between will come several other festivities—ranging from a Des Moines Chamber of Commerce banquet (dress informal-Tuesday night featuring roast prime ribs of beef washed down with champagne to a "farmer's style" meal of ham, chicken and spareribs to be served under a tent at the Garst farm Wednesday.

Mr Garst plans to decorate the buffet tables in autumn motiff of pumpkins or squash, Indian corn and stalks of grains. Nothing could be more appropriate. The Soviet visitor will be digging in just about the time fall officially arrives at 1:09 p.m. Wednesday.

Other points of interest on the itinerary include a visit to the pioneer Hi-Bred Corn Co. farms near Des Moins and a campus tour of Iowa State University, one of the nation's leading agricultural institutions, at Ames.

Tractor, Auto Collision Hurts Two From Area

OAK GROVE (Special) — Two men were hospitalized yesterday afternoon after a tractor - automobile collision about four miles north of here near the Terry community.

Earl Ashley, 44, of Terry, driver of the tractor, was taken to a local hospital, where he was treated for a severe cut on the left forehead and a lacerated left arm.

Driver of the automobile, which collided with the tractor from behind, was identified as Aaron Harp, about 80, of Delhi. He was taken to the Delhi Clinic, where he was being held for treatment and observation last night.

Neither was considered in critical condition.

The crash, which happened about 1 p.m., resulted in extensive damage to the right side of the auto involved, and broke the tractor in half. Both vehicles were headed north when the mishap occurred, reports said.

French Singer Is Treated For Double Fracture

TORONTO (UPI) — Doctors worked two hours Saturday setting the double-fractured leg of perky French singer Genevieve, star of the travel musical "Can-Can," who was dropped Friday night while she was being carried backstage because her dress was too tight to walk in.

The gamin-like star, a top performer on Jack Parr's TV show, was worried that the break would result in a permanent limp.

Jack Trefall, an official of the show which was scheduled for a 15-week tour in the United States and Canada said "Can-Can" would be folded.

"It's all over for us," he said. "We can't go on without Genevieve."

It was Genevieve's first part in a play—something she said has been a goal of her life.

The French born singer was reported to be worrying about the rest of the cast despite the painful break. Lee Poret, her music arranger who was the only person allowed to see her in the hospital, said it was "tragic."

Coroner Rules Grief Is Caused In Suicide Case

LONDON (AP)—Grief over the death of an American rock 'n' roll star drove a young British fan to suicide, a coroner ruled Saturday The ruling was made in the death Thursday of 15-year-old Stephen Pike.

He was found electrocuted in his room. Stacked on his bed was a pile of records by his idol, Buddy Holly of Lubbock, Tex., who was killed in an air crash last February.

Stephen apparently never got over Holly's death. Plastered over his bed was a newspaper clipping reporting Holly's death.

A coroner said Stephen wrote letters in which he said all his plans had gone with Holly's death. Stephen had met Holly briefly during the American singer's tour of Britain last year.

Famed Lawyer Suffers Attack

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Famed Hollywood attorney Jerry Giesler collapsed from a heart attack at his home Friday and was taken by ambulance to Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Dr. Jack A. Sheinkopf said the attack was "mild." But Giesler, 72, was expected to remain hospitalized for about two weeks for observation as well as "rest and treatment."

Robert Neeb, Jr., a partner, said Giesler has been "ill and sort of tired" recently. He said Giesler collapsed Friday in the bedroom of his home.

Giesler's courtroom career has spanned nearly half a century. His clients have included Rudolph Valentino, Errol Flynn, Marilyn Monroe and the teenage daughter of actress Lana Turner in the Johnny Stompanato killing.

West Is Cool To Proposal On Disarming

LONDON (UPI)—The Western world Saturday gingerly examined Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's total disarmament proposal.

Reaction from Tokyo to London stressed the fact that foolproof inspection and control systems were the essence of any disarmament plan—and that Russia has balked at such controls for years.

Britain called for "close examination" of the Russian plan for disarmament by all nations in four years time

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd who met with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan for a policy discussion, plugged the British step-by-step disarmament plan presented to the United Nations earlier this week.

"We need to work on both plans and see whether anything can be made of them," he said on his arrival from New York to confer with Macmillan.

Caution was the watchword in other countries.

First readings of the 8,000 - word Khrushchev address to the U. N. failed to give Western officials any indication of what kind of control system and the degree of its enforcement envisaged by the Soviets.

In Bonn, West German parliamentary Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Hans Furler called for "careful study" of Russia's plan.

In Paris, newspapers called the plan "spectacular" but not realistic.

Informed sources in Rome called it a "propaganda" stunt.

Nationalist China and the Repubic of Korea bitterly denounced the program as virtually meaningless.

Japanese officials said privately that it "smacked of propaganda" and "contained nothing really new."

Red China's New China news agency reported that no single speech before the U. N. made "as great an impression" as did Khrushchev's.

Winn Expects Record High Registration

WINNFIELD (Special) — The Winn Parish registrar of voters predicted yesterday that registration figures before the December 5 primary will reach an all-time high.

A record number of 122 candidates have already qualified for parish and state posts in the parish.

Registrar Mrs. Mary C. Flournoy said the large list of candidates will doubtless push the parish registration beyond 8,000 which she says would be a record.

She added that the largest previous registration was below 8,000. This was during the last general election, When over 6,000 persons voted.

LATEST

The latest count on voters she said was made Sept. 17, at which time 6,076 persons were registered.

This figure showed 2,657 for Ward One, the City of Winnfield, and that figure included 455 negroes. The total registration in the other nine wards showed 3,419 including 295 negroes.

Mrs. Flournoy said that her 8,000 prediction probably would include about 1,400 negroes.

The registration books currently are on tour of parish precincts except Sundays, Mondays and Saturdays, Mrs. Flournoy said. The books will be returned to the registrar's office Oct. 22 and remain open there until November 4, at which time they must close to allow 30 days before the election.

Since Sept. 17, Mrs. Flournoy said she had registered about 200 persons.

Livestock Sales At Ashley Fair 11-Year Record

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — Livestock sales at the Ashley County Fair last week brought the best prices in the 11 - year history of the auction, authorities said.

The champion steer was bought for 55 cents per pound by the Ben Hogan Plantation of Portland. The reserve champion brought the same rate per pound from the Portland Bank. The next two top - ranking steers were bought by the Portland Bank and the Bank of Crossett for 55 cents and 52 cents respectively.

In the swine division of the livestock sales, the champion barrow was bought by Kent's Shop-Rite store for 52 cents per pound. Reserve champion barrow was bought by The Crossett Co. for 46 cents per pound. The 25 hogs sold in the auction brought a total of $1,800, as compared to the total $1,828.75 brought by the ten steers sold.

Total sales from the Junior Livestock brought in $5,015.75, according to D. M. Vaught, county agent, who commented that the auction Saturday brought tthe highest prices in the 11-year history of the sale.

Negro Prisoner Dies In Wreck

MEMPHIS (UPI) — A flaming automobile - truck wreck here Saturday killed a Negro prisoner who witnesses said had been hand-cuffed behind his back.

Name of the dead man was not known at John Gaston Hospital, and sheriff's deputies were trying to find out his identity.

Two sheriff's deputies in the car with the Negro were injured. John Edgely was reported in satisfactory condition, and Glen Parks was in fair condition at St. Joseph Hospital

Primary Ballot Numbers To Be Assigned Soon

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr. said Friday numbers for candidates on the Democratic primary ballot will be assigned by noon Monday.

Martin said numbers for district and parish offices will be assigned and available one week later."

A 1952 act provides that numbers follow all candidates' names on the ballot.

The numbers, Martin said, "are assigned after expiration of the five-day 'protest period' in which the qualifications of candidates may be contested.

Clerks of court in all parishes will be sent listings—both of state office candidates and district and parish candidates to run in their parishes.

Martin said no numbers will be given by telephone because of the possibility of error.

Certified

WINNSBORO (Special) — All Franklin Parish candidates were certified Saturday morning, with the exception of Julian Russell, who had qualified as a candidate for Clerk of Court but withdrew before the committee met Saturday morning.

LSU Comes To Life In 2nd Half, Routs Rice, 26-3
Indians Lose Season Opener To Ark. State, 15-0

National Champs Win Going Away

By JOHN G. WARNER

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Defending national champion Louisiana state game to life in the last half Saturday to take a leisurely 26-3 win over Rice Institute.

The sleepy Bengals, performing on the first nationally - televised game of the year in the season opener for both clubs, sputtered helplessly through the first half, while Rice grabbed a 3-0 edge on Gordon Speer's 46-yard field goal.

But the defending champions came snarling out for the second half and scored in less than five minutes, sending All - America halfback Billy Cannon around end for 17 yards and the touchdown that got LSU back on the track.

The Bengals poured through two more touchdowns and a field goal before time mercifully ran out. Wendell Harris kicked the field goal from the Rice 23 at the opening of the third period. With less than five minutes left in the game, played before 48,000 in windy, warm weather, LSU's Tommy Neck plunged over from two yards out.

STATISTICS	RICE	LSU

Passes intercepted by	0	1
Punts	7-48	42

Yards penalized	7-62	12-110

With 30 seconds left, quarterback Warren Rabb passed to fullback Merle Schexnaildre for 32 yards and the final touchdown.

Rice, however, completely dominated the first half. Bengal coach Paul Dietzel used his storm troops comparatively little, relying for the most part on the "go" team and the defensive "Chinese Bandits."

The Owls from the Southwest Conference came to play a kicking game and did a good job of it in the first half.

The third time was the charm on the field goal. Bill Bucek tried the first one from 17 yards out and it failed. Speer tried the next, on the first play of the second period, from the Tiger 36 and it didn't reach the goal posts.

But late in the same quarter, Rice recovered a fumble on the LSU 40 and Speer, kicking from the 36, lofted a lazy boot through the goal posts to give the Owls the lead at halftime.

Rice used the quick - kick to great advantage, employing three in the first half that set the Tigers back deep in their own territory and helped keep the champions off balance.

Cannon and company saw practically no action in the first half.

But the Tigers came roaring out for the second half and Rabb, a tackle hanging on his arm, passed to Cannon for 14 yards to the LSU 41.

Moments later a pass from Rabb to Donnie Daye was good to the Rice 35, and a tricky reverse-pitchout left Rabb carrying the ball for 10 yards to the Rice 17.

On the next play, Cannon loped around right end behind a wall of blockers for the touchdown. Harris converted for a 7-3 count with 10:11 left in the third quarter.

The GO team and the Chinese Bandits took over for the rest of the quarter and racked up enough yardage for a touchdown, but were frustrated by penalties on five consecutive long gaining plays.

LSU took over late in the period and Cannon and Rabb combined to bull it to the Rice 23. From there Harris booted a flat, field goal that barely cleared the bars for a 10-3 score with seconds gone in the fourth period.

Midway in the last period Schexnaildre intercepted a pass from Rice quarterback John Schnable on the Owl 35 and returned it to the 20.

Moments later, after several thrusts through the line, Neck came over from two yards out to rack up a touchdown for the Chinese Bandits. Darryl Jenkins passed to Schexnaildre for a pair of extra points to make it 18-3.

With time running out, LSU took over on the Rice 41 and five plays later Rabb passed 22 yards to Schexnaildre on the 10 and he took it over.

Cannon ran the two points over to make it 26-3 with 30 seconds left.

Rice wound up with a puny 49 yards rushing and only 120 total yards, compared to 402 for the Bengals.

Fumble, Bad Punt Spoils Northeast

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

JONESBORO, Ark. Arkansas State turned a pair of second half breaks into touchdowns here Saturday night to upend Northeast Louisiana State 15 to 0, in a penalty-marked defensive battle of Indian tribes.

With both teams nicknamed Indians, the clubs locked up in an unfriendly battle of clan against clan for 36 minutes before Arkansas State finally broke the ice.

A Northeast fumble and a punt which failed to carry to the line of scrimmage were the key plays that broke the invaders' backs and send them down in defeat in their 1959 opener.

The end began when Northeast safetyman ignored an enemy punt and allowed it to roll dead on the nine. Two plays later quarterback Bob Randel fumbled and State tackle Jerry Aarant covered the ball on the eleven.

Four plays later quarterback Bill Caldwell pitched out to halfback Don Miller who streaked over from the four. Caldwell then tossed to Julius Head just inside the endzone boundary for the extra point.

In the fourth quarter sub John O'Conner's punt slipped off the side of his foot and went out of bounds on the Northeast 45. With Caldwell's bull's - eye passes leading the way, State moved to the Indian eleven in five plays.

Alert end Alfred Bentley, one of Caldwell's favorite targets all night long, picked the ball out of the air on the two and carried it over. John Coffey booted the point.

Northeast moved the ball well occasionally, but excessive penalties and interceptions ruined their chances. The Monroyans were assessed a total of 125 yards for infractions.

Late in the fourth quarter Northeast quarterback Curtis Cook completed three passes in a row but an interception halted the drive.

Northeast had the ball deep in State territory three times in the opening half, but a strong Arkansas line, missed field goal, and a fumble caused the attacks to fizzle.

The visitors had two scoring chances in the second period. Terry Reeves started the first when he grabbed a stray Caldwell pass on his own 11 and twisted his way back to the 45. With Stewart Stover the workhorse in the Tribe backfield, Northeast drove to the Arkansas 19. Two plays later Jim Laudadio's fourth down field goal attempt fell wide of the bars.

Northeast got a big break on the following play but couldn't make it pay off. Guard Larry Rambin pounced on the ball when Arkansas fumbled on the first down. But on the following play Randel again fumbled, and State took over.

A State supporter dressed in full Indian regalia provided the highly partisian home fans with an excellent dose of enthusiasm. The makeshift chieftain, Bob Clements galloped around the field astride a spirited mustang each time the host scored.

Grambling's Tigers Blast Bishop, 48-6

DALLAS, Tex. (Special) — Grambling College exploded for seven touchdowns here Saturday afternoon in a bewildering display of wing- T power to rout Bishop 48-6.

Smashing the middle of the line behind the powerful offensive work of Henry Johnson, All-American Jamie Caleb, Stone Johnson, Curtis Cotton, Samuel Preston, George Robinson and Jerry Robinson, the Tigers revealed a commendable sturdiness and a devastating offensive attack that left little to the imagination.

Grambling scored twice in the first stanza, once in the second and third quarters and proceeded to disillusion the east Texans with three late markers in a fashion that killed off all their hopes.

The contest was a discouraging start for Bishop, but Coach Dwight Fisher's crew waged a spirited fight until the final gun.

Grambling mounted its initial drive from its own 34-yard stripe and covered the distance in 13 plays. Preston bulled five yards for the score.

Two scintillating strokes were all that was required to rack up the next marker. Henry Johnson hit Thomas Ludley with a 45-yard pass for the tally.

A reverse maneuver that caught Bishop flat - footed enabled cotton to smash five - yards for the third TD.

Bishop scored its only touchdown late in the second period but it failed to discourage Eddie Robinson's hired hands. Donald Guinyard lumbered 52 yards with an intercepted pass.

Functioning almost flawlessly after the intermission, Cotton rambled 14 yards for one TD, a Caleb to Willie Houston bit off 25 yards and another, and a Caleb to Howard McCowan toss hung out the sixth scoring sign.

George Robinson stampeded 24 yards for the final score.

Bishop's deepest pentration on its own power was to the 15-yard line in the third quarter. Technical mistakes at crucial moments wiped out several other scoring opportunities.

Adding significance to Grambling's triumph was the employment of the entire traveling squad of 38 players by Robinson.

Touch Football Meeting Slated

The last touch football meeting will be held Monday night at the Monroe Community Center starting at 6:30.

Only two teams have entered the high school league and three teams in the city league. A team representative should be present at this meeting. No team will be allowed to enter the league after it gets started.

For further information call Jackie Neal at the Monroe Community Center, FA 2-2170.

Indians Keep Hopes Alive With '3-7 Win

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jack Harshman pitched Cleveland to a 13-7 victory over Kansas City Saturday night and gave a lift to the Indians faint American League pennant chances.

The victory, coupled with Chicago'sa fternoon loss to Detroit, pushed the Indians within 4½ games of the first place White Sox. They have six games remaining to the Sox' five.

Any combination of Cleveland defeats or Chicago victories totaling two will cinch the pennant for the White Sox.

The Indians play the A's and Chicago meets Detroit again Sunday.

Cleveland tore into the Athletics for three runs in the fourth inning off starter Johnny Kucks.

4-1, 5-3 OVER FRISCO

Dodgers Sweep Two To Tie For National League Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Los Angeles moved into a tie for the National League lead with San Francisco Saturday night, coming from behind in a five-run seventh inning on two - run doubles by Junior Gilliam and Charlie Neal for a 5-3 victory over the Giants and a sweep of the day-night doubleheader.

The Dodgers, who won the afternoon game 4-1 on the six-hit pitching of Roger Craig, and the Giants, failing behind left-handers Johnny Antonelli and Mike McCormick, have a half-game edge over Milwaukee.

The Braves, who have seven games left to six for the Dodgers and Giants, closed in with a 9-3 victory at Philadelphia.

The Dodgers and Giants meet for the last time Sunday, while Milwaukee closes a two - game series with the Phillies.

The Giants, who gained a second inning run with the help of an error by Dodger starter Don Drysdale, had a crack at getting back into the nightcap with two runs in the eighth. But it was all over in the Dodgers big seventh.

McCormick had blanked Los Angeles on three hits 'til then.

With one out in the seventh, Don Demeter singled and Maury Wills' single sent him to second. A walk filled the bases, and Demeter then came home with the tying run when second baseman Daryl Spencer dropped the ball on a doubleplay try started on pinch hitter Chuck Essegian's grounder to third.

Gilliam chased McCormick (12-15) with a double and Neal then brought the clinchers home with a double off relieving right-hander Jack Sanford.

The Giants, who had held first place all alone since August 5, got their eighth-inning pair off Larry Sherry, who came on after Drysdale was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. Two walks and singles by pinch-hitters Leon Wagner and Jackie Brandt brought the runs across before left-hander Danny McDevitt came on and fanned Willie McCovey.

Drysdale (17-13) was the winner, matching his top victory total in the majors (1957). He had dropped seven of his last eight decisions and was off to a shaky start in this one—walking the first three men he faced, but then striking out Orlando Cepeda, Willie Kirkland and Spencer.

The lanky right-hander with the side-arm fast stuff originally was supposed to pitch the day game of the doubleheader set up after Friday's game was postponed by rain. But Dodger Manager Walt Alston switched to Craig. Records showed Drysdale more effective at night.

Craig (9-5) beat the Giants a third time without defeat, shutting them out on five hits.

The Dodgers tagged Antonelli with his 10th loss with two runs in the second after two were out. Don Demeter singled, went to second when Wills got the first of his three consecutive singles, and then scored on Joe Pignatano's single. Wills, moving to third, then scored when Giant catcher Hobie Landrith threw the ball over Antonelli's head while returning the ball to the mound.

Carl Furillo led off the fourth with a double into the left field corner, advanced on Demeter's sacrifice and scored on Wills' single. That was all for Antonelli.

After the Dodgers drove out Antonelli, Stu Miller and Alan Worthington finished.

The Dodgers scored off Miller in the sixth. Wills collected his third consecutive single, went to third as Pignatano singled, and came in on Craig's bunt. Miller juggled the ball fielding it as Wills headed for the plate and all hands were safe.

In the sixth the Giants left two runners stranded after Willie McCovey walked and Willie Kirkland singled. Spencer flied to right, ending the first real San Francisco threat.

The Giants scored in the ninth on a walk, Leon Wagner's pinch double and an infield out.

Rain Friday led to the doubleheader. The infield showed effects of the rain so the usual infield and batting practice were skipped.

BEAUMONT BATTLE

Lamar Tumbles La. Tech, 13-6

BEAUMONT, Tex. (Special) — Lamar Tech pushed across touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters to turn back Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs, 13-6, in a hard-fought contest here Saturday night.

The visiting Bulldogs were held scoreless until the final two minutes of the game when they put together a 60-yard drive capped by a two-yard TD plunge by halfback Paul Hynes.

After a scoreless first half, Lamar's Cardinals took the second half kickoff and marched 78 yards with halfback Ronnie Fontenot going over from the one. Midway of the last period, Lamar put the game on ice with a 28-yard scoring run by quarterback Charles Starcke.

Fumbles got Louisiana Tech in trouble twice in the initial quarter. The Bulldogs fumbled the opening kickoff and Lamar recovered on the Tech 31. Two first downs put Lamar inside the 10 but a stout Louisiana tech line halted the drive at the one.

Late in the first quarter, another Bulldog fumble gave the Cardinals possession on the Canine eight. Again Louisiana Tech's line held at the one yard stripe.

Louisiana Tech did not get into Lamar Tech territory until early in the second quarter when they reached the 38. Then in the third quarter, Louisiana Tech drove to the Lamar 12 where the Bulldogs lost the ball on downs.

On the Tech touchdown drive, quarterback Mickey Slaughter tossed a first-down pass to end Tom Causey, Monroe junior, on the Lamar 45 and hit him with an 18-yarder for another first down on the Lamar 27 to spark the push.

Hynes picked up a first down at the 12 and carried again to the four. Then fullback B. K. Miller gained one before Hynes went over.

Urge Return Of League Uniforms

Parents are urged to bring in Little League and Dixie league uniforms this week. It is very urgent that the uniforms be returned. Minor league managers are asked to bring in their equipment also so it can be checked for replacement for next year.

GAL TAKES LONG CRUISE

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) —Ann Davison, who has skippered her 27-foot sloop, Felicity Ann, from England to Nassau, has left here on a 5,000-mile cruise in a 17-foot outboard with two 35 horsepower outboard motors. Her route will take her through the intracostal waterway, up the Hudson river, through the Erie Canal into the Great Lakes, down the Illinois river into the Mississippi, then to New Orleans, to Gey West and back to Miami.

East Central Pastes Defeat On Northwest

SENATOBIA, Miss. (AP)—East Central Junior College won its first game of the season Saturday night, whipping Northwest Mississippi 22-16.

It was Northwest's third loss.

Max Lee of Sardis, playing his first game for Northwest, threw two touchdown passes, one to halfback Delbert Decker in the third quarter and the other to Buddy McCullough in the final three minutes of play. McCullough scored the extra points.

East Central's scores came on a 1-yard plunge by Bill Richardson after a kick recovery; Bill Baucum scooted over from the 2 after a 74-yard scoring drive; and Ralph Frazier scored from the 6 after the play was set up by an interception by Berry Teasdale.

Bob Poole and Edgar Simpson scored the extra points.

Roy Face Wins 18th As Bucs Tip Reds, 4-3

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bill Mazeroski's two-run triple in the 12th inning Saturday gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs and enabled relief pitcher Elroy Face to pick up his 18th victory against one defeat.

Mazeroski, who homered in the third, delivered his game-winning triple with two out after Face had given up three hits and a run to the Redlegs in the top of the 12th.

Dick Stuart doubled and Don Hoak was hit with a pitched ball to put two on before Mazeroski unloaded.

The victory increased the Pirates hold on fourth place to 4½ games over fifth-place Cincinnati.

Cincinnati scored first in the third. Then Mazeroski tied it up with his homer.

In the sixth Vada Pinson, reached first on a error, stole second and scored on Frank Thomas' single to put the Reds ahead again.

The Pirates drew even in the eighth when Hoak got on on an error, advanced on Bill Virdon's single and scored on a double by pinch hitter Rocky Nelson.

Demons Top 'Pokes, 19-6

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Quarterback Dale Hoffpauir scored one touchdown and passed for another Saturday night as Northwestern State took a 19-6 Gulf States Conference victory over McNeese.

NSC opened scoring in the second quarter on a 72-yard pass play from Hoffpauir to Ralph Conrad.

In the third period, Robert Martin dashed across from the one to climax a 70 yard drive. Jim Griffin converted.

NSC took a kickoff in the final period and moved downfield 62 yards for another tally with Hoffpauir going the final three yards.

Donald Breaux scored for McNeese in the fourth with a one-yard plunge.

LSU Comes To Life In 2nd Half, Routs Rice, 26-3
Indians Lose Season Opener To Ark. State, 15-0

National Champs Win Going Away

By JOHN G. WARNER

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Defending national champion Louisiana state game to life in the last half Saturday to take a leisurely 26-3 win over Rice Institute.

The sleepy Bengals, performing on the first nationally - televised game of the year in the season opener for both clubs, sputtered helplessly through the first half, while Rice grabbed a 3-0 edge on Gordon Speer's 46-yard field goal.

But the defending champions came snarling out for the second half and scored in less than five minutes, sending All - America halfback Billy Cannon around end for 17 yards and the touchdown that got LSU back on the track.

The Bengals poured through two more touchdowns and a field goal before time mercifully ran out. Wendell Harris kicked the field goal from the Rice 23 at the opening of the third period. With less than five minutes left in the game, played before 48,000 in windy, warm weather, LSU's Tommy Neck plunged over from two yards out.

With 30 seconds left, quarterback Warren Rabb passed to fullback Merle Schexnaildre for 32 yards and the final touchdown.

Rice, however, completely dominated the first half. Bengal coach Paul Dietzel used his storm troops comparatively little, relying for the most part on the "go" team and the defensive "Chinese Bandits."

The Owls from the Southwest Conference came to play a kicking game and did a good job of it in the first half.

The third time was the charm on the field goal. Bill Bucek tried the first one from 17 yards out and it failed. Speer tried the next, on the first play of the second period, from the Tiger 36 and it didn't reach the goal posts.

But late in the same quarter, Rice recovered a fumble on the LSU 40 and Speer, kicking from the 36, lofted a lazy boot through the goal posts to give the Owls the lead at halftime.

Rice used the quick - kick to great advantage, employing three in the first half that set the Tigers back deep in their own territory and helped keep the champions off balance.

Cannon and company saw practically no action in the first half.

But the Tigers came roaring out for the second half and Rabb, a tackle hanging on his arm, passed to Cannon for 14 yards to the LSU 41.

Moments later a pass from Rabb to Donnie Daye was good to the Rice 35, and a tricky reverse-pitchout left Rabb carrying the ball for 10 yards to the Rice 17.

On the next play, Cannon loped around right end behind a wall of blockers for the touchdown. Harris converted for a 7-3 count with 10:11 left in the third quarter.

The GO team and the Chinese Bandits took over for the rest of the quarter and racked up enough yardage for a touchdown, but were frustrated by penalties on five consecutive long gaining plays.

LSU took over late in the period and Cannon and Rabb combined to bull it to the Rice 23. From there Harris booted a flat, field goal that barely cleared the bars for a 10-3 score with seconds gone in the fourth period.

Midway in the last period Schexnaildre intercepted a pass from Rice quarterback John Schnable on the Owl 35 and returned it to the 20.

Moments later, after several thrusts through the line, Neck came over from two yards out to rack up a touchdown for the Chinese Bandits. Darryl Jenkins passed to Schexnaildre for a pair of extra points to make it 18-3.

With time running out, LSU took over on the Rice 41 and five plays later Rabb passed 22 yards to Schexnaildre on the 10 and he took it over.

Cannon ran the two points over to make it 26-3 with 30 seconds left.

Rice wound up with a puny 49 yards rushing and only 120 total yards, compared to 402 for the Bengals.

Fumble, Bad Punt Spoils Northeast

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

JONESBORO, Ark. Arkansas State turned a pair of second half breaks into touchdowns here Saturday night to upend Northeast Louisiana State 15 to 0, in a penalty-marked defensive battle of Indian tribes.

With both teams nicknamed Indians, the clubs locked up in an unfriendly battle of clan against clan for 36 minutes before Arkansas State finally broke the ice.

A Northeast fumble and a punt which failed to carry to the line of scrimmage were the key plays that broke the invaders' backs and send them down in defeat in their 1959 opener.

The end began when Northeast safetyman ignored an enemy punt and allowed it to roll dead on the nine. Two plays later quarterback Bob Randel fumbled and State tackle Jerry Aarant covered the ball on the eleven.

Four plays later quarterback Bill Caldwell pitched out to halfback Don Miller who streaked over from the four. Caldwell then tossed to Julius Head just inside the endzone boundary for the extra point.

In the fourth quarter sub John O'Conner's punt slipped off the side of his foot and went out of bounds on the Northeast 45. With Caldwell's bull's - eye passes leading the way, State moved to the Indian eleven in five plays.

Alert end Alfred Bentley, one of Caldwell's favorite targets all night long, picked the ball out of the air on the two and carried it over. John Coffey booted the point.

Northeast moved the ball well occasionally, but excessive penalties and interceptions ruined their chances. The Monroyans were assessed a total of 125 yards for infractions.

Late in the fourth quarter Northeast quarterback Curtis Cook completed three passes in a row but an interception halted the drive.

Northeast had the ball deep in State territory three times in the opening half, but a strong Arkansas line, missed field goal, and a fumble caused the attacks to fizzle.

The visitors had two scoring chances in the second period. Terry Reeves started the first when he grabbed a stray Caldwell pass on his own 11 and twisted his way back to the 45. With Stewart Stover the workhorse in the Tribe backfield, Northeast drove to the Arkansas 19. Two plays later Jim Laudadio's fourth down field goal attempt fell wide of the bars.

Northeast got a big break on the following play but couldn't make it pay off. Guard Larry Rambin pounced on the ball when Arkansas fumbled on the first down. But on the following play Randel again fumbled, and State took over.

A State supporter dressed in full Indian regalia provided the highly partisian home fans with an excellent dose of enthusiasm. The makeshift chieftain, Bob Clements galloped around the field astride a spirited mustang each time the host scored.

Grambling's Tigers Blast Bishop, 48-6

DALLAS, Tex. (Special) — Grambling College exploded for seven touchdowns here Saturday afternoon in a bewildering display of wing- T power to rout Bishop 48-6.

Smashing the middle of the line behind the powerful offensive work of Henry Johnson, All-American Jamie Caleb, Stone Johnson, Curtis Cotton, Samuel Preston, George Robinson and Jerry Robinson, the Tigers revealed a commendable sturdiness and a devastating offensive attack that left little to the imagination.

Grambling scored twice in the first stanza, once in the second and third quarters and proceeded to disillusion the east Texans with three late markers in a fashion that killed off all their hopes.

The contest was a discouraging start for Bishop, but Coach Dwight Fisher's crew waged a spirited fight until the final gun.

Grambling mounted its initial drive from its own 34-yard stripe and covered the distance in 13 plays. Preston bulled five yards for the score.

Two scintillating strokes were all that was required to rack up the next marker. Henry Johnson hit Thomas Ludley with a 45-yard pass for the tally.

A reverse maneuver that caught Bishop flat - footed enabled cotton to smash five - yards for the third TD.

Bishop scored its only touchdown late in the second period but it failed to discourage Eddie Robinson's hired hands. Donald Guinyard lumbered 52 yards with an intercepted pass.

Functioning almost flawlessly after the intermission, Cotton rambled 14 yards for one TD, a Caleb to Willie Houston bit off 25 yards and another, and a Caleb to Howard McCowan toss hung out the sixth scoring sign.

George Robinson stampeded 24 yards for the final score.

Bishop's deepest pentration on its own power was to the 15-yard line in the third quarter. Technical mistakes at crucial moments wiped out several other scoring opportunities.

Adding significance to Grambling's triumph was the employment of the entire traveling squad of 38 players by Robinson.

Touch Football Meeting Slated

The last touch football meeting will be held Monday night at the Monroe Community Center starting at 6:30.

Only two teams have entered the high school league and three teams in the city league. A team representative should be present at this meeting. No team will be allowed to enter the league after it gets started.

For further information call Jackie Neal at the Monroe Community Center, FA 2-2170.

Indians Keep Hopes Alive With '3-7 Win

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jack Parshman pitched Cleveland to a 13-7 victory over Kansas City Saturday night and gave a lift to the Indians faint American League pennant chances.

The victory, coupled with Chicago'sa fternoon loss to Detroit, pushed the Indians within 4½ games of the first place White Sox. They have six games remaining to the Sox' five.

Any combination of Cleveland defeats or Chicago victories totaling two will cinch the pennant for the White Sox.

The Indians play the A's and Chicago meets Detroit again Sunday.

Cleveland tore into the Athletics for three runs in the fourth inning off starter Johnny Kucks.

Dodgers Sweep Two To Tie For National League Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Los Angeles moved into a tie for the National League lead with San Francisco Saturday night, coming from behind in a five-run seventh inning on two - run doubles by Junior Gilliam and Charlie Neal for a 5-3 victory over the Giants and a sweep of the day-night doubleheader.

The Dodgers, who won the afternoon game 4-1 on the six-hit pitching of Roger Craig, and the Giants, failing behind left-handers Johnny Antonelli and Mike McCormick, have a half-game edge over Milwaukee.

The Braves, who have seven games left to six for the Dodgers and Giants, closed in with a 9-3 victory at Philadelphia.

The Dodgers and Giants meet for the last time Sunday, while Milwaukee closes a two - game series with the Phillies.

The Giants, who gained a second inning run with the help of an error by Dodger starter Don Drysdale, had a crack at getting back into the nightcap with two runs in the eighth. But it was all over in the Dodgers big seventh.

McCormick had blanked Los Angeles on three hits 'til then.

With one out in the seventh, Don Demeter singled and Maury Wills' single sent him to second. A walk filled the bases, and Demeter then came home with the tying run when second baseman Daryl Spencer dropped the ball on a doubleplay try started on pinch hitter Chuck Essegian's grounder to third.

Gilliam chased McCormick (12-15) with a double and Neal then brought the clinchers home with a double off relieving right-hander Jack Sanford.

The Giants, who had held first place all alone since August 5, got their eighth-inning pair off Larry Sherry, who came on after Drysdale was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. Two walks and singles by pinch-hitters Leon Wagner and Jackie Brandt brought the runs across before left-hander Danny McDevitt came on and fanned Willie McCovey.

Drysdale (17-13) was the winner, matching his top victory total in the majors (1957). He had dropped seven of his last eight decisions and was off to a shaky start in this one—walking the first three men he faced, but then striking out Orlando Cepeda, Willie Kirkland and Spencer.

The lanky right-hander with the side-arm fast stuff originally was supposed to pitch the day game of the doubleheader set up after Friday's game was postponed by rain. But Dodger Manager Walt Alston switched to Craig. Records showed Drysdale more effective at night.

Craig (9-5) beat the Giants a third time without defeat, shutting them out on five hits.

The Dodgers tagged Antonelli with his 10th loss with two runs in the second after two were out. Don Demeter singled, went to second when Wills got the first of his three consecutive singles, and then scored on Joe Pignatano's single. Wills, moving to third, then scored when Giant catcher Hobie Landrith threw the ball over Antonelli's head while returning the ball to the mound.

Carl Furillo led off the fourth with a double into the left field corner, advanced on Demeter's sacrifice and scored on Wills' single. That was all for Antonelli.

After the Dodgers drove out Antonelli, Stu Miller and Alan Worthington finished.

The Dodgers scored off Miller in the sixth. Wills collected his third consecutive single, went to third as Pignatano singled, and came in on Craig's bunt. Miller juggled the ball fielding it as Wills headed for the plate and all hands were safe.

In the sixth the Giants left two runners stranded after Willie McCovey walked and Willie Kirkland singled. Spencer flied to right, ending the first real San Francisco threat.

The Giants scored in the ninth on a walk, Leon Wagner's pinch double and an infield out.

Rain Friday led to the doubleheader. The infield showed effects of the rain so the usual infield and batting practice were skipped.

BEAUMONT BATTLE

Lamar Tumbles La. Tech, 13-6

BEAUMONT, Tex. (Special) — Lamar Tech pushed across touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters to turn back Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs, 13-6, in a hard-fought contest here Saturday night.

The visiting Bulldogs were held scoreless until the final two minutes of the game when they put together a 60-yard drive capped by a two-yard TD plunge by halfback Paul Hynes.

After a scoreless first half, Lamar's Cardinals took the second half kickoff and marched 78 yards with halfback Ronnie Fontenot going over from the one. Midway of the last period, Lamar put the game on ice with a 28-yard scoring run by quarterback Charles Starcke.

Fumbles got Louisiana Tech in trouble twice in the initial quarter. The Bulldogs fumbled the opening kickoff and Lamar recovered on the Tech 31. Two first downs put Lamar inside the 10 but a stout Louisiana tech line halted the drive at the one.

Late in the first quarter, another Bulldog fumble gave the Cardinals possession on the Canine eight. Again Louisiana Tech's line held at the one yard stripe.

Louisiana Tech did not get into Lamar Tech territory until early in the second quarter when they reached the 38. Then in the third quarter, Louisiana Tech drove to the Lamar 12 where the Bulldogs lost the ball on downs.

On the Tech touchdown drive, quarterback Mickey Slaughter tossed a first-down pass to end Tom Causey, Monroe junior, on the Lamar 45 and hit him with an 18-yarder for another first down on the Lamar 27 to spark the push.

Hynes picked up a first down at the 12 and carried again to the four. Then fullback B. K. Miller gained one before Hynes went over.

East Central Pastes Defeat On Northwest

SENATOBIA, Miss. (AP)—East Central Junior College won its first game of the season Saturday night, whipping Northwest Mississippi 22-16.

It was Northwest's third loss.

Max Lee of Sardis, playing his first game for Northwest, threw two touchdown passes, one to halfback Delbert Decker in the third quarter and the other to Buddy McCullough in the final three minutes of play. McCullough scored the extra points.

East Central's scores came on a 1-yard plunge by Bill Richardson after a kick recovery; Bill Baucum scooted over from the 2 after a 74-yard scoring drive; and Ralph Frazier scored from the 6 after the play was set up by an interception by Berry Teasdale.

Bob Poole and Edgar Simpson scored the extra points.

Roy Face Wins 18th As Bucs Tip Reds, 4-3

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bill Mazeroski's two-run triple in the 12th inning Saturday gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs and enabled relief pitcher Elroy Face to pick up his 18th victory against one defeat.

Mazeroski, who homered in the third, delivered his game-winning triple with two out after Face had given up three hits and a run to the Redlegs in the top of the 12th.

Dick Stuart doubled and Don Hoak was hit with a pitched ball to put two on before Mazeroski unloaded.

The victory increased the Pirates hold on fourth place to 4½ games over fifth-place Cincinnati.

Cincinnati scored first in the third. Then Mazeroski tied it up with his homer.

In the sixth Vada Pinson, reached first on a error, stole second and scored on Frank Thomas' single to put the Reds ahead again.

The Pirates drew even in the eighth when Hoak got on on an error, advanced on Bill Virdon's single and scored on a double by pinch hitter Rocky Nelson.

Demons Top 'Pokes, 19-6

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Quarterback Dale Hoffpauir scored one touchdown and passed for another Saturday night as Northwestern State took a 19-6 Gulf States Conference victory over McNeese.

NSC opened scoring in the second quarter on a 72-yard pass play from Hoffpauir to Ralph Conrad.

In the third period, Robert Martin dashed across from the one to climax a 70 yard drive. Jim Griffin converted.

NSC took a kickoff in the final period and moved downfield 62 yards for another tally with Hoffpauir going the final three yards.

Donald Breaux scored for McNeese in the fourth with a one-yard plunge.

Joe Driskill

Joe Driskill, the ex-Northeast State Little All-America end from Arcadia, was still on the Chicago Cardinal squad pointing for today's final pre-season exhibition against the NFL champion Baltimore Colts.

After lasting this far through the rugged professional training grind, Driskill is just likely to stick although the Cards must cut about five more players before the season opens.

Driskill is due to work for the Cards' defensive unit today. The game will be handled by a national TV hookup, so if No. 21 shows it's supposed to be the number Driskill is wearing. Other numbers of interest in this area would be 17, worn by M. C. Reynolds, former LSU star; 44, designating John David Crow, the Springhill, La., lad who won grid glory at Texas A. and M.; and, on the opposite side of the field wearing the Colts' No. 83 is Don Joyce, ex-Tulane player. Leo Sanford, former Louisiana Tech athlete who played nine seasons with the Colts, has been reported retiring because of an injury.

Mrs. Menefee is the wife of the state racing commissioner.

Music Charms

Reports sifting through Bill Ruple's pigskin curtain say he's using a record player and military marches in the dressing room to key up Neville High gridders for games. Music hath charm, the old saying goes, and certainly types of music can lift or sink human emotions.

An ex-Neville gridder of nearly 20 years ago says after hearing some of the marches: "Heck, I could have played a half myself after listening to that music."

For The Golfers

The second annual Lucille Heymann Memorial Tournament for women will be held Tuesday at Oakbourne Country Club, Lafayette; and the second annual Southwest Seniors Tournament for men will be played on the Arlington course of the Hot Springs (Ark.) Country Club, October 1-4.

Louisiana and Texan women are invited to play the Heymann Memorial. Mrs. Louise Halpin is president of the sponsoring Oakbourne Women's Golf Association. Entry fee is $5.

About 100 seniors from Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, Missouri, Oklahoma, and New Mexico, will play the 72-hole medal play event at Hot Springs. A golfer must have reached his 50th birthday by October 1. Eighteen holes will be played each day of the 4-day meet. Entry fee is $15.

Football Officials

T. H. Waters, commissioner of the Louisiana High School Athletic Association will be in Monroe on October 27 to give part two of the National Federation football rules test, a supervised examination for game officials.

The meeting here will be conducted at Northeast State College, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Similar tests will be conducted in eight other sections of the state. The last is slated for Sunday, Nov. 1, at Alexandria, and any officials in the state, who were unable to participate in tests in their immediate area, will be able to take the tests at this time.

He's Loaded

Tackle Earl McPike of the Arkansas Razorbacks carries a .22 caliber bullet somewhere in his abdomen. The 220-pound soph from Worland, Wyo., was accidently shot in a hunting accident when he was 15. The bullet was never removed.

Future Demands

Monroe Little League, Inc., which supported 37 teams for 680 Little League-aged boys in two Little Leagues and a host of minor leagues has named Saul Adler, George Moses, Jack Hesketh, and Buddy Blair as a committee to explore possiblities of another Little League diamond location, this one in the college area if possible. While they're at it they will also seek a possible location for a Dixie League diamond. The Dixie League, for boys just out of Little League, requires a diamond slightly under "regulation" in size but larger than the Little League size.

THIRD TEEN-AGER TO WIN TITLE

Jack Nicklaus Beats Coe On Final Hole In Amateur

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, a big likeable youngster, defeated defending champion Charlie Coe on the final hole Saturday and became the first teen-age winner of the U.S. Amateur Golf Championship in a half-century.

The 1 up margin made Nicklaus, who won't be 20 until January, the third teen-ager to win the coveted title. Only one was younger.

Bob Gardner won in 1909 at 19 years and five months—just three months younger than Jackie. The other teen-ager was 1902 winner Louis James, 19 years, 1 month.

Nicklaus, dubbed "Snow White" by his Walker Cup teammates, faced a situation which might have shaken a much older and more experienced player. Coe started out with three consecutive birdies, shot the front nine of the long Broadmoor course in 33 and had a two-under par 69 for the morning round for a 2 up lead at the halfway point of the 36-hole match.

But the lanky Oklahoma "sheriff", who packs a putter instead of a pistol, showed signs of tiring before the morning round was over. Nicklaus caught him at the third hole of the afternoon round—the 21st of the match. Then he dropped behind again and didn't take the lead until the 32nd.

Coe squared the match one more when Nicklaus played the 613-yard 35th in miserable fashion. Then on the deciding 36th, Coe overshot the green. He recovered beautifully but lost the hole and the match when Nicklaus stroked in a six-foot putt for a birdie three.

From start to finish it was a toss up The fact that Nicklaus did win is a tribute to the steely nerves and the fine golf game of the Columbus, Ohio, youngster who already has played in five U. S. Amateur Championships.

Coe, 35, an Oklahoma City oil broker, has been in the amateur finals three times and this is the first time he has lost. But he came within inches of saving the match.

On the crucial 36th he put his approach over the back of the green behind a hump. He took his wedge and sent up a shot that drew a roar from the gallery of 3,000, stopping just inches from the cup.

Nicklaus, faced with a nerve-racking putt, studied it carefully and stroked it in.

Two down after the morning round, Nicklaus played the afternoon 18 in 34-35—69, two under par of 36-35—71 for the 7,010-yard Broadmoore Course in the shade of the Rocky Mountains. Coe had 36-37—73 for the afternoon round, including a double bogey six on the 19th hole.

Nicklaus is a golfer of considerable experience. He won the Ohio open at 16, took the International Junior Chamber of Commerce Championship, won the Trans-Mississippi Amateur for the past two years and the North and South this year. But few figured even that would put him in the same class with Coe.

The story of the match was Jackie's calm reaction to pressure.

He never was ahead until the 32nd hole and just a few minutes later he ran into a situation which might have blown the match wide open.

On the 613-yard 35th, Nicklaus hit his drive across a road, through a cluster of trees onto a gravel bank He took a wood to hit from that almost impossible lie and knocked his ball over onto the driving range far to the left of the fairway. From there he hit his third shot about 100 yards short of the green.

Coe, meanwhile, had sent a conservative drive down the middle, put his second short of the green and got on in three with two putts from 15 feet for his par. Jack [illegible] the green in four and came within inches on a 40-foot attempt last hole perfectly to win.

Hole-In-One At Highland

West Monroe golfer Hollis Lonsberry sank a hole-in-one par - three No. 5 hole at Highland Park Country Club yesterday.

Lonsberry used a 4½ wood for the shot on the 189-yard hole.

Lonsberry was playing in a fivesome with Paul Lasuzza, Frank Hilburn, Tom Peters and Sam Rizzo.

CONVINCING OPENER

Longhorns Gore Nebraska, 20-0

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—The Texas Longhorns, deep and speedy, launched their 1959 football campaign Saturday with a convincing 20-0 inter-sectional triumph over Nebraska.

Two second quarter touchdowns, both set up by Nebraska miscues, sent the Texans into a 14-0 halftime lead.

The partisan crowd of 32,000 had to settle in the first half for a thrill engineered by Nebraska [illegible] Fischer, who tooled his way 90 yards downfield with a [illegible] kick. He was ruled to have stepped out of bounds enroute and a clipping penalty further nullified the effort.

Nebraska's only serious threat came on a 50-yard second quarter drive, highlighted by fullback Don Fricke's 22-yard sprint. The thrust bogged down on the Texas 13 and the Longhorns took possession on downs.

A Nebraska fumble recovered by Texas halfback David Russell set the stage for the ice-breaking Texas touchdown. Sophomore Jack Collins, playing his first intercollegiate varsity game, skirted right end for two yards to cap the drive, on the first play of the second quarter.

Subsequent TD's were scored by James Saxton, another sophomore and junior Bobby Gurwitz.

Ole Miss Downs Houston, 16 To 0

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — A 52-yard pass interception return by Robert Khayat and the power of Charlie Flowers guided experienced Mississippi to a 16-0 victory over a young University of Houston team Saturday night before a crowd of 45,000.

Mississippi, with 27 returning lettermen, had a bit of difficulty with Houston's new Split Wing-T formation until Khayat made his long run late in the second quarter.

The sideline scamper by the Rebel kicking specialist carried to the Houston seven and Mississippi was in almost complete command the rest of the way.

Jake Gibbs, a junior quarterback, skirted left end from the four on the fourth play after Khayat's run.

The Rebels continued their domination in the third quarter, collecting nine points on drives of 67 and 66 yards while limiting Houston to four plays.

Bobby Franklin, a senior quarterback, scored from the one after Flowers had moved for 32 yards in six plays after the second half kickoff.

The Houston defense tightened after the second Mississippi drive but Khayat booted a 32-yard field goal. Khayat, who broke even on two extra point attempts, earlier had seen three-point efforts from the 20 and 40 yard lines fail.

Houston's best opportunity came early in the second period when a 29-yard drive moved to the Mississippi 11 from where a fumbled snap from center spoiled a field goal try by Eddie Mitchamore.

In the closing minutes, Gibbs evaded a half dozen would-be tacklers and return a punt 70 yards for a score that was nullified by a clipping penalty.

Wichita Upsets Kansas State

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Underdog Wichita upset state rival Kansas State, Saturday with a 19-0 football victory.

The visitors parlayed the line busting charges of fullback Ted Dean and two short K-State punts into a surprisingly easy triumph.

Coach Chalmers Woodward's alert club scored in the first and second quarters as short K-State punts into a 20-mile an hour wind gave them the ball inside Wildcat territory.

K-State, playing without its No. 1 quarterback, John Solmos, mustered two serious scoring [illegible]. Both petered out on the Wichita 6 and Wildcat passes fell incomplete.

Dean scored the first two Wichita touchdowns on short plunges.

Lions Turn Back Redskins, 31-14

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions played under wraps most of the way but came alive with 21 points in the final period and defeated Washington 31-14 Saturday night in a National Football League exhibition game.

Terry Barr provided the only excitement in an otherwise listless game with two spectacular runs in the final period The former Michigan star raced 85 yards with a punt return early in the quarter for a touchdown, then in the last minute and a half sped 82 yards with an interception for his second score.

Utah State Tops Idaho, 14 To 0

LOGAN, Utah (AP)—Utah State stunned highly favored Idaho Saturday with a 14-0 non-conference football beating.

State bulldozed to the Vandal 1 midway in the first quarter in a sustained march and halfback Buddy Allen leaped over for the touchdown. An unexpectedly tough Aggie defense made the score stand up.

2 Umps Bought

BOSTON (AP) — President Joe Cronin announced Saturday that the American League has purchased the contracts of umpires William E. (Bill) Kinnamon and William A. (Al) Smith from the American Assn.

They will be assigned to duty with American League clubs in spring training, 1960.

Wake Forest Takes 22-20 Win Over Fla. State

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Quarterback Norman Snead unleashed a 34-yard pass in the closing minutes to set up a touchdown that gave Wake Forest a 22-20 come from behind football victory over Florida State Saturday night.

Snead, who had passed for two earlier touchdowns, hit Bobby Allen with the 34-yard toss and the fleet end was dropped on the 5. Halfback Bobby Robinson swept right end for the touchdown with 1:56 remaining.

Florida State, making its first start under head Coach Perry Moss, had rallied from a 9-0 deficit for a 20-9 lead midway through the fourth quarter.

Butler Beats Bradley, 27-8

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Butler University's Bulldogs clustered three touchdowns in less than 10 minutes of the third period, two on runs by Elmer O'Banion, and trounced Bradley's Braves 27-8 Saturday.

Butler gained 301 yards rushing to Bradley's 121, but the Braves had a 134-60 edge in passing. Their only TD came on a 68-yard pass play from Ron Hermann to J. D. Williams in the third quarter.

PHILS FALL

Braves Remain In Thick Of NL Race With 9-3 Win

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Old pro Del Crandall's grand slam home run plus young Lee Maye's homer and two clutch singles powered Milwaukee to a 9-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday night, keeping the Braves in the thick of the National League race.

Pending the result of Los Angeles' night game at San Francisco, the Braves are tied with the Dodgers for second place, one game back of the Giants.

With Crandall batting in five runs, right-hander Bob Buhl took care of the pitching chores, striking out four, walking but one and checking the last place Phils on 10 hits for a 14-9 record. Don Cardwell (9-10) was the loser.

Milwaukee took the opener of a two game series with a pair of runs in the fourth and a five-run sixth that kayoed Cardwell. The Braves added two more in the seventh off reliever Humberto Robinson, their ex-mate.

The Phillies scored one in the first on a double by Dave Philley and Wally Post's single. Cardwell, meanwhile, held Milwaukee hitless until Felix Mantilla doubled to start the third

Joe Adcock then tripled into the right field corner to start the Braves' fourth and scored on Maye's first of three hits. Maye, who got into the game when Enos Slaughter aggravated an instep injury, went to second on a sacrifice and to third when Cardwell threw into center field on a pickoff play. He scored on Crandall's sacrifice fly.

Then came the big sixth. Hank Aaron beat out an infield single, Adcock doubled and Maye singled home his second run. Bobby Avila walked, loading the bases for Crandall's 20th home run of the campaign and the fourth slam of his career.

Maye's third home run, a two-run belt in the seventh, wrapped up Milwaukee scoring.

The Phillies made Buhl a little uncomfortable in the same inning with a two-run rally.

Pinch-hitter Harry Hanebrink singled. Richie Ashburn singled to right for his 2,212 hit as a member of the Phillies, breaking the club career mark of 2,211 set by Ed Delehanty of the 1888 to 1901 Phillies. Joe Koppe then singled home one run and Ashburn scored on an infield out.

NORTON RUNS 54

South Carolina Tips Duke, 12-7

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI)—South Carolina sprang halfback Ken Norton loose on a 54-yard end sweep to a last period touchdown Saturday night and a come-from-behind 12-7 triumph over Duke's Blue Devils before 37,000 opening game fans.

The scoring run by the 190-pound Salem, Va., junior was a dramatic climax to a 12 play do-or-die drive by the Gamecocks after halting Duke down on the South Carolina eight yard line.

South Carolina scored in the first period on a seven-yard jaunt by halfback Steve Kopian—a tally set up when tackle Sam Fewell blocked a quick kick by Duke's Dean Wright. Center Jim Nemeth recovered for the Gamecocks on the Duke 10.

Duke took a one-point margin in the second period on a short pass from quarterback Don Altman to end Claude Moorman at the Duke 49. Moorman, a rangy flankman, shook loose from three Gamecock tacklers at midfield and went all the way, a scoring play covering 53 yards. Guard Art Browning kicked the extra point.

Kopian's try at a two-pointer conversion after his first period touchdown was shot and his pass after Norton's run overshot end Jack Pitt.

South Carolina got great punting from specialist Doug Hatcher and sophomore fullback Jimmy Williams while Duke's kicking game kept it in trouble, particularly in the first half.

The winning Gamecocks, professing a halfback problem following the graduation of Alex Hawkins and King Dixon, put Coach Warren Giese's mind at ease with the running of Kopian and Norton, both transfer students.

Kopian was a junior college All-America at Rocky Tooth College in New York and North transferred to South Carolina from Virginia Military Institute. Norton picked up 92 yards in 13 carries and Kopian was good for 69 in 15. The big South Carolina line limited Duke to 82 yards rushing.

However, the victory may have been costly to South Carolina. Fullback John Saunders, 1958 Atlantic Coast Conference rushing champion and blocking trophy winner, suffered a shoulder injury on the Gamecocks' first defensive play and saw no more action.

The full extent of his injuries weren't known. He was able replaced by Phil Lavoie, Bob Farmer and Williams.

Duke made three quick first downs and moved to the South Carolina 19 after the Gamecocks took the lead, but Lavoie and end Jerry Frye smashed Danny Lee for a long loss and then Pitt threw George Harris back to the 37 on fourth down.

Score by Periods

South Carolina	6	0	0	6	—12
Duke	0	7	0	0	— 7

Scoring Summary:

SC—Kopian 7 run (run failed); Norton 54 run (pass failed) Duke—Moorman 53 pass from Altman (Browning kick).

If your tensions upset you... you're not alone!

If your tensions sometimes make you worried or irritable or upset, you should know this: you're not alone!

In today's complex world, nearly all of us have minor emotional problems from time to time. And at present one out of every ten Americans has a problem so serious he or she needs medical attention. For these people, modern treatment offers great hope for complete recovery.

As for the rest of us, our problems don't need medical attention, but they do keep us from enjoying life as much as we should. They do make us, and those around us, unhappy much of the time.

To help each of us learn how to control our own tensions, a prominent psychiatrist has written a booklet called "How To Deal With Your Tensions". In it, he lists a number of proven suggestions that can help you keep your tensions from getting the best of you, and thus live a happier, fuller life.

Joe Driskill

Joe Driskill, the ex-Northeast State Little All-America end from Arcadia, was still on the Chicago Cardinal squad pointing for today's final pre-season exhibition against the NFL champion Baltimore Colts.

After lasting this far through the rugged professional training grind, Driskill is just likely to stick although the Cards must cut about five more players before the season opens.

Driskill is due to work for the Cards' defensive unit today. The game will be handled by a national TV hookup, so if No. 21 shows it's supposed to be the number Driskill is wearing. Other numbers of interest in this area would be 17, worn by M. C. Reynolds, former LSU star; 44, designating John David Crow, the Springhill, La., lad who won grid glory at Texas A. and M.; and, on the opposite side of the field wearing the Colts' No. 88 is Don Joyce, ex-Tulane player. Leo Sanford, former Louisiana Tech athlete who played nine seasons with the Colts, has been reported retiring because of an injury.

Jefferson Downs

Mrs. J. M. "Pete" Menefee of Monroe, first lady of racing in Louisiana, is scheduled to award the trophy to the winner of the Inaugural Handicap at New Orleans, Jefferson Downs as the track points for a 51-day meeting opening next Thursday night.

Reservations have been made for all 800 stalls at the track and more than half the stables are already filled, reports racing secretary Kenneth McIntosh.

Mrs. Menefee is the wife of the state racing commissioner.

Jake Gibbs, a junior quarterback, skirted left end from the four on the fourth play after Khayat's run.

The Rebels continued their domination in the third quarter, collecting nine points on drives of 67 and 66 yards while limiting Houston to four plays.

Bobby Franklin, a senior quarterback, scored from the one after Flowers had moved for 32 yards in six plays after the second half kickoff.

The Houston defense tightened after the second Mississippi drive but Khayat booted a 32-yard field goal. Khayat, who broke even on two extra point attempts, earlier had seen three-point efforts from the 20 and 40 yard lines fail.

Houston's best opportunity came early in the second period when a 29-yard drive moved to the Mississippi 11 from where a fumbled snap from center spoiled a field goal try by Eddie Mitchamore.

In the closing minutes, Gibbs evaded a half dozen would-be tacklers and return a punt 79 yards for a score that was nullified by a clipping penalty.

Wichita Upsets Kansas State

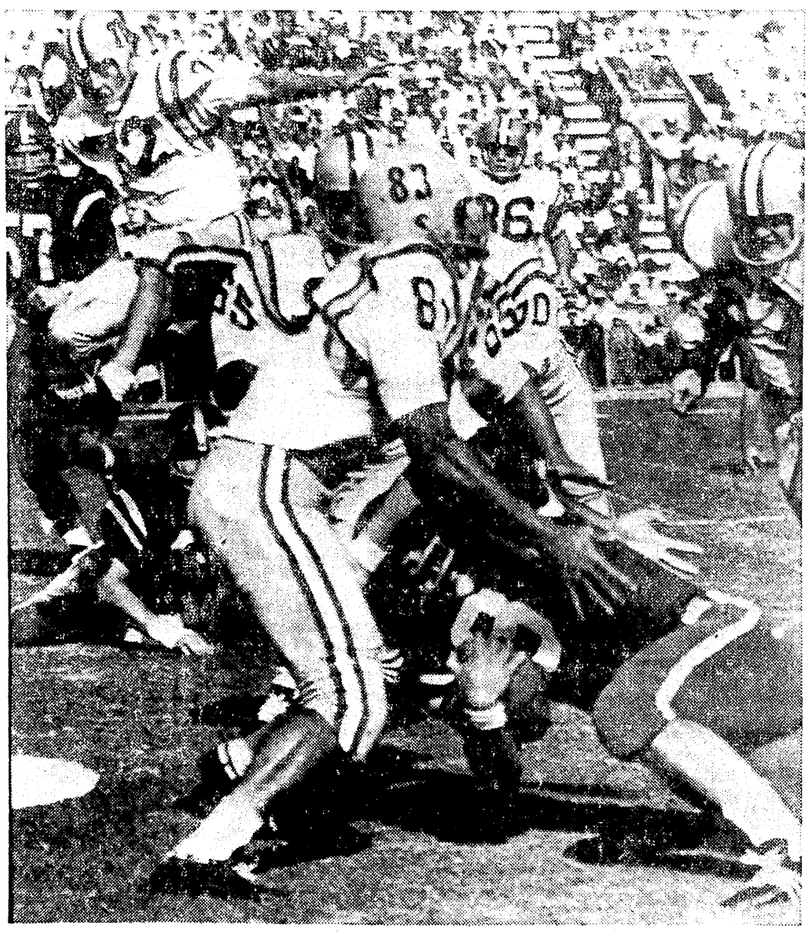
MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Underdog Wichita upset state rival Kansas State, Saturday with a 19-0 football victory.

The visitors parlayed the line busting charges of fullback Ted Dean and two short K-State punts into a surprisingly easy triumph.

Coach Chalmers Woodward's alert club scored in the first and second quarters as short K-State punts into a 20-mile an hour wind gave them the ball inside Wildcat territory.

K-State, playing without its No. 1 quarterback, John Solmos, mustered two serious scoring [illegible]. Both petered out on the Wichita 6 and Wildcat passes fell incomplete.

Dean scored the first two Wichita touchdowns on short plunges.



Jackson Goes Down

Rice fullback Roland Jackson (37) of Ruston, La., plows into LSU's Scotty McClain (83) at the end of a 10-yard gain around end to the Tiger 10-yard line in the first quarter of yesterday's game in Baton Rouge, Louisiana State guard Ed McCreedy (67) assisted on the tackle. PHILS FALL

Braves Remain In Thick Of NL Race With 9-3 Win

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Old pro Del Crandall's grand slam home run plus young Lee Maye's homer and two clutch singles powered Milwaukee to a 9-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday night, keeping the Braves in the thick of the National League race.

Pending the result of Los Angeles' night game at San Francisco, the Braves are tied with the Dodgers for second place, one game back of the Giants.

With Crandall batting in five runs, right-hander Bob Buhl took care of the pitching chores, striking out four, walking but one and checking the last place Phils on 10 hits for a 14-9 record. Don Cardwell (9-10) was the loser.

Milwaukee took the opener of a two game series with a pair of runs in the fourth and a five-run sixth that kayoed Cardwell. The Braves added two more in the seventh off reliever Humberto Robinson, their ex-mate.

The Phillies scored one in the first on a double by Dave Philley and Wally Post's single. Cardwell, meanwhile, held Milwaukee hitless until Felix Mantilla doubled to start the third.

Joe Adcock then tripled into the right field corner to start the Braves' fourth and scored on Maye's first of three hits. Maye, who got into the game when Enos Slaughter aggravated an instep injury, went to second on a sacrifice and to third when Cardwell threw into center field on a pick-off play. He scored on Crandall's sacrifice fly.

Then came the big sixth. Hank Aaron beat out an infield single, Adcock doubled and Maye singled home his second run. Bobby Avila walked, loading the bases for Crandall's 20th home run of the campaign and the fourth slam of his career.

Maye's third home run, a two-run belt in the seventh, wrapped up Milwaukee scoring.

The Phillies made Buhl a little uncomfortable in the same inning with a two-run rally.

Pinch-hitter Harry Hanebrink singled. Richie Ashburn singled to right for his 2,212 hit as a member of the Phillies, breaking the club career mark of 2,211 set by Ed Delehanty of the 1888 to 1901 Phillies. Joe Koppe then singled home one run and Ashburn scored on an infield out.

NORTON RUNS 54

South Carolina Tips Duke, 12-7

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI)—South Carolina sprang halfback Ken Norton loose on a 54-yard end sweep to a last period touchdown Saturday night and a come-from-behind 12-7 triumph over Duke's Blue Devils before 37,000 opening game fans.

The scoring run by the 190-pound Salem, Va., junior was a dramatic climax to a 12 play do-or-die drive by the Gamecocks after halting Duke down on the South Carolina eight yard line.

South Carolina scored in the first period on a seven-yard jaunt by halfback Steve Kopian—a tally set up when tackle Sam Fewell blocked a quick kick by Duke's Dean Wright. Center Jim Nemeth recovered for the Gamecocks on the Duke 10.

Duke took a one-point margin in the second period on a short pass from quarterback Don Altman to end Claude Moorman at the Duke 49. Moorman, a rangy flankman, shook loose from three Gamecock tacklers at midfield and went all the way, a scoring play covering 58 yards. Guard Art Browning kicked the extra point.

Kopian's try at a two-pointer conversion after his first period touchdown was shot and his pass after Norton's run overshot end Jack Pitt.

South Carolina got great punting from specialist Doug Hatcher and sophomore fullback Jimmy Williams while Duke's kicking game kept it in trouble, particularly in the first half.

The winning Gamecocks, professing a halfback problem following the graduation of Alex Hawkins and King Dixon, put Coach Warren Giese's mind at ease with the running of Kopian and Norton, both transfer students.

Kopian was a junior college All-America at Rocky Tooth College in New York and North transferred to South Carolina from Virginia Military Institute. Norton picked up 92 yards in 13 carries and Kopian was good for 69 in 15. The big South Carolina line limited Duke to 82 yards rushing.

However, the victory may have been costly to South Carolina. Fullback John Saunders, 1958 Atlantic Coast Conference rushing champion and blocking trophy winner, suffered a shoulder injury on the Gamecocks' first defensive play and saw no more action.

The full extent of his injuries weren't known. He was able replaced by Phil Lavoie, Bob Farmer and Williams.

Duke made three quick first downs and moved to the South Carolina 19 after the Gamecocks took the lead, but Lavoie and end Jerry Frye smashed Danny Lee for a long loss and then Pitt threw George Harris back to the 37 on fourth down.

Lions Turn Back Redskins, 31-14

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions played under wraps most of the way but came alive with 21 points in the final period and defeated Washington 31-14 Saturday night in a National Football League exhibition game.

Terry Barr provided the only excitement in an otherwise listless game with two spectacular runs in the final period. The former Michigan star raced 85 yards with a punt return early in the quarter for a touchdown, then in the last minute and a half sped 82 yards with an interception for his second score.

Utah State Tops Idaho, 14 To 0

LOGAN, Utah (AP)—Utah State stunned highly favored Idaho Saturday with a 14-0 non-conference football beating.

State bulldozed to the Vandal 1 midway in the first quarter in a sustained march and halfback Buddy Allen leaped over for the touchdown. An unexpectedly tough Aggie defense made the score stand up.

2 Umps Bought

BOSTON (AP) — President Joe Cronin announced Saturday that the American League has purchased the contracts of umpires William E. (Bill) Kinnamon and William A. (Al) Smith from the American Assn.

They will be assigned to duty with American League clubs in spring training, 1960.

If your tensions upset you... you're not alone!

If your tensions sometimes make you worried or irritable or upset, you should know this: you're not alone!

In today's complex world, nearly all of us have minor emotional problems from time to time. And at present one out of every ten Americans has a problem so serious he or she needs medical attention. For these people, modern treatment offers great hope for complete recovery.

As for the rest of us, our problems don't need medical attention, but they do keep us from enjoying life as much as we should. They do make us, and those around us, unhappy much of the time.

To help each of us learn how to control our own tensions, a prominent psychiatrist has written a booklet called "How To Deal With Your Tensions". In it, he lists a number of proven suggestions that can help you keep your tensions from getting the best of you, and thus live a happier, fuller life.

ALMOST PULL IT OUT

Sox Must Wait For Flag; Tigers Win 5-4 Decision

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—Already waiting 40 years, the Chicago White Sox will have to wait at least one more day before clinching the American League pennant as they lost to the Detroit Tigers 5-4 before 17,287 Saturday.

The White Sox nearly overcame the Tigers with two out in the ninth when pinco sitter Norm Cass belted a two-run homer.

Thus Cleveland, playing a night game at Kansas City, remained five games behind the White Sox. The magic number also stayed at two—any combination of Chicago victories and Cleveland defeats clincher.

Detroit's Paul Foytack scattered 12 Chicago hits and notched his 14th victory. The White Sox used four hurlers — starter Dick Donovan who suffered his 10th setback against nine victories, Barry Latman, Ray Moore and Gerry Staley.

It was a close, if ragged game until the eighth when the Tigers sewed it up with a pair of singles by Foytack and Eddie Yost and Harvey Kuenn's two-run couble against Staley.

Until the eighth, Staley had yielded only two hits in three previous scoreless innings.

Foytack held the White Sox scoreless from their two-run third until Nellie Fox' two-out single in the ninth which preceded Cash's homer. Ray Narleski replaced Foytack after Cash' blow and faced one batter, getting Ted Kluszewski to foul out to end the game.

Detroit took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on singles by Yost and Gail Harris, a force play and Al Kaline's sacrifice fly.

The Tigers made it 3-0 with a pair of unearned runs in the third. After hitting a batter and being victim of a bobble at third, starter Donovan was replaced by Latman. Kaline greeted Latman with a single, but a Tiger runner was nailed at the plate on Al Smith's good throw.

Latman walked the next two men, forcing across a run. Lou Berberet's sacrifice fly scored the second run of the third.

The White Sox came back with a brace in the bottom of the third, one unearned. Fox led off with a double and moved to third when the first baseman bobbled Billy Goodman's bounder. Fox scored on a wild pitch by Foytack. After Kluszewski's pop single, Goodman scored when Sherm Lollar hit into a force play.

The Sox collected four hits in the third, but lost a run because of poor base running. Smith and Jim Rivera slammed singles, but Lollar retreated after faking a try for home from third on Rivera's hit and Smith was trapped between second and third.

Gamble Fails As Stanford Loses, 28-27

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Halfback Dave Grayson batted down a pass in the end zone to save Oregon's 28-27 victory over Stanford Saturday as the Indians gambled and lost on a two-point conversion try after a last-minute touchdown.

Stanford scored on an 11-yard pass from Dick Norman to Ben Robinson and then snubbed a chance for a tie, trying a two-point pass instead of a one-point kick in the conversion attempt.

Quarterback Dave Grosz kept Oregon chugging, passing for two touchdowns, plunging for another and passing for the Ducks final clinching two-points in the third period.

Stanford, scoring in every quarter, put together a pair of drives in the fourth period, both led by Norman. The first fell short on the Oregon 3, but Norman then took the Indians 50 yards on nine plays, 34 by air, for the TD that made it close.

Middies Defeat Boston College

By BOB HOOBING

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Navy unveiled the "22 Skidoo" plan for a 24-8 football victory over stubborn Boston College Saturday as home-bred halfbacks Dick Pariseau and Joe Bellino delivered the knockout blows.

Pariseau, a senior from Attleboro, Mass., scored touchdowns on a stumbling six-yard slant and a sparkling 80-yard punt runback behind superb blocking.

Bellino, Winchester, Mass., junior, displayed his superior talents as a broken field runner with an eye - opening 50 - yard change-of-pace gallop in the third period.

Navy, making its debut under Coach Wayne Hardin, presented a team of finesse rather than power as displayed on its clever 91-yard drive for the opening score in the first period.

True to his promise, Hardin alternated his two "starting units" of equally distributed talent tabbed the "22 Skidoo." Halway through the drive a fresh unit was inserted except for quarterback Joe Tranchini who engineered the entire tour.

On the first play with the fresh troops, Tranchini was hurled for an 11-year loss back to his 33 before Bellino broke loose on the key play. The 185-pounder, playing wingback right in a winged-T setup came around on a reverse to pick up 36 yards in another darting sprint.

Tranchini, the Clairton, Pa., senior nicknamed "Trigger" by his mates, completed five passes for 46 of a 52-yard advance late in the third quarter, capping it with a nine-yard toss to Tom Albershart.

Pitt Squeezes By Marquette In Near Upset

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Pittsburgh capitalized on a pass interception and a blocked punt Saturday to defeat revitalized Marquette, 21-15.

A Marquette passing attack of quarterback Pete Hall to end Larry Hubbard almost upset the favored Panthers. But Pitt full back Jim Cunningham intercepted a Hall pass to run 53 yards for a third period touchdown. End Mike Ditka blocked Hall's fourth period punt and then scored his second touchdown of the game on quarterback Ivan Toncic's five-yard pass.

Halfback Jim Webster had put underdog Marquette momentarily ahead, 15-13, in the fourth period when he recovered a Pitt fumble on the 16 and kicked a 27-yard field goal.

The showing of Hall was an encouraging one for Coach Liz Blackbourn, returning to Marquette after an absence of five years, four of them as coach of the Green Bay Packers. The Warriors had won only two games in three years under Coach John Druze.

Hall completed 22 of 43 passes for 273 yards, one of them going 30 yards to Hubbard, who made a juggling catch for the first touchdown. Hall scored the second Marquette touchdown himself after a series of passes to Hubbard put the Warriors on the Pitt 5-yard line, from where he went over on an end run.

The first Pittsburgh touchdown broke a scoreless tie at the start of the second half. The Panthers moved the ball from their 5 on the kickoff to the Marquette goal line in five plays, with Ditka taking a 26 - yard touchdown pass from Toncic.

Guard Norton Seaman's conversion attempt missed on the first Pitt score, but he booted it good after Cunningham's interception and touchdown. Both of Maquette's extra point tries were blocked to leave the score 13-12 in favor of Pitt after the third quarter.

After Webster's field goal gave Marquette hopes of an upset, Hall was deep in his own territory punting when the highly-touted Ditka knocked down his kick. Following Ditka's score, the Panthers added a two-point conversion on Toncic's pass to halfback John Yaccino.

Score by Periods
Marquette	0	0	12	3—15
Pittsburgh	0	0	13	8—21

Scoring Summary:

Pittsburgh — Ditka 26 pass from Toncic (kick failed), Cunningham 53 pass interception (Seaman kick), Ditka 5 pass from Toncic (Yaccino pass from Toncic)

Marquette — Hubbard 30 pass from Hall (kick blocked), Hall 5 run (kick blocked), GF Webster 27.

Miss U.S. I Leads Way In Cup Regatta

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roaring Miss U.S. I—with favored Maverick spilled out of contention — captured two heats Saturday and led six big hydroplane into the final run of the President's Cup Regatta on the placid Potomac River.

Miss U.S. I, the defender owned by George Sinon of Detroit and piloted by Don Wilson, set one record and bettered another in the opening runs which saw three entries beached.

Maverick, leading boat on the 1959 hydro circuit, overturned during the first 15-mile heat of the afternoon and was knocked out of the regatta. Veteran driver Bill Stead came out of the spill with no serious injuries. Maverick herself apparently escaped major damage.

Miss U.S. I thundered to a 15-mile heat record for the annual classic. She averaged 109.311 for the second 5-lap spin, bettering the 1957 rate of 107.827 set by Hawaii Kai III.

Hawaii Kai, owned by Joe Mascari of New York and driven by Ron Musson, burned out a piston in the first heat this time and was beached. Miss Bardahl, throttled along by Bill Brow for Seattle's Ole Bardahl, also was hauled back to the pits for good with a snapped rod. Like Maverick and Kai, Miss Bardahl will miss Sunday's closing heat.

The other five that made Sunday's final are Wahoo, piloted by Miro Slovak for Bill Boeing Jr. of Seattle; Miss Detroit, owned and driven by Chuck Thompson of Detroit; Miss Buffalo, driven by Bob Schroeder for a Buffalo, N.Y., group; Kol-Roy, Bob Gilliam's Seattle boat, and Nitrogen, handled by Norm Evans for Samuel du Pont of Wilmington, Del.

Ouachita Places Tickets On Sale

The Ouachita Parish High Lions put tickets for Friday night's game with the Ruston Bearcats on sale here tomorrow morning.

Ruston, after impressive victories over Minden and Springhill, will be giving Coach Bob Ellen's Lions their first home game of the season. The Lions opened their season at Jonesboro Friday night with a 26-13 triumph over Jonesboro - Hodge.

Coach Ellen said tickets for the Ruston game may be obtained at the OPHS office during school hours.

Irish Cousin's Stretch Effort Cops Winn Run

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Irish Cousin, dead last through the first half of the race, put on a stretch drive fast enough to win the $10,000-added Matt Winn Stakes at Latonia Saturday.

Jockey George Hettinger held Irish Cousin off the pace before giving the 3-year-old mare free rein. The winner had nearly a length over second finisher Bob Adams.

Bob Adams was placed fourth after a foul claim was upheld, moving Cis Sunglow to second and Tulsa Lad to third.

Irish Cousin, owned by Leslie Combs II of Lexington, Ky., covered the 8½ furlongs in 1:44 and paid $8.20.

Weatherwise Wins Futurity At Aqueduct

NEW YORK (AP) — Greentree Stable's Weatherwise, with Eddie Arcaro up, came slashing down the middle of the track Saturday with an overwhelming stretch run and captured the $143,220 Futurity Stakes for 2-year-olds before a crowd of 47,412 at new Aqueduct.

Weatherwise, a son of the great Tom Fool, who won the 1951 Futurity down the Belmont Park straight course, scored by 1¼ lengths over George D. Widener's Udaipur. All Hands got third money by a head over A. J. Ostriker's Catapult in the field of 12.

This was the first time the famed race, inaugurated in 1838 at the old Sheepshead Bay track, had been raced at Aqueduct, the plush 33 million dollar layout which opened Monday. It also was the first time it was run around a turn since 1914 at Saratoga. Since 1915, it was run down the Belmont straightaway.

Winning the Futurity was no novelty for Arcaro, who scored with Our Boots in 1940, for the Greentree Stable and its trainer, John Gaver. Greentree, owned by John Hay Whitney, U.S. ambassador to Britain, and his sister, Mrs. Charles S. Payson, won with Guillotine in 1949 and with Tom Fool. Arcaro also won the race with First Flight (1946), Battlefield (1950), Nashua (1954) and Bold Ruler (1956).

Weatherwise, third choice in the wagering, came from seventh place to collect first money of $88,470.50 and was clocked in 1:18 3-5 for the 6½ furlongs on a fast track.

The winner returned $9.80, $5.50 and $4.30. Udaipur, the favorite, paid $5.00 and $3.60, and All Hands, an 11-1 shot, was $5.50 to show.

Sebring Race To Determine Racing Champ

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — This small, sports car-crazy town4 plunged busily Saturday into preparations for a race in which the world driving championship will be decided for the first time in this country.

All rumors about cancellation of the first Grand Prix of the United States, to be run Dec. 12, were dispelled by Director Alec Ulmann.

The race not only will be run, Ulmann said, but it will decide a three-way battle for the world championship between Jack Brabham of Australia and Stirling Moss and Tony Brooks of England.

For a time, it appeared the championship would be decided before the Sebring race. For that reason, Europeans had shown little interest in the American event and there had been a prospect it would be cancelled.

Moss changd the situation drastically by winning the Grand Prix of Italy last weekend while Brabham finished third.

Moss, four-time runner-up for the world title, can win his first championship if he takes the Sebring race and Brabham finishes third or worse. Brooks also still is in the running.

Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif. finish second in the world competition with a front-running performance at Sebring. This would be closer than any American has ever come to the throne.

Mike Hawthorn of England won the championship last year Hawthorn, who had many narrow escapes in accidents, then retired, but was killed a month later when his Jaguar crashed into a tree.

Reginald S. Smith, Sebring race secretary, has gone to Europe to complete details for the first U.S. appearance of the European Grand Prix teams.

The 12-hour race run at Sebring each March is part of a different series in which points are awarded to the automobile manufacturers rather than the drivers.

Ulmann said the Dec. 12 race is tentatively scheduled to start at 2 p.m. and will be run at a distance of about 250 miles. The European teams and cars will arrive Dec. 7.

Lion 'B' Slates Bastrop Battle

Washington Tips Buffalos

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Washington combined speed and a superior line with Colorado miscues for a 21-12 victory over the Buffaloes in Saturday's football opener.

The Huskies' last touchdown was a gift in the third period. The Colorado receiver let an onside kick roll into the end zone and walked away, apparently thinking it was an automatic touchback. An alert Washington guard, Chuck Allen, ran half the length of the fielda nd pounced on it for a touchdown.

Washington showed a great ground game in the speed of halfback Carver Gayton and the running of backs George Fleming and Ray Jackson.

The Huskies scored first in the opening period with quarterback Bob Hivner passing 19 yards to Fleming in the end zone.

The Huskies wrapped it up in the third period with a drive featuring the 160-pound Gayton, who went over from the 6 for the score.

TECH, SOUTHEASTERN

Two Team Race Expected In Gulf States Conference

LAKE CHARLES, (Special) — The Gulf States conference opens its football campaign this fall, and the coaches are expecting a two-team race for the championship.

A pre-season poll of the circuit's six coaches left Louisiana Tech and Southeastern practically co-favorites, with Northwestern's Demons not far behind.

Louisiana Tech polled three of a total of five possible first place votes (the coaches did not vote on their own teams), and wound up with 22 points.

One coach picked the circuit to wind up in a three-way tie involving Louisiana Tech, Southeastern and Northwestern. SLI and Southeastern earned the other two first-place votes.

As a result of the placings, based on five points for first place, four for second, three for third, etc., Southeastern wound up with 21 points, only one less than Tech.

Northwestern had 17, good enough for third place by a comfortable margin.

Louisiana Tech, which was a co-champion in the GSG last year with Northwestern, has 18 lettermen on hand, including an experienced candidate for every post except quarterback.

Top backfield performers are halfback Paul Hynes, an all-GSC choice last year, and Max Rudd, a strong-running bullback.

Southeastern, like Tech, can start a veteran eleven, with the attack led by another all-GSC halfback, C. J. Alexander. In experience, in capacities of personnel and in general potential, the Lions and the Bulldogs look just about equal.

Northwestern has the most experienced squad in the circuit, with 23 letter winners on hand. Biggest problem facing the Demon coaching staff will be replacing fullback Charley Tolar, a two-year all-GSC choice who passed up his last collegiate year for a fling with the professionals.

SLI, McNeese and Northeast are listed among the conference's "have nots", with SLI expected to show the greater amount of improvement.

Coach Jim Hoggatt has rounded up an impressive squad of transfers and freshmen, and his starting lineup this fall is apt to number eight or nine new faces.

At McNeese, Coach Les DeVall has only seven seniors on his squad, so the Pokes will be building for the future.

At Northeast, Coach Jack Rowan lost 26 men from his 1958 squad, and he, too, will be engaged in a major rebuilding job.

Here is the result of the coaches' balloting, based on five points for a first place vote, four for second, three for third, etc.:

(First Place votes in Parentheses)

1.	Louisiana Tech (4)x	22
2.	Southeastern (2)x	21
3.	Northwestern (1)x	17
4.	SLI (1)	11
5.	McNeese	10
6.	Northeast	9

EL PASO OPEN

Ford, Vossler Take Command

EL PASO (AP) — Doug Ford, the first round leader, and Ernie Vossler, moving up from 10th with a four-under-par 68, tied for the lead Saturday as the 72-hole $20,000 El Paso Open Golf Tournament reached the three-quarter mark.

Each had 207 after 54 holes. Ford, from Crystal River, Fla., made it with a 71 adter starting the third round over the par 37-35—72 El Paso Country Club Course one stroke off the pace.

Marty Furgol of Coghill, Ill., finished within one stroke of the leaders with a 66, the day's hottest round.

Vossler, a stocky young pro from Midland, Tex., leaped up as the two halfway leaders, Bob Goetz of Tulsa and local pro Iverson Martin, tumbled.

Goetz, after a course record 64 Friday, blew to a 79 for a 214 total. And Martin had four three-putt greens for a 75 and a 210 total.

Southwestern Defense Beats Millsaps, 7-6

MEMPHIS (UPI)—Southwestern of Memphis rallied for three goal line stands Saturday to edge Millsaps College of Jackson, Miss., 7-6 in the season's opener for both squads.

All the scoring came in the second period. Southwestern tallied on a 67-yard pass from quarterback Robert Echols to halfback Tommy Clinton. Mike Truscott kicked the decisive extra point.

Millsaps then went on a long march, climaxed when quarterback Freddie Marrett plunged over from the one-foot line.

But it was goal line stands that told the story. Southwestern held three times inside the 10.

In the first period, Billy Landers recovered a fumble on the four-yard line. In the third period, it was first down and five yards to go and Southwestern held for four thrusts. Then, with six minutes left to play, Southwestern gobbled up another fumble on the Lynx one to end the scoring threats.

Battle Dance Albany Winner

ALBANY, Calif. (AP)—The veteran Battle Dance outgamed Caronat in the stretch Saturday and won the $11,050 Albany Handicap by a neck at Golden Gate Fields.

Stoker was third in the 6-furlong event, run in 1:10.

Battle Dance paid $21.70.

ALMOST PULL IT OUT

Sox Must Wait For Flag; Tigers Win 5-4 Decision

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—Already waiting 40 years, the Chicago White Sox will have to wait at least one more day before clinching the American League pennant as they lost to the Detroit Tigers 5-4 before 17,287 Saturday.

The White Sox nearly overcame the Tigers with two out in the ninth when pinco sitter Norm Cass belted a two-run homer.

Thus Cleveland, playing a night game at Kansas City, remained five games behind the White Sox. The magic number also stayed at two—any combination of Chicago victories and Cleveland defeats clincher.

Detroit's Paul Foytack scattered 12 Chicago hits and notched his 14th victory. The White Sox used four hurlers — starter Dick Donovan who suffered his 10th setback against nine victories, Barry Latman, Ray Moore and Gerry Staley.

It was a close, if ragged game until the eighth when the Tigers sewed it up with a pair of singles by Foytack and Eddie Yost and Harvey Kuenn's two-run double against Staley.

Until the eighth, Staley had yielded only two hits in three previous scoreless innings.

Foytack held the White Sox scoreless from their two-run third until Nellie Fox' two-out single in the ninth which preceded Cash's homer. Ray Narleski replaced Foytack after Cash' blow and faced one batter, getting Ted Kluszewski to foul out to end the game.

Detroit took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on singles by Yost and Gail Harris, a force play and Al Kaline's sacrifice fly.

The Tigers made it 3-0 with a pair of unearned runs in the third.

After hitting a batter and being victim of a bobble at third, starter Donovan was replaced by Latman. Kaline greeted Latman with a single, but a Tiger runner was nailed at the plate on Al Smith's good throw.

Latman walked the next two men, forcing across a run. Lou Berberet's sacrifice fly scored the second run of the third.

The White Sox came back with a brace in the bottom of the third, one unearned. Fox led off with a double and moved to third when the first baseman bobbled Billy Goodman's bounder. Fox scored on a wild pitch by Foytack. After Kluszewski's pop single, Goodman scored when Sherm Lollar hit into a force play.

The Sox collected four hits in the third, but lost a run because of poor base running. Smith and Jim Rivera slammed singles, but Lollar retreated after faking a try for home from third on Rivera's hit and Smith was trapped between second and third.

Gamble Fails As Stanford Loses, 28-27

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Halfback Dave Grayson batted down a pass in the end zone to save Oregon's 28-27 victory over Stanford Saturday as the Indians gambled and lost on a two-point conversion try after a last-minute touchdown.

Stanford scored on an 11-yard pass from Dick Norman to Ben Robinson and then snubbed a chance for a tie, trying a two-point pass instead of a one-point kick in the conversion attempt.

Quarterback Dave Grosz kept Oregon chugging, passing for two touchdowns, plunging for another and passing for the Ducks final clinching two-points in the third period.

Stanford, scoring in every quarter, put together a pair of drives in the fourth period, both led by Norman. The first fell short on the Oregon 3, but Norman then took the Indians 50 yards on nine plays, 34 by air, for the TD that made it close.

Middies Defeat Boston College

By BOB HOOBING

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Navy unveiled the "22 Skidoo" plan for a 24-8 football victory over stubborn Boston College Saturday as home-bred halfbacks Dick Pariseau and Joe Bellino delivered the knockout blows.

Pariseau, a senior from Attleboro, Mass., scored touchdowns on a stumbling six-yard slant and a sparkling 80-yard punt runback behind superb blocking.

Bellino, Winchester, Mass., junior, displayed his superior talents as a broken field runner with an eye - opening 50 - yard change-of-pace gallop in the third period.

Navy, making its debut under Coach Wayne Hardin, presented a team of finesse rather than power as displayed on its clever 91-yard drive for the opening score in the first period.

True to his promise, Hardin alternated his two "starting units" of equally distributed talent tabbed the "22 Skidoo." Halway through the drive a fresh unit was inserted except for quarterback Joe Tranchini who engineered the entire tour.

On the first play with the fresh troops, Tranchini was hurled for an 11-year loss back to his 33 before Bellino broke loose on the key play. The 185-pounder, playing wingback right in a winged-T setup came around on a reverse to pick up 36 yards in another darting sprint.

Tranchini, the Clairton, Pa., senior nicknamed "Trigger" by his mates, completed five passes for 46 of a 52-yard advance late in the third quarter, capping it with a nine-yard toss to Tom Albershart.

Pitt Squeezes By Marquette In Near Upset

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Pittsburgh capitalized on a pass interception and a blocked punt Saturday to defeat revitalized Marquette, 21-15.

A Marquette passing attack of quarterback Pete Hall to end Larry Hubbard almost unset the favored Panthers. But Pitt full back Jim Cunningham intercepted a Hall pass to run 53 yards for a third period touchdown. End Mike Ditka blocked Hall's fourth period punt and then scored his second touchdown of the game on quarterback Ivan Toncic's five-yard pass.

Halfback Jim Webster had put underdog Marquette momentarily ahead, 15-13, in the fourth period when he recovered a Pitt fumble on the 16 and kicked a 27-yard field goal.

The showing of Hall was an encouraging one for Coach Liz Blackbourn, returning to Marquette after an absence of five years, four of them as coach of the Green Bay Packers. The Warriors had won only two games in three years under Coach John Druze.

Hall completed 22 of 43 passes for 273 yards, one of them going 30 yards to Hubbard, who made a juggling catch for the first touchdown. Hall scored the second Marquette touchdown himself after a series of passes to Hubbard put the Warriors on the Pitt 5-yard line, from where he went over on an end run.

The first Pittsburgh touchdown broke a scoreless tie at the start of the second half. The Panthers moved the ball from their 5 on the kickoff to the Marquette goal line in five plays, with Ditka taking a 26 - yard touchdown pass from Toncic.

Guard Norton Seaman's conversion attempt missed on the first Pitt score, but he booted it good after Cunningham's intereception and touchdown. Both of Maquette's extra point tries were blocked to leave the score 13-12 in favor of Pitt after the third quarter.

After Webster's field goal gave Marquette hopes of an upset, Hall was deep in his own territory punting when the highly-touted Ditka knocked down his kick. Following Ditka's score, the Panthers added a two-point conversion on Toncic's pass to halfback John Yaccino.

Score by Periods

Marquette	0	0	12	3—15
Pittsburgh	0	0	13	8—21

Scoring Summary:

Pittsburgh — Ditka 26 pass from Toncic (kick failed), Cunningham 53 pass interception (Seaman kick), Ditka 5 pass from Toncic (Yaccino pass from Toncic)

Marquette — Hubbard 30 pass from Hall (kick blocked), Hall 5 run (kick blocked), GF Webster 27.

Miss U.S. I Leads Way In Cup Regatta

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roaring Miss U.S. I—with favored Maverick spilled out of contention — captured two heats Saturday and led six big hydroplane into the final run of the President's Cup Regatta on the placid Potomac River.

Miss U.S. I, the defender owned by George Sinon of Detroit and piloted by Don Wilson, set one record and bettered another in the opening runs which saw three entries beached.

Maverick, leading boat on the 1959 hydro circuit, overturned during the first 15-mile heat of the afternoon and was knocked out of the regatta. Veteran driver Bill Stead came out of the spill with no serious injuries. Maverick herself apparently escaped major damage.

Miss U.S. I thundered to a 15-mile heat record for the annual classic. She averaged 109.311 for the second 5-lap spin, bettering the 1957 rate of 107.827 set by Hawaii Kai III.

Hawaii Kai, owned by Joe Mascari of New York and driven by Ron Musson, burned out a piston in the first heat this time and was beached. Miss Bardahl, throttled along by Bill Brow for Seattle's Ole Bardahl, also was hauled back to the pits for good with a snapped rod. Like Maverick and Kai, Miss Bardahl will miss Sunday's closing heat.

The other five that made Sunday's final are Wahoo, piloted by Miro Slovak for Bill Boeing Jr. of Seattle; Miss Detroit, owned and driven by Chuck Thompson of Detroit; Miss Buffalo, driven by Bob Schroeder for a Buffalo, N.Y., group; Kol-Roy, Bob Gilliam's Seattle boat, and Nitrogen, handled by Norm Evans for Samuel du Pont of Wilmington, Del.

Ouachita Places Tickets On Sale

The Ouachita Parish High Lions put tickets for Friday night's game with the Ruston Bearcats on sale here tomorrow morning.

Ruston, after impressive victories over Minden and Springhill, will be giving Coach Bob Ellen's Lions their first home game of the season. The Lions opened their season at Jonesboro Friday night with a 26-13 triumph over Jonesboro - Hodge.

Coach Ellen said tickets for the Ruston game may be obtained at the OPHS office during school hours.

Irish Cousin's Stretch Effort Cops Winn Run

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Irish Cousin, dead last through the first half of the race, put on a stretch drive fast enough to win the $10,000-added Matt Winn Stakes at Latonia Saturday.

Jockey George Heltinger held Irish Cousin off the pace before giving the 3-year-old mare free rein. The winner had nearly a length over second finisher Bob Adams.

Bob Adams was placed fourth after a foul claim was upheld, moving Cis Sunglow to second and Tulsa Lad to third.

Irish Cousin, owned by Leslie Combs II of Lexington, Ky., covered the 6½ furlongs in 1:44 and paid $8.20.

Weatherwise Wins Futurity At Aqueduct

NEW YORK (AP) — Greentree Stable's Weatherwise, with Eddie Arcaro up, came slashing down the middle of the track Saturday with an overwhelming stretch run and captured the $143,220 Futurity Stakes for 2-year-olds before a crowd of 47,412 at new Aqueduct.

Weatherwise, a son of the great Tom Fool, who won the 1951 Futurity down the Belmont Park straight course, scored by 1½ lengths over George D. Widener's Udaipur. All Hands got third money by a head over A. J. Ostriker's Catapult in the field of 12.

This was the first time the famed race, inaugurated in 1888 at the old Sheepshead Bay track, had been raced at Aqueduct, the plush 33 million dollar layout which opened Monday. It also was the first time it was run around a turn since 1914 at Saratoga. Since 1915, it was run down the Belmont straightaway.

Winning the Futurity was no novelty for Arcaro, who scored with Our Boots in 1940, for the Greentree Stable and its trainer, John Gaver. Greentree, owned by John Hay Whitney, U.S. ambassador to Britain, and his sister, Mrs. Charles S. Payson, won with Guillotine in 1949 and with Tom Fool. Arcaro also won the race with First Flight (1946), Battlefield (1950), Nashua (1954) and Bold Ruler (1956).

Weatherwise, third choice in the wagering, came from seventh place to collect first money of $68,470.50 and was clocked in 1:18 3-5 for the 6½ furlongs on a fast track.

The winner returned $9.80, $5.50 and $4.30. Udaipur, the favorite, paid $5.00 and $3.60, and All Hands, an 11-1 shot, was $6.50 to show.

Sebring Race To Determine Racing Champ

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — This small, sports car-crazy town plunged busily Saturday into preparations for a race in which the world driving championship will be decided for the first time in this country.

All rumors about cancellation of the first Grand Prix of the United States, to be run Dec. 12, were dispelled by Director Alec Ulmann.

The race not only will be run, Ulmann said, but it will decide a three-way battle for the world championship between Jack Brabham of Australia and Stirling Moss and Tony Brooks of England.

For a time, it appeared the championship would be decided before the Sebring race. For that reason, Europeans had shown little interest in the American event and there had been a prospect it would be cancelled.

Moss changd the situation drastically by winning the Grand Prix of Italy last weekend while Brabham finished third.

Moss, four-time runner-up for the world title, can win his first championship if he takes the Sebring race and Brabham finishes third or worse. Brooks also still is in the running.

Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif. finish second in the world competition with a front-running performance at Sebring. This would be closer than any American has ever come to the throne.

Mike Hawthorn of England won the championship last year Hawthorn, who had many narrow escapes in accidents, then retired, but was killed a month later when his Jaguar crashed into a tree.

Reginald S. Smith, Sebring race secretary, has gone to Europe to complete details for the first U.S. appearance of the European Grand Prix teams.

The 12-hour race run at Sebring each March is part of a different series in which points are awarded to the automobile manufacturers rather than the drivers.

Ulmann said the Dec. 12 race is tentatively scheduled to start at 2 p.m. and will be run at a distance of about 250 miles. The European teams and cars will arrive Dec. 7.

Washington Tips Buffalos

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Washington combined speed and a superior line with Colorado miscues for a 21-12 victory over the Buffaloes in Saturday's football opener.

The Huskies' last touchdown was a gift in the third period. The Colorado receiver let an onside kick roll into the end zone and walked away, apparently thinking it was an automatic touchback. An alert Washington guard, Chuck Allen, ran half the length of the fielda nd pounced on it for a touchdown.

Washington showed a great ground game in the speed of halfback Carver Gayton and the running of backs George Fleming and Ray Jackson.

The Huskies scored first in the opening period with quarterback Bob Hivner passing 19 yards to Fleming in the end zone.

The Huskies wrapped it up in the third period with a drive featuring the 160-pound Gayton, who went over from the 6 for the score.

TECH, SOUTHEASTERN

Two Team Race Expected In Gulf States Conference

LAKE CHARLES, (Special) — The Gulf States conference opens its football campaign this fall, and the coaches are expecting a two-team race for the championship.

A pre-season poll of the circuit's six coaches left Louisiana Tech and Southeastern practically co-favorites, with Northwestern's Demons not far behind.

Louisiana Tech polled three of a total of five possible first place votes (the coaches did not vote on their own teams), and wound up with 22 points.

One coach picked the circuit to wind up in a three-way tie involving Louisiana Tech, Southeastern and Northwestern. SLI and Southeastern earned the other two first-place votes.

As a result of the placings, based on five points for first place, four for second, three for third, etc., Southeastern wound up with 21 points, only one less than Tech.

Northwestern had 17, good enough for third place by a comfortable margin.

Louisiana Tech, which was a co-champion in the GSG last year with Northwestern, has 18 lettermen on hand, including an experienced candidate for every post except quarterback.

Top backfield performers are halfback Paul Hynes, an all-GSC choice last year, and Max Rudd, a strong-running bullback.

Northwestern has the most experienced squad in the circuit, with 23 letter winners on hand. Biggest problem facing the Demon coaching staff will be replacing fullback Charley Tolar, a two-year all-GSC choice who passed up his last collegiate year for a fling with the professionals.

SLI, McNeese and Northeast are listed among the conference's "have nots", with SLI expected to show the greater amount of improvement.

FOR THREE-WAY TIE

Giles Releases Playoff Format

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—National League President Warren Giles announced Saturday a format for a playoff series in the event Milwaukee, San Francisco and Los Angeles finish in a three-way tie for first place.

Giles quoted National League rule No. 14.1, paragraph (B) which states "that in the event of a three-way tie, the league president shall arrange a playoff series to start as soon as is physically possible, to be played on the home grounds of the three clubs."

The rule further states that "a team would be eliminated after two losses and that the president is directed to draw lots as a result of which the three clubs would be designated by number—one, two and three."

Giles in this case, for purposes of illustration, designated San Francisco as team number one; Los Angeles as team number two and Milwaukee as team number three.

"The rule states that teams one (San Francisco) and two (Los Angeles) play one game on the home grounds of team number one . . . that teams two (Los Angeles) and three (Milwaukee) play on the home grounds of team number two . . . then teams three (Milwaukee) and one (San Francisco) play on the home grounds of team number three."

At this point, two possibilities could exist. One team could have been eliminated, or all three teams could have won one and lost one. If one team has been eliminated, Giles pointed out, then he would draw lots to determine which of the two clubs still in contention shall be the home club.

If all three still are "alive" after the first round, lots again will be drawn and each team designated by number once again. The playoff will proceed then in the same order with team number one meeting team number two on the home grounds of team number one etc.

For the fifth and decisive game, which will be played between team number three and the winner of the game between team number one and team number two, Giles again will draw lots to determine the playing site.

"We went through this in 1956," Giles pointed out, "and almost had the first three-way tie in the history of the major leagues."

In that race, the Dodgers, Braves and Cincinnati Reds went down to the final week-end of the season before the race was decided, the Dodgers winning and going on to meet the New York Yankees in the World Series.

West Chester Springs Upset On Villanova

VILLANOVA, Pa. (UPI)—West Chester State Teachers, long a giant among the little fellows, showed its right to play with the men with a stunning 13-7 victory over heavily-favored Villanova before 14,000 fans Saturday.

The underdog Rams, who lost a similar opener to Villanova one year ago and then went on to win nine straight, scored twice in the second period and held on to check Villanova conclusively except for one scoring sortie in the final period.

The Teachers, spoiling the opening of Villanova's 66th season, countered on a surprise three-yard pass over center by quarterback Tad Kowal to end Ken Campbell with four minutes played in the second period. They scored again with two minutes left in the half on a five-yard bolt by halfback Bill Shockley over the center of Villanova's 206-pound line.

Villanova, though out - gaining the winners 234 to 108 yards could not reach the end zone until only seven minutes remained. Then, Bill Paczkowski went over from the five to top a 78-yard scoring drive, which took 15 plays.

Porkers Pick Up Yardage

Arkansas Races Past Tulsa, 28-0

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The Razorbacks of Arkansas smothered the University of Tulsa Golden Hurricane, 28-0, Saturday behind the hard-running of Jim Mooty and Jim Monroe, who figured in all the scoring.

The Razorbacks caught the Tulsans butter-fingered and wrapped up the game in the first half with three quick touchdowns. Mooty scored the first touchdown and quarterback Monroe went across for two others and was on the firing end of a 23-yard touchdown pass to end Steve Butler.

Mooty's 40-yard broken field run on Arkansas' way to its fourth and last touchdown in the third quarter was the best piece of running in a game characterized by short Razorback ground jabs and late, frantic aerial attempts by the Tulsans.

The Hurricane's touted passer, quarterback Jerry Keeling, found the airlanes blocked. The Razorbacks themselves took to the airlanes only enough to keep Tulsa off guard.

Mooty made his touchdown on a six-yard run with the game only a little more than 10 minutes old. The Razorbacks continued their onslaught, making the most of Tulsa's numerous fumbles.

The Razorbacks' first three touchdowns were triggered after Tulsa had lost the ball on fumbles.

Monroe scored his touchdowns on runs of six and 14 yards.

DUCK HUNTERS

Rules Announced For Black Bayou

Duck hunters must observe all rules and regulations on Black Bayou during the 1959-60 duck season, Columbia Carbon Co. announced yesterday.

In addition, the company announced that rules and regulations contained in a printed pamphlet issued by Columbia Carbon Co. will be strickly enforced.

Duck hunting on Black Bayou has been limited until 1 p.m. in order that fishermen may use the lakes during the afternoon.

In preparing for the coming season, Columbia Carbon announced three new conditions which must be met by November 16 by duck hunters.

The conditions are as follows:

"1. Work must be done on each blind now in existance of sufficient extent to plainly indicate that the blind will be used during the coming season. This requires full brushing and needed structural repairs. Just a token brushing will not be sufficient. This work must be done on or before November 16.

"2. All blinds must be registered by signing the 1959 list which will be placed at Payne's Boat Dock, Oliver Boat Dock and the Company's Monroe Office on November 1. Should more than one person share any location all names must show under the appropriate blind number with the telephone number and - or address. Should the registered name or names be different from last year, it will be necessary to show evidence of sale or transfer if such evidence is not already on file in the Company's Monroe office. This must be done on - or before November 16.

"3. The names of all interested parties in any blind location along with the number of the blind must be shown on a placard which is accessible to our inspection. This is suggested in the printed regulations, but has not been completely followed. This must be done on or before November 16."

Inspection of blinds will begin November 16, Columbia Carbon said, "Failure to comply with all three conditions along with the general regulations in our printed pamphlet will result in the loss of the location to the present holders."

Unless regulations are followed, the company will take possession of the blind and will burn or otherwise destroy any blind that is less than 200 yards from the nearest active blind.

On forfieted blinds that meet the 200 -yard requirement, the company will handle such locations to the benefit of other area sportsmen.

Stock Cars, Bugs To Run At Speedway

The Twin City Speedway rolls out stock cars and "bugs" for an afternoon of automobile racing today, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

Rain washed out the races last week, giving the track a rest and the men who risk their necks more time to get their cars in top shape for today's chases.

Little "Red" Futch has put a new motor in his bug and vows he will out-run all competition today, including Ellis Palasini's "Black Widow" out of Jackson, Miss.

More bugs are expected to compete today than usual, track owner Oliver Cloyd reported, and the Spencer racing fraternity is coming in with new machines.

Time trials, heat races, trophy dashes, and feature events for all classes will be offered on the day's program.

SCORE IN FIRST HALF

Ga. Tech Edges Kentucky, 14-12

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Georgia's Tech's Engineers romped for two first half touchdowns Saturday night, then hung on against the ferocious gambling of Kentucky's Wildcats for a 14-12 Southeastern Conference football victory.

Completely dominant in the first half, Tech looked like a real power. But the second half was an entirely different story. Kentucky threw caution to the winds.

Third string quarterback Lowell Huges set off a surprising explosion with a fourth down pass deep in his own territory. It connected with end Tom Rodgers for 23 yards and a first down on the Tech 48. That was the key to the first Wildcat touchdown and 2½ minutes later the home forces scored again with the aid of a recovered fumble.

But both times passes for two-point conversions failed.

Both Georgia Tech touchdowns came in the first quarter, the first on a 26-yard pass from Fred Braselton to Butch Carter and the second on an 11-yard off tackle smash by Floyd Faucette.

The vital conversion point came from the accurate toe of Tommy Wells.

Kentucky's first score was a 2-yard sprint around right end by Calvin Bird, capping a 75-yard drive in 17 plays. Four of those plays were pass completions by Hughes. It was only a minute later that Ronnie Cain dropped on a Tech fumble at the Kentucky 31 and the Wildcats needed only four plays to score, Charlie Sturgeon sprinting through a hole at tackle for 21 yards and the TD.

A lot of effective tackling by fullback Taz Anderson and 212-pound center Maxie Baughan were major factors in choking off Kentucky's final drive.

For the Wildcats, it was the cooly courageous signal calling of Hughes that turned what had been a rout into a breath-taking scrap for the partisan home crowd of 35,000. Hughes took control after Jerry Elsaman was sidelined by an injury late in the second quarter.

Season Tickets Placed On Sale At Grambling

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — Tickets for the four 1959 home games were placed on sale today, according to W. E. McNeal, Grambling College business manager.

Several major problems in connection with student seating for the much - heralded Grambling-Southern renewal clash, Saturday, October 3, at which a turnout of over 20,000 persons is expected caused the delay in making the ducats available to the public, McNeal said. Arrangements for this game would have to apply for the other three games to avoid public confusion.

Home games slated, dates, kick-off time, and prices for each are: Texas College, Saturday, September 26, 7:30 p.m., $1.50; Southern University, Saturday, October 3, 7:30 p.m., $2.00; Texas Southern University, Saturday, November 7 (Homecoming), 2:00 p.m., $2.00 and Mississippi Vocational College, Saturday, November 21, 2:00 p.m., $1.50.

McNeal advised that tickets are available from U. G. Mathis, business office, Grambling College, Grambling, La., by cashier's check or money order. He also stated that season books for all four games are available at the reduced price of $5.50, and that any and all tickets will be rushed to buyers by certified mail.

Berra Breaks Down During 'Day' Speech

NEW YORK (AP)—Yogi Berra, veteran catcher of the New York Yankees, broke down and cried Saturday as he tried to make an acceptance speech on his "day" here.

The stumpy little man, who has played on 10 pennant winners in his 13 seasons, finished in tears of gratitude.

Berra received a total of 58 separate gifts for himself, wife and children and a truck was required to bring most of them to home plate. In addition to furniture, color TV and other portable objects, he was presented with a swimming pool and air trips to Italy and Bermuda.

The Yankee management gave the star a new station wagon.

In addition, a $4,000 Yogi Berra Scholarship at Columbia University was set up with monies donated by fans. The winner of this was Jim Clevin, 19-year-old Lynbrook, L.I. High School student. Clevin is a top student, a star athlete and president of the senior class.

Berra said, his voice breaking: "On behalf of myself and my family, I want to thank you. Not for the gifts but for showing up. I'm grateful to the wonderful organization, the Yankees, and to my many friends. God bless you all."

Manager Casey Stengel, in a short talk, praised Berra. "Outside of DiMaggio (Joe, who was present), the man behind the plate, Berra, is the greatest player that I ever had to manage which is a great thing to enhance my career," he said.

Berra has caught the most World Series games, 61, and has the most hits, 61. He hit the first Series pinch homer in 1947 and has hit 303 homers, tops for a major league catcher.

Golden Notes Equals Record In Midwest 'Cap

CHICAGO (AP)—Golden Notes, 5-year-old gelding owned by the King Ranch, equalled the world record for 6½ furlongs Saturday while winning the $28,400 Midwest Handicap at Hawthorne.

Golden Notes, ridden by Lois C. Cook, was timed in 1:14 4-5 while sharing top weight of 124 pounds with Alhambrt. The record for the distance was set last February 11 at Turf Paradise, Phoenix, by Tyhawk, a Canadian-bred 4-year-old who was carrying 117 pounds.

Golden Notes came up between Alhambra and Alarullah, who took turns setting the pace, at the finish Alarullah was second with Alhambra third.

Alhambra led at the first quarter in 22 seconds and at the half in 44 4-5. Alarullah was ahead at 6 furlongs, in 1:09.

Golden Notes paid $4 as the favorite and earned $19,300.

TITLE BOUT

Zybysko Fights Belkas Monday

Ex-champion Firpo Zybysko tries to wrestle back the Louisiana title Monday night at B&B Arena when he takes on the present titleholder, Chris Belkas.

This main event heads a three-bout card that also features matches between Bill Barney and the Black Panther and Big Humphrey and Little Zybysko.

Firpo Zybysko says "I lost the title to Belkas by a very narrow margin and feel I can win it back easily."

The confident Zybysko and the grim Belkas will tangle over the hour-or-less route with two falls to win.

Barney and the Black Panther battled to a 45-minute draw two weeks ago in a bout that had the fans in an uproar with most of their ire directed at the Panther and the referee.

The Panther put on one of the roughest shows seen here in some time, working Barney over with fists and any other handy weapon.

Humphrey took exception to Little "Brain" Zybysko's officiating last week, complaining of a fast count. He challenged the Brain and Zybysko, after some hesitation, accepted.

Their bout will go 20 minutes with one fall to win. The Barney-Panther bout is slated for 45 minutes and two falls.

Georgia Takes SEC Upset Over Crimson Tide, 17 To 3

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Sophomore fullback Bill Godfrey's 40-yard touchdown romp in the second period Saturday paced Georgia to a 17-3 opening game triumph over Alabama in a mild Southeastern Conference upset before 40,000 fans.

Godfrey's running and the passing of Bulldog quarterback Francis Tarkenton delighted the Georgia fans and spoiled the start of 'Bama's expected resurgence under Head Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant. Tarkenton completed seven of eight passes and set up Georgia's final touchdown with a 19 - yard gallop to the Tide's fine-yard line in the last period. He then sneaked for the score two plays later.

With a 3-0 lead, Georgia broke Godfrey loose through the middle of the Bama line in the second period and he whirled away from would-be tacklers, cutting to the sidelines. With a key block by halfback Don Soberdash, Godfrey went for the touchdown on the day's longest run.

The Bulldogs drew first blood on a 35-yard field goal midway through the first period by sophomore end Duwood Pennington who also kicked the conversion points after both touchdowns.

Alabama set up the Georgia field goal when quarterback Laurien Stapp quick kicked only 15 yards to the Crimson Tide 23.

The Bulldogs took over on their 20 early in the second period and marched 80 yards to score with 29 of the yards coming on two passes from Tarkenton to end Gordon Kelley and the last 40 on Godfry's run

Alabama fired up after halftime, drove 66 yards to the Georgia five. The Bulldogs halted the march on their five - yard line but senior tackle Fred Sington kicked a 23-yard field goal to cut the Georgia lead to 10-3.

Sophomore end Bill Rice recovered a Georgia fumble on the Bulldog 30 - yard line on the ensuing kickoff and the Tide quickly moved to the Georgia 17. However, a 15 - yard clipping penalty — the first penalty of the game — killed the Alabama threat.

Yankees Tumble Sox Behind Ford

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP) — A four-hit pitching performance by Whitey Ford and the hitting of Marv Throneberry gave the New York Yankees a 3-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday in a game honoring veteran Yankee catcher Yogi Berra.

Berra, who accepted a truck load of expensive gifts with tears in his eyes, didn't get a hit but he received fine support from his teammates. Throneberry blasted a home run and two singles while Bobby Richardson knocked in two runs with a single which extended his hitting streak to 13 games.

Ford had a one-hitter going until the eighth inning when the Red Sox scored their single run on two hits and an error.

Jerry Mallett, a rookie playing in his first game, singled to left, went to second when Richardson dropped a throw and scored on a single by Don Buddin.

Throneberry's homer, his eighth, led off the third inning for the Yanks. Richardson's blow came in fifth, scoring Hector Lopez and Throneberry.

Leo Kiely, who replaced losing Red Sox starter Bill Monbouquette starting the sixth, was hit in the face by a ball which caromed off his glove in the seventh. He was replaced by Al Schroll.

A checkup later revealed Kiely suffered only a bruised cheek and black eye.

Lucas Sparks Penn State To 19-8 Triumph

COLUMBIA, Mo. — (UPI) — The passing wizardry of Richie Lucas that scored one touchdown and set up two others here Saturday carried Penn State to a 19-8 victory over Missouri.

Lucas, a senior quarterback, completed 10 out of 11 passes for 154 yards and picked up an additional 58 yards on six carries. His ball-handling magic and Penn State's wing-T with a man in motion often sent halfbacks Jim Kerr and Dick Hoak off on long gains on pitchouts.

Missouri's heralded mutiple offense was not much in evidence as the Tigers stuck pretty close to the straight and wing - T, although they did sprout a "lonesome end" on occasion.

Missouri's only score, however, came on the only bit of razzle-dazzle they tried, with halfback Donnie Smith passing off a reverse to end Russ Sloan in the end zone from nine yards out.

But that score came in the final 4 minutes of the game after Penn State had moved to a 19-0 lead with first, third and fourth-period touchdowns.

Hoak ran one yard for the first score to climax an 80-yard drive in 20 plays when the game was 10 minutes old.

The Nittany Lions opened the second half by scoring in three plays after the kickoff when the Lucas to Kerr passing combination was good for 52 yards and the touchdown. Fullback Pat Botula plunged over from the 2 in the final period after a 65-yard drive in 12 plays.

End Henry Opperman converted after the first touchdown, but failed on the second. A rushing try failed to make two points after the last score.

Quarterback Phil Snowden hit end Danny Larose with a two-point pass after Missouri's score.

Missouri twice lost the ball on pass interceptions and once on a fumble, as they failed to move the ball well against the solid Penn State defense. Outside of their lone touchdown only once did the Tigers penetrate the Penn State 30-yard line.

Lucas hit passers for 9 and 8 yards and ran once for 18 yards in the first touchdown drive, and hit passes for 13, 12, 14 and 13 yards in the final scoring drive.

Score By Periods
Missouri	0	0	0	8—	8
Penn State	7	0	6	6—	19

Scoring Summary:

Penn State — Hoak 1 run (Opperman kick), Kerr 52 pass from Lucas (kick failed), Botula 2 run (run failed).

Missouri — Sloan 9 pass from Smith (Larose pass from Snowden).

Holmburg Upsets Ham Richardson At Tuscaloosa

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Ron Holmburg, Southeastern Conference tennis champion and a sure contender for the next U. S. Davis Cup team, upset top-ranked Ham Richardson, 6-1, 6-3, Saturday in the semi - finals of the first annual Tuscaloosa Grass Court Invitational Tennis Tournament.

Dick Savitt, former Wimbledon and U. S. champion, defeated Earl Buckholz, 6-3, 6-2, in the other semi-finals match to earn the right to meet Holmburg in the singles finals here Sunday.

In doubles semi-final matches, Richardson and Buckholz teamed up to whip Whiteney Reed, U. S. Intercollegiate champ, and John Powless, tennis coach at Florida State University, 1-6, 9-7, 13-11.

Holmburg and Gardnar Mulloy, former Wimbledon and U. S. doubles champ, beat Savitt and Billy Talbert, U. S. Davis Cup champion, 7-5, 6-3, in the other semi-finals doubles match.

Round Table Wins United Nations 'Cap

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Old moneybags Round Table carried top weight of his career to a length and a quarter victory Saturday in the $100,000 United Nations Handicap at Atlantic City race track.

The world's richest horse, packing 136 pounds, gave away from 14 to 22 pounds to his nine rivals in the classy field, but the heavy impost never bothered the classy 5-year-old son of Princequillo.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker, riding set by Jaclyn Stable's Li'l Fella and at the top of the stretch tapped the sturdy horse lightly to gain the lead.

Round Table, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Travis Kerr, Oklahoma oil people, was trailed across the finish line by Crabgrass Stable's Noureddin, Li'l Fella and Mrs. Herbert Herff's Tudor Era.

The winner was timed in 1:55 1 for the mile and 3-16 run over the turf course. The odds-on-favorite, Round Table returned $3.60, $2.50 and $2.20 to his backers in the crowd of 25,528.

The $65,000 winner's share of the purse boosted Round Table's earnings to $1,679,539, a smart return for a $175,000 spur of the moment investment in the horse three years ago.

This was Round Table's 42nd win, 30 of them stakes, in 63 starts and added stock to his claim as 1959 Horse of the Year.

Trainer Willie Molter announced after the race that Round Table had returned in good shape, and plans are to enter him in the Woodward at Aqueduct Sept. 26 in which his main rival for Horse of the Year honors, Hillsdale, also is slated to run.

Jockey Ken Church on Noureddin summed up the race beautifully when he commented:

"I just couldn't beat him. I was able to get through all the way but Round Table is a lot of horse."

Redemptorist, McDonogh Tie

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Redemptorist and McDonogh, each displaying sturdy defensive qualities but lack of offense power, held one another scoreless Saturday night.

Although each side found scoring opportunities, neither could reach paydirt because of fumbles, interceptions and solid defenses.

McDonogh ran far ahead in the statistics, picking up 238 yards on the ground to 136 by Redemptorist.

Novak Steers Maryland To 27-7 Victory

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Dick Novak, a daredevil sophomore quarterback, directed Maryland's three-ring flying circus to an opening 27-7 football victory over West Virginia Saturday.

Novak, a brazen 158-pounder from Uniontown, Pa., carried out Coach Tom Nugent's promise to bring an exciting new grid era to Maryland, which has been in the doldrums for three years.

Novak threw Maryland's three touchdown passes. Two went to second year classmates, and Gary Collins of Williamstown, Pa. and halfback Jim Davidson of Marlton, N.J.

Vince Scott, junior end from Wilmington, Del., brought the field goal back to prominence and became the first Maryland player to boot three in one game. They were all long range — 48, 41 and 31 yards. His longest broke the university's record of 47 yards set in 1953 by Dick Bielski, now of the Philadelphia Eagles.

West Virginia, trying to use its weight advantage, chose to stick mostly down to the ground and rush the ball. The Mountaineers scored in the third quarter, however, with the aid of two completed passes and a 15-yard penalty. Quarterback Carmen Pomponio ran the last three yards.

Pappas Wins 15th As Birds Beat Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young Milt Pappas won his 15th game Saturday, pitching a five-hitter as Baltimore defeated Washington 5-3.

Pappas blanked the Senators on one hit over the last five innings. The 20-year-old right-hander's record now is 15-9.

The Birds rallied for two runs in the seventh on run-scoring singles by Bob Boyd and Brooks Robinson to take a 4-3 lead.

Willie Tasby hit his 13th home run for an extra tally in the ninth as Tex Clevenger took the loss for the Senators.

FOR THREE-WAY TIE

Giles Releases Playoff Format

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—National League President Warren Giles announced Saturday a format for a playoff series in the event Milwaukee, San Francisco and Los Angeles finish in a three-way tie for first place.

Giles quoted National League rule No. 14.1, paragraph 'B' which states "that in the event of a three-way tie, the league president shall arrange a playoff series to start as soon as is physically possible, to be played on the home grounds of the three clubs."

The rule further states that "a team would be eliminated after two losses and that the president is directed to draw lots as a result of which the three clubs would be designated by number—one, two and three."

Giles in this case, for purposes of illustration, designated San Francisco as team number one; Los Angeles as team number two and Milwaukee as team number three.

"The rule states that teams one (San Francisco) and two (Los Angeles) play one game on the home grounds of team number one . . . that teams two (Los Angeles) and three (Milwaukee) play on the home grounds of team number two . . . then teams three (Milwaukee) and one (San Francisco) play on the home grounds of team number three."

At this point, two possibilities could exist. One team could have been eliminated, or all three teams could have won one and lost one. If one team has been eliminated, Giles pointed out, then he would draw lots to determine which of the two clubs still in contention shall be the home club.

If all three still are "alive" after the first round, lots again will be drawn and each team designated by number once again. The playoff will proceed then in the same order with team number one meeting team number two on the home grounds of team number one, etc.

For the fifth and decisive game, which will be played between team number three and the winner of the game between team number one and team number two, Giles again will draw lots to determine the playing site.

"We went through this in 1956," Giles pointed out, "and almost had the first three-way tie in the history of the major leagues."

In that race, the Dodgers, Braves and Cincinnati Reds went down to the final week-end of the season before the race was decided, the Dodgers winning and going on to meet the New York Yankees in the World Series.

West Chester Springs Upset On Villanova

VILLANOVA, Pa. (UPI)—West Chester State Teachers, long a giant among the little fellows, showed its right to play with the men with a stunning 13-7 victory over heavily-favored Villanova before 14,000 fans Saturday.

The underdog Rams, who lost a similar opener to Villanova one year ago and then went on to win nine straight, scored twice in the second period and held on to check Villanova conclusively except for one scoring sortie in the final period.

The Teachers, spoiling the opening of Villanova's 66th season, countered on a surprise three-yard pass over center by quarterback Tad Kowal to end Ken Campbell with four minutes played in the second period. They scored again with two minutes left in the half on a five-yard bolt by halfback Bill Shockley over the center of Villanova's 206-pound line.

Villanova, though out - gaining the winners 234 to 108 yards could not reach the end zone until only seven minutes remained. Then, Bill Paczkowski went over from the five to top a 78-yard scoring drive, which took 15 plays.

Ga. Tech Edges Kentucky, 14-12

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Georgia's Tech's Engineers romped for two first half touchdowns Saturday night, then hung on against the ferocious gambling of Kentucky's Wildcats for a 14-12 Southeastern Conference football victory.

Completely dominant in the first half, Tech looked like a real power. But the second half was an entirely different story. Kentucky threw caution to the winds.

Third string quarterback Lowell Huges set off a surprising explosion with a fourth down pass deep in his own territory. It connected with end Tom Rodgers for 23 yards and a first down on the Tech 48. That was the key to the first Wildcat touchdown and 21 minutes later the home forces scored again with the aid of a recovered fumble.

But both times passes for two-point conversions failed.

Both Georgia Tech touchdowns came in the first quarter, the first on a 26-yard pass from Fred Braselton to Butch Carter and the second on an 11-yard off tackle smash by Floyd Faucette.

The vital conversion point came from the accurate toe of Tommy Wells.

Kentucky's first score was a 2-yard sprint around right end by Calvin Bird, capping a 75-yard drive in 17 plays. Four of those plays were pass completions by Hughes. It was only a minute later that Ronnie Cain dropped on a Tech fumble at the Kentucky 31 and the Wildcats needed only four plays to score. Charlie Sturgeon sprinting through a hole at tackle for 21 yards and the TD.

A lot of effective tackling by fullback Taz Anderson and 212-pound center Maxie Baughan were major factors in choking off Kentucky's final drive.

For the Wildcats, it was the cooly courageous signal calling of Hughes that turned what had been a rout into a breath-taking scrap for the partisan home crowd of 35,000. Hughes took control after Jerry Elsaman was sidelined by an injury late in the second quarter.

Season Tickets Placed On Sale At Grambling

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — Tickets for the four 1959 home games were placed on sale today, according to W. E. McNeal, Grambling College business manager.

Several major problems in connection with student seating for the much - heralded Gramblin-Southern renewal clash, Saturday, October 3, at which a turnout of over 20,000 persons is expected caused the delay in making the ducats available to the public, McNeal said. Arrangements for this game would have to apply for the other three games to avoid public confusion.

Home games slated, dates, kick-off time, and prices for each are: Texas College, Saturday, September 26, 7:30 p.m., $1.50; Southern University, Saturday, October 3, 7:30 p.m., $2.00; Texas Southern University, Saturday, November 7 (Homecoming), 2:00 p.m., $2.00 and Mississippi Vocational College, Saturday, November 21, 2:00 p.m., $1.50.

McNeal advised that tickets are available from U. G. Mathis, business office, Grambling College, Grambling, La., by cashier's check or money order. He also stated that season books for all four games are available at the reduced price of $5.50, and that any and all tickets will be rushed to buyers by certified mail.

Arkansas Races Past Tulsa, 28-0

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The Razorbacks of Arkansas smothered the University of Tulsa Golden Hurricane, 28-0, Saturday behind the hard-running of Jim Mooty and Jim Monroe, who leaped in all the scoring.

The Razorbacks caught the Tulsans butter-fingered and wrapped up the game in the first half with three quick touchdowns. Mooty scored the first touchdown and quarterback Monroe went across for two others and was on the firing end of a 23-yard touchdown pass to end Steve Butler.

Mooty's 40-yard broken field run on Arkansas' way to its fourth and last touchdown in the third quarter was the best piece of running in a game characterized by short Razorback ground jabs and late, frantic aerial attempts by the Tulsans.

The Hurricane's touted passer, quarterback Jerry Keeling, found the airlanes blocked. The Razorbacks themselves took to the airlanes only enough to keep Tulsa off guard.

Mooty made his touchdown on a six-yard run with the game only a little more than 10 minutes old. The Razorbacks continued their onslaught, making the most of Tulsa's numerous fumbles.

The Razorbacks' first three touchdowns were triggered after Tulsa had lost the ball on fumbles.

Monroe scored his touchdowns on runs of six and 14 yards.

Berra Breaks Down During 'Day' Speech

NEW YORK (AP)—Yogi Berra, veteran catcher of the New York Yankees, broke down and cried Saturday as he tried to make an acceptance speech on his "day" here.

The stumpy little man, who has played on 10 pennant winners in his 13 seasons, finished in tears of gratitude.

Berra received a total of 58 separate gifts for himself, wife and children and a truck was required to bring most of them to home plate. In addition to furniture, color TV and other portable objects, he was presented with a swimming pool and air trips to Italy and Bermuda.

The Yankee management gave the star a new station wagon.

In addition, a $4,000 Yogi Berra Scholarship at Columbia University was set up with monies donated by fans. The winner of this was Jim Clevin, 19-year-old Lynbrook, L.I. High School student. Clevin is a top student, a star athlete and president of the senior class.

Berra said, his voice breaking: "On behalf of myself and my family, I want to thank you. Not for the gifts but for showing up. I'm grateful to the wonderful organization, the Yankees, and to my many friends. God bless you all."

Manager Casey Stengel, in a short talk, praised Berra. "Outside of DiMaggio (Joe, who was present), the man behind the plate, Berra, is the greatest player that I ever had to manage which is a great thing to enhance my career," he said.

Berra has caught the most World Series games, 61, and has the most hits, 61. He hit the first Series pinch homer in 1947 and has hit 303 homers, tops for a major league catcher.

DUCK HUNTERS

Rules Announced For Black Bayou

Duck hunters must observe all rules and regulations on Black Bayou during the 1959-60 duck season, Columbia Carbon Co. announced yesterday.

In addition, the company announced that rules and regulations contained in a printed pamphlet issued by Columbia Carbon Co. will be strickly enforced.

Duck hunting on Black Bayou has been limited until 1 p.m. in order that fishermen may use the lakes during the afternoon.

In preparing for the coming season, Columbia Carbon announced three new conditions which must be met by November 16 by duck hunters.

The conditions are as follows:

"1. Work must be done on each blind now in existance of sufficient extent to plainly indicate that the blind will be used during the coming season. This requires full brushing and needed structural repairs. Just a token brushing will not be sufficient. This work must be done on or before November 16.

"2. All blinds must be registered by signing the 1959 list which will be placed at Payne's Boat Dock, Oliver Boat Dock and the Company's Monroe Office on November 1. Should more than one person share any location all names must show under the appropriate blind number with the telephone number and - or address. Should the registered name or names be different from last year, it will be necessary to show evidence of sale or transfer if such evidence is not already on file in the Company's Monroe office. This must be done on - or before November 16.

"3. The names of all interested parties in any blind location along with the number of the blind must be shown on a placard which is accessible to our inspection. This is suggested in the printed regulations, but has not been completely followed. This must be done on or before November 16."

Inspection of blinds will begin November 16, Columbia Carbon said. "Failure to comply with all three conditions along with the general regulations in our printed pamphlet will result in the loss of the location to the present holders."

Unless regulations are followed, the company will take possession of the blind and will burn or otherwise destroy any blind that is less than 200 yards from the nearest active blind.

On fortieted blinds that meet the 200 -yard requirement, the company will handle such locations to the benefit of other area sportsmen.

Stock Cars, Bugs To Run At Speedway

The Twin City Speedway rolls out stock cars and "bugs" for an afternoon of automobile racing today, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

Rain washed out the races last week, giving the track a rest and the men who risk their necks more time to get their cars in top shape for today's chases.

Little "Red" Futch has put a new motor in his bug and vows he will out-run all competition today, including Ellis Palasini's "Black Widow" out of Jackson, Miss.

More bugs are expected to compete today than usual, track owner Oliver Cloyd reported, and the Spencer racing fraternity is coming in with new machines.

Time trials, heat races, trophy dashes, and feature events for all classes will be offered on the day's program.

Golden Notes Equals Record In Midwest 'Cap

CHICAGO (AP)—Golden Notes, 5-year-old gelding owned by the King Ranch, equalled the world record for 6½ furlongs Saturday while winning the $28,400 Midwest Handicap at Hawthorne.

Golden Notes, ridden by Lois C. Cook, was timed in 1:14 4-5 while sharing top weight of 124 pounds with Alhambrt. The record for the distance was set last February 11 at Turf Paradise, Phoenix, by Tyhawk, a Canadian-bred 4-year-old who was carrying 117 pounds.

Golden Notes came up between Alhambra and Alarullah, who took turns setting the pace, at the finish. Alarullah was second with Alhambra third.

Alhambra led at the first quarter in 22 seconds and at the half in 44 4-5. Alarullah was ahead at 6 furlongs, in 1:09.

Golden Notes paid $4 as the favorite and earned $19,300.

TITLE BOUT

Zybysko Fights Belkas Monday

Ex-champion Firpo Zybysko tries to wrestle back the Louisiana title Monday night at B&B Arena when he takes on the present titleholder, Chris Belkas.

This main event heads a three-bout card that also features matches between Bill Barney and the Black Panther and Big Humphrey and Little Zybysko.

Firpo Zybysko says "I lost the title to Belkas by a very narrow margin and feel I can win it back easily."

The confident Zybysko and the grim Belkas will tangle over the hour-or-less route with two falls to win.

Barney and the Black Panther battled to a 45-minute draw two weeks ago in a bout that had the fans in an uproar with most of their ire directed at the Panther and the referee.

The Panther put on one of the roughest shows seen here in some time, working Barney over with fists and any other handy weapon.

Humphrey took exception to Little "Brain" Zybysko's officiating last week, complaining of a fast count. He challenged the Brain and Zybysko, after some hesitation, accepted.

Their bout will go 20 minutes with one fall to win. The Barney-Panther bout is slated for 45 minutes and two falls.

Georgia Takes SEC Upset Over Crimson Tide, 17 To 3

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Sophomore fullback Bill Godfrey's 40-yard touchdown romp in the second period Saturday paced Georgia to a 17-3 opening game triumph over Alabama in a mild Southeastern Conference upset before 40,000 fans.

Godfrey's running and the passing of Bulldog quarterback Francis Tarkenton delighted the Georgia fans and spoiled the start of 'Bama's expected resurgence under Head Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant. Tarkenton completed seven of eight passes and set up Georgia's final touchdown with a 19 - yard gallop to the Tide's fine-yard line in the last period. He then sneaked for the score two plays later.

With a 3-0 lead, Georgia broke Godfrey loose through the middle of the Bama line in the second period and he whirled away from would-be tacklers, cutting to the sidelines. With a key block by halfback Don Soberdash, Godfrey went for the touchdown on the day's longest run.

The Bulldogs drew first blood on a 35-yard field goal midway through the first period by sophomore end Duwood Pennington who also kicked the conversion points after both touchdowns.

Alabama set up the Georgia field goal when quarterback Laurien Stapp quick kicked only 15 yards to the Crimson Tide 23.

The Bulldogs took over on their 20 early in the second period and marched 80 yards to score with 29 of the yards coming on two passes from Tarkenton to end Gordon Kelley and the last 40 on Godfry's run

Alabama fired up after halftime, drove 66 yards to the Georgia five. The Bulldogs halted the march on their five - yard line but senior tackle Fred Sington kicked a 23-yard field goal to cut the Georgia lead to 10-3.

Sophomore end Bill Rice recovered a Georgia fumble on the Bulldog 30 - yard line on the ensuing kickoff and the Tide quickly moved to the Georgia 17. However, a 15 - yard clipping penalty — the first penalty of the game — killed the Alabama threat.

Yankees Tumble Sox Behind Ford

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP) — A four-hit pitching performance by Whitey Ford and the hitting of Marv Throneberry gave the New York Yankees a 3-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday in a game honoring veteran Yankee catcher Yogi Berra.

Berra, who accepted a truck load of expensive gifts with tears in his eyes, didn't get a hit but he received fine support from his teammates. Throneberry blasted a home run and two singles while Bobby Richardson knocked in two runs with a single which extended his hitting streak to 13 games.

Ford had a one-hitter going until the eighth inning when the Red Sox scored their single run on two hits and an error.

Jerry Mallett, a rookie playing in his first game, singled to left, went to second when Richardson dropped a throw and scored on a single by Don Buddin.

Throneberry's homer, his eighth, led off the third inning for the Yanks. Richardson's blow came in fifth, scoring Hector Lopez and Throneberry.

Leo Kiely, who replaced losing Red Sox starter Bill Monbouquette starting the sixth, was hit in the face by a ball which caromed off his glove in the seventh. He was replaced by Al Schroll.

A checkup later revealed Kiely suffered only a bruised cheek and black eye.

Lucas Sparks Penn State To 19-8 Triumph

COLUMBIA, Mo. — (UPI) — The passing wizardry of Richie Lucas that scored one touchdown and set up two others here Saturday carried Penn State to a 19-8 victory over Missouri.

Lucas, a senior quarterback, completed 10 out of 11 passes for 154 yards and picked up an additional 58 yards on six carries. His ball-handling magic and Penn State's wing-T with a man in motion often sent halfbacks Jim Kerr and Dick Hoak off on long gains on pitchouts.

Missouri's heralded multiple offense was not much in evidence as the Tigers stuck pretty close to the straight and wing - T, although they did sprout a "lonesome end" on occasion.

Missouri's only score, however, came on the only bit of razzle-dazzle they tried, with halfback Donnie Smith passing off a reverse to end Russ Sloan in the end zone from nine yards out.

But that score came in the final 4 minutes of the game after Penn State had moved to a 19-0 lead with first, third and fourth-period touchdowns.

Hoak ran one yard for the first score to climax an 80-yard drive in 20 plays when the game was 10 minutes old.

The Nittany Lions opened the second half by scoring in three plays after the kickoff when the Lucas to Kerr passing combination was good for 52 yards and the touchdown. Fullback Pat Botula plunged over from the 2 in the final period after a 65-yard drive in 12 plays.

End Henry Opperman converted after the first touchdown, but failed on the second. A rushing try failed to make two points after the last score.

Quarterback Phil Snowden hit end Danny Larose with a two-point pass after Missouri's score.

Missouri twice lost the ball on pass interceptions and once on a fumble, as they failed to move the ball well against the solid Penn State defense. Outside of their lone touchdown only once did the Tigers penetrate the Penn State 30-yard line.

Lucas hit passers for 9 and 8 yards and ran once for 18 yards in the first touchdown drive, and hit passes for 13, 12, 14 and 13 yards in the final scoring drive.

Penn State — Hoak 1 run (Opperman kick), Kerr 52 pass from Lucas (kick failed), Botula 2 run (run failed).

Holmburg Upsets Ham Richardson At Tuscaloosa

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Ron Holmburg, Southeastern Conference tennis champion and a sure contender for the next U. S. Davis Cup team, upset top-ranked Ham Richardson, 6-1, 6-3, Saturday in the semi - finals of the first annual Tuscaloosa Grass Court Invitational Tennis Tournament.

Dick Savitt, former Wimbledon and U. S. champion, defeated Earl Buckholz, 6-3, 6-2, in the other semi-finals match to earn the right to meet Holmburg in the singles finals here Sunday.

In doubles semi-final matches, Richardson and Buckholz teamed up to whip Whiteney Reed, U. S. Intercollegiate champ, and John Powless, tennis coach at Florida State University, 1-6, 9-7, 13-11.

Holmburg and Gardnar Mulloy, former Wimbledon and U. S. doubles champ, beat Savitt and Billy Talbert, U. S. Davis Cup champion, 7-5, 6-3, in the other semi-finals doubles match.

Round Table Wins United Nations 'Cap

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Old moneybags Round Table carried top weight of his career to a length and a quarter victory Saturday in the $100,000 United Nations Handicap at Atlantic City race track.

The world's richest horse, packing 136 pounds, gave away from 14 to 22 pounds to his nine rivals in the classy field, but the heavy impost never bothered the classy 5-year-old son of Princequillo.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker, riding set by Jaclyn Stable's Li'l Fella and at the top of the stretch tapped the sturdy horse lightly to gain the lead.

Round Table, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Travis Kerr, Oklahoma oil people, was trailed across the finish line by Crabgrass Stable's Noureddin, Li'l Fella and Mrs. Herbert Herff's Tudor Era.

The winner was timed in 1:55 1 for the mile and 3-16 run over the turf course. The odds-on-favorite, Round Table returned $3.60, $2.50 and $2.20 to his backers in the crowd of 25,528.

The $65,000 winner's share of the purse boosted Round Table's earnings to $1,679,539, a smart return for a $175,000 spur of the moment investment in the horse three years ago.

This was Round Table's 42nd win, 30 of them stakes, in 63 starts and added stock to his claim as 1959 Horse of the Year.

Trainer Willie Molter announced after the race that Round Table had returned in good shape, and plans are to enter him in the Woodward at Aqueduct Sept. 26 in which his main rival for Horse of the Year honors, Hillsdale, also is slated to run.

Jockey Ken Church on Noureddin summed up the race beautifully when he commented:

"I just couldn't beat him. I was able to get through all the way but Round Table is a lot of horse."

Redemptorist, McDonogh Tie

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Redemptorist and McDonogh, each displaying sturdy defensive qualities but lack of offense power, held one another scoreless Saturday night.

Although each side found scoring opportunities, neither could reach paydirt because of fumbles, interceptions and solid defenses.

McDonogh ran far ahead in the statistics, picking up 238 yards on the ground to 136 by Redemptorist.

Novak Steers Maryland To 27-7 Victory

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Dick Novak, a daredevil sophomore quarterback, directed Maryland's three-ring flying circus to an opening 27-7 football victory over West Virginia Saturday.

Novak, a brazen 158-pounder from Uniontown, Pa., carried out Coach Tom Nugent's promise to bring an exciting new grid era to Maryland, which has been in the doldrums for three years.

Novak threw Maryland's three touchdown passes. Two went to second year classmates, and Gary Collins of Williamstown, Pa. and halfback Jim Davidson of Marlton, N.J.

Vince Scott, Junior end from Wilmington, Del., brought the field goal back to prominence and became the first Maryland player to boot three in one game. They were all long range — 48, 41 and 31 yards. His longest broke the university's record of 47 yards set in 1953 by Dick Bielski, now of the Philadelphia Eagles.

West Virginia, trying to use its weight advantage, chose to stick mostly down to the ground and rush the ball. The Mountaineers scored in the third quarter, however, with the aid of two completed passes and a 15-yard penalty. Quarterback Carmen Pomponio ran the last three yards.

Pappas Wins 15th As Birds Beat Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young Milt Pappas won his 15th game Saturday, pitching a five-hitter as Baltimore defeated Washington 5-3.

Pappas blanked the Senators on one hit over the last five innings. The 20-year-old right-hander's record now is 15-9.

The Birds rallied for two runs in the seventh on run-scoring singles by Bob Boyd and Brooks Robinson to take a 4-3 lead.

Willie Tasby hit his 13th home run for an extra tally in the ninth as Tex Clevenger took the loss for the Senators.

ATLANTIC COAST BATTLE

Clemson Holds Early Lead To Defeat Carolina, 20-18

By O'NEIL HENDRICK

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (UPI)—Clemson's Tigers mounted a hefty earl lead and made it stand for a 20-18 triumph over North Carolina in a battle of Atlantic Coast Conference co-favorites Saturday by spoiling a two-point conversion try in the last 80 seconds of play.

A crowd of 43,000 fans saw the fast, veteran Tigers explode in quick scoring bursts in the first half against the late Jim Tatum's "team of destiny." Clemson's 7-0 victory over the Tar Heels last year led them to the Sugar Bowl.

The Tar Heels, coached by Tatum's successor, Jim Hickey, came back in the second half to score twice, but Clemson defenders nailed Bob Elliott on the two-yard line in conversion pass play from quarterback Jack Cummings.

Cummings had passed 24 yards to halfback Milam Wall for the first Tar Heel touchdown. Then a series of long Cummings passes to "swinging end" Al Goldstein, a maneuver Tatum contrived, set up the second TD achieved on a four-yard smash by Wall.

Wall had fumbled the opening kickoff and Clemson's Gary Barnes fell on it on the North Carolina 44. Eight plays later, quarterback Harvey White crashed over from the three.

The Tigers drove 43 yards for their second score which came in the opening minutes of the second period on a plunge by fullback Doug Cline. White passed to Bill Mathis for the two-pointer.

Minutes later, Clemson's Dave Lynn blocked Cummings' punt and was tackled on the eight-yard line by the Tar Heel quarterback. This threat ended when White was tackled on the 16 by John Hegarty.

The Tar Heels capitalized on a fumble by halfback George Usry on the Clemson 35 for their only threat of the first half. Cummings passed 25 yards to end John Schroeder who went to the four. Fullback Don Klochak plunged over for the score.

Clemson drove 65 yards with the second half kickoff, scoring on a two-yard drive by Mathis.

Clemson made 15 first downs to 14 for North Carolina and outgained the Tar Heels on the ground 178 yards to 127. The Tar Heels got 155 yards in the air to 35 for Clemson.

Indians Beat Virginia Cavs By 37-0 Count

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI)—William and Mary capitalized on ragged Virginia's many mistakes Saturday to wallop the Cavaliers 37-0, their worst opening game reversal in history.

A crowd of about 13,000 saw the Indians score three quick touchdowns in the first and second periods to bowl over the experience-shy, Cavaliers who had not suffered such embarrassment on opening day since Pennsylvania whipped them 32-0 back in 1892.

Five William and Mary players contributed touchdowns with quarterback Calvin Cox running one across and pitching 31 yards to end Earl Phillips for the final tally in the game.

William and Mary latched onto a fumble midway in the first period to start its first scoring drive. Aided by a personal foul penalty against the Cavaliers and a pass from Dan Barton to Ben Johnson, they moved to the two where halfback Dick Snyder plunged over.

Another 15-yard roughness penalty aided the Indians immeasurably in marching 63 yards early in the second period. The touchdown came on a one-yard plunge by sophomore halfback Roger Hale, who caught a 37-yard pass to set it up.

The Indians recovered the kickoff to set up another touchdown, moving for the market with soph quarterback Bob Stoy scoring from the 14.

Virginia, loaded with sophomores and seeming destined another year in the Atlantic Coast Conference cellar, never penetrated beyond the Indians' 44-yard line during the first half.

William and Mary's reserves, including third stringer Cox, got into the scoring parade late in the game. Cox capped a 70-yard march with a 12-yard burst in the final period and followed a few minutes later with his toss to Phillips.

William and Mary, which also will bank on a lot of sophomores in its Southern Conference play, outrushed the Cavaliers 348-131.

SCORE BY PERIODS

William and Mary	7	14	0	16	—37

Scoring summary:

W&M — Snyder 1 run (Barton kicked), Hale 1 run (kick failed), Stoy 14 run (Stoy to Farrell), Cox 12 run (Snyder run), Phillips 31 pass from Cox (Cox run).

Lee Big Gun In Cincinnati 22-9 Victory

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Cincinnati clicked for a touchdown on a long pass in the first quarter and added two more on the ground in the fourth period for a 22-9 opening football victory over Oklahoma State Saturday.

Senior quarterback Jack Lee was the main gun in the Cincinnati offense as he kept the Cowboys off balance with his pin-point tosses. Halfback Ed Kovac provided able assistance, scoring two touchdowns

Kovac hauled in a 38-yard pass from Lee with five minutes left in the opening quarter and he plunged over from three yards out midway in the final period.

The Cowboys scored their touchdown in the third period as quarterback Dick Soergel hit four passes in an eight-play sequence that carried 68 yards. Fullback Tony Banfield passed to halfback David Cross for four yards for the score.

Keene Handicap Won By Longus

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — Lightly regarded Longus exploded in the upper stretch for a photo decision over the heavily - favored Gulio Cesere in the $7,500 Keene Handicap Saturday at Rockingham Park.

Under jockeyy Carl Landers, Longus just got up in the last stride to win by a neck in the 1 1-16 mile feature. Tagama was third.

This was Longus' fourth victory in 18 starts and he paid $6.20. The time was 1:44.

WITH REDSKINS

Nixon Inherits Annual Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins go into the 1959 pro football wars with a brand-new coach and the same old problems.

Mike Nixon, a head coach for the first time after 21 years as an assistant, inherits the same headaches which have plagued the Redskins for years — no bench strength and weaknesses in the defensive secondary.

Nixon frankly figures he has a pretty good football team but adds in the next breath:

"Injuries could kill us. We just haven't the reserve horses."

To plug Washington's perennial pass defense holes, Nixon made a number of off-season trades, acquiring veteran backs like Bob Hudson and Richie McCabe from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh respectively. He recently obtained Bill Stits from San Francisco. But Hudson has looked disappointingly erratic and Nixon hopes he does not have to wind up shifting Dick James, one of his best offensive backs, to defense.

Here is the way the Redskins shape up in the various departments:

Quarterback— No problem here with Eddie Lebaron, who says this is his final season, looking better and trickier than ever. But the depth problem is present here: Ralph Guglielmi is ailing and Eagle Day, former Mississippi star, is too green.

Offensive backs—This is the one category in which Washington appears loaded. . .two good fullbacks in Johnny Olszewski and Don Bosseler. . .plenty of halfbacks with Ed Sutton, Jim Podoley, Bert Zagers, Mike Sommer and James.

Offensive ends—Improved over 1958. . .injured John Carson is back in good health and Joe Walton and Bill Anderson are looking 100 per cent better than they did last year.

Offensive line — Questionable, particular at the guards where Dick Stanfel will be sorely missed. Nixon is trying tackle Don Boll at the guard spot but this could be a key weakness.

Defensive line—Promising; good protection on the flanks with "Gentle John Paluck" replacing Gene Brito. . .biggest improvement will be at tackle where big Bob Toneff, acquired from San Francisco, has shored up one of 1958's major weak spots.

Linebackers—Like the song goes it may be a case of "either too young or too old." Veterans like Torgy Torgeson and Chuck Drazenovich may be over the hill, while Stan Flowers, a rookie prospect, did not make the grade and was released.

Defensive secondary— Decidedly the Tribe's biggest problem; the Redskins are vulnerable to air attack and it may wind up with Washington's defense giving up more points than LeBaron's cream-smooth fakery can score.

All this does not add up to a title contender, but Nixon has one thing going for him. No one expects much from the Redskins this year and most experts have them tabbed for the cellar. The last time this happened, Washington finished second and nearly grabbed all the marbles.

PRO FOOTBALL

Outlook Fairly Bright For Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — There's a certain wistful wishfulness about Coach Buck Shaw when he totes up the chances of his Philadelphia Eagles for 1959.

If the rookies come through — there are only 21 veterans on the squad— and if the blocking develops for the hardest set of running backs the club has had in some years, the outlook is reasonably bright.

As matters stand, with the National Football League season getting closer and closer, the Eagles have good passing. They also have better power than they had during last year's 2-9-1 debute of Shaw as head coach.

The defense is improved, particularly in the deep pass zone, where speed has been added. What's needed primarily is blocking up front.

It's the biggest problem, and if it jells properly, Eagle fans will be able to do some cheering.

"And I hope," Shaw said thoughtfully, "to have a fairly decent offensive line by the time we open in San Francisco."

The Eagles have some of the old reliables still in harness. The passing is in capable hands in Norm Van Brocklin, and little Tommy McDonald is an ace receiver who grabbed 21 passes for 403 yards and six touchdowns in the first four pre-season games. In the fifth, he caught three touchdown passes from Van Brocklin to help defeat the Baltimore Colts, defending League Champions, 35-13.

Bobby Walston is around, and so is Dick Bielski and Ken MacAfee, who came from the Giants in the trade which sent Tom Scott to New York.

Theron Sapp, a 200-pound fullback from Georgia, was the star of the Senior Bowl Game and is touted as the top rookie of the camp.

They'll operate behind a line with two rookies plugging caps. Daryl Aschbacher, a guard from Oregon, and tackle J. D. Smith from Rice could have the upfront posts clinched. Gerry Huth, also from Giants in the Scott trade, is another likely acquisition. Huth, out of Wake Forest was with the Giants part of 1956, but spent the next two seasons in service. The Eagles got an experienced pro guard when they obtained Stan Campbell from the Detroit Lions recently.

A couple of rookies also stand out as defensive possibilities. Johnny Nocera, captain of Iowa's Rose Bowl champions, apparently has clinched a linebacker spot and Gene Johnson out of Cincinnati and Allen Miller of Boston College, both newcomers, are battling for the left defensive half back job.

It adds up generally to a sounder defense, good passing and more running as the Eagles bid to improve on last season's poor showing.

ATLANTIC COAST BATTLE

Clemson Holds Early Lead To Defeat Carolina, 20-18

By O'NEIL HENDRICK

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (UPI)— Clemson's Tigers mounted a hefty earl lead and made it stand for a 20-18 triumph over North Carolina in a battle of Atlantic Coast Conference co-favorites Saturday by spoiling a two-point conversion try in the last 80 seconds of play.

A crowd of 43,000 fans saw the fast, veteran Tigers explode in quick scoring bursts in the first half against the late Jim Tatum's "team of destiny." Clemson's 7-0 victory over the Tar Heels last year led them to the Sugar Bowl.

The Tar Heels, coached by Tatum's successor, Jim Hickey, came back in the second half to score twice, but Clemson defenders nailed Bob Elliott on the two-yard line in conversion pass play from quarterback Jack Cummings.

Cummings had passed 24 yards to halfback Milam Wall for the first Tar Heel touchdown. Then a series of long Cummings passes to "swinging end" Al Goldstein, a maneuver Tatum contrived, set up the second TD achieved on a four-yard smash by Wall.

Wall had fumbled the opening kickoff and Clemson's Gary Barnes fell on it on the North Carolina 44. Eight plays later, quarterback Harvey White crashed over from the three.

The Tigers drove 43 yards for their second score which came in the opening minutes of the second period on a plunge by fullback Doug Cline. White passed to Bill Mathis for the two-pointer.

Minutes later, Clemson's Dave Lynn blocked Cummings' punt and was tackled on the eight-yard line by the Tar Heel quarterback. This threat ended when White was tackled on the 16 by John Hegarty.

The Tar Heels capitalized on a fumble by halfback George Usry on the Clemson 35 for their only threat of the first half. Cummings passed 25 yards to end John Schroeder who went to the four. Fullback Don Klochak plunged over for the score.

Clemson drove 65 yards with the second half kickoff, scoring on a two-yard drive by Mathis.

Clemson made 15 first downs to 14 for North Carolina and outgained the Tar Heels on the ground 178 yards to 127. The Tar Heels got 155 yards in the air to 35 for Clemson.

Score By Periods

North Carolina	0	6	0	12—18
Clemson	6	8	6	0—20

Scoring summary:

Clemson — White 1 run (kick failed), Cline run (White pass to Mathis), Mathis 2 run (pass failed).

North Carolina—Klochak 4 run (pass failed), Wall 4 run (pass failed), Wall 24 pass from Cummings (pass failed).

Lee Big Gun In Cincinnati 22-9 Victory

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Cincinnati clicked for a touchdown on a long pass in the first quarter and added two more on the ground in the fourth period for a 22-9 opening football victory over Oklahoma State Saturday.

Senior quarterback Jack Lee was the main gun in the Cincinnati offense as he kept the Cowboys off balance with his pin-point tosses. Halfback Ed Kovac provided able assistance, scoring two touchdowns

Kovac hauled in a 38-yard pass from Lee with five minutes left in the opening quarter and he plunged over from three yards out midway in the final period.

The Cowboys scored their touchdown in the third period as quarterback Dick Soergel hit four passes in an eight-play sequence that carried 68 yards. Fullback Tony Banfield passed to halfback David Cross for four yards for the score.

Indians Beat Virginia Cavs By 37-0 Count

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI)—William and Mary capitalized on ragged Virginia's many mistakes Saturday to wallop the Cavaliers 37-0, their worst opening game reversal in history.

A crowd of about 13,000 saw the Indians score three quick touchdowns in the first and second periods to bowl over the experience-shy, Cavaliers who had not suffered such embarrassment on opening day since Pennsylvania whipped them 32-0 back in 1892.

Five William and Mary players contributed touchdowns with quarterback Calvin Cox running one across and pitching 31 yards to end Earl Phillips for the final tally in the game.

William and Mary latched onto a fumble midway in the first period to start its first scoring drive. Aided by a personal foul penalty against the Cavaliers and a pass from Dan Barton to Ben Johnson, they moved to the two where halfback Dick Snyder plunged over.

Another 15-yard roughness penalty aided the Indians immeasurably in marching 63 yards early in the second period. The touchdown came on a one-yard plunge by sophomore halfback Roger Hale, who caught a 37-yard pass to set it up.

The Indians recovered the kickoff to set up another touchdown, moving for the market with soph quarterback Bob Stoy scoring from the 14.

Virginia, loaded with sophomores and seemingly destined another year in the Atlantic Coast Conference cellar, never penetrated beyond the Indians' 44-yard line during the first half.

William and Mary's reserves, including third stringer Cox, got into the scoring parade late in the game. Cox capped a 70-yard march with a 12-yard burst in the final period and followed a few minutes later with his toss to Phillips.

William and Mary, which also will bank on a lot of sophomores in its Southern Conference play, outrushed the Cavaliers 348-131.

SCORE BY PERIODS

Now At LSU

A full-length portrait of Sir Thomas Conway painted about 1620 by an unknown English artist is among the first art pieces purchased by Louisiana State University for its proposed art museum. LSU received an anonymous gift of $250,000 for an Anglo-American Art Center to be established soon in the Memorial Tower on the Baton Rouge campus. The seven by four foot Conway portrait was purchased in England.

$250,000 GIFT

Museum At LSU Gets New Art

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The first paintings for Louisiana State University's $250,000 gift art center have arrived from England along with disassembled rooms from old English homes.

An Anglo-American art center made up of "period" rooms purchased from old homes in England and America will be established in the LSU Memorial Tower with the anonymous gift. Dr. Gulnar K. Bosch, professor and chairman of the department of fine arts, made a trip in August to English, American and European art collections and dealers to choose paintings for the center.

FIRST BOUGHT

Two 17th century English paintings and one by William Hogarth, the noted 18th century artist, are the first purchased by the University for the center.

Plans now call for an American and an English wing displaying works of art in rooms of their times to present a parallelism in the art and its surroundings. When finished next spring, the center should be a valuable educational asset for art, history and architecture students as well as an interesting museum for other students and the public, Dr. Bosch said.

LSU officials hope to add French and Spanish rooms plus representative examples of classical, renaissance and oriental types sometime in the future, she added.

The north or English wing will house an early 17th century or Jacobean type room from Ware, Hertfordshire, England, and an early Georgian pine room from Hacton Hall, an 18th century home in Essex, England. A gallery in that wing will terminate in an elaborately-carved late Georgian door.

The Jacobean room is to be made up of dark wood paneling, hand-carved decorative molding and a massive stone fireplace with a mantle extending to the ceiling. Furniture will include a carved chest and chairs of the period to re-create the room in its original appearance.

QUALITY

Hacton Hall is described as being "of museum quality equivalent to the very fine Chippendale furniture of the period." The carved door for the gallery is an 18th century Adam door with original trim from a drawing room in Basildon Park, Pangbourne, Berkshire, England.

Both the Adam door and the Jacobean room have been often illustrated in architectural books as examples of their types.

A portrait of a young woman by Hogarth will hang in Hacton Hall along with a portrait of Robert Bruce, second earl of Elgin, first earl of Allesbury and lord chamberlain to King James II. It was painted by John Michael Wright, a 17th century Scottish artist.

The Jacobean room will display a seven-foot, full-length portrait of Sir Thomas Conway painted about 1620 by an unknown artist. Another portrait, not chosen as yet, but probably of a woman, will also be hung there, Dr. Bosch said. University officials are considering the purchase of several later English paintings for the gallery.

A colonial, post-colonial and Greek revival room will be housed in the American Wing. The colonial room, dating from 1780, comes from the middle colonies and has a large corner fireplace.

The Greek revival room will be a reporduction of a 19th century room built around an elaborate ceiling centerpiece and door from a New Orleans home. Attempts are now being made to obtain a representative post-colonial room from another old home in Louisiana.

PAINTINGS

Paintings for the American Wing have not been purchased, but Dr. Bosch said that representative American works such as those by Copley, Gilbert Stuart, Earl and Sully are being considered. Those chosen will probably be portraits of private persons, soldiers, lawyers and early patriots, she added.

Architects Koch and Wilson of New Orleans have planned to light the rooms as naturally as possible, and therefore have designed light panels around the windows to simulate and add to the natural light from those sources.

Each wing will also have a reception room at its entrance which will be used to display temporary exhibits. Since the renovated building will be air conditioned and fireproof, Dr. Bosch said that LSU can expect art loans from some of the largest museums such as the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

A library of books specifically relating to the collections will be established in the American Wing. That side will also house Dr. Bosch's office and a women's lounge. A men's lounge will be located in the other wing.

The central rotunda directly beneath the tower will be renovated to house the LSU information center now located in the south wing. All floors will be redone in terrazo, ceramic or new vinyl tile, and some of the walls will be fabric - covered plywood.

The project will require extensive renovation of both wings of the Memorial Tower. At the same time the Tower shaft will undergo major repair work.

Work is expected to begin about Nov. 1.

Farm Groups Facing Wait For Changes

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a growing feeling among farm groups that any broad revisions in federal agricultural programs may be two years away.

This belief is based on the fact that the Eisenhower administration and the Democrat-controlled Congress have been unable to get together.

Bills passed by Congress ran into presidential vetoes because they did not match the Eisenhower philosophy that agriculture should lessen its dependence on government crop control, price-fixing and marketing control measures.

Congressional leaders talk of making another try at farm legislation next year. They say the time between the present and new session will give lawmakers a new opportunity to learn what farmers want.

But most farm leaders see little prospect of anything concrete being put into law in 1960. The coming session will be influenced by political maneuvering for the presidential and congressional elections.

Democrats will be seeking advantage over the Republicans and the Republicans over the Democrats. Furthermore, there will be conflicts within a party, reflecting presidential aspirations of various candidates.

Naturally, any farm legislation passed by Congress would carry the banner of the Democrats—a banner they would carry into important farm states during the campaign. The chances are such legislation would be contrary to Eisenhower administration policies—just as was the case this year—and would again be vetoed.

Should this be the case, the task then of remodeling farm programs would have to be put off until 1961, when a new administration and a new congress take over.

Some Republicans who want more rather than less government assistance to agriculture still nourish a hope that their party's position on this issue will be changed before the election.

These Republicans would like to see Vice President Richard M. Nixon prevail upon President Eisenhower to displace controversial Ezra Taft Benson with a secretary of agriculture more favorable to broad government aid programs. They would make such a change before Congress reconvenes in January. This would give the administration and the party an opportunity to present a farm program more likely, they say, to win farm votes than the Benson policies.

There has been no indication that Nixon, who seeks to be the GOP presidential nominee, will intervene at the White House for such a change. In any event, Benson's close friends believe little could come of it. They say the President is as solid in support of Benson now as in the past.

Prospects of a delay of two more years in eliminating weaknesses of present farm program worry many agricultural leaders. They are concerned that federal farm programs may get such a black eye in the meantime that the public will demand that all be junked.

Public Welfare Board Accepts Spending Report

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Public Welfare Board Saturday accepted a financial report that spending for public assistance and administration totaled 26½ million dollars during the first two months of the fiscal year.

The board allocated $13,297,141 for the month of November, of which $12,173,313 is for actual aid to welfare recipients. Of the total, the state will put up $3,885,135 and the federal government the rest.

A report by Gilbert Root, finance director for the Welfare Department, showed the state put up $4,496,304 during August while the federal government put up $8,671,236.

August spending totaled $13,258,650. The total for both July and August was $26,510,713.

Root said the report showed spending in Louisiana for welfare is about stabilized at the present spending level. He said a sharp upswing occurred in spending last December.

The next meeting was set for Oct. 31 at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Frank Matthews, member from Mansfield, asked the department to investigate reports that some women in her area were receiving assistance for dependent children illegally.

Deputy Commissioner Otis C. Edwards Jr. said agents would check into the cases next week.

Justin Gras, 91, Dies Of Attack At Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Justin Gras, active in charity work, died of a heart attack here Saturday. He was 91.

A native of Enbrum, France, he came to Shreveport in 1891 and entered the grocery business. He retired three years ago. Gras had acquired considerable land holdings in Caddo Parish.

Gras helped restore a historic cathedral at his birthplace, which was over 1,000 years old. The late Pope Pius XII decorated Gras in 1953 for his work in the restoration of the cathedral.

The French government bestowed a medal on Gras in 1954. He was president of the Benevolent Mutual Aid French Society.

He is survived by his widow, a sister and two brothers. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at St. John's Catholic Church in Shreveport.

Soviets Resume Jamming Action On Broadcasts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States Information Agency (USIA) said Friday the Soviet Union resumed jamming of Voice of America broadcasts shortly after Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev finished addressing the United Nations Friday afternoon.

USIA Director George V. Allen said the Soviets let Voice broadcasts of Khrushchev's speech get through, but resumed jamming as soon as it began beaming to the Soviet Union a Russian translation of Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's U. N. speech Thursday.

The Greek revival room will be a reporduction of a 19th century room built around an elaborate ceiling centerpiece and door from a New Orleans home. Attempts are now being made to obtain a representative post-colonial room from another old home in Louisiana.

PAINTINGS

Paintings for the American Wing have not been purchased, but Dr. Bosch said that representative American works such as those by Copley, Gilbert Stuart, Earl and Sully are being considered. Those chosen will probably be portraits of private persons, soldiers, lawyers and early patriots, she added.

Architects Koch and Wilson of New Orleans have planned to light the rooms as naturally as possible, and therefore have designed light panels around the windows to simulate and add to the natural light from those sources.

Each wing will also have a reception room at its entrance which will be used to display temporary exhibits. Since the renovated building will be air conditioned and fireproof, Dr. Bosch said that LSU can expect art loans from some of the largest museums such as the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

A library of books specifically relating to the collections will be established in the American Wing. That side will also house Dr. Bosch's office and a women's lounge. A men's lounge will be located in the other wing.

The central rotunda directly beneath the tower will be renovated to house the LSU information center now located in the south wing. All floors will be redone in terrazo, ceramic or new vinyl tile, and some of the walls will be fabric - covered plywood.

The project will require extensive renovation of both wings of the Memorial Tower. At the same time the Tower shaft will undergo major repair work.

Work is expected to begin about Nov. 1.

Farm Groups Facing Wait For Changes

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a growing feeling among farm groups that any broad revisions in federal agricultural programs may be two years away.

This belief is based on the fact that the Eisenhower administration and the Democrat-controlled Congress have been unable to get together.

Bills passed by Congress ran into presidential vetoes because they did not match the Eisenhower philosophy that agriculture should lessen its dependence on government crop control, price-fixing and marketing control measures.

Congressional leaders talk of making another try at farm legislation next year. They say the time between the present and new session will give lawmakers a new opportunity to learn what farmers want.

But most farm leaders see little prospect of anything concrete being put into law in 1960. The coming session will be influenced by political maneuvering for the presidential and congressional elections.

Democrats will be seeking advantage over the Republicans and the Republicans over the Democrats. Furthermore, there will be conflicts within a party, reflecting presidential aspirations of various candidates.

Naturally, any farm legislation passed by Congress would carry the banner of the Democrats—a banner they would carry into important farm states during the campaign. The chances are such legislation would be contrary to Eisenhower administration policies—just as was the case this year—and would again be vetoed.

Should this be the case, the task then of remodeling farm programs would have to be put off until 1961, when a new administration and a new congress take over.

Some Republicans who want more rather than less government assistance to agriculture still nourish a hope that their party's position on this issue will be changed before the election.

These Republicans would like to see Vice President Richard M. Nixon prevail upon President Eisenhower to displace controversial Ezra Taft Benson with a secretary of agriculture more favorable to broad government aid programs. They would make such a change before Congress reconvenes in January. This would give the administration and the party an opportunity to present a farm program more likely, they say, to win farm votes than the Benson policies.

There has been no indication that Nixon, who seeks to be the GOP presidential nominee, will intervene at the White House for such a change. In any event, Benson's close friends believe little could come of it. They say the President is as solid in support of Benson now as in the past.

Prospects of a delay of two more years in eliminating weaknesses of present farm program worry many agricultural leaders. They are concerned that federal farm programs may get such a black eye in the meantime that the public will demand that all be junked.

Public Welfare Board Accepts Spending Report

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Public Welfare Board Saturday accepted a financial report that spending for public assistance and administration totaled 26½ million dollars during the first two months of the fiscal year.

The board allocated $13,297,141 for the month of November, of which $12,173,313 is for actual aid to welfare recipients. Of the total, the state will put up $3,885,135 and the federal government the rest.

A report by Gilbert Root, finance director for the Welfare Department, showed the state put up $4,496,304 during August while the federal government put up $8,671,236.

August spending totaled $13,258,650. The total for both July and August was $26,510,713.

Root said the report showed spending in Louisiana for welfare is about stabilized at the present spending level. He said a sharp upswing occurred in spending last December.

The next meeting was set for Oct. 31 at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Frank Matthews, member from Mansfield, asked the department to investigate reports that some women in her area were receiving assistance for dependent children illegally.

Deputy Commissioner Otis C. Edwards Jr. said agents would check into the cases next week.

Justin Gras, 91, Dies Of Attack At Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Justin Gras, active in charity work, died of a heart attack here Saturday. He was 91.

A native of Enbrum, France, he came to Shreveport in 1891 and entered the grocery business. He retired three years ago. Gras had acquired considerable land holdings in Caddo Parish.

Gras helped restore a historic cathedral at his birthplace, which was over 1,000 years old. The late Pope Pius XII decorated Gras in 1953 for his work in the restoration of the cathedral.

The French government bestowed a medal on Gras in 1954. He was president of the Benevolent Mutual Aid French Society.

He is survived by his widow, a sister and two brothers. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at St. John's Catholic Church in Shreveport.

Soviets Resume Jamming Action On Broadcasts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States Information Agency (USIA) said Friday the Soviet Union resumed jamming of Voice of America broadcasts shortly after Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev finished addressing the United Nations Friday afternoon.

USIA Director George V. Allen said the Soviets let Voice broadcasts of Khrushchev's speech get through, but resumed jamming as soon as it began beaming to the Soviet Union a Russian translation of Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's U. N. speech Thursday.

Market Shows Money Is In Great Demand

NEW YORK (UPI) — Everybody is spending money these days at such a fast rate that the money market is hard put to stretch the supply.

Money is in such big demand that rates of interest—the price for money—are rising to new highs for 29 years. Twenty-nine years ago money rates were coming down from very high figures that resulted from the 1929 boom.

In the subsequent bust money went begging for borrowers.

Hence, the conclusion that is apparent, when money is in demand times are good. Right now, except in strike-ridden areas, they are buoyant.

The biggest problem in the money right now is that of the United States government. The treasury of the United States is suffering from two things:

1. Short-sightedness of former administrations in failing to refund government bonds into long-term maturities which could have been done at least at 2½ per cent.

2. Failure of Congress to recognize the fact that the government must pay the going rate of interest if it is to sell its bonds. The going rate is well above the 4¼ per cent ceiling which is imposed by law on the Treasury for its bonds. Bonds are obligations with maturities of more than five years.

Right now the government has to restrict its borrowing to short term paper. And there it runs right smack into competition with business which uses bank money to finance inventories, handle sales, and other things in the general operation of the business.

Here we have the government bidding against business to do its financing.

The government has a big financing job cut out for it. Between now and Christmas it must raise seven billion dollars in New money to tide it over until tax collections bring in more revenue.

Also in the remainder of this fiscal year which ends next June 30th, the Treasury must refund some 78 billion dollars of government bonds that fall due.

All this is going to stir up a hornets' nest of controversy. You hear some straight talk about the government living within its means and the evils of inflationary market operations.

Actually the sale of short term obligations by the treasury has obligations by the treasury has something of the same effect as printing press money. And to that extent it's mighty inflationary. In fact, continuation of the operation would be distinctly dangerous to the economy, according to money experts.

So the next thing will be a drive to bring Congress back into special session to do something about raising interest ceilings on bonds. The experts say the government must recognize it will have to pay high for its money no matter what it does to the budget.

Planes Locate Squally Wave In Atlantic Ocean

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane hunter planes located a squally wave in the Atlantic Ocean Friday 800 miles east of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and about 1,800 miles east-southeast of Miami.

No circulation was found to indicate a growing tropical storm. The wave, with winds up to 35 miles an hour, was moving toward the west at about 18 to 20 miles an hour.

"The wave is expected to continue moving westward at about the same speed for the next 12 hours and will be affecting the Northern Leeward Islands early Saturday," said an advisory from the San Juan Bureau.

METALLIC'S NEW LO-PITCH BUILDINGS

Modern architectural treatments developed the need for a Metallic-type building with a low pitch roof, such as the building above. The Metallic Lo-Pitch building combines all the economy and adaptability of standard Metallic buildings plus the Lo-Pitch roof that blends into the architectural pattern of modern shopping centers. Unobstructed, clear span interiors provide maximum usable space. These buildings are easily insulated and air conditioned and can be furnished with any type walls desired. Roofing and siding is available in six eye-appealing colors. Exclusive Stran-Satin color sheets have a two-layer protective coating of vinyl-aluminum that is vastly superior to paint — assures minimum maintenance.

These buildings can be financed through Metallic's own time purchase plan.

OFFSET WELL WATCHED

Pike County Test Attracts Interest

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Arkansas Fuel Oil Corp. is running casing on a new well in the Summit field of Pike County and oil men are watching with interest.

The well is the Stratham No.1, in section 31, 4 north, 7 east, located in the three-well field. The well logged oil sand at 10,596-916 feet and at 10,920-27 feet. It is reported higher on structure than the other three wells.

The Satham is a north offset to the discovery well which was completed early this year. The Summit field is eight miles southwest of the Little Creek field and four miles north of the recently found McComb field.

In the Gitano area of Jones County, Hargrave Oil & Pruet may have a new discovery in their wildcat, the Coasts No. 1 section 9, 9 north, 13 west. The venture logged oil sand at 12,894-12,914 feet in the Paluxy zone. A formation tester was run on the zone with 42 gravity oil recovered. Operators are drilling below 13,280 feet now.

Southwest of the Merit field in Simpson County, Hargrave Oil Corp. is below 13,900 feet in its wildcat, the Peacock No. 1, section 24, 1 north, 3 east. A string of seven inch casing was set to 13,350 feet after electrical log was run to that depth. It is in Hinds County near Bolton field. Jett Drilling Co. is below 12,480 feet in its wildcat, the Gaddis Farms No. 1, section 14, 6 north, 3 west. It is reported that the effort has logged enough oil sand to warrant running casing and attempting commercial completion.

The second well in the recently found McComb field is below 10,-400 feet and nearing the interesting stage. The well is a diagonal offset to the discovery well.

In the recently found Deep Creek gas condensate field of Jeff Davis County, Tidewater Oil Co. is preparing to begin production tests at its Mikell No. 1, section 24, 8 north, 20 west. The well was drilled to 15,048 feet with casing set to 14,713 feet.

Also in Jeff Davis, Sinclair Oil is drilling below 7,500 feet in its wildcat Burkett No. 1, sec. 26, 7 north, 19 west, located on the flank of the Prentiss salt dome.

In Perry County, McDermott & Co. is shut down for repairs at the Dragon No. 1, sec. 4, 3 north 11 west. The wildcat is about 3 miles northwest of New Augusta. The depth is 11,796 feet, with contract depth 13,500 feet.

Field drilling during the past week saw three oilers completed.

At Raleigh in Smith County, California Co. completed its Central Oil Co. No. 5-14, sec. 28, 2 north, 7 east, flowing 192 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 12,122-52 feet.

In the Little Creek field on the Pike County side, Sun Oil Co. completed its Busby No. 1, sec. 22, 4 north, 8 east, flowing 218 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,721-55 feet.

In the merit field of Simpson County, A. O. Phillips is near completions in his Allison-Sykes-Welch No. 1, sec. 17-1n-4E, with the well testing at the rate of 408 barrels of oil per day.

Cameron Operating Co. has completed its foster No. A-2, sec. 4-7N-1w, in the Galilee field of Adams County. The well flowed at the rate of 108 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 5,69[illegible]93 feet.

New permits, by counties:

Adams: Humble Oil N. H. Breaux et al "D" No. 13, sec. 15-4n-4w (southeast Fairview field). George Belchie Jr. et al Fowler No. 2, sec. 47-8n-2w (wildcat). Peterson Exploration Inc. Geddes No. 1, sec. 14-5n-1w (wildcat).

Jefferson: O. B. Trotter-Procter-Frascogna Drake No. 1, sec. 28-8n-1W (wildcat).

The Childs store for Monroe-West Monroe is sponsoring the Kroger - Westinghouse "Junior-Cook-of-the-Year" contest which begins Monday with local boys and girls being afforded an opportunity to compete for 2,000 big prizes.

Entry blanks and rules for the contest will be available at the local Childs Store, according to C. H. Bivins, manager.

The story of diamonds — from the fabulous mines in Africa to their transformation as one of man's most coveted and useful gems — is the theme of an exhibit to be displayed September 21 to October 3rd, at Central Savings Bank and Trust Co., Main office in Monroe.

The exhibit has been assembled by the Zale Jewelry Company. Participating in the display with Zale's is Christensen Diamond Products of Salt Lake City.

New Smaller Cars To Test Style Theory

DETROIT (AP) — One of the chief jobs of Detroit auto stylists has been to try to make you dissatisfied with last year's car. The new compact models by Ford, Chevrolet and Chrysler may change this.

New is probably the most overworked word in the automobile industry. Every year everything has had to be "all new," although maybe you couldn't see much difference.

Changes have been made for changes sake — deliberately to brand your car as old or outdated if it isn't a current year's model.

This is planned obsolescence.

Many industry executives and some independent observers feel such an operation is necessary to keep the auto business booming.

One executive asked recently: "How could you expect to sell six million or more cars every year if you didn't make these styling changes?"

Indications are that the compact cars may provide a good test for this theory.

American Motors, which has been in the compact car business longer than any U. S. manufacturer, has been booming right along with a minimum of styling changes. The Rambler American has undergone few noticeable exterior changes since it was first introduced by Nash years ago.

Studebaker-Packard brought out Studebaker and American are a relatively small segment of the industry. But the Big Three have come up with compact cars this fall and now they, too, are talking about "continuity of design."

James Wright, general manager of Ford Division, said Ford expects to make fewer annual changes in its new Falcon than in the conventional-sized cars.

Ed Cole, Chevrolet general manager, says it may prove possible to continue the styling lines of the new little Corvair longer than has been Chevrolet's practice in the past.

The standard design pattern is best illustrated by Volkswagen, biggest seller in the growing import market. The Volkswagen has undergone only infinitesimal changes since it was first built in the 30s.

Foreign cars never have followed the American practice of annual styling changes. It was five years after World War II before the English Ford brought out new models. And one Fiat official in Milan said he believed Fiat owners would rise up in arms if his company introduced marked changes in design.

IN SHREVEPORT AREA

24 Wells Finaled During Past Week

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Twenty - four well completions — 17 for oil and seven for gas — were finaled in the Shreveport District during the past week, the Conservation Department reported.

A wildcat in Claiborne Parish, Magnolia Petroleum Co.'s No. 1 Thelma Worley, S34-22-8, was duly completed for 1,263,000 cubic feet of gas and 104 barrels of 63.0 distillate a day from Davis sand and 130,000 cubic feet of gas and 7 barrels of 52.0 gravity distillate from Taylor sand. Total well depth is 10,502 feet.

A total of 44 rigs were reported drilling in the area during the week by C. H. McDuff, conservation department manager. Eight wells were plugged and abandoned during the week.

The week's completions are:

Bryceland — Southern Natural Gas Co.'s No. 1 Ella Davis Unit, S20-17-5, completed as a gas distillate well from the Hosston sand at 8,250 feet. Amount of distillate not disclosed.

CADDO

Caddo Pine Island — W. C. Allen's No. A-2 Caddo Levee Board, S33-21-16, completed for 3 barrels of oil daily from Nacatoch perforations at 921 feet.

Charles L. Barnett's No. 16 State, S34-21-16, completed to pump 4 barrels of oil daily from the Nacatoch at 930 feet.

Charles L. Barnett's No. 17 State, S34-21-16, completed to pump 4 barrels of oil daily from the Nacatoch at 932 feet.

Charles L. Barnett's No. 18 State, S34-21-16, completed to pump 4 barrels of oil daily from the Nacatoch at 930 feet.

Bill Gary's No. 3, S17-2n-15, completed as a small gas well at 931 feet.

Bill Gary et al's No. B-1 Crawford, S17-20-15, completed as a small gas well from 929 feet.

Bill Gary's No. 1 Gulf Oil Corp., s18-20-15, completed as a small gas well at 906 feet.

Bill Gary's No. 1 Gulf-Caddo Levee Board, s10-20-15, completed as a small gas well from 920 feet.

Bill Gary's No. 1 Muslow G, S17-20-15, completed as a small gas well at 912 feet.

Corn Futures Prices Sink To New Low

CHICAGO (AP)—The extended price declines on the Board of Trade carried all corn futures contracts to a succession of new low prices for the season again this week.

September soybeans also sank to a new low and some of the new crop months ended the week near the bottoms for the year on setbacks ranging nearly two cents a bushel.

There were a few gains but they were scattered and reflected a shifting of trade positions rather than an improvment in commercial influences.

Most interest centered again in soybeans where prices reacted mainly to initial moderate hedging from the impending harvest and conflicting private crop reports. Otherwise trade volume was slow, continuing near the smallest of the year.

Reports of meager selling of wheat into commercial channels had a steadying effect on that grain.

The only bullish influence of the week had only a slight temporary effect. It was a report to the American Soybean Assn. by F. E. Hunt, a crop expert in Adair, Iowa.

Hunt told the association that in a personal survey of the crop he had found development below normal and predicted the yield would not exceed 500 million bushels. The Department of Agriculture in its September report estimated the crop at about 532½ million bushels.

At the end of the week, wheat was ¼ cent a bushel higher to 1 cent lower, September $1.91⅛-¼; corn ¼-⅞ lower, September $1.14¾-⅞; oats 2¼ higher to ⅜ lower, September new type contract 66¼-⅛; rye 3 cents lower to ¾ higher, September $1.29¾-30; soybeans 1¼-⅞ lower, September $2.05⅞-2.06.

PRODUCTION EXPERT SAYS

World Oil Lineup Changes Possible

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The world's supply and demand picture for petroleum may be headed for a major overhaul.

A production expert says a number of factors may alter the world oil lineup.

The factors include increased exploration, expanded reserves in established producing areas, new sources of supply, and approaching oil self-sufficiency by several countries.

M. A. Wright of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) also believes Iron Curtain oil may be a disrupting influence in the future.

"Last year, 211,000 barrels a day of Communist oil found its way into free world markets," said the coordinator of production for Jersey Standard's worldwide operations.

"By 1965, this flow might increase to 500,000 barrels a day," he said. "Although this is not a great volume—only 2 per cent of world demand—because of the manner in which this trade is conducted its effect might be serious, both politically and economically."

Wright said 72 United States companies were exploring for oil abroad in 1952. Today there are over 150.

"Inevitably this extensive exploration will affect the pattern of petroleum movement as established producing areas expand their reserves and as new sources of supply enter the picture," he said. "For example, newcomers to Venezuela have developed a producing poential on the order of 250,000 barrels a day which they are actively seeking to market."

Some 13 United States and foreign companies have contracted to do exploration and development work in Argentina.

"Today Argentina produces 120,000 and imports about 190,000 barrels a day," Wright told the annual membership meeting of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Assn.

"Under a continued active program, and with reasonable success, Argentina might approach self-sufficient in oil within the next few years."

North Africa is rapidly developing into a major oil-producing area. About a half dozen major fields have been discovered in Algeria since 1956. Nine major discoveries have been made in Libya.

Wright said the French estimate Algeria will be producing 440,000 barrels a day by 1961 and 1,000,000 by 1965.

"This oil is considered to be indigneous to France, which means France might become self sufficient and possibly an oil exporter within a reasonable period of time," he said.

"Libya is close to the large and growing European market and probably will become an important supply source in the future."

Oil has been found in small basins on the West Coast. Wright said production in Nigeria, Gabon and Angola is not large but is very important to the three small countries.

He said new concessions have been granted in Iran and the Kuwait neutral zone and that extensions of concessions in other Middle East areas probably will yield new reserves.

Wright said exploration activity has been at a relatively high level throughout the Far East, although with no notable success.

"Since the Far East is an important consuming area, we can expect continuing efforts to increase indigenous production," he said.

Stock Prices Continue To Skid Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to decline sharply this week and reached its lowest level since mid-February.

It was the third straight week of severe losses.

The week was a historic one. A Russian rocket reached the moon Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev began touring the United States.

Important as these items were, Wall Streeters laid greater stress on continuously tightening credit and higher interest rates. Depressing, too, were the widening effects of the steel strike as it dragged into its third month.

The Soviet moon rocket had only a temporary effect, giving the space age stocks a brief spurt on Monday. Khrushchev's impact on Wall Street was one that bred caution rather than selling. The market waited to see what, if anything, he would propose that would be new in its effect on stock prices. As the week ended, nothing developed in this respect. So the watch-and-wait mood continued.

The Associated Prss average of 60 stocks fell $5.30 to $217.40 for its worst weekly loss since the week ended Oct. 12, 1957, when the average fell $8.20.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week fell 11.58 to 625.78.

The drop in the AP average put that barometer to its lowest point since Feb 18 when it stood at $216.90.

DURING PAST WEEK

Three Oilers, One Gas Well Finaled In Monroe District

Three new oilers and one gas producer were completed last week in the 14-parish Monroe District, according to an activity report issued from the office of Duncan S. Cook, head of the local branch of the Louisiana Department of Conservation.

Cook's report also listed four wells plugged and abandoned and 34 active rigs.

Here are the new completions:

CONCORDIA

Market Shows Money Is In Great Demand

NEW YORK (UPI) — Everybody is spending money these days at such a fast rate that the money market is hard put to stretch the supply.

Money is in such big demand that rates of interest—the price for money—are rising to new highs for 29 years. Twenty-nine years ago money rates were coming down from very high figures that resulted from the 1929 boom.

In the subsequent bust money went begging for borrowers.

Hence, the conclusion that is apparent, when money is in demand times are good. Right now, except in strike-ridden areas, they are buoyant.

The biggest problem in the money right now is that of the United States government. The treasury of the United States is suffering from two things:

1. Short-sightedness of former administrations in failing to refund government bonds into long-term maturities which could have been done at least at 2½ per cent.

2. Failure of Congress to recognize the fact that the government must pay the going rate of interest if it is to sell its bonds. The going rate is well above the 4¼ per cent ceiling which is imposed by law on the Treasury for its bonds. Bonds are obligations with maturities of more than five years.

Right now the government has to restrict its borrowing to short term paper. And there it runs right smack into competition with business which uses bank money to finance inventories, handle sales, and other things in the general operation of the business.

Here we have the government bidding against business to do its financing.

The government has a big financing job cut out for it. Between now and Christmas it must raise seven billion dollars in New money to tide it over until tax collections bring in more revenue.

Also in the remainder of this fiscal year which ends next June 30th, the Treasury must refund some 78 billion dollars of government bonds that fall due.

All this is going to stir up a hornets' nest of controversy. You hear some straight talk about the government living within its means and the evils of inflationary market operations.

Actually the sale of short term obligations by the treasury has obligations by the treasury has something of the same effect as printing press money. And to that extent it's mighty inflationary. In fact, continuation of the operation would be distinctly dangerous to the economy, according to money experts.

So the next thing will be a drive to bring Congress back into special session to do something about raising interest ceilings on bonds. The experts say the government must recognize it will have to pay high for its money no matter what it does to the budget.

Planes Locate Squally Wave In Atlantic Ocean

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane hunter planes located a squally wave in the Atlantic Ocean Friday 600 miles east of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and about 1,600 miles east-southeast of Miami.

No circulation was found to indicate a growing tropical storm. The wave, with winds up to 35 miles an hour, was moving toward the west at about 18 to 20 miles an hour.

"The wave is expected to continue moving westward at about the same speed for the next 12 hours and will be affecting the Northern Leeward Islands early Saturday," said an advisory from the San Juan Bureau.

OFFSET WELL WATCHED

Pike County Test Attracts Interest

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Arkansas Fuel Oil Corp. is running casing on a new well in the Summit field of Pike County and oil men are watching with interest.

The well is the Statham No. 1, in section 21, 4 north, 7 east, located in the three-well field. The well logged oil sand at 10,526-916 feet and at 10,920-27 feet. It is reported higher on structure than the other three wells.

The Statham is a north offset to the discovery well which was completed early this year. The Summit field is eight miles southwest of the Little Creek field and four miles north of the recently found McComb field.

In the Gitano area of Jones County, Hargrave Oil & Fruet may have a new discovery in their wildcat, the Coasts No. 1 section 9, 9 north, 13 west. The venture logged oil sand at 12,894-12,914 feet in the Paluxy zone. A formation tester was run on the zone with 42 gravity oil recovered. Operators are drilling below 13,230 feet now.

Southwest of the Merit field in Simpson County, Hargrave Oil Corp. is below 13,900 feet in its wildcat, the Peacock No. 1, section 24, 1 north, 3 east. A string of seven inch casing was set to 13,251 feet after electrical log was run to that depth. It is in Hinds County near Bolton field. Jett Drilling Co. is below 12,480 feet in its wildcat, the Gaddis Farms No. 1, section 14, 6 north, 3 west. It is reported that the effort has logged enough oil sand to warrant running casing and attempting commercial completion.

The second well in the recently found McComb field is below 10,-700 feet and nearing the interesting stage. The well is a diagonal offset to the discovery well.

In the recently found Deep Creek condensate field of Jeff Davis County, Tidewater Oil Co. is preparing to begin production tests at its Mikell No. 1, section 24, 3 north, 20 west. The well was drilled to 15,048 feet with casing set to 14,713 feet.

Also in Jeff Davis, Sinclair Oil is drilling below 7,500 feet in its wildcat Burkett No. 1, sec. 26, 7 north, 19 west, located on the flank of the Prentiss salt dome.

In Perry County, McDermott & Co. is shut down for repairs at the Brooklyn Inc. No. 1, sec. 4, 3 north 11 west. The wildcat is about 3 miles [illegible] Augusta. The depth is 11,796 feet, with contract depth 13,500 feet.

Field drilling during the past week saw three oilers completed.

At Raleigh in Smith County, California Co. completed its Central Oil Co. No. 5-14, sec. 28, 2 north, 7 east, flowing 192 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 12,122-52 feet.

In the Little Creek field on the Pike County side, Sun Oil Co. completed its Busby No. 1, sec. 22, 4 north, 8 east, flowing 216 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,721-55 feet.

In the merit field of Simpson County, A. O. Phillips is near completions in his Allison-Sykes-Welch No. 1, sec. 17-1n-4E, with the well testing at the rate of 402 barrels of oil per day.

Cameron Operating Co. has completed its foster No. A-2, sec. 4-7N-1w, in the Galilee field of Adams County. The well flowed at the rate of 103 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 5,69[illegible] feet.

Entry blanks and rules for the contest will be available at the local Childs Store, according to C. H. Bivins, manager.

The story of diamonds — from the fabulous mines in Africa to their transformation as one of man's most coveted and useful gems — is the theme of an exhibit to be displayed September 21 to October 3rd, at Central Savings Bank and Trust Co., Main office in Monroe.

The exhibit has been assembled by the Zale Jewelry Company. Participating in the display with Zale's is Christensen Diamond Products of Salt Lake City.

New Smaller Cars To Test Style Theory

DETROIT (AP) — One of the chief jobs of Detroit auto stylists has been to try to make you dissatisfied with last year's car. The new compact models by Ford, Chevrolet and Chrysler may change this.

New is probably the most overworked word in the automobile industry. Every year everything has had to be "all new," although maybe you couldn't see much difference.

Changes have been made for changes sake — deliberately to brand your car as old or outdated if it isn't a current year's model.

This is planned obsolescence.

Many industry executives and some independent observers feel such an operation is necessary to keep the auto business booming.

One executive asked recently: "How could you expect to sell six million or more cars every year if you didn't make these styling changes?"

Indications are that the compact cars may provide a good test for this theory.

American Motors, which has been in the compact car business longer than any U. S. manufacturer, has been booming right along with a minimum of styling changes. The Rambler American has undergone few noticeable exterior changes since it was first introduced by Nash years ago.

Studebaker-Packard brought out Studebaker and American are a relatively small segment of the industry. But the Big Three have come up with compact cars this fall and now they, too, are talking about "continuity of design."

James Wright, general manager of Ford Division, said Ford expects to make fewer annual changes in its new Falcon than in the conventional-sized cars.

Ed Cole, Chevrolet general manager, says it may prove possible to continue the styling lines of the new little Corvair longer than has been Chevrolet's practice in the past.

The standard design pattern is best illustrated by Volkswagen, biggest seller in the growing import market. The Volkswagen has undergone only infinitesimal changes since it was first built in the 30s.

Foreign cars never have followed the American practice of annual styling changes. It was five years after World War II before the English Ford brought out new models. And one Fiat official in Milan said he believed Fiat owners would rise up in arms if his company introduced marked changes in design.

"SWEET BIRD" ABROAD

NEW YORK (AP) — The Broadway drama "Sweet Bird of Youth" will be extensively reproduced abroad next season.

Contracts have been signed for the Tennessee Williams' play to be staged in Germany, the Netherlands, Scandinavia, Argentina and Mexico.

Corn Futures Prices Sink To New Low

CHICAGO (AP)—The extended price declines on the Board of Trade carried all corn futures contracts to a succession of new low prices for the season again this week.

September soybeans also sank to a new low and some of the new crop months ended the week near the bottoms for the year on setbacks ranging nearly two cents a bushel.

There were a few gains but they were scattered and reflected a shifting of trade positions rather than an improvment in commercial influences.

Most interest centered again in soybeans where prices reacted mainly to initial moderate hedging from the impending harvest and conflicting private crop reports. Otherwise trade volume was slow, continuing near the smallest of the year.

Reports of meager selling of wheat into commercial channels had a steadying effect on that grain.

The only bullish influence of the week had only a slight temporary effect. It was a report to the American Soybean Assn. by F. E. Huey, a crop expert in Adair, Iowa.

Hunt told the association that in a personal survey of the crop he had found development below normal and predicted the yield would not exceed 500 million bushels. The Department of Agriculture in its September report estimated the crop at about 532½ million bushels.

At the end of the week, wheat was ¼ cent a bushel higher to 1 cent lower, September $1.91⅛-¼; corn ¼-1⅛ lower, September $1.14⅞-7/8; oats 2¼ higher to ⅝ lower, September new type contract 66¼-½; rye 3 cents lower to ⅝ higher, September $1.29¾-30; soybeans 1¾-17/8 lower, September $2.05⅞-2.06.

PRODUCTION EXPERT SAYS

World Oil Lineup Changes Possible

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The world's supply and demand picture for petroleum may be headed for a major overhaul.

A production expert says a number of factors may alter the world oil lineup.

The factors include increased exploration, expanded reserves in established producing areas, new sources of supply, and approaching oil self-sufficiency by several countries.

M. A. Wright of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) also believes Iron Curtain oil may be a disrupting influence in the future.

"Last year, 211,000 barrels a day of Communist oil found its way into free world markets," said the coordinator of production for Jersey Standard's worldwide operations.

"By 1965, this flow might increase to 500,000 barrels a day," he said. "Although this is not a great volume—only 2 per cent of world demand—because of the manner in which this trade is conducted its effect might be serious, both politically and economically."

Wright said 72 United States companies were exploring for oil abroad in 1952. Today there are over 150.

"Inevitably this extensive exploration will affect the pattern of petroleum movement as established producing areas expand their reserves and as new sources of supply enter the picture," he said. "For example, newcomers to Venezuela have developed a producing poential on the order of 250,000 barrels a day which they are actively seeking to market."

Some 13 United States and foreign companies have contracted to do exploration and development work in Argentina.

"Today Argentina produces 120,000 and imports about 190,000 barrels a day," Wright told the annual membership meeting of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Assn.

"Under a continued active program, and with reasonable success, Argentina might approach self-sufficient in oil within the next few years."

North Africa is rapidly developing into a major oil-producing area. About a half dozen major fields have been discovered in Algeria since 1956. Nine major discoveries have been made in Libya.

Wright said the French estimate Algeria will be producing 440,000 barrels a day by 1961 and 1,000,000 by 1965.

"This oil is considered to be indigneous to France, which means France might become self sufficient and possibly an oil exporter within a reasonable period of time," he said.

"Libya is close to the large and growing European market and probably will become an important supply source in the future."

Oil has been found in small basins on the West Coast. Wright said production in Nigeria, Gabon and Angola is not large but is very important to the three small countries.

He said new concessions have been granted in Iran and the Kuwait neutral zone and that extensions of concessions in other Middle East areas probably will yield new reserves.

Wright said exploration activity has been at a relatively high level throughout the Far East, although with no notable success.

"Since the Far East is an important consuming area, we can expect continuing efforts to increase indigenous production," he said.

Stock Prices Continue To Skid Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to decline sharply this week and reached its lowest level since mid-February.

It was the third straight week of severe losses.

The week was a historic one. A Russian rocket reached the moon. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev began touring the United States.

Important as these items were, Wall Streeters laid greater stress on continuously tightening credit and higher interest rates. Depressing, too, were the widening effects of the steel strike as it dragged into its third month.

The Soviet moon rocket had only a temporary effect, giving the space age stocks a brief spurt on Monday. Khrushchev's impact on Wall Street was one that bred caution rather than selling. The market waited to see what, if anything, he would propose that would be new in its effect on stock prices. As the week ended, nothing developed in this respect. So the watch-and-wait mood continued.

The Associated Prss average of 60 stocks fell $5.30 to $217.40 for its worst weekly loss since the week ended Oct. 12, 1957, when the average fell $8.20.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week fell 11.58 to 625.78.

The drop in the AP average put that barometer to its lowest point since Feb 18 when it stood at $216.90.

BOWLING ALLEYS
SUPER MARKETS
COMMERCIAL BUILDINGS
SHOPPING CENTERS

Modern architectural treatments developed the need for a Metallic-type building with a low pitch roof, such as the building above. The Metallic Lo-Pitch building combines all the economy and adaptability of standard Metallic buildings plus the Lo-Pitch roof that blends into the architectural pattern of modern shopping centers. Unobstructed, clear span interiors provide maximum usable space. These buildings are easily insulated and air conditioned and can be furnished with any type walls desired. Roofing and siding is available in six eye-appealing colors. Exclusive Stran-Satin color sheets have a two-layer protective coating of vinyl-aluminum that is vastly superior to paint — assures minimum maintenance.

These buildings can be financed through Metallic's own time purchase plan.

Dodd Stresses Farming In His Oak Grove Talk

OAK GROVE, La. (AP) —Campaigning through this agricultural section of north Louisiana Saturday, gubernatorial candidate William J. Dodd stressed his country rearing and said he understands farm problems.

"I live in Baton Rouge now," Dodd said, "but I was reared in the country. And I am familiar with the great contribution agriculture and livestock raising makes to our state economy."

"I will give the farmers better highways over which to transport their produce to market and provide our colleges and universities with more money for research in agriculture and livestock raising," Dodd added.

Dodd blamed former Gov. Jimmie Davis for seizure of Louisiana tidelands by the federal government.

"I want to remind the taxpaying public and especially the school teachers," Dodd said, "that it was during the fiddling, frolicking administration of Jimmie Davis that the federal government stepped in and took away our tidelands.

"If we had been alert and had had real leadership in our state government when this big federal steal took place, Louisiana could now be a tax-free state, just as some of the oil-rich countries of the Near East are."

Dodd asserted that "petty politics during the Davis regime cost this state tens of billions of dollars in tidelands oil."

Van's Platform In Jury Race Is Announced Here

Bernie Van, in announcing his platform in his candidacy for election to the Ouachita Parish Police Jury from Ward 3, Saturday said one of his biggest goals would be to secure a blacktop surface for the ball park road, between Thomas and Standifer avenues.

He pointed out that stepped up activities in little league baseball and other youth functions in that area have increased the necessity for hardsurfacing the street.

A cloud of dust hangs over both the American Legion stadium and the Little League park, due to the dusty condition of the street, Van declared.

Van, a resident of the Southside for the past 30 years, said he would work for better drainage and "at all times will work diligently for all the people of Ward 3."

Married and the father of four children, Van is a member of the Memorial Park Baptist Church, a veteran of World War II in which he was wounded in North Africa, a member of the Masonic lodge, VFW and Electrical Workers Union No. 446.

Almost 40 per cent of the area of the continental United States receives too little rain for general agricultural purpoes, according to a survey by the Twenieth Century Fund.

Dodd Stresses Farming In His Oak Grove Talk

OAK GROVE, La. (AP) —Campaigning through this agricultural section of north Louisiana Saturday, gubernatorial candidate William J. Dodd stressed his country rearing and said he understands farm problems.

"I live in Baton Rouge now," Dodd said, "but I was reared in the country. And I am familiar with the great contribution agriculture and livestock raising makes to our state economy."

"I will give the farmers better highways over which to transport their produce to market and provide our colleges and universities with more money for research in agriculture and livestock raising," Dodd added.

Dodd blamed former Gov. Jimmie Davis for seizure of Louisiana tidelands by the federal government.

"I want to remind the taxpaying public and especially the school teachers," Dodd said, "that it was during the fiddling, frolicking administration of Jimmie Davis that the federal government stepped in and took away our tidelands.

"If we had been alert and had had real leadership in our state government when this big federal steal took place, Louisiana could now be a tax-free state, just as some of the oil-rich countries of the Near East are."

Dodd asserted that "petty politics during the Davis regime cost this state tens of billions of dollars in tidelands oil."

Van's Platform In Jury Race Is Announced Here

Bernie Van, in announcing his platform in his candidacy for election to the Ouachita Parish Police Jury from Ward 3, Saturday said one of his biggest goals would be to secure a blacktop surface for the ball park road, between Thomas and Standifer avenues.

He pointed out that stepped up activities in little league baseball and other youth functions in that area have increased the necessity for hardsurfacing the street.

A cloud of dust hangs over both the American Legion stadium and the Little League park, due to the dusty condition of the street, Van declared.

Van, a resident of the Southside for the past 30 years, said he would work for better drainage and "at all times will work diligently for all the people of Ward 3."

Married and the father of four children, Van is a member of the Memorial Park Baptist Church, a veteran of World War II in which he was wounded in North Africa, a member of the Masonic lodge, VFW and Electrical Workers Union No. 446.

Almost 40 per cent of the area of the continental United States receives too little rain for general agricultural purpoes, according to a survey by the Twentieth Century Fund.

HINKLE DRIVE
HEY, MOM — SCHOOL'S JUST OVER THERE, just a block away from this cypress shingle and brick home! And inside, you'll enjoy: comfortable-sized (15x17) living room; 2 bedrooms (each with 2 closets); and extra large (19x 19) pine paneled den that has drapes, bookcases, and extra large closet. Other features include: wall heat, blinds, attic fan, and shady 60x110 ft. lot. It can be yours immediately for $350 and closing—delay not in seeing this home!

WALL WILLIAMS ROAD
OH, GIVE ME LAND . . . and here it is, an acre of it (with shade and fruit trees) surrounding this 3 bedroom home. And inside, there's: spacious (14x18) living room; kitchen with Formica topped natural finished cabinets, dishwasher, ventahood . . . as well as highly polished oak floors, storage room, central heating, and blinds. All this can be yours for $100 and closing —and lookin' it over can be arranged immediately!

NORTH 10TH ST.
A PRIZE FOR THE WISE: yes, for this home was good value at the original price—and at the reduced price, it's most a steal! For just look what $100 "cash" moves you into: spacious (16x 13) living room; dining room with built-in China cabinet; 2 bedrooms; den; and pine paneled study. And more: glistening oak floors, ventahood, central heating, attic fan, blinds, double carport, storage, garage, and large (100x150) lot with St. Augustine, trees, and barbecue pit. You'll wanta' see, so call now!

AUSTIN AVENUE
DON'T DENY YOUR FAMILY the privilege of livin' in their own home! And here's a big 'un—with its 1540 sq. ft. arranged into: spacious (15x20) fireplaced living room with built-in bookcase; dining room; breakfast room; 10x12 utility room (could be 4th bedroom or study); 3 bedroms . . . plus oak floors, blinds, attic fan, floor furnaces, carport, storage, and shady 75x150 lot with fenced back yard and just 4 blocks of Mitchell Grammar. And the amazing part is that $450 "cash" will move you in immediately! See it without fail today!

RESTFUL HOMES ROAD
AN ELUSIVE THING—charm—but when you see this 3-year-old brick home, you'll know it has it! You'll like the pleasant effect of the paneling in all rooms except 2 of the bedrooms; the large (15x23) living room; kitchen with Formica-topped natural finished cabinets, ventahood; 3 bedrooms have double sliding door closets; and tile bath with shower over tub. And also: central heating, attic fan, carport, storage, and partially fenced 200 ft. lot with large shade trees. A call—we'll show anytime!

SPLANE DRIVE
SOMETHING NEW, SOMETHING OLD —for this home is only 1½ years old and is constructed of solid masonry "old brick". And you'll like everyone of its 1736 sq. ft.: the entertaining size (15x24) living room; work-saving kitchen with built-in Tappan oven and range, Formica topped natural finish cabinets; 3 bedrooms, 2 have double sliding door closets; and ceramic tile bath with dressing table. The adjoining utility room has double sink and plumbing for 2nd bath, and there's drapes thruout, blinds, central heating, attic fan, double carport, patio, 26x30 shop building, and the 105 ft. lot (landscaped by Quaker Hills) has shade trees, barbecue pit. Don't You

Believe It

If your friends tell you there are no good values on today's market. Just take a peek at this neat, 3 bedroom home in the College area. There's a luxuriously carpeted living room and dining area. There's a shower over the tub in the compact bath. There'll be no chilling winter drafts with the floor furnaces in this home. This lovely home on its landscaped corner lot is one of the best values on the market. For full information call Hershal McConathy, FA 3-6328 or Garland Moore, FA 2-2234.

STEVE CANYON

MILTON CANIFF

YOU'VE BEEN SNOOPING ON ME!

YOUR HOUSE HAS BEEN UNDER OBSERVATION, MISS CALHOON! THIS WAS ORDERED WHEN YOU REFUSED TO VACATE AFTER THE MISSILE BASE WAS OPENED...

WHILE THE CASE IS IN LITIGATION, A SECURITY WATCH HAS BEEN MAINTAINED...

DURING THE NIGHT LAUNCHING TEST, A RED LIGHT APPEARED SOMEWHERE ON YOUR PROPERTY —THEN WENT OFF

THAT COULD HAVE BEEN COINCIDENCE! —LATER, SEVERAL FOGGED INFRARED CAMERA PLATES TURNED UP IN YOUR TRASH...

THE VEHICLE WAS FIRED AT NIGHT BECAUSE IT CARRIED SECRET EXTERIOR EQUIPMENT

IT COULD HAVE BEEN PHOTOGRAPHED FROM UP HERE IF A TELEPHOTO LENS HAD BEEN USED..

RIDICULOUS! YOU HAVE TRIED A COURT ORDER! YOU HAVE TRIED TO BULLY ME...

AND NOW YOU PRETEND THAT THERE IS A SPY IN MY HOUSEHOLD, BUT I STAY HERE!

MISS CALHOON, IT IS ACTUALLY DANGEROUS FOR YOU TO REMAIN! IF A MISSILE SHOULD MALFUNCTION...

NOW DON'T TRY TO FRIGHTEN ME! IF YOU'VE FINISHED, YOU'D BETTER LEAVE...

GO PLAY WITH YOUR FINGER-PRINT FILES!

MEANWHILE = AT DYER AIR FORCE BASE IN THE VALLEY BELOW...

LIEUT. COL. S. B. CANYON REPORTING AS ORDERED, SIR...

COL. CANYON, I WANT YOU TO HEAR THIS BASE SECURITY REPORT...

GO AHEAD, MAJOR!

SIR, THE TEST LAUNCH OF THE 'BEAGLE,' A NEW MISSILE WHICH CAN BE RECALLED BY THE CONTROLLER, HAS BEEN DELAYED..

MISS COPPER CALHOON HAD A LARGE TELEPHONE TRUNK LINE INSTALLED IN HER HOUSE ON THE HILL...

BECAUSE IT IS WITHIN OUR SECURITY AREA, WE TAPPED EACH UNIT IN THE TRUNK... ONE LINE CARRIED AN OUTGOING DOT AND DASH MESSAGE IN A CODE WE HAVE NOT YET BEEN ABLE TO BREAK...

BRINGING UP FATHER

WHAT A DAY AT THE OFFICE! I READ SO MANY STATEMENTS AND REPORTS, I'M GROGGY-- IT'S GOOD TO GIT HOME FOR A REST!

CAN'T YOU BALANCE YOUR CHECK-BOOK, MOTHER?

NO - I'LL HAVE FATHER DO IT WHEN HE COMES HOME-

I'VE GOT TO DUCK THAT JOB --- AND I KNOW JUST HOW TO DO IT!

DON'T BOTHER SHOWIN' ME ANY MORE --- THESE WILL DO FINE!

IT'S GOING TO BE TOUGH WEARIN' THESE SUNGLASSES INDOORS - BUT IT'S BETTER THAN TRYIN TO BALANCE MAGGIE'S CHECKBOOK-

THE DOCTOR SAID MY EYES ARE WEAK--I HAVE TO REST THEM FOR A FEW DAYS -

--OH, I KNOW JIGGS WILL BE TERRIBLY DISAPPOINTED --HE WOULD HAVE BEEN ONLY TOO GLAD TO DO IT--

THEY WANTED YOU TO JUDGE THE BATHING-BEAUTY CONTEST AT THE CLUB -- BUT I TOLD THEM YOU'RE NOT IN CONDITION-

YOU SEE, MR. SWEENEY, MY NOVEL IS TO BE ABOUT A FARM, SO I WANT YOU, A MAN OF THE SOIL, TO TEACH ME THE PULSE OF THE EARTH, THE HEARTTHROB OF MOTHER NATURE.

BUNK, LADY! I'M JUST A GUY TRYING TO SCRATCH A LIVING FROM THE DIRT.

BUT YOUR LOVE OF THE SPROUTING GRAIN IN THE FRESH-PLOWED FIELDS... OF THE LOWING CATTLE WINDING O'ER THE LEA, YOUR PASSION FOR THE ELEMENTS...

LOOK, YOU! I GOTTA GO WORM A TOMATO PATCH.

OH, PLEASE SIT DOWN, MR. SWEENEY! TELL ME WHAT POETRY THE COOL GRASS WHISPERS TO YOU! WHAT MEANS THE RUSTLING OF THESE DEAR, DEAD LEAVES?

IDEA

ALL RIGHT, I WILL SIT DOWN...

OH, GOODY, GOODY! NOW TELL ME ALL ABOUT YOURSELF! YOUR HOPES, YOUR DREAMS. I WANT TO KNOW THE REAL YOU!

WELL, UH... AHEM!...

LATER.

NOW FOR A GOOD SCRUB-DOWN WITH STRONG, ANTISEPTIC SOAP.

NEXT MORNING.

I DIDN'T SLEEP A WINK! I TELL YOU, I'M ON FIRE!

WHY, WHAT'S THE MATTER DREAMY?

I ITCH! I'VE GOT A MILLION BITES!

HMM!... WERE YOU IN GRASS--OR DRY LEAVES YESTERDAY?

DRY LEAVES! I PRACTICALLY WALLOWED IN THEM WHILE MR. SWEENEY SAT ON A ROCK AND TOLD ME ABOUT---

I KNEW IT!... CHIGGERS! THE WOODS ARE ALIVE WITH THEM!

BUT SURELY BROTHER WARNED YOU TO SCRUB YOURSELF WITH STRONG SOAP AS SOON AS YOU GOT HOME !

NO, HE DIDN'T!

WUP! SOMETHING TELLS ME I'D BETTER FIND SOMETHING TO DO IN THE FAR PASTURE!

THE WINNER

Picallilli
Mrs. Davis Whitman
Choudrant, La.

1 gal. green tomatoes
1 gal. ripe tomatoes
12 green bell peppers
12 red bell peppers
12 medium size onions
1 medium cabbage head
1 bunch celery
10 cups sugar
4 cups vinegar
2 bags mixed pickling spices
Sprinkle of salt

Chop all vegetables fine —scald ripe tomatoes — peel, — chop and add to other vegetables in large enamel dish pan. Cover with sugar and vinegar. Make 2 bags with one 4 oz. box of pickling spices. Place down in mixture. Start cooking immediately. Cook slowly and stir often to prevent sticking. Cook until thick. Pack into sterilized jars and seal. Most delicious with vegetables and meats — especially peas, roast and chicken.

SECOND PLACE

Fig Conserve
Mrs. J. L. Westbrook
Box 782
Bastrop, La.

2 lbs. fresh figs
1½ lbs. sugar
1 orange
½ cup pecans
½ lb. raisins

Cut all except nuts in small pieces and cook until thick and transparent (about 1 hr.) Pack and process, at simmering temperature for 15 minutes.

Relish
Mrs. W. J. Benton
213 Stewart Ave.
West Monroe, La.

2 qts. onions
2 qts. cucumbers
2 large cauliflower

Put each through food chopper and into separate bowls. Pour boiling water with salt to taste over each and let stand over night. Drain well and pour all three together in a large container and set aside.

Then mix and boil the following:

4 green peppers — cut fine
2 qts. vinegar
8 cups sugar
1 oz. curry powder
1 oz. tumeric
2-3 cup flour
½ cup prepared mustard

After these have boiled, add 1 oz. celery seed and 2 oz. of mustard seed. While mixture is still very hot, pour over the vegetables. Mix and bottle.

Hot Pepper Relish
Hazel Nugent
P. O. Box 341
Olla, La.

12 green bell peppers
12 red bell peppers
1½ qts. green and red hot peppers
8 onions
Sweeten to taste

Wash peppers. Remove all seeds. Prepare onions. Grind peppers and onions in food chopper, very fine. Add dill seeds, salt and cover with vinegar and cook until turns brown. Tie mixed spices in cloth bag and cook with mixture.

NOTE: (Do not keep hands in water when removing seeds.)

Pepper Hash
Mrs. W. J. Benton
213 Stewart Ave.
West Monroe, La.

1 medium cabbage
6 large onions
1½ dozen small green peppers or 9 medium green peppers

Put all through food chopper. (Take seeds out of only half the peppers.) Sprinkle with ½ cup salt and let stand over night. Drain well. (squeeze as dry as possible with hands) and cover well with vinegar.

Add:

1 large tbs. celery seed
3-4 cup mustard seed
3 to 4 cups granulated sugar-depending on taste

Stir occasionally for a day or two before using. Does not have to be sealed, but keep in a cool place.

14 Day Pickles
Mrs. R. C. Craft
Terry, La.

2 gal. cucumbers
1 tbs. alum
5 pts. strong vinegar
6 cups sugar
1 oz. celery seed
1 oz. cinnamon (stick)

Select and wash 2 gal. of small cucumbers, if large, cut in pieces. Put in stone jar. Add two cups salt. Pour 1 gal. of boiling water over them. Let stand 7 days covered, skimming if necessary. On 8th day drain, pour 1 gal. of boiling water over them. Let stand 24 hours. Drain and pour 1 gal. of boiling water over them. Add 1 tbs. of alum. Let stand 24 hours. Drain and pour 1 gal. boiling water over them. Let stand. On 12th day drain, heat 5 pts. strong vinegar, 6 cups sugar, 1 oz. stick cinnamon, 1 oz. celery seed, pour over them.

On 13th day, drain, reheat liquid, pour over them. On 14th day put cucumbers in jars, reheat liquid. Pour over them and seal.

(Frozen) Stawberry Jam
Elaine Bass
Rt. No. 1
Wisner, La.

Amount of fruit to buy (3 cups (30 oz.) frozen sliced strawberries
3⅛ cup prepared fruit
½ box sure-jell
3 cups sugar
Add 2 tbsp. water to fruit

Use a standard 8-ounce or ½ pint cup and level measures in measuring both sugar and fruit. Or weigh both. Measure sugar into a bowl to add later. Measure the exact amount of prepared fruit into 5 to 6 qt. saucepan. Pack fruit solidly into cup. If there is not quite enough, add water to fill last cup or fraction of cup needed. Mix Sure-Jell with prepared fruit in pan. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil; then boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. (A full rolling boil is a steaming, tumbling boil that cannot be stirred down.)

Remove jam from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses, leaving ½ inch space at top of each.

Green Tomato Pickles
Mrs. W. M. Johnston
Rt. 1, Box 231½
West Monroe, La.

7½ lb. or ½ pk. green tomatoes
2 gal. water
8 cups sugar
2 tsp. whole cloves
2 tsp. pickling spice
2 cups lime
4 pts. vinegar
2 tsp. celery seed
1 tsp. salt
2 cups raisins

Start at night. Slice tomatoes one - half inch thick. Mix the lime and water and pour on sliced tomatoes. Let stand 12 hours. Then take out and drain 5 or 6 hours. When drain time is about over, boil together the vinegar, celery seed, spices and salt. Pour over the tomatoes while hot and let stand 12 hours Then boil until tender, add raisins and cook until raisins swell. Pack and seal while hot. Water bath 10 min.

Mrs. Rose M. Haire
Box 155
Archibald, La.

7 lbs. sliced cucumbers
2 cup lime
Water to cover

Let cucumbers stand 24 hours in lime water solution. Wash thoroughly in clear water. Then let set in clear water 15 min. Drain.

(Frozen) Stawberry Jam
Elaine Bass
Rt. No. 1
Wisner, La.

Amount of fruit to buy (3 cups (30 oz.) frozen sliced strawberries
3⅛ cup prepared fruit
½ box sure-jell
3 cups sugar
Add 2 tbsp. water to fruit

Use a standard 8-ounce or ½ pint cup and level measures in measuring both sugar and fruit. Or weigh both. Measure sugar into a bowl to add later. Measure the exact amount of prepared fruit into 5 to 6 qt. saucepan. Pack fruit solidly into cup. If there is not quite enough, add water to fill last cup or fraction of cup needed, Mix Sure-Jell with prepared fruit in pan. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil; then boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. (A full rolling boil is a steaming, tumbling boil that cannot be stirred down.)

Remove jam from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses, leaving ½ inch space at top of each.

Neverfail Rolls
Mrs. Clint Hanna
637 Lakeshore Drive
Monroe, La.

1 qt. sweet milk
1 scant cup sugar
1 cup shortening

Put on stove and let come to a boil. Set aside to cool. When cooled to milkwarm dissolve 1 package of yeast (dry or cake) in ¼ cup of lukewarm water and stir into mixture. Stir in enough flour to make the consistency of cake batter. Set aside in a warm place and let rise double in size. Usuaully takes about 2 hours.

When risen, sift into 1 quart flour

1 heaping tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. soda
1 tbs salt

Work the dry ingredients into the sponge. Work out bumps with the hands. Put into refrigerator to be used as needed. It is better the day after having set in the refrigerator. To make rolls nice and tender, brush on both sides with melted butter, then fold to put to rise, or make in balls (2 or 3) in muffin tins. Make out rolls 2 hours before baking time and set in warm place to rise.

This dough will last four or five days if kept in refrigerator.

Farmerville, La.
Peanut Brittle

2 cups sugar
¼ cup water
3-4 cup white Karo
1 tsp. salt
2 cups raw peanuts

Put all ingredients in a boiler and cook at high temperature. Add peanuts and cook until candy will form threads when dropped in cup of water, add 2 tsp. soda stir well, pour on greased aluminum or enameled platter until cool.

SECOND PLACE
Louella's Raggedy Anns
Mrs. W. B. Sanders
Rt. 1, Box 406
Gilbert, La.

1 cup seedless raisins
½ cup butter or oleo
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
4 cups uncrushed cornflakes
1½ cups sifted flour
1 tsp. soda
½ cup shredded coconut
1 tsp. vanilla

Rinse raisins, drain on a towel. Cream butter thoroughly. Add sugar and cream. Next add flour with soda. Blend in remaining ingredients. Drop by spoonful onto ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 375 degrees 12 to 15 minutes.

Divinity
Mrs. Mike John Jr.
406 Filhiol
Monroe, La.

2½ cups sugar
½ cups light corn syrup
¾ cup water
1 egg white
¼ tsp. salt
1½ tsp. vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts (1 cup may be used)
½ tsp. almond or vanilla flavoring

In a large saucepan combine sugar, corn syrup and water. Cover and bring to a boil; remove cover and boil over medium heat without stirring until a few drops form a soft ball in cold water. Remove from heat. Beat egg whites until quite stiff but still moist. Gradually pour one-third of the hot syrup into egg whites, beating constantly. Heat remaining syrup until it reaches hard ball stage. Pour ½ of syrup over egg white mixture, beating constantly. Return syrup to stove and heat to soft soft crack stage. Remove from heat and pour remaining syrup over egg mixture begins to lose its gloss and becomes quite thick. Quickly stir in nuts and drop by spoonfuls on wax paper. Cherries may be substituted for nuts. This is a never fail recipe but important to use a candy thermometer.

Mrs. H. B. Todd
100 Apple St.
Ferriday, La.

1 box brown sugar
4 eggs
2 cups flour
1 tsp vanilla
1 cup pecans, chopped
8 orange gum drops

Cut pecans and gum drops into 2 additional tbsp flour. Set aside. Mix rest of ingredients. Then add gum drops and pecans. Pour into well-greased shallow pan, about 9" x 14". Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool in pan, then cut into squares.

Christmas Candy
Mrs. G. O. McGuffie
Harrisonburg, La.

1 cup margarine, butter or shortening
1 can condensed milk
2½ boxes powdered sugar (sifted)
3 cups chopped pecans
2 tsp. vanilla

In a large bowl pour the melted shortening. Add milk and sugar gradually. Mix this well then add pecans and thoroughly blend. Shape into balls about 1 inch in diameter, put on wax paper and chill a few hours or overnight.

Dip each ball into a mixture composed of the following, until coated:

¼ lb. paraffin
1 6 oz. pkg. chocolate chips

Melt this in a double boiler. Keep mixture hot while balls are being dipped. Lay on waxed paper.

Pralines
Mrs. G. O. McGuffie
Harrisonburg, La.

4 cups sugar (1 brown, 3 white)
1 tsp. salt
2 cups s cream
3 cups pecan halves

Neverfail Rolls
Mrs. Clint Hanna
637 Lakeshore Drive
Monroe, La.

1 qt. sweet milk
1 scant cup sugar
1 cup shortening

Put on stove and let come to a boil. Set aside to cool. When cooled to milkwarm dissolve 1 package of yeast (dry or cake) in ¼ cup of lukewarm water and stir into mixture. Stir in enough flour to make the consistency of cake batter. Set aside in a warm place and let rise double in size. Usuaully takes about 2 hours.

When risen, sift into 1 quart flour

Buttermilk Pie
Mrs. J. R. Catching
1002 Saint John Street
Monroe, Louisiana

4 egg yolks
¾ c. butter or oleo
2 tbsp. flour
1 c. sugar
1 c. sour buttermilk
Nutmeg or vanilla to flavor.

Bake in uncooked pie crust until firm. Use the egg whites for the top of the pie. Also mix ½ cup of sugar in with the whites after they are well beaten.

Vinaterta
Mrs. Luther Reed, Sr.
P. O. Box 820
Monroe, La.

Filling;
2 lbs. dried prunes
1 cup sugar
½ tsp. cardamon seeds
1 tsp. vanilla extract
¼ tsp. salt

Cake:
4 cups sifted all purpose flour
2 tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
¼¼ cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla extract

Make filling first: Soak prunes for several hours or use the tenderized kind that don't require soaking. Cover with water and cook slowly for 45 minutes or until tender when tested with a fork. Drain and save liquid. When cool enough to handle, remove pits and work prunes through a food grinder or chop very fine. Place prunes along with ½ cup of prune liquid, sugar and cardamon seeds (split these in half) in a sauce pan and cook, stirring for 10 to 15 minutes or until thick as apple butter. Cool, stir in vanilla extract and salt, set aside.

To make cake: Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Work butter or margarine until soft, then work in sugar gradually until mixture is smooth and creamy. Beat eggs slightly and into mixture along with vanilla extract. Add flour mixture and milk alternately, ending with flour. Mix well. Chill dough in refrigerator about 2 hours.

Start your oven at 350 F. degrees or moderate. Cut chilled dough into 7 equal parts. Roll each part very thin (like pastry), place on top of an inverted 8" cake pan, trim edges to make a neat circle. Bake about 20 minutes or until lightly brown. Remove from pan with spatula and cool while you roll and bake the remaining six layers.

Spread prune filling between the thin layers of cake and stack the layers on top of each other. Wrap in a dry cloth and store at least 24 hours before serving.

This unusual party cake recipe is from an Icelandic cook (name unknown). It is truly a new dessert and so interesting.

Pecan Pie
Mrs. E. N. Neal
P. O. Box 114
Epps, La.

1 cup pecan kernels
3 eggs
½ cup sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
⅛ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla

Beat eggs, add sugar and syrup, then salt and vanilla, then last melted fat. Place the pecans in the bottom of an unbaked pie crust. Add the filling and bake slowly in a moderate oven 50 to 60 minutes. The pecans will rise to the top of the filling and form a crusted layer.

Oragne Filling
Mrs. Hazel Abraugh
205 Bancroft St.
West Monroe, La.

4 egg yolks or 2 whole eggs
1 cup sugar
Butter size of egg
2 tablespoons orange juice

Grated rind of one orange.

Combine and cook until thick in double boiler. Let cool and spread on cake.

Chess Pie
Mrs. E. N. Neal
P. O. Box 114
Epps, La.

1 cup butter
1½ cups sugar
4 eggs
¼ tsp. almond extract
½ tsp. vanilla
2 tbsp. meal

Cream butter and sugar. Beat eggs but not until fluffy. Add almond and vanilla extract. To make a mealy effect, add 2 tbsp. corn meal. If you wish, add 1 cup crushed pineapple. Pour in unbaked pie crust and bake slowly in an oven (325).

Caramel Filling
Mrs. W. P. Martin
Delhi, La.

Banana Pudding
Mrs. John W. Brantley
Farmerville, La.

4 eggs
1 qt. milk
1½ cups sugar
4 ripe bananas
½ cup sifted flour
⅛ lb. butter.
12 vanilla wafers

Pour milk in thick boiler, heat to boiling, add sugar and flour sifted together, add 4 egg yolks and butter, stir contantly until thick, add seasoning, pour into baking dish that is lined with vanilla wafers. Cut bananas into slices and put over custard. Beat the egg white until stiff, add ½ cup sugar, 1 tsp. flavoring and bake until frosting is slightly browned.

Caramel Frosting
Mrs. J. W. LeGuin
808 K St.
Monroe, La.

Into a heavy iron skillet measure:
3 cups of white sugar
1 cup butter

Cook over high heat until lightly brown. Stir constantly to keep from burning. Add 1½ cups milk slowly and cook slowly until slightly warm. Beat until smooth. While still not thick enough to hold shape smooth 1 tbs. on each layer. This will soak in and make the cake hold moisture. Continue beating until it will hold shape and spread on cake and stack. Good for jam or apple sauce, and spice cakes.

Mincemeat Pie
Mrs. P. D. Monzingo
Box 412
Huttig, Ark.

Legendary as the Christmas feast is mincemeat pie. In olden times the devout Christians were supposed to eat a small mincemeat pie each day, beginning Dec. 25 through Jan. 6. This was called the old 12 days. The recipe symbolized the gifts of the Magi; the crust, gold; the spices, Myrrh the aroma frankincense.

This is a very special recipe and is a family traditon and makes good gifts for special people.

2 cups boiled, chopped lean venison, neck good used this way
2 cups white raisins
2 cups packed lightly fresh rose petals
2 cups dark raisins
2 cups chopped cooking apples
2 cups chopped green tomatoes
2 large oranges (grate 2 tbs rind) use all pulp
2 large lemons, juice only
1 cup pomegranate juice
2 tsp cloves
2 cups cooked chopped evaporated peaches
2 cups brown sugar
1 tablespoon salt

Soak peaches and raisins overnight in cold water to cover. Boil until tender, about 15 minutes. Chop all fruit and meat about size of small raisins. Add cooked chopped venison, green tomatoes and sugar. Bring slowly to a boil -- simmer 15 minutes. May be stored in freezer—or sealed in pint jars processed 10 minutes at 10 pounds of pressure. Makes 11 pints. A lump of butter size of walnut or half cup of chopped nuts may be added to pint.

Sweet Potato Pecan Pie
Helene Jo George
P. O. Box 263
St. Joseph, La.

1 cup white or brown karo
2 eggs
¼ cup brown sugar
1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup mashed, baked sweet potatoes

Beat eggs well. Add sugar, syrup, potatoes and pecans. Bake 10 minutes at 400 degrees and reduce to 375 and bake until firm. Serve cool or warm.

Crust:
1½ cup flour
¾ tsp. salt
½ cup lard
2½ tbs. water

Measure flour without sifting. Add salt and sift into bowl. Add lard and blend until mixture looks like coarse meal. Measure water directly from tap, sprinkle flour and mix gently together with a knife. Dough will hold together but will dry enough to handle. Roll circle 1 inch larger than pan on all sides.

Chocolate Angel Pie
Mrs. Charles Fulson
414 Speed Ave.
Monroe, La.

2 egg whites
⅛ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. cream of tartar
½ cup sugar
½ cup finely chopped walnuts or pecans
½ tsp. vanilla
1 package Baker's German Sweet Chocolate
3 tbs. water
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup whipping cream

Combine egg whites, salt and cream of tartar and beat until foamy. Add the sugar, 2 tbs. at a time, beating well after each addition. Continue beating until very stiff peaks wil form. Fold in the nuts and ½ tsp. of vanilla.

Spoon into lightly greased 8-inch pie pan and make a nest-like shell building up the sides to about ½ inch above the pan. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) 50 to 55 minutes. Cool.

Melt chocolate in water over low heat, stirring constantly. Cool until thickened. Add 1 tsp. vanilla. Then whip cream and fold in the chocolate mixture. Pile into meringue shell. Chill for about 2 hours.

1 stick margarine
¾ cup sugar

Mix into a crumble mixture and store in refrigerator until ready to use.

Cranberry Applesauce Pie
Mrs. Alton A. Braddock
1208 So. 4th St.
Chairman Education Section
Louisiana Dietetic Association

1 1-3 tbs. plain gelatin
1-3 cup cold water
1½ cup cranberry sauce
1 pint (2 cups) applesauce
1 tbs. lemon juice
2 tbs. sugar
pinch of salt
½ pint whipping cream
nutmeg

Add water to gelatin; soak 2 minutes and dissolve over boiling water. Measure cranberry sauce and appelsauce into mixing bowl. Add lemon juice and sugar and salt. Add gelatin mix; and blend. Pour into cooked pastry shell; chill. Spread top with whipped cream and sprinkle with nutmeg.

Pear Pie
Mrs. J. B. Allen
Rt. 1
Ruston, La.

6 cups sliced Kieffer pears
1½ cups sugar
1 cup water
Cream

Peel pears, slice thin. Pour sugar and water over pears in saucepan and cook over medium heat until pears are very tender. Mash with potato masher and put into unbaked pie shell. Put thin cream all over the filling and bake in 425 degree oven until crust is brown. Or, omit the cream before baking and serve with whipped cream.

NOTE: The amount of water needed to cook the pears depends on ripeness of pears. If there is too much juice left when pears are done, drain some of the juice off. Or if the pears cook dry before getting tender add a little more water.

THE WINNER

Mrs. Alen IT. Givens

603 Auburn Ave.
Monroe, La.
Yeast Hush Puppies

1 package dry yeast
2 cups white corn meal
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
½ cup warm water
½ cup flour
2-3 cup milk
1 tbs. grated onion
1 tbs. shortening

Dissolve dry yeast in warm water. Beat egg slightly, add milk, onion and liquid shortening. Sift dry ingredients and add above liquids. Let stand 30 or 40 minutes. Drop from spoon into deep fat. (Should be about the size of hen egg.) Fry until golden brown.

SECOND PLACE

Orange Bread
Mrs. H. C. Loyd
118 West Cypress Avenue
Bastrop, La.

3 cups enriched flour
4 tsp. baking powder
¾ tsp. salt
1 cup sugar
1 egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup grated orange rind
1 cup orange juice
1-3 cup salad oil or melted shortening

Sift flour measures; Add baking powder, salt, sugar and sift again. Combine egg, orange rind, juice and oil, slightly cooled. Pour into a greased loaf pan 9½x5½x3 inches and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees about 1 hour till done. Remove from pan, cool. Better if you wait a day to slice and serve it.

Ice Box Rolls
Mrs. R. C. Lyon
431 E. Miss. Ave.
Ruston, La.

1 cake yeast, dry or cake
1 cup lukewarm water
½ beaten egg, white and yolk together
2 tbs melted shortening
3 cups sifted flour
1 tsp salt

Dissolve yeast in cup of water. Beat egg, use ½, add sugar, salt, shortening, yeast and water. Beat in 3 cups flour. Beat well, set in warm place to rise until double in bulk. Set in refrigerator over night, make out rolls as needed and let rise before using.

Chocolate Roll
Mrs. B. J. Peters
1224 Tampa
Tallulah, La.

Yolk of 6 eggs
¾ Cups sugar
2 tbsp. Cocoa

Beat egg yolks then add cocoa and sugar mixed and beat about two minutes, fold in the 6 egg whites beaten stiff. Bake in cookie like pan well greased and floured 15 minutes in moderate oven. Turn out on wax paper sprinkled with sugar. Cool, whip ½ pt. cream, spread over and roll up.

Sauce

2 tbsp. cocoa
1 cup sugar
2 tbsp. flour
1 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
Small lump butter

Cook slowly until thick. Beat about 5 minutes, cool. Serve on top of roll after cut.

Waffles
Mrs. R. C. Lyon
431 E. Miss. Ave.
Ruston, La.

2 cups flour
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2 eggs
1¼ cups sweet milk
6 tbs. melted shortening
1 tsp. sugar

Mix dry ingredients, add beaten egg yolks, milk and shortening. Add beaten egg whites last.

Caramel Rolls
Mrs. S. H. Lishan
Rt. 1, Winnsboro, La.

1 cake yeast
1 tsp. sugar
½ cup lukewarm water
2 cups milk
9½ cups flour
4 eggs
1 cup sugar
½ cup butter or margarine
¼ tsp. salt

Dissolve the yeast and the sugar in the lukewarm water. Scald the milk and add just enough flour to make a light batter, not a stiff one. Beat well and let this cool. Add the yeast; again beat well, adding more flour if necessary. Let this rise until light, double its bulk, then add the eggs, sugar creamed butter or margarine, and the salt. Add enough flour so that the dough is just stiff enough to handle. Let the dough rise until it doubles its bulk. Then roll out dough half inch thick and fill with the following:

1½ cups sugar
1½ cups raisins or currants
1 tbs. cinnamon
½ cup butter or margarine.

Mix sugar, raisins or currants and cinnamon and sprinkle over dough. Dot with butter. Roll up the dough as for jelly roll and cut off pieces one or one and a half inches thick. Prepare muffin tins by rubbing ¾ cup of butter and 3 cups brown sugar together to make a paste and mix with 1 cup chopped nuts. Line each tin ¼ inch or deep with this mixture. Stand the slices of rolled dough on end in the pan. Bake about 30 minutes at 400 degrees. Be sure oven is not to hot as sugar might burn. Turn on, sugar side up. Makes 3 doz.

Louisiana Cracklin' Bread
Mrs. Bonnie Sue Lott
109 Long St.
West Monroe, La.

Sift together:
1 cup all purpose flour
2 cups yellow corn meal
3 tsp baking powder
1 tsp soda
½ tsp salt
3 tbs sugar
Add: 1½ cups cracklins
Combine:
2 eggs well beaten
1 cup buttermilk
¼ cup bacon drippings.

Add to dry ingredients all other ingredients all at once. Stir quickly only until all flour is dampened. Fill well greased muffin or corn stick pans 2-3 full. Bake in moderate hot oven, 400 degrees, 12 to 15 minutes. Yields 1 doz. muffins or corn sticks.

Quick Sally Lunn
Mrs. J. W. Kilbourne
1317 Emerson Ave.
Monroe, La.

2 cups flour
½ tsp. salt
2 tsp. baking powder
sift together.

Rub 2 tbs of sugar in ½ cup of butter until creamed. Add 2 well beaten eggs, the flour and ¾ cup of milk. Bake in moderate oven the same as loaf cake for 40 minutes or until done.

Old Virginia Batter Bread
Mrs. J. W. Kilbourne
1317 Emerson Ave.,
Monroe, La.

Boil together one cup milk and one cup water. Pour while hot over one large cup of corn meal and 2 tbs cold, cooked rice, which has been mashed smooth. Stir in one tbs lard or butter, 1 tsp salt, 2 well beaten eggs. Mix well. Bake in deep pan and bake rather slowly.

THE WINNER

Mrs. Sabna Lott
Hungarian Meat Loaf
109 Long St.
West Monroe, La.

2 lbs. ground beef
4 cups bread crumbs
1 egg
1 c sour cream
1½ tsp salt
½ tsp black pepper
Dash of red pepper
Pinch sage
1 tsp. paprika

Combine beef, bread crumbs, slightly beaten egg and sour cream. Season with salt, black pepper, red pepper, sage and paprika. Pack firmly in loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 1½ hours.

Beef A LaMode
Mrs. E. N. Neal
P. O. Box 114
Epps, La.

In a piece of the rump, cut deep openings with a sharp knife; put in pieces of pork cut into dice, previously rolled in pepper, salt, cloves and nutmeg. Into an iron stew - pan lay pieces of pork, sliced onions, slices of lemon, one or two carrots and a bay leaf; lay the meat on and put over it a piece of bread - crust as large as the hand, a half pint wine and a little vinegar, and afterwards an equal quanity of water or broth, till the meat is half covered; cover the dish close and cook till tender. Then take it out, rub the gravy thoroughly through a sieve, skim off the fat, add some sour cream, return to the stew pan and cook ten minutes. Instead of the cream, capers or sliced cucumber pickles can be added to the gravy if preferred, or a handful of grated ginger - bread or rye bread. The meat can also be laid for some days before in a spiced vinegar or wine pickle.

Hawaiian Main Dish
Chicken Momi (for 4)
Mrs. Ray Shackelford
Rt. 2, Box 190-J
West Monroe, La.

4 breasts of chicken (7 oz. each)
2 pineapples, salt, cooking oil, sesame seeds.

Take breast of chicken, remove all bones. Take stuffing (recipe below) and fold into breast. Salt the breast of chicken and put into saute pan; dash with cooking oil. Saute in oven 350 degrees about 35 minutes. Split pineapples in half. Take core out and slice inside of pineapple into chunks and let them remain to serve as bed for breast. Slice chicken into four cuts, put slices together so that form remains complete and set on top of pineapple chunks Take teaspoon of honey and glaze over chicken. Then teaspoon of chicken gravy and do likewise. Finish by sprinkling top with sesame seeds. Put dish in hot oven 'till seeds are brown.

Chicken Momi Stuffing

½ lb. veal
½ lb. lean pork.
3 slices white bread soaked in cream.
½ onion.
2 eggs.
2 oz. soya sauce.
½ tsp. ginger.
1 pinch Chinese powder (sodium glutemate)
10 water chestnuts.

Above ingredients, except chestnuts, are ground through chopper using a fine blade. Now take water chestnuts, chop roughly and mix into stuffing.

Hawaiian Main Dish
Tournedos of Beef, Siagon (for 6)
Mrs. Ray Shackelford
Rt. o. 2, Box 190-J
West Monroe, La.

12 slices of beef tenderloin (3½ to 4 oz. each).
2 tbsp. chopped scallions.
1 tbsp. chopped onions.
½ clove chopped garlic.
6 tbsp. butter.
1 tbsp. curry powder.
1 tsp. ginger.
2 tbsp. chili sauce.
1 tbsp. soya sauce.
1 tomato (canned).
Finely chopped juice of one lemon.
1 cup beef gravy.
Steamed wild rice.

Boil beef tenderloin over coals, 1½ min. per side, and serve with the following sauce: Saute scallions, onion and garlic in butter for one minute. Add curry powder, ginger, chili sauce, soya sauce, tomato, lemon juice and beef gravy. Cook mixture about 2 min. Arrange flat slices on steamed wild rice. Top them with the sauce and garnish with bean sprouts and mushrooms.

Roast Beef
Mrs. E. N. Neal
P. O. Box 114
Epps, La.

Take a rib - piece or loin-roast of seven to eight pounds. Beat it thoroughly all over, lay it in the roasting dish and baste it with melted butter. Put it in the well-heated oven, and baste frequently with its own fat, which will make it brown and tender. If, when it is cooking fast, the gravy is growing too brown, turn a glass of German cooking wine into the bottom of the pan, and repeat this as often as the gravy cooks away. The roast needs about two hours time to be done, and must be brown outside but inside still a little red. Season with salt and pepper. Squeeze a little lemon juice over it, and also turn the gravy upon it, after skinning of all the fat.

Heidelberg Cabbage

Select two small, solid heads of red cabbage; divide them in halves from crown to stem; lay the split side down, and cut downwards in thin slices. The cabbage will then be in narrow strips or shreds. Put into a sauce - pan a tablespoon of clean drippings, butter or any nice fat; when fat is hot, put in cabbage a teaspoon of salt, 3 tbsp. vinegar (if the latter is very strong, use but two), and one onion, in which 3 or 4 cloves have been stuck, buried in the middle; boil 2½ hours; if it becomes dry and is in danger of scorching, add a very little water. This is very nice.

Ro-Lotin
Mrs. W. D. Evans, Jr.
106 Sholars Street
West Monroe, La.

Round steak
1 medium onion
Dill pickles
1 can mushroom soup

Cut round steak in two inch strips. Salt and pepper. Grant onion and sprinkle over each strip. Roll a pickle in each strip and tie with a toothpick. Brown. Pour mushroom soup over this and simmer for two hours. Serve with rice or whipped potatoes or Spatzler.

THE WINNER

Stuffed Rigatoni
Mrs. Carlo Sciara
1515 Filhiol Ave.
Monroe, La.

Tomato Sauce
¼ cup of olive oil
1 medium size onion chopped
2 6 oz. cans of tomato paste
1 can of clear chicken broth
5 cups of water
¼ to ½ cup sugar
½ tsp. Italian seasoning
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 cloves garlic crushed
Salt and pepper

Heat oil in large deep iron skillet or dutch oven. Brown onions in oil until soft. Add tomato paste and chicken broth and water and stir until well blended. Add seasoning and simmer uncovered until sauce is thick, about 2½ hours, stirring occasionally.

Cook Rigatoni in boiling salted water with 1 tablespoon olive oil, cook 10 to 12 minutes, then drain and plunge into ice water.

Meat Stuffing for Rigatoni
½ lb. ground beef
¼ lb. ground pork
Ground twice
¾ cup fine bread crumbs
2 eggs
½ cup grated Parmeasan cheese
1 clove crushed garlic
1tbsp. parsley flakes
1¼ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Combine ingredients, mix thoroughly. To stuff rigatoni, roll small amount of the meat mixture into thin rolls about size of a pencil. Fill precooked rigatoni, arrange in a single layer in bottom of a 3 qt. oiled casserole, top with tomato sauce. Then arrange another layer of stuffed rigatoni and top with sauce and some on until all is used. Sprinkle top of casserole generously with Parmesan cheese. Cover and bake in 350 F. oven for 1 hour, then uncover and bake 15 minutes longer.

SECOND PLACE

Jewel M. Brown
1514 Filhiol
Monroe, La.
Baked Lasagne

½ lb. lasagne noodles
2 tbs minced onion
1 large peeled and crushed clove garlic
2 tbs salad oil
1 lb. ground beef
2 8-oz cans tomato puree
1 c beef bouillon
¼ tsp pepper
1½ tsp salt
½ tsp. basil
t4 tsp oregano
1 lb. Ricotta
¾lb. Mozzarella
4 tbs. grated parmesan cheese

Cook ½ lb. lasagne noodles according to package directions. Drain, rinse in cold water. Make sauce by sauteing 2 tbs salad oil with 2 tbs minced onion and 1 large crushed clove garlic for about 5 minutes. Add ground beef and cook for 10 minutes stirring frequently. Add 2 8-oz. cans tomato puree and 1 c beef bouillon. Season with next 4 ingredients. Simmer for 1 hour. Put about 3 tbs sauce in the bottom of a rectangular 4-qt casserole. Add a layer of noodles. The 3rd layer is thin slices of Mozzarella alternated with a spconful of Ricotta. Use about 1 lb. Ricotta and ¾ lb. Mozzarella. Repeat until all is used and end with a layer of sauce. Sprinkle 4 tbs grated Parmesan cheese over the top and bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, for about 20 minutes. Can be prepared ahead of time and baked just before serving. Makes 4-5 servings.

Meat Loaf
Jewel M. Brown
151 Filhiol
Monroe, La.

2 lbs., ground beef (grind twice)
2 lbs ground pork (grind twice)
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 c canned tomatoes (peeled)
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 c minced onion
2 tbs minced hot green pepper
1 tbs salt
½ small bell pepper chopped fine.
¼ tsp black pepper

Mix together beef and pork, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 cup minced onion, 3 slightly beaten eggs, 2 tbs minced hot pepper, ½ finely chopped bell pepper. Shape mixture into a loaf on a shallow roasting pan. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for about 1½ hours. Drain off drippings and juices, adding enough consomme or beef broth to make 3 cups. Blend 3 tbs flour with enough water to make a paste. Add to drippings and cook until smooth and thickened. Just before serving, add 1-3 cup crumbled crisp bacon to the gravy. Can substitute can of cream of mushroom with drippings and juice if desired, for gravy. Makes about 8-10 servings.

SECOND PLACE

Mrs. Russell Adams
Box 31
Farmerville, La.

Oven Baked Chicken and Biscuits

Heat oven to 425 degrees.
Mix in a paper bag:
1 cup plain flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons paprika

Place ¼ cup shortening (half butter) in 13" x 9" oblong pan and set in oven to melt. Shake 3 or 4 pieces of chicken at a time in bag to coat thoroughly. Place chicken, skin side down, in single layer in hot shortening. Bake 45 minutes, then turn. Meanwhile, make dough for biscuits. Drain No. 2½ can peach halves and place biscuits in single layer on other end. Place peach halves on top of chicken. Bake another 15 or 20 minutes or until biscuits are lightly browned and chicken tender.

To make gravy:

Remove chicken, peaches and biscuits to serving platter. Add 2 tablespoons flour (saved from dredging) to drippings in pan. Bring to boil. Add about 1½ cups hot milk. Boil 1 minute.

This makes 4 servings. The peaches really flavor the chicken and the biscuits.

White Cake

½ cup butter or shortening
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
2 tsp. baking powder
3 egg whites
2-3 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
½ tsp. salt

Cream butter and sugar well. Stir in alternately sifted flour with baking powder and salt sifted 3 times, with milk added each time after flour. Fold in egg whites which have been beaten lightly (not too stiff). Add vanilla and turn batter into two greased layer pans. Bake 350 degrees until delicately brown about 25 minutes.

Put all ingredients in a boiler and cook at high temperature. Add peanuts and cook until candy will form threads when dropped in cup of water, add 2 tsp. soda stir well, pour on greased aluminum or enameled platter until cool.

SECOND PLACE
Louella's Raggedy Anns
Mrs. W. B. Sanders
Rt. 1, Box 406
Gilbert, La.

1 cup seedless raisins
½ cup butter or oleo
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
4 cups uncrushed cornflakes
1½ cups sifted flour
1 tsp. soda
½ cup shredded coconut
1 tsp. vanilla

Rinse raisins, drain on a towel. Cream butter thoroughly. Add sugar and cream. Next add flour with soda. Blend in remaining ingredients. Drop by spoonful onto ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 375 degrees 12 to 15 minutes.

Divinity
Mrs. Mike John Jr.
406 Filhiol
Monroe, La.

2½ cups sugar
½ cups light corn syrup
¾ cup water
1 egg white
¼ tsp. salt
1½ tsp. vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts (1 cup may be used)
½ tsp. almond or vanilla flavoring

In a large saucepan combine sugar, corn syrup and water. Cover and bring to a boil; remove cover and boil over medium heat without stirring until a few drops form a soft ball in cold water. Remove from heat. Beat egg whites until quite stiff but still moist. Gradually pour one-third of the hot syrup into egg whites, beating constantly. Heat remaining syrup until it reaches hard ball stage. Pour ½ of syrup over egg white mixture, beating constantly. Return syrup to stove and heat to soft soft crack stage. Remove from heat and pour remaining syrup over egg mixture begins to lose its gloss and becomes quite thick. Quickly stir in nuts and drop by spoonfuls on wax paper. Cherries may be substituted for nuts. This is a never fail recipe but important to use a candy thermometer.

Buttermilk Pie
Mrs. J. R. Catching
1002 Saint John Street
Monroe, Louisiana

4 egg yolks
¾ c. butter or oleo
2 tbsp. flour
1 c. sugar
1 c. sour buttermilk
Nutmeg or vanilla to flavor.

Bake in uncooked pie crust until firm. Use the egg whites for the top of the pie. Also mix ½ cup of sugar in with the whites after they are well beaten.

Vinaterta
Mrs. Luther Reed, Sr.
P. O. Box 820
Monroe, La.

Filling;
2 lbs. dried prunes
1 cup sugar
½ tsp. cardamon seeds
1 tsp. vanilla extract
¼ tsp. salt

Cake:
4 cups sifted all purpose flour
2 tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
¼¼ cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla extract

Make filling first: Soak prunes for several hours or use the tenderized kind that don't require soaking. Cover with water and cook slowly for 45 minutes or until tender when tested with a fork. Drain and save liquid. When cool enough to handle, remove pits and work prunes through a food grinder or chop very fine. Place prunes along with ½ cup of prune liquid, sugar and cardamon seeds (split these in half) in a sauce pan and cook, stirring for 10 to 15 minutes or until thick as apple butter. Cool, stir in vanilla extract and salt, set aside.

To make cake: Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Work butter or margarine until soft, then work in sugar gradually until mixture is smooth and creamy. Beat eggs slightly and into mixture along with vanilla extract. Add flour mixture and milk alternately, ending with flour. Mix well. Chill dough in refrigerator about 2 hours.

Start your oven at 350 F. degrees or moderate. Cut chilled dough into 7 equal parts. Roll each part very thin (like pastry), place on top of an inverted 8" cake pan, trim edges to make a neat circle. Bake about 20 minutes or until lightly brown. Remove from pan with spatula and cool while you roll and bake the remaining six layers.

Spread prune filling between the thin layers of cake and stack the layers on top of each other. Wrap in a dry cloth and store at least 24 hours before serving.

This unusual party cake recipe is from an Icelandic cook (name unknown). It is truly a new dessert and so interesting.

Pecan Pie
Mrs. E. N. Neal
P. O. Box 114
Epps, La.

1 cup pecan kernels
3 eggs
½ cup sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
⅛ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla

Beat eggs, add sugar and syrup, then salt and vanilla, then last melted fat. Place the pecans in the bottom of an unbaked pie crust. Add the filling and bake slowly in a moderate oven 50 to 60 minutes. The pecans will rise to the top of the filling and form a crusted layer.

Oragne Filling

½ tsp. vanilla
2 tbsp. meal

Cream butter and sugar. Beat eggs but not until fluffy. Add almond and vanilla extract. To make a mealy effect, add 2 tbsp. corn meal. If you wish, add 1 cup crushed pineapple. Pour in unbaked pie crust and bake slowly in an oven (325).

Caramel Filling
Mrs. W. P. Martin
Delhi, La.

1 stick oleo.
2 cups sugar

Mix together in thick bottom boiler

Stir until a golden color (butterscotch) add ¾ cup sweet milk. Stir until a soft ball forms in cold water. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Whip until right consistency to spread.

Banana Pudding
Mrs. John W. Brantley
Farmerville, La.

4 eggs
1 qt. milk
1½ cups sugar
4 ripe bananas
½ cup sifted flour
⅛ lb. butter.
12 vanilla wafers

Pour milk in thick boiler, heat to boiling, add sugar and flour sifted together, add 4 egg yolks and butter, stir contantly until thick, add seasoning, pour into baking dish that is lined with vanilla wafers. Cut bananas into slices and put over custard. Beat the egg white until stiff, add ½ cup sugar, 1 tsp. flavoring and bake until frosting is slightly browned.

Caramel Frosting
Mrs. J. W. LeGuin
808 K St.
Monroe, La.

Into a heavy iron skillet measure:
3 cups of white sugar
1 cup butter

Cook over high heat until lightly brown. Stir constantly to keep from burning. Add 1½ cups milk slowly and cook slowly until slightly warm. Beat until smooth. While still not thick enough to hold shape smooth 1 tbs. on each layer. This will soak in and make the cake hold moisture. Continue beating until it will hold shape and spread on cake and stack. Good for jam or apple sauce, and spice cakes.

Mincemeat Pie
Mrs. P. D. Monzingo
Box 412
Huttig, Ark.

Legendary as the Christmas feast is mincemeat pie. In olden times the devout Christians were supposed to eat a small mincemeat pie each day, beginning Dec. 25 through Jan. 6. This was called the old 12 days. The recipe symbolized the gifts of the Magi; the crust, gold; the spices, Myrrh the aroma frankincense.

This is a very special recipe and is a family traditon and makes good gifts for special people.

2 cups boiled, chopped lean venison, neck good used this way
2 cups white raisins
2 cups packed lightly fresh rose petals
2 cups dark raisins
2 cups chopped cooking apples
2 cups chopped green tomatoes
2 large oranges (grate 2 tbs rind) use all pulp
2 large lemons, juice only
1 cup pomegranate juice
2 tsp cloves
2 cups cooked chopped evaporated peaches
2 cups brown sugar
1 tablespoon salt

Soak peaches and raisins overnight in cold water to cover. Boil until tender, about 15 minutes. Chop all fruit and meat about size of small raisins. Add cooked chopped venison, green tomatoes and sugar. Bring slowly to a boil – simmer 15 minutes. May be stored in freezer—or sealed in pint jars processed 10 minutes at 10 pounds of pressure. Makes 11 pints. A lump of butter size of walnut or half cup of chopped nuts may be added to pint.

Sweet Potato Pecan Pie
Helene Jo George
P. O. Box 263
St. Joseph, La.

1 cup white or brown karo
2 eggs
¼ cup brown sugar
1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup mashed, baked sweet potatoes

Beat eggs well. Add sugar, syrup, potatoes and pecans. Bake 10 minutes at 400 degrees and reduce to 375 and bake until firm. Serve cool or warm.

Crust:
1½ cup flour
¾ tsp. salt
½ cup lard
2½ tbs. water

Measure flour without sifting. Add salt and sift into bowl. Add lard and blend until mixture looks like coarse meal. Measure water directly from tap, sprinkle flour and mix gently together with a knife. Dough will hold together but will dry enough to handle. Roll circle 1 inch larger than pan on all sides.

Chocolate Angel Pie
Mrs. Charles Fulson
414 Speed Ave.
Monroe, La.

2 egg whites
⅛ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. cream of tartar
½ cup sugar
½ cup finely chopped walnuts or pecans
½ tsp. vanilla
1 package Baker's German Sweet Chocolate
3 tbs. water
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup whipping cream

Combine egg whites, salt and cream of tartar and beat until foamy. Add the sugar, 2 tbs. at a time, beating well after each addition. Continue beating until very stiff peaks wil form. Fold in the nuts and ½ tsp. of vanilla.

Spoon into lightly greased 8-inch pie pan and make a nest-like shell building up the sides to about ½ inch above the pan. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) 50 to 55 minutes. Cool.

Melt chocolate in water over low heat, stirring constantly. Cool until thickened. Add 1 tsp. vanilla. Then whip cream and fold in the chocolate mixture. Pile into meringue shell. Chill for about 2 hours.

Powdered Milk Pie Crust
Buttermilk Sherbert
Box 106, Rt. 1
Choudrant, La.

½ cup flour
2 cups powdered milk
1 stick margarine
¾ cup sugar

Mix into a crumble mixture and store in refrigerator until ready to use.

Cranberry Applesauce Pie
Mrs. Alton A. Braddock
1208 So. 4th St.
Chairman Education Section
Louisiana Dietetic Association

1 1-3 tbs. plain gelatin
1-3 cup cold water
1½ cup cranberry sauce
1 pint (2 cups) applesauce
1 tbs. lemon juice
2 tbs. sugar
pinch of salt
½ pint whipping cream
nutmeg

Add water to gelatin; soak 2 minutes and dissolve over boiling water. Measure cranberry sauce and appelsauce into mixing bowl. Add lemon juice and sugar and salt. Add gelatin mix; and blend. Pour into cooked pastry shell; chill. Spread top with whipped cream and sprinkle with nutmeg.

Pear Pie
Mrs. J. B. Allen
Rt. 1
Ruston, La.

6 cups sliced Kieffer pears
1½ cups sugar
1 cup water
Cream

Peel pears, slice thin. Pour sugar and water over pears in saucepan and cook over medium heat until pears are very tender. Mash with potato masher and put into unbaked pie shell. Put thin cream all over the filling and bake in 425 degree oven until crust is brown. Or, omit the cream before baking and serve with whipped cream.

NOTE: The amount of water needed to cook the pears depends on ripeness of pears. If there is too much juice left when pears are done, drain some of the juice off. Or if the pears cook dry before getting tender add a little more water.

Yeast Hush Puppies

1 package dry yeast
2 cups white corn meal
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
½ cup warm water
½ cup flour
2-3 cup milk
1 tbs. grated onion
1 tbs. shortening

Dissolve dry yeast in warm water. Beat egg slightly, add milk, onion and liquid shortening. Sift dry ingredients and add above liquids. Let stand 30 or 40 minutes. Drop from spoon into deep fat. (Should be about the size of hen egg.) Fry until golden brown.

SECOND PLACE

Orange Bread
Mrs. H. C. Loyd
118 West Cypress Avenue
Bastrop, La.

3 cups enriched flour
4 tsp. baking powder
¾ tsp. salt
1 cup sugar
1 egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup grated orange rind
1 cup orange juice
1-3 cup salad oil or melted shortening

Sift flour measures; Add baking powder, salt, sugar and sift again. Combine egg, orange rind, juice and oil, slightly cooled. Pour into a greased loaf pan 9½x5½x3 inches and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees about 1 hour till done. Remove from pan, cool. Better if you wait a day to slice and serve it.

Ice Box Rolls
Mrs. R. C. Lyon
431 E. Miss. Ave.
Ruston, La.

1 cake yeast, dry or cake
1 cup lukewarm water
½ beaten egg, white and yolk together
2 tbs melted shortening
3 cups sifted flour
1 tsp salt

Dissolve yeast in cup of water. Beat egg, use ½, add sugar, salt, shortening, yeast and water. Beat in 3 cups flour. Beat well, set in warm place to rise until double in bulk. Set in refrigerator over night, make out rolls as needed and let rise before using.

Chocolate Roll
Mrs. B. J. Peters
1224 Tampa
Tallulah, La.

Yolk of 6 eggs
¾ Cups sugar
2 tbsp. Cocoa

Beat egg yolks then add cocoa and sugar mixed and beat about two minutes, fold in the 6 egg whites beaten stiff. Bake in cookie like pan well greased and floured 15 minutes in moderate oven. Turn out on wax paper sprinkled with sugar. Cool, whip ½ pt. cream, spread over and roll up.

Sauce

2 tbsp. cocoa
1 cup sugar
2 tbsp. flour
1 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
Small lump butter

Cook slowly until thick. Beat about 5 minutes, cool. Serve on top of roll after cut.

Waffles
Mrs. R. C. Lyon
431 E. Miss. Ave.
Ruston, La.

2 cups flour
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2 eggs
1¼ cups sweet milk
6 tbs. melted shortening
1 tsp. sugar

Mix dry ingredients, add beaten egg yolks, milk and shortening. Add beaten egg whites last.

Caramel Rolls
Mrs. S. H. Lishan
Rt. 1, Winnsboro, La.

1 cake yeast
1 tsp. sugar
½ cup lukewarm water
2 cups milk
9½ cups flour
4 eggs
1 cup sugar
½ cup butter or margarine
¼ tsp. salt

Dissolve the yeast and the sugar in the lukewarm water. Scald the milk and add just enough flour to make a light batter, not a stiff one. Beat well and let this cool. Add the yeast; again beat well, adding more flour if necessary. Let this rise until light, double its bulk, then add the eggs, sugar creamed butter or margarine, and the salt. Add enough flour so that the dough is just stiff enough to handle. Let the dough rise until it doubles its bulk. Then roll out dough half inch thick and fill with the following:

1½ cups sugar
1½ cups raisins or currants
1 tbs. cinnamon
½ cup butter or margarine.

Mix sugar, raisins or currants and cinnamon and sprinkle over dough. Dot with butter. Roll up the dough as for jelly roll and cut off pieces one or one and a half inches thick. Prepare muffin tins by rubbing ¾ cup of butter and 3 cups brown sugar together to make a paste and mix with 1 cup chopped nuts. Line each tin ¼ inch or deep with this mixture. Stand the slices of rolled dough on end in the pan. Bake about 30 minutes at 400 degrees. Be sure oven is not to hot as sugar might burn. Turn on, sugar side up. Makes 3 doz.

Louisiana Cracklin' Bread
Mrs. Bonnie Sue Lott
109 Long St.
West Monroe, La.

Sift together:
1 cup all purpose flour
2 cups yellow corn meal
3 tsp baking powder
1 tsp soda
½ tsp salt
3 tbs sugar
Add: 1½ cups cracklins
Combine:
2 eggs well beaten
1 cup buttermilk
¼ cup bacon drippings.

Add to dry ingredients all other ingredients all at once. Stir quickly only until all flour is dampened. Fill well greased muffin or corn stick pans 2-3 full. Bake in moderate hot oven, 400 degrees, 12 to 15 minutes. Yields 1 doz. muffins or corn sticks.

Quick Sally Lunn
Mrs. J. W. Kilbourne
1317 Emerson Ave.
Monroe, La.

2 cups flour
½ tsp. salt
2 tsp. baking powder

West Monroe, La.

2 lbs. ground beef
4 cups bread crumbs
1 egg
1 c sour cream
1½ tsp salt
½ tsp black pepper
Dash of red pepper
Pinch sage
1 tsp. paprika

Combine beef, bread crumbs, slightly beaten egg and sour cream. Season with salt, black pepper, red pepper, sage and paprika. Pack firmly in loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 1½ hours.

Beef A LaMode
Mrs. E. N. Neal
P. O. Box 114
Epps, La.

In a piece of the rump, cut deep openings with a sharp knife; put in pieces of pork cut into dice, previously rolled in pepper, salt, cloves and nutmeg. Into an iron stew - pan lay pieces of pork, sliced onions, slices of lemon, one or two carrots and a bay leaf; lay the meat on and put over it a piece of bread - crust as large as the hand, a half pint wine and a little vinegar, and afterwards an equal quanity of water or broth, till the meat is half covered; cover the dish close and cook till tender. Then take it out, rub the gravy thoroughly through a sieve, skim off the fat, add some sour cream, return to the stew pan and cook ten minutes. Instead of the cream, capers or sliced cucumber pickles can be added to the gravy if preferred, or a handful of grated ginger - bread or rye bread. The meat can also be laid for some days before in a spiced vinegar or wine pickle.

Hawaiian Main Dish
Chicken Momi (for 4)
Mrs. Ray Shackelford
Rt. 2, Box 190-J
West Monroe, La.

4 breasts of chicken (7 oz. each)
2 pineapples, salt, cooking oil, sesame seeds.

Take breast of chicken, remove all bones. Take stuffing (recipe below) and fold into breast. Salt the breast of chicken and put into saute pan; dash with cooking oil. Saute in oven 350 degrees about 35 minutes. Split pineapples in half. Take core out and slice inside of pineapple into chunks and let them remain to serve as bed for breast. Slice chicken into four cuts, put slices together so that form remains complete and set on top of pineapple chunks Take teaspoon of honey and glaze over chicken. Then teaspoon of chicken gravy and do likewise. Finish by sprinkling top with sesame seeds. Put dish in hot oven 'till seeds are brown.

Chicken Momi Stuffing

½ lb. veal
½ lb. lean pork.
3 slices white bread soaked in cream.
½ onion.
2 eggs.
2 oz. soya sauce.
½ tsp. ginger.
1 pinch Chinese powder (sodium glutemate)
10 water chestnuts.

Above ingredients, except chestnuts, are ground through chopper using a fine blade. Now take water chestnuts, chop roughly and mix into stuffing.

Hawaiian Main Dish
Tournedos of Beef, Siagon (for 6)
Mrs. Ray Shackelford
Rt. o. 2, Box 190-J
West Monroe, La.

12 slices of beef tenderloin (3½ to 4 oz. each).
2 tbsp. chopped scallions.
1 tbsp. chopped onions.
½ clove chopped garlic.
6 tbsp. butter.
1 tbsp. curry powder.
1 tsp. ginger.
2 tbsp. chili sauce.
1 tbsp. soya sauce.
1 tomato (canned).
Finely chopped juice of one lemon.
1 cup beef gravy.
Steamed wild rice.

Boil beef tenderloin over coals, 1½ min. per side, and serve with the following sauce: Saute scallions, onion and garlic in butter for one minute. Add curry powder, ginger, chili sauce, soya sauce, tomato, lemon juice and beef gravy. Cook mixture about 2 min. Arrange flat slices on steamed wild rice. Top them with the sauce and garnish with bean sprouts and mushrooms.

Roast Beef
Mrs. E. N. Neal
P. O. Box 114
Epps, La.

Take a rib - piece or loin-roast of seven to eight pounds. Beat it thoroughly all over, lay it in the roasting dish and baste it with melted butter. Put it in the well-heated oven, and baste frequently with its own fat, which will make it brown and tender. If, when it is cooking fast, the gravy is growing too brown, turn a glass of German cooking wine into the bottom of the pan, and repeat this as often as the gravy cooks away. The roast needs about two hours time to be done, and must be brown outside but inside still a little red. Season with salt and pepper. Squeeze a little lemon juice over it, and also turn the gravy upon it, after skinning of all the fat.

Heidelberg Cabbage

Select two small, solid heads of red cabbage; divide them in halves from crown to stem; lay the split side down, and cut downwards in thin slices. The cabbage will then be in narrow strips or shreds. Put into a sauce - pan a tablespoon of clean drippings, butter or any nice fat; when fat is hot, put in cabbage a teaspoon of salt, 3 tbsp. vinegar (if the latter is very strong, use but two), and one onion, in which 3 or 4 cloves have been stuck, buried in the middle; boil 2½ hours; if it becomes dry and is in danger of scorching, add a very little water. This is very nice.

Stuffed Rigatoni
Mrs. Carlo Sciara
1515 Filhiol Ave.
Monroe, La.

Tomato Sauce
¼ cup of olive oil
1 medium size onion chopped
2 6 oz. cans of tomato paste
1 can of clear chicken broth
5 cups of water
¼ to ½ cup sugar
½ tsp. Italian seasoning
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 cloves garlic crushed
Salt and pepper

Heat oil in large deep iron skillet or dutch oven. Brown onions in oil until soft. Add tomato paste and chicken broth and water and stir until well blended. Add seasoning and simmer uncovered until sauce is thick, about 2½ hours, stirring occasionally.

Cook Rigatoni in boiling salted water with 1 tablespoon olive oil, cook 10 to 12 minutes, then drain and plunge into ice water.

Meat Stuffing for Rigatoni
½ lb. ground beef
¼ lb. ground pork
Ground twice
¾ cup fine bread crumbs
2 eggs
½ cup grated Parmeasan cheese
1 clove crushed garlic
1tbsp. parsley flakes
1¼ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Combine ingredients, mix thoroughly. To stuff rigatoni, roll small amount of the meat mixture into thin rolls about size of a pencil. Fill precooked rigatoni, arrange in a single layer in bottom of a 3 qt. oiled casserole, top with tomato sauce. Then arrange another layer of stuffed rigatoni and top with sauce and some on until all is used. Sprinkle top of casserole generously with Parmesan cheese. Cover and bake in 350 F. oven for 1 hour, then uncover and bake 15 minutes longer.

2 lbs., ground beef (grind twice)
2 lbs ground pork (grind twice)
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 c canned tomatoes (peeled)
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 c minced onion
2 tbs minced hot green pepper
1 tbs salt
½ small bell pepper chopped fine.
¼ tsp black pepper

Mix together beef and pork, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 cup minced onion, 3 slightly beaten eggs, 2 tbs minced hot pepper, ½ finely chopped bell pepper. Shape mixture into a loaf on a shallow roasting pan. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for about 1½ hours. Drain off drippings and juices, adding enough consomme or beef broth to make 3 cups. Blend 3 tbs flour with enough water to make a paste. Add to drippings and cook until smooth and thickened. Just before serving, add 1-3 cup crumbled crisp bacon to the gravy. Can substitute can of cream of mushroom with drippings and juice if desired, for gravy. Makes about 8-10 servings.

SECOND PLACE

Mrs. Russell Adams
Box 31
Farmerville, La.

Oven Baked Chicken and Biscuits

Heat oven to 425 degrees.
Mix in a paper bag:
1 cup plain flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons paprika

Place ¼ cup shortening (half butter) in 13" x 9" oblong pan and set in oven to melt. Shake 3 or 4 pieces of chicken at a time in bag to coat thoroughly. Place chicken, skin side down, in single layer in hot shortening. Bake 45 minutes, then turn. Meanwhile, make dough for biscuits. Drain No. 2½ can peach halves and place biscuits in single layer on other end. Place peach halves on top of chicken. Bake another 15 or 20 minutes or until biscuits are lightly browned and chicken tender.

To make gravy:

Remove chicken, peaches and biscuits to serving platter. Add 2 tablespoons flour (saved from dredging) to drippings in pan. Bring to boil. Add about 1½ cups hot milk. Boil 1 minute.

This makes 4 servings. The peaches really flavor the chicken and the biscuits.

Mix until the dough sticks together in a ball. Line bottom of pan. Prick pastry with a fork to prevent puffing while baking. Bake. Cool. Time 12 to 15 min.

Topping

1 no. 2 can pie cherries, drained
½ cup sugar
¼ cup water
2 tbs. cornstarch
dash of salt
½ tsp. almond extract

Put cherry juice and sugar in a sauce pan. Mix water and cornstarch and add to boiling cherry juice. Cook two minutes, stirring constantly. Add cherries and almond extract. Cool slightly. Pour over baked cake. Serve with whipped cream.
